Loss of the 9,000-ton cruiser Southimpton in the Mediterranean after an attack entirely by Stukas finally settled the question of whether a first-class warship could withstand

Washington, D. C.

CRISIS MARCH 15? Secretaries Stimson and Knox did not go into details when they told congress they expected an interna tional crisis in 60 to 90 days, but actually their war department ex perts have gone so far as to fix the approximate date of March 15 for the crisis to break.

This estimate is based not only upon the already known fact that British shipping and its convoys soon must be reinforced, but also on secret negotiations to establish an Eastern Front, thus make Hitler fight two wars instead of one. This was one of the big reasons for the pilgrimage of Col. "Wild Bill" Donovan to North Africa, also for visits of officials from the Amer ican embassy in France to Algiers. Their reports are extremely significant-asserting that Marshal Wevgand, commander of the French forces in Africa, has become vigorously-pro-British;-

Furthermore, he has stated quite bluntly to American representatives that if he were sure of getting suf-.ficient_tanks,_airplanes_and_ammunition, he would undertake a campaign against the Italians immedi

These supplies would come to Casablanca, on the coast of French Morocco, and what is more important, they would come from the United States.

Next move in this strategy, after rushing the Italians between British-French pincers, would be to transport French troops to Greece and further north in order to bolster the Jugoslavs along the German bor der. Conversations between the Brit ish and Jugoslavs already have progressed to the point where London believes that country is ready to resist Hitler. However, the Jugoslavs are most insistent on one thing ample munitions.

Furthermore, the Turks have noved three divisions from Anatoia, in Asiatic Turkey, to Thrace in European Turkey, in order to be ready for Hitler.

Roy Howard, of the Scripps-Howard group of newspapers and an ardent "negotiated peace" advocate, spent the better part of one night trying to persuade Willkie to drop the trip plan.

Back-stopping Howard in his arguments was Bruce Barton, former New York congressman and defeat ed G. O. P. aspirant for the seat of New Dealer Sen. Jim Mead. Like Howard, Barton was one of Willkie's earliest and staunchest boosters and played a leading role in putting him over at Philadelphia.

Howard and Barton strove might ily in their effort to win Willkie over to their views. But the former G. O. P. standard-heaver stood firmly by his guns. He contended that aiding Britain beat back the Axis aggressors was crucial to U. __JACKSON DAY President Roosevelt's inaugura ion took place on January 20, but the formal Democratic celebration of the history-making third-term vic tory will not take place until March

That is the date that has been fixed for the Jackson Day dinner, the annual affair when all good Democrats come to the aid of their party with checks. In the past the finner usually has been held late in January, but this year, because of the inaugural and a reorganization within the national committee, it has quietly been decided to hold it in

One plan is to stage dinners in a lot more cities. Another, suggested by Richard Reynolds, new national celebration with a reunion of all factions; that is, the return to the fold of "absent" leaders.

Among those Reynolds has in mind are men like Al Smith and onetime Budget Director Lewis Doug las. They now see eve-to-eve with Roosevelt on foreign policy, and Reynolds believes this opens the way for a big party rapproche ment by expanding the Jackson Day celebration into a unity affair,

Fashion-Wise Women Take Up Crocheting With Real Zest

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

WHEN you pick up your newsthrough the pages of your favorite magazine, more often than not you'll see pictures of stage, radio and motion picture stars, college girls, club women and debutantes, all busy at a new hobby-crochet-

A crocheting fad is sweeping the country. Crochet hooks are being wielded by busy fingers from Maine to California, from the Canadian border to the Gult of Mexico. The vogue has taken such hold that nowadays when a deb reaches into her handbag, it's probably for a crochet hook rather than a lipstick.

