The old Sarah Bailey house on Main street was the scene of much activity Tuesday and Wednesday when the Board of Library Trustees held a sale of Miss Bailey's personal property. The sale, under the direction of the ladies of the trustees board, Mrs. Lorraine C. Schmidt, Mrs. Dorothy B. Bunnell, Mrs. Elsie Tilley, and Mrs. Helen R. Smith, was carried on by a committee of volunteers including: Mrs. James Duguid, Mrs. Charles Nelson, Mrs. Renben Marsh, Mrs. Walter Brown, Mrs. Herbert Day, Mrs. Paul Voelker and Mrs. B. M. Woodruff.

The case was an outgrowth of an accident that took place in front of the office of the Fuel Sales Corp. on July 2, 1940, when Mrs. Schmidt's car, coming from Summit towards Springfield struck seven-year-old Kenneth on Morris avenue as he ran from back of a truck parked at the curb. A sum of $3,000 will go to Kenneth. The remainder, $5,500, was allowed to Mr. Lundie.

Everyone's invited. Big dollops here July 5.

Ordinance Expected To Provide Naming Of Planning Board

Hasty action toward enactment of township planning appeared imminent, as the Township Committee Wednesday of last week instructed Counsel Charles W. Weeks to draft an ordinance to establish a municipal planning board.

This closely follows the recommendation set forth by Committeeman Phyllis Bunnell two weeks before, who brought the subject to his colleague's attention to "safeguard the post-war building boom" in Springfield.

Weeks had been asked to study an old ordinance, to determine if it could conform to the proposed requirements. First adopted in 1932, the old legislation provided for a planning and zoning board to prepare a set of Building Zones for the entire community. After voters by referendum in 1934 defeated the proposal, the zoning idea was revived and finally passed in 1938. In this light, a zoning and planning board would have functioned for five years, but lack of interest caused it to dissolve.

From the zoning ordinance's creation, a Board of Adjustment was formed to consider appeals from property owners to alter any building zones. This board's activities at present do not provide for planning, and the township authorities signified to Counsel Weeks that a five-man Planning Board be created, which would function in proximity to the adjustment body.

Sgt. R. G. Meyer Is Casualty Of War

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Meyer of 25 Morris avenue were informed Wednesday of last week by the War Department of the death of their son, Sgt. Raymond G. Meyer, who was killed in action in North Africa. Sgt. Meyer was reported missing earlier in the month.

Born in Jersey City, Sgt. Meyer had lived in the Oranges and Union Township before moving to Springfield about a year ago. He was a graduate of Our Lady of the Lake Parochial School in Verona and Union Township High School. Having enlisted in August of 1941, Sgt. Meyer was sent overseas a year later. Prior to entering the AAF, he worked in war plants.

Sgt. Meyer, 23 years old, served in an Army Air Force bomb squadron. He leaves behind him a brother, Edward, who is a Navy pharmacist, serving on the West Coast, and a sister, Miss Ruth Ann Meyer.

BETTIQUETTE SAYS

Shortages come (and don't go) but as long as there's one cook with a soul and one man with an appetite, something fit to eat will happen. And in line with musing over not getting any, we herewith present another one of our whimsical dissertations. This one is called:

Mashed Potatoes Mashed potatoes are like arithmetic problems. They are either right or they are wrong, and don't give us any of your lip. Good mashed potatoes should be like Frank Sinatra's singing—very warm, smooth and tender. They should also be lumpless as a pinhead's "gams" and white as snow (without thinking). People who wash potatoes with cold water should properly dispose of the people who wash them with hot milk rate themselves daily. Some folk minds regard mashed potatoes as simply a windward anchor for peas and some unforgiving persons also know to substitute for each object like parsley into mashed potatoes.

Crime analysts indicate that some catfishing frequenters believe that mashed potatoes function in to serve as a convenient cover into which to secrete olives, pickles and other such items so that the checker will not see or charge for them. Of course anybody with half an ear for mashed potatoes will upon being served with as many as will bang onto the plate without flicking the spoon over three times, promptly make a deep, round hole in the middle of the mound and then pour in gravy until it runs over the rim. This is sometimes called "making a volcano," but it is also known as making away with the most gravy. Potatoes have been scarce in some sections of late, but probably if we all are very good and do our Victory Gardening work, we will again have the opportunity to boil, drain and beat our starchily delight.

Next to food, the U. S. Army considers "Letters from Home" the most important morale builder for the troops.

