There is the possibility, however, that more boys will soon be stationed there, so Mrs. Richard C. An Item of $5,000 from the State will cut the manual training item receipt of $1,250 from the Federal government and $1,000 from the State will cut the cost of the agriculture course to $1,000. Part of a balance of $1.201 in the land, buildings and equipment account will be used to offset a proposed appropriation of $400.

A surplus of $966 in repairs and eplacements reduces the amount to be raised by taxation for this purpose by $3,684.90. A library account surplus brings that item down to $2,187. Appropriation for bond and note amortization and interest, a mandatory item, will be reduced because of a $159.90 surplus to $18.-780.10.

Recreation Center Plan Is Favored

A project for establishment of a ecreation center on township property on Rose and Mountain avenues was outlined to the Township Committee Wednesday night by Herbert A. Kuvin, chairman of the Central Committee. He requested a budgetary_item of not more than $100 to start with to develop the area, and members of the board showed indication of complying with the request.

The area for the development of which Township Engineer Arthur H. Lennox has already drawn plans, could be used as a skating rink in winter and may be converted into tennis courts for Summer. By use of a small dam, it could be flooded for the former purpose, and the tennis courts could be built there later.

An amendment to the building code which would limit the time a structure would be permitted to remain incompleted was-passed at its first reading by the committee. The amendment is believed to be the first of its kind in New Jersey, Aimed against excavations permitted to remain open for long periods of time and structures left in various states of incompletion, the amendment states that all structures shall be completely enclosed within a period of six months from the commencement of the excavation for the cellar. Cellars cannot remain open for more than thirty days and the superstructure of buildings must be begun within sixty_days.

The Building Inspector, according o the ordinance, is authorized to notify the holder of the building permit as to violation, whereby he vili be summoned for a hearing perore the Township Committee to determine steps to be taken to correct the violation." The committee can order the excavation filled or the superstructure torn down at the expense of the builder should violadons prove invalid.

A letter was read from Herbert E. Cliff, president of the Glenwood Association of Short Hills, repeating the association's complaints against noise emanating from Peter Farley's Rollerdrome on Morris Turnpike. Mr. Oliff said that although a few months ago Farley was to have hired an architect to reduce the 4f-anything by Mr. Farley, it has been ineffective." Township Clerk Treat then read the letter he had written to Farley asking for a report on what had been done to eliminate the noise at the skating rink, stating that the Township Committee had given him its full cooperation and

Charles Fields, district manager for Public Service Transport in Summit, in a letter to the committee asked them to "please advise is to what hours additional service has been requested" for buses. He vent on to say that "checks made by our inspector at Springfield Center during the morning and afternoon rush hours disclose ample service is furnished in Springfield." According to his letter, during December passengers on the line increased 7 per cent whereas the service was increased 16 per cent, or 9 per cent more than the passengers increased. The committee will-meet for a conference on the 1942 budget this evening.

NELSON:

Production Czar

As the United States moved for ward into all-out war production Donald M. Nelson had been named production chief, placed in sole command over OPM, SPAB and all other vital production organizations.

His position was compared to that of Bernard M. Baruch in 1917. Mr. Nelson had been, before his promotion to sole command, the head of SPAB, the priorities control board, and thus had been sitting with his hands on the needle valve which kept materials flowing smoothly to defense plants.

His post also was compared to that of Lord Beaverbrook in Eng-

He was given command by executive order, and though the order did not immediately make legally clear how far his power went, there was enough in President Roosevelt's statement to show that it would go far enough to put Nelson into sold

A board, including Messrs. Knudsen. Hillman and other chiefs of various vital groups, was to work under Nelson

The President said, in part: "Mr. Nelson will no longer serve as director of the priorities division. will devote his entire time directing the production program. His decisions as to procurement and production will be final."

Thus Mr. Nelson has authority over not only the industrialists and labor leaders who were in Washington to harness American production to a program for victory, but also over the army and navy themselves, in a way, because his decisions as to what they might have in the way of arms and munitions would be final. They would still have legal contracting authority, but Mr. Nelson would have to pass upon these contracts before they could go into effect, and could, in effect, make them larger or smaller, quicker or slower.