"Mind-you, it's not just the hon girls-interested-in-housewifely-arts who are crocheting. This time it's the college girls whose campus bound trunks, returning from midwinter homecomings, fairly bulged with unfinished sweaters and blouses and accessory items into which, no doubt, they will be putting the final stitches in the lecture room, pacing busy hands to busy minds. In the city thoroughfares it's the debutantes who are crocheting in taxicabs speeding to and fro in their round of social engagements. Stage and radio stars are at t_too,_while_they_wait_their_cues all of which means that crocheting has definitely reached the glamour stage. That crochet has come "in" style of high importance is big news from the tashion angle. The iamous designer Schiaparelli may be back of it all, for when she arrived some months ago on the At lantic clipper she wore a crocheted collar, crocheted gloves and listen to this-crocheted stockings! The latter were very smart looking and created a sensation because of their musualness.

is another Crocheted lewelry unique item, especially the lei flower necklace with bracelet to match. The idea of stiffly-starched small crochet wings worn in the hair has spread like wildfire. Young girls are especially like these wings because it takes only a jiffy to make them and they are different and much more interesting than the traditional ribbon bows they have, beer wearing. A miniature crochet shawl lo complete a sweater and plaidskirt outfit is another favorite accessory.

At exciting style prevues for spring the emphasis on crochet fashions is unmistaltable. Ideas are such that clever women at home will be quick to add crocheted items to their own wardrobes. For example, insets of crochet in triangles, squares or circles, also voke tops, add style touches to the new pastel wool frocks. Pockets and belts of crochet and jackets with crocheted sleeves bespeak the highstyle significance of this new vogue for handwork.

The white crochet hat at the top of the left in the illustration has gone patriotic in that an American eagle spreads its wingsin a gay crochet motif. To the right (above) a casual wide-brimmed hat has its crown embellished with an applique of floral crochet done in green cotton thread. The smart croheted pillbox hat shown below has close fitting snood for anchorage and "style." (Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Lapel Gadgets

Jewel gadgets continue to flourish n midsenson jacket lapels. With the discarding of burdensome winter fur coats comes evidence of the importance attached to suits for midsenson and early spring wear With suits in the limelight, then i is that the gadgets so popularly worn on jacket lanels will come into their own with renewed emphasis While women are willing and eager to discard their fur topcoats during the interval that spans winter and spring, they still cling to the touches of flattering fur that so dramatized their smart turbans. In the pic ture an enormous gold-and-topaz pir ls worn on the lapel of a mossy green wootlong-coat. There will b considerable topaz and amber lev elry in evidence during the midsen son months and early spring in line with the trend toward yellows and beiges and sunburnt tones that are sponsored for spring.

Emblems Important Trimming Feature

The new costumes and sweaters are emblazoned with emblems Some are embroidered, others formed of jewels, beads and sequins. The casual sports blouse flourishes a-nautical-emblem on its sleeve or perhaps on the pocket. Sai lor blouses with insignia on the sleeve are "last word" fashion news for spring.

Your best dress should have an imposing emblem embroidered in lewels and metal beads.

Your hat looks patriotic with eweled or embroidered eagle spreading its wings on crown or brim. Your scart should carry a cunningly contrived emblem, and your "hankles" too. The story goes on and on throughout the spring style program in endless and fascinating ways.

Designers Match Hats

With Tailored Tweeds Designers think so highly of matching the tailored suit with a tallored hat of identical material that the above cleaners, rinse the surface they are stressing the idea in advance spring fashlons. When you buy your suit ask for a two comthat includes the matching hat. If you are having your suit turned out by your favorite tailor, buy an extra piece of the tweed or novelty sulting to furnish your milliner who will fashion smartest kind of headgear from soft brimmed hats to jaunty sailors and pillbox types. Perhaps a turban might interest you most. Tell your milliner and she will turn out a most intricately knotted affair or draped and will go even to the point of creating a handbag to match.

FIRST-AID to the AILING HOUSE

by Roger B. Whitman @ Roger B, Whitman-WNU Service.)

Defective Chimney. QUESTION: The chimney in my house has a defect no roofer has been able to correct. Three different roofers and chimney expert state there is nothing wrong. The paper over the fireplace is water-stained. The house is clapboard, the roof slate, and with heavy-rains or melting snows, the wall in one corner is saturated. Do you know of a rem

Answer: If it is an outside chim ney, look for cracks or open spaces between the chimney and the outside wall. All such cracks or openings should be filled in with a caulkng compound. Porous stone or brick in the chimney is also a possibility. It can be made waterproof. It-is-also-possible=leakage-occurs some distance from the chimney and nay run along a joist until it is diverted toward the plaster, which absorbs the water. A minute examination for all cracks and crevices is necessary.

