BETTIQUETTE SAYS

In this uncertain weather, it is a problem what to wear. We suggest that you dress comfortably. Comfort is a great help to mental happiness, and when you are happy you make every one else around you comfortable. It works in a pleasant circle.

Now, black satin and middle summer clothes are being shown. A new outfit always perks one up for the special date or occasion. We suggest that when you can control your plans for going into the office for social reasons, that you eliminate the week-ends. The traveling is difficult in these gasless days, and going into a crowded vehicle and dressed up is not conducive to appearing "cool as a cucumber" or making one very joyous.

We have been reading the various current publications about the race-riots in this country and just can't help mentioning it in our column. So many of us seem tired to understand the intolerable conditions abroad, and wonder how one can think so prejudicially. Well, if it can happen in America with innocent victims, in this land of plenty, it isn't hard to understand that people will empty stomachs can riot and injure others.

In this wonderful country, we forget our numerous blessings. Frankly, the people who complain about gas, food rationing, meat shortage, etc., give this columnist a "palm." Folks, WE ARE AT WAR. Conditions can't possibly be normal. We are not saying that certain mistakes are not being made in the handling of our affairs, but you who criticize, could you do any better? It seems as though the only people who do things with a smile are those who have close relatives in the armed forces. Readers, you must realize, WE WANT TO WIN THE WAR, but this can not be done by wishful thinking, but by supporting the Administration, whether it is Republican or Democratic is a minor issue at this time. Party differences are not important, but that Democracy and the blessings it stands for should survive and triumph over the dark age "isms" that dominate so many of our fellow men—that is the important thing!

At this time there is a dreadful shortage in this community of places where one can leave one's offspring with intelligent management at a reasonable price. So many mothers would find essential war-jobs if they had a place to leave their children without fear and with ease of mind. We do not have a "neighborhood house," as so many of our nearby communities have. So at this time, we suggest that some civic minded women band together to form such a cooperative proposition. Write to us, readers, and let's hear your reaction. We volunteer our services for this project.

The story of a sandwich

EVERY SUMMER, thousands of box cars of nearly-all American railroads flow as if by magic toward the great wheat fields of Kansas, Texas and Oklahoma. There, loaded with the newly harvested wheat they are made up into long trains which rush the wheat to grain elevators and flour mills in all parts of the country. AFTER UNLOADING, the wheat is milled into flour. Once more the American railroads play a part in feeding the nation. For until the wheat is processed it cannot be made into bread. Government figures show that the American citizen eats 71 pounds of bread every year—a big item in the national diet. BESIDES FLOUR, railroads also haul the other ingredients that your bakery uses to bake bread—the milk, the salt and the yeast. All the other foods which make a sandwich so tasty and nourishing—such as butter, meat, eggs, lettuce, likewise are hauled from their point of origin to your local store by the railroads. WE ENJOY EATING for its own sake. But don't forget the war worker's midday sandwich represents energy... energy that will produce the things necessary to help America win the war. Last year, the railroads moved one ton of food for every man, woman and child in the country to supply the home front, lend a hand and our fighting men. The moving of food for our people and our fighting men is just part of the battle of transportation that the American railroads are winning day in and day out for Uncle Sam. FROM GARDEN TO SHELF Drying Foods At Home

By MARY W. ARMSTRONG

Homemakers reading about dehydrated foods prepared for the armed forces and food-bureau may be tempted to try some drying at home as a means of saving food which they cannot consume for other reasons. The humidity of New Jersey is a handicap which necessitates following special procedures in order to insure keeping qualities of dried products.

Although drying food consumes more time and fuel than other methods of preservation, the storage space required is smaller than that needed for canned, frozen, or stored foods. Both fruits and vegetables which are in prime condition for table use may be dried. In New Jersey, berries, cherries, huckleberries, corn, mature beans and peas, green peas and snap beans, celery, squash and pumpkins, peppers, carrots, and beets may be dried, but canning and freezing are much more satisfactory for many of these foods.

Preparation for Drying The food to be dried should be freshly harvested and prepared quickly for the actual drying process. Use only stainless steel knives, to prevent discoloration of the food as it is cut into uniform slices or chunks. All foods are treated before drying to inactivate enzymes which would eventually bring about a loss of color, texture, and flavor; to aid in freshening the food for table use; to shorten the cooking period; and to retain the quality during storage.