For instance, last night at the Roxy the recording of the Anthem was played in the key of Eflat, much too high for the average voice. Washington, D. C. SCRAP IRON

It may be that those who let milons of tons of scrap iron go to Japan are not too anxious to adverise our present dearth of scrap, but the real fact is that it is so serious as to cause the shutdown of nine blast furnaces in Youngstown, Ohio, alone.

To meet the shortage, the OPM has been conducting an experimental campaign to collect scrap iron in Erie, Pa., and is launching other campaigns in Boston, Pittsburgh, Bridgeport and Akron, How ever, the campaign is going very slowly. Chief trouble is that col lections are made through the nor mal scrap iron trade. Therefore, it looks as if the American public might have to take things in hand. A survey of Butler county, Ohio, shows that every farmer has an average of about 50 pounds of usable scrap iron and rubber rusting or rotting behind his barn. On this basis, the OPM estimates that it should be possible to collect 1,500,000 tons of scrap from American farmers.

Not many people realize the importance which scrap plays in the iron and steel industry. Ordinarily steel is made 50 per cent from ore and 50 per cent from scrap iron But today ordinary supplies of scrap iron are diminished, not only by previous sales to Japan but by the fact that war industries supply no scrap. Many tanks, guns, and military motor trucks are shipped off to Egypt, Malaya or Russia. They never come back. Ordinarily, industry supplies its own scrap iron from junked automobiles, etc. But now there will be fewer automobiles to

So the scrap iron problem is one which will require every farmer and householder to look around be hind his barn or in his basement to see what he can spare for war in

You can check off lead as the next strategic material to be put under interdict for civilian use. OPM's banning order will be issued short ly. That will mean the end of lead foil and numerous other items of normal everyday use. One possible exception may be lead for automobile batteries, but even that will be under severe restrictions.

Reason for the ban is inadequacy of domestic supply to meet the increasing need for bullets. War production tables call for a lead consumption of 60,000 tons monthly by June: 100,000 tons monthly by next January. For military reasons, figures on U.S. supply can not be disclosed, but it is below what is needed even with production increases now under way plus imports from Canada, Mexico and other foreign sources. So civilian use will be restricted for the duration.

THE STORY SO FAR: Karen Water on, convinced by her lawyer, John Colt that she has a claim to the island estate of grandfather Garrett Waterson, has come to Honolulu to attempt to gain strange circumstance and somewhat against her will she finds herself on the very island, Alakoa, with Richard Wayne or Tonga Dick, as he is known. He is a member of the Wayne family which has been in control of the island since the disappearance of her grandfather They have found that Dick's uncle James Wayne, who has been managing the property, is very sick. Dick tries to get Karen to work out a compromise selflement to her claims but she refuses. Late during the night Lilua, a native house girl, comes to Dick's room and tells him she has strange foreboding of evil. As they talk a rap is, heard at the door.

Now continue with the story. —

At the door when Dick opened it was the tiny figure of a kimonoed Japanese girl. Her hair, usually as neat as polished ebony, was down all about her face, and through it her eyes stared so widely that they showed the whites.

'Mister Dick-you come!" "What is, it? What is_it_now?"

"I tap on Mister Wayne door-I take Mister Wayne him milk. Mister Wayne, he not answer. 'Well, did you go in?"

"No,_no, no!"

"Where is he? In his office?" "Yes-office. Plenty light but no speak. Something moves in there-I hear something move! But nothing in there will speak." Dick Wayne drew a deep breath, and the air of the hall was so clammy upon his lungs it was as if he had breathed in the outer rain.

"All right." Once more he went_striding through the house, the broad old floorboards speaking under his trend, and the tabes of the Japanese girl pattering behind him.

There was a line of light under the door of James Wayne's office: but as he reached for the latch the Japancse girl flattened herself against the wall, fearful lest she accidentally see into the room, and Tonga Dick Wayne himself hesitated. He knew what was within, James Wayne still sat in the chair behind his vast desk, in the same place he had sat-during so-much-of twenty hard driving years. But now his head was forward upon the desk, and by the slack emptiness of his uncle's hands Dick knew that this was the end.

All over the floor were scattered the ginger blossoms of a broken lei. When-Dick Wayne had made certain that his uncle was dead, he picked up the scattered ginger blossoms, and, opening a casement, threw them out into the night. He went to the door. The Japanese girl looked smaller than ever, with James Wayne when he died, standing there with her back pressed tight against the koa-wood wall, as this. And he knew that almost any if trying to hide herself from things one else, knowing these facts, would unscen. the Missey here,' "Send

he said. "Missey Lilua?"