Spotty Paint Surface. Question: I am painting the walls for the first time. Each coat of paint shows spots right through and has the appearance of being put on in_a_light_streak_and_a_dark_one. This happened to the walls in every room. I shellacked and sized one vall but the spots came through.

What is the answer? Answer: The plaster surface absorbs a great deal of oil. Due to the uneven density of plaster, the fault may be in the quality of the priming coat or an insufficient coat of paint. New plaster is usually given three coats of paint. The first or priming coat should be thinned with a pint of raw linseed oil, to the gallon of paint. Where the spotting has occurred, try applying another coat of paint over a small area. If this does not correct the condition. you may need to give the walls a coat of aluminum paint to seal the porous surface.

Knotty Pine Finish. Question: My basement gamecoom is finished with knotty pine and I would like to retain its-light natural color. Waxing has been advised, but an experiment shows it would be a long, tedious job. What vould be the best treatment, one that is simple and would not take too long? Answer: One very usual finish for motty gine is to brush liberally with half-and-half mixture of linseed oil and turpentine. After an hour or two for soaking in, the excess is wiped off. A second treatment is applied in two or three days. This will not interfere with the natural mellowing of the wood-with-age Another nonular treatment is a coat or two of clear, penetrating wax applied with a brush or a cloth. Sound-proofing. Question! A door between my kitchen and the one in the next apartment was taken out, and the grooved boards. What can I do to keep sound and odors from coming

Answer: First, at a 5-and-10, get a roll or two of felt intended for weatherstripping, and plug up all spaces around the board wall. Then cover the boards with carpeting or other heavy cloth hung loosely Finally, fill your side of the opening with a sheet of stiff insulating board. nailed to the door frame and not through to the board wall. Sound proofing is always difficult, and while this may not give you comolete silence. it will go a long way oward overcoming the trouble.

Grav Tile.

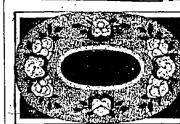

Question: In a remodeled bath coom the tile floor was patched in places from which old fixtures were removed. The floor was originally white hexagonal tile, but is dark in contrast to tile that was used for patching: How can I bleach the old ile to make the floor more uniform?

Answer: You can make a try with lavelle water or other bleaching liquid. Rub on with steel wool. If this does not do the trick, it is because the old tile are of a lower grade than the new, and are natural ly much more off white. In that case the old tile cannot be whitened

Smoke-stained Tiles. Question: We have recently moved into a new house. The tile hearth of the living-room fireplace has been almost ruined by painters burning wood, which lay partly on the tiles and left burned places. Is there anything I can do to clean the tiles? Answer: The tiles can be cleaned by rubbing with a paste made of a scratchless scouring powder and water. Another satisfactory cleaner for the purpose is the kind of soup that mechanics use for cleaning their hands. After using either of with clear water. White Sand for Mortar. Question: Kindly let me know is can use fine white sand for pointing my inside cellar brick foundation walls. What are the proportions? Must I remove the lime on walls before cementing? The bricks are close together and I need a fine pointing cement.

Answer: Fine white sand can be used for mortar, but a sand of variegated size, from fine to coarse, is proferred. Be sure the sand is clean. One part of portland cement o three parts of sand will make good mixture for mortar.

Migrating Birds

According to the bureau of biological—survey, few migrating birds fly higher than 3,000 feet and only occasionally do they reach 5.000_feet.—Most-birds-like-to-fly beneath the clouds, and the majority of the species migrate at a height below 1,000 feet. In bad weather they may fly-much lower, so low that at times they strike buildings. Birds have of course. been seen at much higher altitudes, but these records were established in mountainous countries where the birds fly a comparatively short distance above the land. The bureau explains that migrating birds fly at low rather than high altitudes by the fact that the lessened buoyancy of air at great heights makes flying difficult.

ON PIN BALL MACHINES

For over a year, efforts have been made on the part of township officials to impose regulations of pin bail machines and similar forms of games, but to date apparently have never followed-through-to-completion.

Thus, Springfield is one of the rare communities in this section of the State which has absolutely no licensing control over these machines.