Fruits are prepared by sulphuring or steaming. Detailed directions for both methods may be obtained from "Drying Foods for Victory Meals," Farmers' Bulletin 1718, available from the Superintendent of Documents at Washington, D. C. (70¢ per copy, or from the New Jersey College of Agriculture publication soon to be off the press, entitled "Food Preservation by Drying," by W. C. Krueger. This bulletin will be available from the county extension offices.

Vegetables, likewise, must be either steamed or blanched in boiling water as a preparation for drying. At the end of the time period recommended, the excess moisture is removed with a towel and the drying is begun immediately.

Equipment for Drying In New Jersey, drying by artificial heat is the best means of preserving home-dried foods. Four trays made of coarse cloth stretched on wooden frames can be arranged in the oven, with the door open, and the temperature is kept at 150 degrees Fahrenheit by the thermostat control. In electric ovens, the top unit should be removed and the temperature set at 200 degrees for the first hour and then reduced to 150 degrees. The oven door may be closed if there is an air vent. Stir and rearrange the trays of drying food every half hour.

A hinged type of drier can be suspended from a ceiling support by a sash cord and pulleys so that it hinges over the cooking surface of the stove. The trays should be six inches apart to permit stirring the food as it dries. Electric and steam driers can be made or bought. Properly dried fruits should be tough and leathery. Vegetables, on the other hand, should be rigid and brittle. Even though the foods meet these tests, the drying is still not uniform. To avoid the moisture content of the whole batch, store it in a closed container for several days. Then heat it at 150 to 170 degrees for 10 to 15 minutes. Seal in permanent containers.

Storing Dried Foods Any tin, glass, cellophane, laminated glass, or waxed paper container which can be sealed so as to be airtight will be suitable for storing the dried foods. These containers should be stored in a dark, dry, cool place. NEXT WEEK: Ways to Can Tomatoes.

Residents In Accord With Planning Program

Ed. Note: Several residents have expressed themselves in accord with the proposed planning program which Committee Chairman Charles Phillips has brought to the attention of the governing body. The letters, addressed to Mr. Phillips, follow:

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Vandersall, 70 Henshaw avenue: "We read in the Springfield SUN of your suggestion for a Planning Board to improve Springfield, and we want you to know that we heartily approve of such a board."

"In order to progress, a town should do away with all its ugly spots, and rebuild or replace them in such a way that it adds materially to its desirability."

"There are a good many people who agree with you. We hope that you will keep after it until you get it."

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Appleby, 17 Henshaw avenue: "We have noted, with much enthusiasm, your recent application for a Planning Board to improve and protect the Township of Springfield. We are heartily in accord with such a plan."

"Springfield is a fine old town, filled with historic atmosphere, and has such possibilities. The only hope of promoting its beauty and overcoming some of the obstacles already here, is more foresighted people such as you have proved to be."

"Here's hoping that this project shall not remain just a discussion, and an appointment or two, and then oblivion!"

William D. Merkel, 85 Henshaw avenue: "Referencing in the editorial in the SUN of June 16, Mrs. Merkel and I are heartily in accord with your suggestions and offer our full support."

Mrs. James L. Brukerhoff, 117 Henshaw avenue: "I am writing to let you know how much we appreciate your efforts to get a movement under way to better and beautify Springfield."

"It has often been a topic of discussion in our neighborhood and we, as permanent residents, have the town's welfare at heart. We feel that Springfield has great possibilities as a fine residential town but it will need intelligent guidance and direction which seems to be a brighter prospect at the moment."

"We felt that it might lend encouragement to let you know that your efforts in this direction are appreciated."

FOR THE MYSTERY FAN: CHAMBER FIDAY by Dorothy Cameron Disney, a murder mystery which will keep a mystery enthusiast dangling with suspense.

COLOUR SCHEME by Sigara Marsh, a most hideous murder with a background of Maoris during World War II. The characters, a second-class bath establishment, might appeal to many who do not read detective stories.

HAVOC BY ACCIDENT by George Sinton, is comprised of two newly-translated pieces in one book. According to J. B. Priestley: "A gem of its kind—irrefragably ironical and with a fine strident flavor."

THE HUNGRY HOUSE by Lilian Lanfery. The story of a house which stood high on a green ridge and watched while men tried to find a murderer. They succeeded and the house was destroyed.

THE BLOOD TRANSFUSION MURDERS by Milton Propper is the story of blackmail followed by murder and addition before the solution of the crime is reached. The climax is both breath-taking and ingenious.