"No, no! The haole Missey." "Yes, Mister Dick."

"As soon as you have sent the haole Missey to me, bring me Charles Wong.'

As Dick turned back into the room he spotted one more of those inescapable ginger flowers under the corner of the desk. He picked it up and put it in his porket. Then went and stood at the window looking out into blackness, unmind ful of the cold spit of the rain. It seemed to him a long time before Karen came.

"Is-is something wrong?" Her words were faltering, "Has anything happened?"

Later, after the Holokai had put Dick Wayne stared, astonished. out from shore, Dick and Karen. found themselves sitting face to face Deep in his pocket his fingers were still rolling between them the netals across a completely set table under of that last ginger flower; but Karthe cabin's skylight. "This—this is a terrible thing."

Fashion Revives Long Pearl Necklaces and Gleaming Jet

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

IT MIGHT be aptly said that a woman is known by the jewelry she wears. Certain it is that jewelry accents have a way of showing either refinement of taste, or a love of display. It all depends on whether you belong to the spectacular costume-jewelry group or to the conservative one that holds on to he tradition of quiet elegance. To women who have an inherited intuitive sense of dignified glamour pearls are ever the answer to their jewelry preferences. This season the style prestige of pearls has ascended to a new high. The big news that is adding to the lure of pearls is the return to favor of long ropes of pearls with matching bracelets and earrings in the manner of the ensemble shown above to the left in the illustration. The fact that in this instance pearls are worn with a black wool knit evening sweater is also important news.

The revival of jet won't give in because they can't | jewelry goes on record as a gesture of utmost style significance. Jet "Neither," said Karen, looking at head ensembles worn with winter

Groups of clips (called "scatter clips") are being featured this season as an alternate with the single lapel piece. The idea is spreading like wildfire among those who like the new and the venturesome. Centered at the top in the group pictured above is a style-alert "modern" wearing adorable little bows of three different sizes, with bow earrings to match. They are usable also as companion clips for square or "sweetheart" necklines.

Flattering and highly decorative for a plain dark dress are groups of small clips like those worn by Time was when jewelry worn with the young woman posing below to things knitted was taboo. The earrings belonging to this ensemble are also of bird designs. Bird, bow and butterfly motifs are very much in the jewelry picture this year.

Amusing themes are worked into lewelry that "makes conversation" because of its novelty-for instance. the lapel pin worn by the young girl pictured below to the right. -Von can get all sorts of buttons. The newest among them is the button with a snap-on base. You draw this portion up through the buttonhole and then clip to it a handsome over button that looks more like jewelry than a mere utilitarian fasten-

Wrap Around

Some new coats have sleeves cut all in one with the yoke or body of the garment. And they are so fashioned as to wrap around to one side. They concentrate on quality fabric, and when unfurred, as most of them are, they call for a stunning fur must matched with a flattering fur hat.

Again we have with us, with more to follow as spring gets well under way, the little dark-toned or black 'dress that is enlivened with "oodles" of frothy white at the neckline and wrists. The new white neckwear is entrancing. Also pastel accessory items are coming out in new lingeric

Active Faith

Enthusiasm is the greatest asset in the world. It beats money and power and influence. Single-handed the enthusiast convinces and dominates where the wealth accumulated by a small army of work ers would scarcely raise a tremor of interest. Enthusiasm tramples over prejudice and opposition spurns inaction, storms the citadel of its object, and like an avalanche overwhelms and engulis all obstacles. ### SAVE YOUR PAPER

Conserve paper! That request has been made to all the people by the government. Even before we were in the war, the government was using one-third of the nation's paper box production for arms needs, and now military demand will rapidly increase. On top of that, the armed forces have many other important uses for paper of all kinds. The cheapest forms of paper, such as newsprint, can be reclaimed and made into boxes and other articles.

