ESSENTIAL WORKERS NEED RELEASE STATEMENT

Waste Paper Needed to Ship Supplies to Fighting Fronts

Brown paper bags from the corner grocery store, cartons, and discarded newspapers, salvaged from American wastepaper baskets, are in the Army now. Transformed into cartons, special moisture-proof paper, and paperboard, they protect all types of Army equipment shipped to the fighting fronts.

Radio tubes used by the Signal Corps have three parts. An easily shattered glass envelope, fine wires or brittle metal, and a breakable base. They must be carefully packed. To shockproof the smaller tubes, cardboard collars are used to keep them upright and suspended.

Glass and porcelain insulators are safeguarded against shock by large amounts of cushioning paper in the form of scrap and confetti.

The constantly increasing use of brown wrapping or kraft papers and paperboards has made these waste materials a guarantee to the soldier in combat that first-aid dressings and anti-infection sulfadiazine tablets will reach him in prime condition, unaffected by weather conditions. The packaging of X-ray films protects them from the humidity of the tropics. Benzidine sulfate, the drug which prevents a sleepiness in battle exhausted soldiers, is put up in paper packages.

Life-saving blood plasma is shipped in five containers. If civilians reduce their use of wrapping paper and bags by 25 per cent, enough paper will be released to package all the blood plasma likely to be needed for men wounded in the war.

Paper also plays a vital part in protecting shipments of Army ordnance supplies from rough handling and corrosion. All openings and exposed surfaces of tanks are sealed with paper wraps. Spare parts are wrapped individually in paper composition boxes in cardboard or fiberboard.

Paper for military needs is a war weapon. Civilian use of paper must be reduced. Not a scrap of paper of any kind can be wasted.

And Available For Servicemen

Meat bars of the Armed Forces, these "discharged after service" and the families of men in both categories, may contact Postmaster Edwin D. Harris of Union Township for help in re-employment, obtaining Government compensation, filling out forms and many other details.

Postmaster Harris, available daily at the Union Post Office, has been re-employed as a committee member for Selective Service Board No. 2, serving Union and Springfield, since July, 1942. He is also service officer of Connecticut Farms Post 35, American Legion; Michael Kelly Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars; and Union Chapter No. 1, American War Dads.

In his role with the Legion, which is cooperating with Army Emergency Relief, he is in a position to help servicemen's families obtain grants or loans. These are sometimes especially necessary during the period between the time when a man enters military service and that when the first allotment checks are received.

Hospitalization, compensation, pensions and death benefits are among the phases of the service officer's work. He can give much information on these matters himself, and, when further steps are necessary can direct persons to the correct source.

Harris' tasks as re-employment committee member will probably be extensive in time, but so far there has been no problem of finding jobs for those receiving medical discharges, or released from military service for other causes. All have returned to their old jobs, or found new ones on their own initiative.

YOUR RED CROSS

So often we read in the newspapers articles describing the joy of American families upon receiving word that a loved one previously reported missing in action is now reported a prisoner of war. We are all interested in the well-being of American prisoners of war, and so the column today is devoted to an article recently released in Washington, D. C. It says, in part:

"The biggest thing in the lives of American and Allied prisoners of war in Germany is the Red Cross food parcel, according to the first groups of fourteen seriously wounded repatriated American prisoners of war who were interviewed at the Walter Reed Hospital, Washington, D. C.

"Except for the Red Cross food parcel, we probably would have starved," volunteered Staff Sergeant Norman C. Goodwin, of Haverhill, Mass. His comrade agreed. Goodwin was radio operator on a Fortress shot down over the mainland while on a bombing mission to Bremen on June 25. He lost his left leg. Many of the fourteen men were flyers and paratroopers, captured in a seriously wounded condition in Germany, North Africa, Sicily, or Italy. They were recently repatriated, with British and Canadians, on a prisoner exchange with Germany, through a transfer made in Sweden, and were then flown to this country from England. Some had spent all their time in German hospitals, while others had been transferred to prisoner of war camps. Unwounded flyers, the men explained, are sent to Dulag Luft, the main transit camp for airmen. There they are given a number and are officially listed as a prisoner of war, and then assigned to a camp for the duration.

Some of the men were assigned to camps with Britons and Canadians, many of whom were veterans of Dunkirk, Dieppe and Crete.