What's Cooking With New Jersey Homemakers?

THEY'RE going to can the yields of their victory gardens. They'll have their shelves lined with jars of home-canned vegetables. This is the way they'll meet the wartime food shortage. We knew how wholeheartedly New Jersey homemakers would respond to the government's request that home canning be done, so we had a booklet on canning prepared. It gives complete directions. Be sure to ask for a copy at any of our Conservation and Nutrition Centers. It is given away free.

With thousands of women working in war plants, for Red Cross, or in Civilian Defense activities, it has become increasingly difficult for our meter readers to get meter readings because they find no one home.

It is as important to you as to us to get regular monthly readings, so please cooperate with us in seeing that we obtain a reading if your meter is inside the house. You will find that our meter reader comes about the same day each month.

If your house is closed when he comes, he will leave a one-cent return post card with dials corresponding to your meter indicated on it. In this case please read your own meter promptly and mail us the card. It is very simple to mark it. If you are in doubt about it stop at any Jersey Central office and we will show you how.

Have you looked in your Telephone Directory for that number?

Starting this week, when an Information operator is called for a local or nearby telephone number, she will ask:

"Have you looked in your directory for that number?"

Information service today is heavily burdened handling calls, thousands of which are unnecessary because the numbers asked for are already available in the telephone directory.

If these unnecessary calls are not made, your wartime telephone service will be helped in two important ways:

- Information can give more effective service on calls for numbers changed or added since your directory was printed, and for numbers in areas not covered by your directory.
- Telephone lines and switchboards now operating at capacity much of the time will be freed of a large unnecessary load and be better able to handle the rising volume of essential wartime calls.

At raid wardens, while not eligible for "C" ration books, may continue to get "B" books, according to OPA. Volunteers regularly performing work contributing to the war effort or public welfare who need supplemental rations should have applications certified by some authorized representative of the agency for which the work is performed.

Adequate supplies of handkerchiefs, both for civilian and military use, will be available. Looms making cotton cloth suitable for handkerchiefs and other specified uses, will continue to do so, by a recent WPB order.

From 5 to 10 per cent more chemical fertilizer will be available in the year ahead, according to WFA officials. It is estimated that U. S. farmers used about 10 million tons of chemical fertilizer during the 12 months beginning July 1, 1942.

Smooth, durable linoleum and printed floor coverings are being produced in substantial quantities to meet the greatly increased demand. WPB has reported. Used in new housing projects and in remodeling old buildings, smooth surface floor coverings save lumber.

The nation's imports of goods and 19's cargo vessels totaling 1,675,000 deadweight tons in June, the Maritime Commission has announced. This may be compared with the record total of 1.5 for May and 1.4 in April. The June figure is a slight production for the first half of 1943 to 879,000, totaling 8,585,422 deadweight tons for the entire year.

Playground Activities

Because of the inclement weather and wet grounds only three contests were held this week. Mrs. Rutison, the county nature supervisor, came to the playground and talked on the subject of "Our Purrty Friends." She brought along five specimens and the children were greatly amused over the antics of a pet raccoon. At present they are being taught to mount butterflies.

Contest winners in the horsemanship riding contest were: Anna Berlek and Marjorie Detrick, first, and Edie McElroy and Gerda Palmer, second, among the girls; Herbert Pennoyer and Harold Seales, first; Richard Schroeder and Sam Bouhls, second; and Raymond deBerjeois and Clifford deBerjeois, third, among the boys.

Winners in the paddle tennis contest were: Arlette Munn, Marjorie Rein and Gerda Palmer for the first three places respectively among the girls under 12; boys under 12 who took places were: Herbert Pennoyer, first; Harold Seales, second; and Richard Sherry, third. Robert Wood, Philip Kelly and Richard Nelson were winners of the first three places among the older boys.

In the foot shooting contest Marlene Detrick, Emily Sacen and Betty Butler were first in that order among the girls under 12. Leading the girls over 12 were: Shirley Jenkins, first; Betsy Niebauer, second, and Phyllis Colantoni, third. Boy winners under 12 were: Herbert Hoffes, Seattle Hart and Harold Seales.

Insurance Men Met

At a meeting last Thursday of the Union County Association of Insurance Agents at the Hall-Way House in Mountville, plans were discussed for the annual meeting and the election of officers to be held on September 15. Among those on the nominating committee was Richard Binwell, local insurance agent, of Plener avenue.