When you do your shopping, get along with a minimum of wrapping. The National Association of Food Chains offers There are fourteen women in the consumers five good suggestions when it says: 1. Don't ask for a bag when an item is already packaged. 2. Don't ask for separate bags unless necessary—or any bag at all if you have only a few items to carry. 3. Take groceries in cartons when available—then use the cartons as receptacles in which will give demonstrations on the to save waste paper at home. 5. ### Production Policy Is Set Up By Red Cross

The following report received from Mrs. Fred W. Compton, publicity chairman of the Springfield Red Cross, follows:

"A recent_ letter received from National Headquarters by the local Red Cross Chapter asks that we give precedence to the production or garments such as sweaters, socks, mittens, etc., for our own Army and Navy until a sufficient supply is on hand to meet all possible needs. This wool and material must be purchased from the 15 per cent which the chapter retains from the amount collected in the present

"In a previous letter from James L. Fieser, vice-chairman-of the National Red Cross, he states: 'The production of garments for foreign war relief will be continued on-its present basis until the-supply or material furnished by the Federa Government is exhausted. Shipments to Europe will probably decrease because of iransportation and other difficulties, but we will undoubtedly be called upon to furnish supplies to Hawaii and points in the Far East. During the last few days, in response to a special cabled request, we have sent one million surgical dressings and large quantities of clothing to Hawaii Similar requests are likely to come from other theatres of military operations.

"'As an emergency measure, it has been decided to permit chapters in the coastal states and-at-interior points, where special hazards exist because of type of industries, to delay shipment temporarily of completed garments and hold a limited quantity in chapter storerooms for use in case of serious disaster or war emergency."

Kathleen Norris Says:

Women Pay Great Price for Indiscretion

My-married life was perfect until a man I knew in college turned up in our neighborhood. The story of our affair is not new. All the lessons in the world can't lave me from what is going on now.

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

O LANGUAGE isstrong enough to convince young boys that theft and forgery are wrong. And not merely wrong in being punishable crimes. Wrong because of what they do to a boy's character, even if-he is never found out. Wrong in boyhood, because the stolen quarter or the forged school excuse are steps to more serious forgeries and thefts, and once schooled well in those directions it takes heroic fortitude-it takes indeed a complete change of personality, to resist later temptations.

In the same way I wish I could find words impressive enough to help girls to see just how great is the price women have to pay for that thrilling "giving in" to the young lovers of school and college days.

If your husband told these cosy winter evenings, that during his senior year at college he supported himself entirely by stealing and forging, you would be horrifled. You couldn't laugh it off, tell him that it didn't make the slightest difference to you. You could not honestly say, "I love you for what you are, dear, not for what you

Having sold his honor once, you would feel-and the world would feel -he might sell it again. And in exactly the same way a man knows that a girl, who was reckless in giving her favors in girlhood, is not going quite suddenly to attain an entirely different position toward what ought always to be the sacred sym-

These are old-fashioned phrases, and to girls mine seems an old-fashioned attitude. But I can assure them that, viewed in the light of Tater years, they will see the whole thing differently. It-would be easier for a young wife to explain to her husband that she lifted some money out of the department-store cash register when she was working there years before her marriage, than to explain that she was intimate for a few months with one of the men who is known to her husband in business.

Buried Secrets Reappear. Of course, if she can avoid it, and hope permanently to avoid it, a girl doesn't tell her prospective husband these things. But that security isn't. always as sound as it seems. Hardly a day goes by without bringing me desperate letter from some young wife who has supposed her secret long forgotten and buried. feeling it would be more comfortable to admit to the affair before marriage and start on an apparently honest basis, they have softened the story by saying that the man "someone you never met. He died the following year.'

This does smooth things over for the moment. Few men, especially in anticipation of an immediate marriage to an adored woman, will waste time on lealousy of a dead man. But matters are much worse when the perverse turn of events brings this man into contact with the family again, and the unsuspecting husband is perhaps cordial to him. So that the wife must either make a clean breast of the whole thing, or put up with the insuffersituation of having a secret with one of the guests of the house that would crush her husband's

Be sure to read Kathleen Norris' advice to the "J. G." of this letter, a happily married woman whose girlhood folly threatens to destroy her home and the love of her invalid husband.

pride and faith in her if it were made

Such a case is that of "J.G.," who writes me from Georgia:

"When I married my husband, I loved him," says her letter, "but now after 11 years of unclouded happiness I know that my early love was only a shadow of what real love could be! He is not a strong man; we live for our garden, our books, and our one daughter. "Reggie was invalided after

Meanwhile Reg had started writing little bookish essays at first, for which he was not paid: later more ambitious literary studies, one of which is to be published in book form in the spring. Our lives were pericct-perfect perfect, until a man I used to know as a college student turned up in the neighborhood.