This week, the following release of the State League of Municipalities, entitled "Slot Machine Control," came to our attention. It specifically covers the picture of control, not only ip our State but throughout the country. It is reproduced here-

SLOT MACHINE CONTROL

Regulation of amusement slot machines is giving municipalities no end of difficulty, judging from the variety of efforts aimed at their control. The International City Managers' Association reports a wide range of restrictions beginning with a mere denial to minors of the right to play the machines and extending in some instances to a flat prohibition of every type of coin-operated games.

The insidious possibilities of many of the machines, their tendency to encourage gambling and the spending of more money than the majority-of-players can afford, makes regulation highly desirable. Strictly as an amusement, the games are harmless, but it is seldom their use is limited to this purpose, which fact constitutes the menace Racketeers promote the distribution and play of machines in some areas, profiting fatly from the take after cutting back a percentage to the owners of locations, and paying modest license fees. Thus an other objection is added and a situation created which the State League of Municipalities urges every community in which it may exist to diminate.

The line between legal and illegal types of amusement slot machine pinball games and other mechanical devices, differs sharply in ordinances of a cross-section of cities surveyed by the association. So do the fees. Pittsburgh levies a dollar license charge on each machine. Madison Wisconsin, assesses $50 a year. The average is from $10 to $25.

In New Jersey, both the Home Rule Act and police powers are invoked to discourage unwanted devices. Fees run as high as $1,000.

Some cities impose a license fee upon the operator and make ar added charge for a license tag on each machine, declares the report, summarizing the fludings of the national study. In a number of cities the fee is graduated according to the denomination of the coin operating the machine, while in others the tax is progressively raised in accordance with the total machines held by an owner.

Along with the names and places of business, applicants for licenses to operate the devices are generally required to give a description of the Heckel, who died December 23 in type of machine, name of the manufacturer, and serial number or other mark of identification on each machine. To an extent this system is the estate which shows personal followed in New Jersey. The city may require a separate license stamp or-receipt, issued upon payment of the license fee, be attached to each machine with the further requirement the name, local business address and telephone number of the owner or operator appear on the machine.

In addition to prohibiting minors from playing the machines, some cities bar the devices within a specified distance from school buildings and direct no inloxicated person be allowed to play the machines.

Demand for workers in defense industries may bring inflation ... British air marshal fears improvements in war planes bars mass production.

(Bell Syndicate-WNU Service.)

. WASHINGTON .- Tremendous demand for workers in the defense industries may be the straw on the proverbial_camel's_back that will produce such a strong advance in prices that inflation will be with us. Despite all the possibilities for inflation which have existed now for so many years, and despite the frantic inability of investors to find anything that seemed-a perfectly satisprices have really not advanced. Ever-since-the-government commandcered gold, one of the stock questions for argument among economists has been: "Suppose you had $100,000 to invest and were worried about inflation; what would you do

This question is more pertinent now than ever, and no one know the answer.

Some people with a little money, and some with a great deal, have bought farms. Some have bought unimproved real estate, and some low-cost buildings. But with local taxes on the upscale everywhere, it is questionable whether, over a pe riod of time, these "hedges"

It would seem obvious that a bond selling close to, or above par, is NOI a good thing to have it inflation The dollars will be worth less. Yet there has been no weakening of sound bond prices since th latest signs pointing to higher prices SAVINGS DEPOSITS-RISE

It would also seem a certainty that money_in savings banks would notto be worth less-yet there has been no falling off in savings banks deposits. Quite the contrary.

The demand for workers, and esfense industries is practically certain-to-result-in considerable wage

Fatter pay envelopes may not have much logical connection with higher prices at the stores for everything one buys, but the two things go together; always have and probably always will.

In the period just ahead, more over, there is another element calculated to bring about an advance of prices. This is the almost certain restriction, as the situation develops, of industries regarded as un- ous and devoted, necessary to defense. This will luce a-shortage ir articles made by these industries, and this spells inevitable advance in the prices of those articles. More direct, however, are the unavoidable effects on cost of production of nonmilitary articles. For if the defense industries are raiding others for workers, and the defense workers succeed in prying out wage increases wage advances in the OTHER industries are inevitable. So that the basic cost of nondefense articles will actually, though indirectly, be forced up by the defense industries.