Tissue paper got its name from the thin paper originally placed between the folds of gold tissue after it was beaten out by the gold-beater's hammer.

Because the earliest "books" were rolled, their size was measured by the yard instead of pages. A "best seller" was over 200 yards long. These books were kept in cylinders, resembling large tomato cans.

Instead of greeting cards, the ancient Athenians wrote messages of greeting on walls of buildings so passersby would take note. "Good Health to You" and "A Happy New Year" were popular salutations exchanged by friends on these wall inscriptions.

Ink makers of 16th Century London identified themselves by carrying empty inkwells on their belts as a symbol of their trade.

The Nurse At Home

REPORTING SYMPTOMS TO THE DOCTOR

Editor's Note: This is the seventh in a series of ten articles on Home Nursing prepared by the Public Information Service of the American Red Cross. For complete details about the standard course, inquire of your local Red Cross chapter.

Today, the doctor's schedule is so crowded that home visits are necessarily infrequent. To make the best use of his knowledge and time, therefore, you must know how to observe and report symptoms.

First, keep clearly in mind the signs of good health: mental and physical vigor, good appetite, quiet sleep, clear color. The absence of any one of these may indicate trouble even before definite symptoms of illness appear. Continued mild symptoms may suggest serious trouble just as do the short periods of marked symptoms.

Learn how to read a fever thermometer accurately. The rectal type is safest for children and for the very sick; but remember never to let go of the thermometer while the temperature is being taken by rectum. Recurrent or continued fever even of low or a sudden elevation show that conditions are abnormal.

A surprising number of people cannot count a pulse. Are you one of these? Practice on your family while they are well. The doctor is interested in regularly and strength of pulse, as well as rate. Learn to count the number of breaths taken in a minute, without the patient being aware you are doing so, and note whether they are even, labored or shallow. Observe facial expression, condition of skin, appearance of eyes, throat, nose, ears; the picture you give may help the doctor to complete his diagnosis. The number, color and consistency of bowel movements, the amount and color of urine, and the amount and general appearance of vomited material should concern the good nurse, also.

To be intelligent about symptoms requires more than just naming them. In the textbook published by the Red Cross for use in home nursing classes, there is sound discussion of the most serious symptoms which would be very helpful in these days of having to rely on your own judgment.

From the habit of writing down the points to be reported, the doctor will appreciate your ability to report full and accurately; your patient will be benefited by it.

(The eighth in the series, entitled "The New Baby," will appear next week.)

Our Library

Many thanks are due both the author and members of the Art Class of the 4th, 5th, and 6th grades of the James Caldwell School for the manner in which they have shown their appreciation of the help and enjoyment received from the library.

These boys and girls of their own free will, unanimously voted nine dollars to the library, being the amount of their dues for the year. The following letter from the class will show how they would like the money used and in a short time the books will be purchased and displayed so all may see them before they are put in circulation. Signed by Lorraine Hoch, secretary, it reads:

"Our conditions have made travel and recreation very difficult, but we can read many books. Since the services of the library are always available and friendly, your books have given us much happiness.

"The Junior Art Club of the James Caldwell School contributes $1.00 to the library for the purchase of new children's books."

FROM GARDEN TO SHELF Snap Beans Are Ready

By MARGARET ARMSTRONG
County Home Demonstration Agent

The long rows of snap beans evident in the gardens of every neighborhood in the State bear witness to the fact that beans are a favorite at the family table. Gardeners have found that this familiar vegetable is an easy one to grow. It is easily preserved, too.

Although it is not wise to pick beans when the plants are wet, the pods should be picked as early in the morning as possible. Can them within two to four hours after they are picked. One bushel of snap beans weighs 24 pounds and will make about 16 quarts. Plan to can only the young, tender pods; canning never improves the quality of the immature vegetable.

After the beans are washed, the stem and blossom ends must be cut off. It is as easy to pack beans whole as it is to cut them. But if you prefer yours cut, place a handful on a bread board and cut across them with a heavy, sharp knife.

Hot-packed Beans

The beans should be pre-cooked for five minutes in boiling water before they are packed into the jars. A jar-filler is a great help in filling jars with cut beans, but it is easier to pack whole beans if the jar is lying on its side on the table. Add one level teaspoon of cooking salt per quart when the jar is two-thirds full. Complete filling it with beans and then pour the cooking water into the jar to within one-half inch of the top. Run a knife down inside of the jar to remove air bubbles, and then seal the jar for processing according to the type of jar cover you have used.