"The story of our old affair is no new one to you. I thought it concerned only ourselves. I was away from home for the first time, and 'every other girl did it, why not 1? The 15 years between that time and this have been disciplinary years, and I know they have-made me a finer and wiser woman than anything that was promised by the nature of

He is not part of the time. strong; he cannot go about as other men do. He has so few pleasures His utter pride in Rachael and me is the greatest of them all."

I've written "J. G." telling her that the only way out is the way of full confession. That means she can dismiss the odious Victor in no uncertain terms and then resume her happy way of life with no further reference to the cloud that has come un so suddenly. Victor will-have her old letters, of course, and she the sting of old memories. And Reg will have to replace his idealistic love for his wife with something less

There was pienty of Irish on that Glant squad-McGinnity, Bresnahan, McGann, Devlin and Mike Donlin, to mention only a few. It was the beginning of a new Glant history that was packed with merry sagas up until the last three years when Bill Terry's material dropped to the second-division class and floundered out of polite baseball society.

The Giants, in their day and time. have had such pitchers as Mathew son, McGinnity, Wiltse, Ames, Mar quard, Tesreau, Nehr. Schupp-and the great Hubbell. They have had such ball players as Devlin, Bresnahan, Donlin, Beauty Bancroft, Heinie Groh, Pep Young, Buck Herzog, Larry Doyle, Bill Terry, George Kelly, and a long line of others well up on the list. It is different now.

Mel Ott is a smart, keen baseball man who knows his trade. But he will need at least 10 or 12 new, good ball players before he will be back in old Giant territory, around the top. And good ball players are not picked up around the first corner. It is hard enough to get one or two good new men, much less 10 or 12 or more.

Someone has let the Glant machine go to rust. It will take a large hale of money to have it shining again. MacPhail at Brooklyn has proved the job could be done. But he found no substitute for money on his way up. For that matter, Tom Yawkey and others have found now. I suppose you would call it that even money isn't always quite enough, no matter how much you spend

The Changing Years

I can take you back to the days when the Yankees were struggling on the old hilltop and the Dodgers were just another club in the National league. At this time the Giants, were the Mt. But the point is that the Dodgers and the Cardinals are already strongly fixed around the top-the Reds have the pitching that may again carry them close—the Pirates and the Cubs have been building for another upward surge. It is easy. enough to understand the killing job Mel Ott faces in clearing most of these hurdles, especially if first baseman Babe Young goes into the army.

Headache Coming After the War

The war will not end until we have reached the highest possible tide of war economy, and touched the very bottom of peace-time economy. This spells a headache for AFTER the war. It is generally realized in the government, and plans are accordingly being made to take care of this peace-time problem.

Here and there are optimists who insist that we are bound to have a period of prosperity right after the final armistice. They base their theory on the pattern followed after-the-last war, when it was not until 1920 that economic difficulty appeared.

It is a theory easy to understand-When several years have passed with good earnings for everyone willing and able to work, and with -all_the_people deprived of a number of things they would like to have for the simple reason that they cannot buy them, it is obvious that there will be tremendous piled-up demand.

Perhaps the best illustration will be automobiles and auto supplies. By the end of two years more of war, to say nothing of five, there will be millions of people in this country who want new automobiles, and who have the money to pay for them. These will be people who have been employed at good wages all through the war, but who have not been able to spend all their money. There will be another large group who have had their old autos in storage because they could not get tires for them.

So there will be a magnificent market for autos and supplies which will take a year or two after the auto factories have been turned back from wartime to peacetime production before these wants can be satisfied.

The same is true, though the totals probably will amount to less dollars, and hence less days' work, stands that when the war hit that in many other lines-electric and gas refrigerators, vacuum cleaners, new utensils, tools, all sorts of things running into hundreds if not thousands of categories.

So this winter you are being patriotic as well as thrifty in safeguarding your water pipes. Right away, stuff cracks around basement openings . . wrap exposed pipes . . . shut off and drain outside services. And in freezing weather let water trickle all night