Mass Production Of Airplanes Unlikely

The tremendous difficulty of applying automobile mass production methods to the building of airplanes -for war purposes is-such that_in the opinion of Sir Hugh—Dowding. British air marshal now on visit in this country, it is not likely to be surmounted.

Sir-Hugh-picked-up-a-report-from Detroit-that-the-United-States-armyhad insisted on a change in piston rings and a pin just as the auto engine people had gotten squared away for production.

"That is a perfect illustration," he said. "You can put an engine on block and run it for the required number of hours. It will function perfectly. Then you put that engine, or another precisely like it, in an airplane and send it up. Something may go wrong, which did not develop in the block tests. But it you find that the engine must be taken down, the new piston rings and pins put in after every flight, then obviously there must be a change in that engine.

"Obviously, there are always improvements and always changes. They will go on. The latest improvement may be the deciding factor in the battle in which that plane engages. But there are different varieties of change. One is essential, That is illustrated by the case of that engine with faulty piston rings and pins. Another might be illustrated by a change which would get 20 more horsepower out of an en-

Sir Hugh was most interesting in his comments on why the much advertised Italian air force had been such a flon in the war. He laid it to two reasons. Elrst, that the Italians as individuals hadjno stomach for the war.

The second was more military-Italian planes and aviators are definitely inferior to the British.

Not the Usual Mother-in-Law

(Bell Syndicate-WNU Service.)

A mother-in-law is too apt to be useless in the younger household, looking on apathetically at the difficulties of Sam's wife, never-thinking to say "I'll get dinner that night," or "let me go, Jane, I'll do your errand," or "go off with Sam, I'll be here with the children."

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

CHICAGO woman wrote me her problem about I three years ago, and sends-me-another-letter-today. I'm quoting both letters because they illustrate a diffibe a good notion if one's dollars are culty that arises in many a woman's life, and because

Jane, the woman who writes, solved the question by the old pecially skilled workers, by the decure of kindness, patience and faith. And of course she was helped by a nice old captain of the merchant marine!

Jane's trouble was motherin-law, but not the usual thing. Jane was a widow with two little girls when she married Sam, and a deeply and truly successful marriage it has been. They now have a girl and a boy, are prosper-

But a few months after their marlage, before her third daughter's birth, Sam suggested that his moth er come to visit them for a month. Jane was of course agreeable.

Gram Is Wonderful. "I'd been running a restaurant for two years," she wrote, "and I knew all kinds and types. I made up my mind that Sam's mother should love me, and I succeeded. That's the trouble. Gram came, likes her room, likes her meals, likes my children, has turned out to be wonderful person. We had the spare room made comfortable and pretty for her, and as she has no house hold expenses she can use her small income for little luxuries. I am keeping no help at this time, because there is a baby coming, but I have a woman come in every evening to clear up the dinner muss; Gram helps me with everything else. She is canable and quick and the work goes like magic. "Don't think I'm unappreciative of the fact that we are really congenial. But she talks all the time! Evon-if-I'm-taking_a_bath_sho_is

"Sam, of course, is perfectly delighted that we like each other, he sees no reason for this arrangement ever being ended, and I find myself the only person in the house or whom it works a hardship. I have always been a great home-body, I like to be at home, but sometimes I get terribly tired of having to consider someone else all the time; just to say 'well, what are we doing? Would you like to see that picture? Or shall we take our sewing into the yard?' tires me. When the baby comes Sam's mother will be the greatest help, I know that, but if she only lived next door, or had an apartment near us. I would feel that my house belonged to me again! What shall I do? I can't hurt her feelings, but if you could write an article somewhat suggesting this situa-

Well, I didn't write the article, but I did write Jano. I wrote her that every one of us has to live with SOMEONE, or be pitifully solitary on the journey through life, and that to have a loving, strong, interested assistant just now was of priceless value to her. I reminded her that when the baby came, no other woman in the world would be as much interested in welcoming the baby and seeing that the house ran smoothly as her mother-in-law would Ideal Situation.