Pint jars are processed in a pressure cooker 30 minutes at 10 pounds pressure. Quart jars are processed for 35 minutes. The processing may be done in a hot water bath for 120 minutes, counting from the time the water boils again after the jars are added. Remember that one inch of water should cover the tops of the jars. Any non-acid vegetables processed in the hot water bath should be boiled 10 minutes before they are tasted.

Frozen Beans

Snap beans varieties which give the best frozen products are Kentucky Wonder and Stringless Green Pod. Wax beans do not freeze so well as green-podded varieties. After washing the beans and removing the tips and ends, prepare them for freezing either whole or cut. Blanch one or two pounds of beans at a time for two minutes in a large quantity of boiling water. Quickly immerse the beans in ice cold water until they reach room temperature again. Now pack them into moisture-vapor-proof containers and seal. Freeze immediately at minus 10 degrees Fahrenheit.

Other Methods

When all other means of preserving are exhausted, additional surpluses of beans may be cared for by drying or blanching. Of the two methods, drying results in less loss of food value. However, unless you definitely know that the variety of beans you are growing dries well, do not plan to dry them. The beans are picked when the seeds are two-thirds to three-fourths their full size. Wash them, cut off the ends, and either leave the beans whole or cut them in two or three pieces. Steam them for 15 minutes, or until almost tender. Spread them out on drier trays and dry at a temperature not exceeding 155 degrees Fahrenheit.

In a few weeks, when the bulletins "Salting and Blanching" by Marie Doermann, and "Food Preservation by Drying," by W. C. Krueger, are off the press, ask for copies at your county Extension Service office if you wish further details on these methods.

OPA Enforcement Panel Holds Weekly Hearing

At its regular Thursday night hearing, June 17, 311 Springfield Avenue, Summit, the OPA Enforcement Panel, took up the "A" gasoline ration book of Joseph Peca, 35 Park Avenue, Summit, on charges of speeding. The case was referred to the District Enforcement Division in Newark for further action, if any is necessary.

Charges against Harker Worthington, 36 Glenwood place, were held over for two weeks.

The police clerk of Spark Hill, N. J., wrote the enforcement panel admitting its error in reporting R. H. Consequently, his "A" and "C" books, which had been taken up by the enforcement panel awaiting verification of Mr. Bra's contention, were returned.

Legion Tax Relief Studied By Board

The Township Committee is studying several proposals suggested by Council Charles W. Weeks on how to meet the request of Continental Post, American Legion, payment of taxes on its building, which approximate $5,000 yearly.

On June 9, a delegation of Legionnaires asked the committee to abate taxes "as a moral obligation to former servicemen." State respect of exemptions for such properties and loss of rentals due to gas rationing has hurt the financial picture for the building, Henry McMullen, spokesman, heard pointed out.

One Post suggestion had been if taxes couldn't be crossed off the books, that the township take back the property deed and lease the premises to the Legion at $40 a month for 30 years. Weeks reported it would be better for the Post to retain its identity through ownership and responsibility for mortgage payments amounting to $200 annually, by having the Governing Body pay toward maintenance. A $4,000 mortgage is being amortized.

Many township organizations meet in the building without charge, including Defense Council units, Boy and Girl Scouts, July 1 committee, Red Cross and young people's group for dancing Saturday nights.

Taxes cannot be legally abated, Weeks said, but the board could contribute toward lighting, heating and janitorial service of the Legion Building, since it serves as a public civic center.

To Seek Deferral

Upon recommendation of Police Chairman, the clerk was asked to write the Selective Service Board No. 2 to reclassify Patrolman Leslie Joyner, who has been placed in 1-A. Joyner, who is 37 years ago, will soon be overage, is married and is childless. He entered the Police Department June 26, 1930. Masterkey pointed out manpower replacement is critical.

Seven consumption liquor licenses, five package stores and one club liquor license were approved, representing all existing licensees except the Howard Johnson Restaurant of Route 28, which did not apply at this time, but is expected to, in the near future.

Council was authorized to prepare a resolution reappointing Frank E. Melzel to a four-year term on the Board of Tax Assessors, his term expiring July 1.

Drop Seen In Sale Of Car Tax Stamps

Up until Wednesday, the deadline for the purchase of Federal automobile tax stamps, Springfield's Postoffice sold about 1,000 stamps or 800 less than were handled last year. Postmaster Heinz reported yesterday.
He attributed the decrease to the laying-up of autos during the gas emergency and loss of several big sales last year which were made at the local office in June. Many out-of-town motorists took advantage of the convenience of buying stamps in Springfield, which helps to swell the total here.
Heinz also reported on the sale of War Bonds and Stamps between January 1 and June 30, the closing six months' period. This year a total of $51,000 were sold in Springfield, a rise of 33 1/2 per cent over the similar period in 1942.

Lesson-Sermon

"God" is the Lesson-Sermon subject for Sunday, July 4, in all Christian Science Churches and Societies throughout the world.
The Golden Text is: "The Lord is our Judge, the Lord is our lawyer, the Lord is our King, he will save us." (Isa. 33:22).
Among the Lesson-Sermon citations is the following from the Bible: "Let the people praise thee, O God; let all the people praise thee. O let the nations be glad and sing for joy; for thou shalt judge the people righteously, and govern the nations upon earth." (Psalms 67-3, 47).
The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passages from the Christian Science text book, "Science and Truth with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Be firm in your understanding that the divine Mind governs, and that in Science man reflects God's government." (p. 353).

How to Distinguish Poison Ivy From Similar Plants

Although some people are puzzled about the identity of poison ivy, it is by no means impossible to distinguish it from plants of a similar appearance.

It is observed closely and the characteristics established. It will not be confused readily with any other plant.

One of the principal facts about poison ivy is its variability. In some sections of the country it is relatively inconspicuous, but in New Jersey it is so robust and prevalent that it frequently covers fence posts and hedgerows or in some cases forms a mat of undergrowth around trees and buildings.

Here it may appear as an erect shrub, there a climbing plant developing out-growths of a leaf-like nature to hold it in some tree or pole. Because of its prevalence and its highly poisonous nature everyone should make its acquaintance and learn its habits, the methods of its extermination, and remedial measures in case of poisoning.

How to distinguish these berries when they are green or even color and about the size of out cultivated currants. Berries on these berries without harm and the berries are active agents in spreading the seeds.

SEND IN YOUR NEWS

Readers of the SUN are invited to send in news. Clubs, organizations and other bodies are also extended an invitation to make use of the columns of this newspaper.

There is no charge for news items. The only requirement is that the article be signed. Your name will not be published. This is required as evidence of good faith.

When writing news, be sure to mention the proper names in full, first names written out and also the place and when the event either took place or is scheduled to be held.

The SUN is your home-town newspaper. Help make it more interesting.

Address your envelope to the SUN, and mark "News" in the lower left-hand corner.

To insure publication, all articles must reach the SUN office, 8 Flower avenue, not later than Wednesday noon. Articles may also be telephoned to the office, Millburn 6-1256, but it will be appreciated if written notices be submitted as early in the week, as possible.

because one does not know all the conditions and factors. And then too conditions change sometimes overnight.

"Take, for instance, the gas situation—why must there be a reduction in value of coupons—and the ban on pleasure-driving. So much gas and oil has been allotted to the Army and Navy. Suddenly they find more is necessary right away to take care of our increasing war efforts. The only way to take care of this extra is to reduce the home consumption. That is as it should be, we will all agree, even though it cramps our efforts."

"The same thing is true of food and tires. In all probability we will have to get along with less and less of everything as the war progresses."

"Your Rationing Board is not looking for sympathy, but it asks your help. Its only desire is to see that everyone gets his proportionate share and receives equitable treatment. It is not easy to interpret the rules and regulations and explain them to the satisfaction of everybody, nor to explain all the contradictions that appear in the newspapers. We do not enjoy saying 'No'—but we have to—because it is the fate to everyone. Every member of the Rationing Board (of which there are twenty-two men and women) is serving without compensation except the satisfaction of doing their bit and helping to win the war. It is not a bed of roses, but no one of them is complaining."

Ration Board Head Issues Statement On Rumor and Gossip

Rumor and gossip, when applied to your war price and rationing board, is the subject of a statement yesterday by Chairman Oliver B. Merrill, chairman of Summit's War Price and Rationing Board. The statement follows:

AIR RAID SIGNALS

BLUE ALERT
The blue alert is sounded by a long, steady blast for two minutes. It means there is possibility of an air raid. If you are in a car, dim your lights, proceed cautiously under 15 miles an hour, keep a careful lookout for pedestrians. If you are walking, use caution crossing streets and begin thinking of where you will take shelter if a raid is sounded. If you are home, blackout at once and turn on your radio.