Children love a house with a Gram in it, a man is deeply content to come home and find the two beings he loves best in the world in harmony with one another: housework is nothing when two women handle it together and keep every detail of it perfect. Jane had all that, and didn't have to pay too much for it, and my advice to her was to hold on to this relationship as long as

Evidently that's just what she did. for now, three years and four months later she writes me that a widowed old sea captain has turned up with a story of devotion to Gram that began when they were children, and Gram is married and off for South

"And oh, what a lonesome house this is without her!"-writes-Jane. "She had been going to school, afternoons, to pick up the girls, the baby adores her, and my third daughter always slept in Gram's room and turned to her before she did to me. Gram asked, almost with fears, to take one of them on the trip, but we couldn't impose it on her now, though we've promised to some

'So it all turned out beautifully. Jane ends her letter, "and I'm thankful to God that I never hurt the best husband any woman ever had, or his mother either."

MotherCin-Law Differ. That's the whole story, and of course it's an unusual one. Most mothers-in-law are not either willing nor experienced servants in a _son's_house_and_most-daughters-inlaw have not had the training in handling human beings that Jane had. A mother-in-law is too ant to be useless in the younger household looking on anathetically at the difficulties of Sam's wife, never thinking to say "I'll get dinner that night," or "let me go, Jane, I'll do your errand," or "go off with Sam, I'll be here with the children."

I know one mother-in-law who landed herself upon her son's wife seven long years ago. She had let her son invest some money for her during a hard time and he has never been able to repay it; it crippled her own income, and she never lets the family forget-that-she-was-independent before John bought that stock that was a complete loss. She still has about $1,500 a year, but she spends it all on herself, expecting Mary to prepare nice little bridge luncheons twice a month; not that never fades or dies. coming down to the kitchen until muid's afternoon off, criticizing everything Don and Mary do. A LETTER TO MR. DISNEY Dear Walter Disney:

I have just read in the papers that you do not think a child could possibly be scared by any of the weirder effects in your new picture. "Fantasia" is a beautiful thing full of what the critics call enchantment, but a smart spectator will grab his hat and make for the near est exit when the Bald Mountain stuff starts. It is nothing but 20 minutes of skeletons, ghosts, flibberty-gibbets and assorted apparitions flying across the screen like they was fugitives from Hades, and I mean the basement not the mezzanine floor. A skeleton rates at the bottom of the list for purposes of public entertainment, anyhow, even if it is a quiet, dignified unassuming skeleton. And when a skeleton turns out to be a jitterbug acting as if it was being auditioned for a ballet it is no good to nobody nohow, even with the Philadelphia Symphony orchestra as sponsor.

The episode should be retitled Heeble-Jeebles in Technicolor."

JinxOvercomeAs Regional Defeats Rahway, 28-22

The finx of never having defeated Big Five Conference the Rahway basketoall team in the Regional gym went by the boards Tuesday night before the season's largest home crowd when the local Bulldogs shaded the Scarlet outfit, 28-22, avenging an earlier defeat and advancing the Brownmen to the Big Five Conference lead.

As a result, Rahway dropped to second place in the conference standing and the Bulldogs have Linden and Cranford remaining on the league schedule. On their past performances, Regional should come through for their first Conference title, but they usually don't pay off intil the final whistle.

Tuesday night's victory came as sweet revenge, for Itahway stung their traditional rivals January by 34-16, the most humiliating de feat in Regional's court history True, the absence of Babe Pushman and Art DeBattista, suspended players, didn't help matters in the first Rahway encounter, and the return of both boys proved vital in the second contest. Regional held an 11-10 lead a the half, when a burst of power resulted in a scoring spree of seven straight points before Rahway could chalk up a single point. Thus, with a 23-15 lead, Rahway found itself unable to pick up enough ground and went down for their third loss in 13 games. Regional-has won nine in 11 starts, losing only to Carteret, the cream of North Jersey Group 3 teams, and to Rahway.

Rahway's jayvees won the preiminary by a single point, 27-26. Trimmed Plainfield Johnny Wanca excelled for the

Orange, Bound Brook Await Regional Five

The Tornadoes of Orange High, smarting from their upset defeat at the hands of Regional's courtsters last year, will be looking for revenge when they play hosts tonight to the local five at their own court. Orange recently took the measure of the Group 4 State champs, East Orange, and have had a fine record his season. To make matters interesting, the Bulldogs entertain Bound Brook Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 in-the Springfield gym. The visitors were runners-up last year in the Group 3 State championships and boast of many veterans from that stellar