RED ALARM
The red alarm is sounded by a series of short blasts or warbling notes for two minutes. It means enemy air raiders are at hand. If you are in a car, pull to the curb, stop, put out lights and take cover. If you are walking, take cover in the nearest building. If you are at home, keep blacked out and take cover.

BLUE ALERT
The blue alert is sounded by a long, steady blast for two minutes. It means there is still the possibility of an air raid. If you were driving, return to your car and proceed cautiously under 15 miles an hour with dimmed lights, watching carefully for pedestrians. If you were walking, leave your shelter and continue on your way. If you are home, keep your lights blacked out and listen to radio for announcements.

ALL CLEAR
The all-clear is sounded by a short 10-second blast for air raid wardens and those outdoors. It will be followed by a radio announcement that all is clear. It means danger is past and the blackout is over. Normal activities may be resumed.

REMEMBER
The red alarm may be the first signal you will hear. This means an air raid is imminent and calls for immediate blackout. The alarms may not always follow in the above order. A second red alarm may follow the second blue, so be prepared, know your air raid signals.

OPA Price Panel Fully Established And Functioning

The Price Panel of the Summit War Price and Rationing Board is now fully established and functioning. This was announced by Oliver B. Merrill, chairman of the Rationing Board, after he had served originally as chairman of the Price Panel, is on a leave of absence and while he will continue as a member of the panel, John N. May, Jr., of Summit, has succeeded him as chairman. Other members of the panel are Mrs. P. H. MacNellie, 1 Eshel avenue; Mrs. F. P. Thornton, 19 Manor Hill road; Donald Bourne, 21 Oakley avenue; Herbert Kohn, 2 Maple avenue, Springfield; and Michael Peddicini, 4 Summit avenue. Eight Price Panel assistants have been recruited for Summit proper under the direction of Mrs. Thornton, and three additional assistants have been appointed to cover Springfield, New Providence Borough and New Providence Township.

The Price Panel will administer the Price Control Program in Summit in the same manner that the rationing panel administers the various rationing programs. The dollars and cents prices for groceries, butter, eggs, meat and pork have now been fixed for Union County, and the Price Panel assistants are distributing price lists to all food dealers. They are at the same time

TOWN AND FARM WAR TIME

"The soldier wants the intimate details of life back home," says Chaplain (Major) Alvie L. McKnight of Cleveland, Miss., who has just returned to the U. S. after five months of duty on Guadalcanal. "That the girl two doors down has taken a war plant job, or that the couple across the street have had a baby may make your letter read like a personal column in a small-town weekly newspaper, but that's what he wants. By all means, don't tell the soldier about your troubles. He has enough of his own. Domestic troubles affect the morale of the soldier at the front more than anything else. Something to live for and go back to is what makes a soldier going. It is what makes a man fight. Home life is everything to the man at the front."

In July, 1940, the average American had an income of about $17.92. Military expenditures in that month amounted to approximately $50 per person. In April of this year, income per capita was 1.8 times what it was in the middle of 1940—$85.03, but if the average American had been asked to pay April's war expenses on the spot, they would have taken $54.52 of his new $85.03 income.

One dollar apiece is the maximum price that OPA has set for low-quality used passenger car tires which now are permitted for the first time. Maximum additions to this price are provided when tires are given emergency repairs before being sold.

Fuel shortages can be avoided, says a recent OWI report, only if: (1) large consumers of fuel oil, those using more than 10,000 gallons a year, convert their oil burners now; (2) both home and industrial users of bituminous coal order supplies now; (3) householders place orders for insulation, weather stripping, storm windows, etc., immediately.

Family allowances and voluntary allotments-of-pay are now in force for about four and a half million soldiers who have more than seven and one-half million dependents, the War Department has announced. More than 20 million family allowance and allotment-of-pay checks have been mailed to the wives, children, and other dependent relatives of army men in one year.

Baby carriages to be made in the current quarter have been decreased to 289,369, compared to the original schedule of 317,777. However, strollers, walkers, and suitcases have been increased from 163,500 to 233,500. The demand for baby carriages in 1943 is expected to be 300,000.

A rise of 1.7 percent in food prices the total cost of living for non-rural workers by 0.8 percent in the month ended May 15; nevertheless, the cost of items making up nearly 60 percent of the family budget remained practically unchanged. This increase of 0.8 percent compares with a rise of 1.5 percent in the month ending March 15, and 1.1 percent in the month ending April 15.