"Generally six months elapse after a prisoner of war has been assigned a number before he receives mail from home. This is the most trying period for prisoners, according to the repatriated men. 'That's one reason Red Cross food parcels meant so much to us,' explained Sergeant Goodwin. 'Since we were completely cut off from the outside world, the weekly Red Cross food parcel was like a message from home.' The factor of morale, while important, was not all, he related. 'We lived for the Red Cross parcel,' continued Sergeant Goodwin, 'because it enabled us to have a reasonable diet.'

All agreed that they would have suffered severely on the German rations of black bread, two potatoes and thin soup. This soup was described by one of the men as the water in which the potatoes had been cooked, and, by another, as 'bald grass.' The repatriates said their Red Cross food parcels reached them regularly on arrival. Packages were locked in a storeroom at camp and opened jointly by the German camp commander and their own camp spokesman. After each withdrawal, the spokesman was locked, the men being allowed to take only what they needed for one day. Camp authorities punctured the tin containers of canned goods to prevent their being stored for use during an escape, the men said.

"The prisoners went to amazing lengths to squeeze the last ounce of enjoyment from their Red Cross parcels. Sometimes hours would be consumed discussing a menu. One 'delicacy' concocted from the food in British Red Cross parcels they dubbed 'repatriation cake.' This consisted of cake flour, dehydrated potatoes, and other fruits, stirred together and cooked. A little wood-burning stove in Sergeant Goodwin's barracks was used for cooking and for brewing tea and coffee.

"Parcels received by the British, Scottish and Canadian prisoners gave all the men a wider variety of food and promoted comradeship among all the Allied prisoners, according to Sergeant Goodwin. He described the Red Cross parcels as the cement which bound the Allied prisoners together.

"Some of the men are to remain at Walter Reed Hospital, while others are going home on furlough or to other hospitals."

So diverse, so important, so widespread are the services now being carried on throughout the world by the Red Cross, that the program confronting this column—which at this time is to acquaint its readers with the immense scope of the wartime work of the Red Cross—seems to us absolutely essential. Examine the pictures in our bulletin board. Each week, as the time for the coming Red Cross war fund drive approaches, we shall try to include a description of some phase of Red Cross work, each one indispensable in the opinion of military leaders, who have but one end in view—winning the war with the help of armed forces possessed of the highest possible fitness, in terms of physical well-being and morale. Great sums of money are needed for this purpose, numberless hours of volunteer service, and a universal recognition of the resources, power and prestige of the Red Cross to carry out its objectives.

Remember this, citizens of Springfield, when the drive begins, and reach down deep into your pockets. This is one of the things General Ike Eisenhower meant when he said if the European war is to be won in 1944, every American on the home front must do his part. Balance your money against the sacrifice of life, and decide now what your contribution shall be. This drive is not a roll call for $1 membership. This drive calls for hundreds of millions. Investors Taking Over Shares From Battle Hill B. & L.

The Investors Savings and Loan Association of Millburn has announced through its executive vice-president, Roland Lewan, that the plan for the absorption of certain assets of the Battle Hill Building and Loan Association of Springfield by the Investors Association has been consummated and that members of the Battle Hill Association may now bring in their passbooks and certificates and exchange the same for a new account in the Investors Association equivalent to 70 per cent of their previous holdings in the Battle Hill.

They will also receive a certificate of interest in the remaining assets of the Battle Hill for their remaining 30 per cent interest. The exchange will take place at the office of the Investors Association, 64 Main street, Millburn.

Members' investments in the Investors Savings and Loan Association are insured to the extent of a maximum of $5,000 by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, a government instrumentality. The 70 per cent interest transferred from the Battle Hill to the Investors will have the protection of this insurance.

The plan for the reorganization of the Battle Hill Association and for the transfer of assets was approved at a shareholders' meeting held on August 31. At that time it was announced that the percentage of the old accounts to be transferred would be 85 per cent, but subsequent improvement in condition has made it possible to increase this percentage to 70 per cent.

The aggregate amount of assets transferred by the Battle Hill is $255,574, and the transfer of these assets will increase the assets of the Investors Association to $975,000.

The Investors Savings and Loan Association was originally incorporated in 1928 under the name of the Washington Rock Building and Loan Association. It became the Investors Savings and Loan Association in April of 1942, and in July, 1942, the association's accounts were insured on a 100 per cent basis. Subsequent thereto it has acquired assets of the Millburn Building and Loan Association of Millburn and the Connecticut Farms Building and Loan Association of Union.

The officers of the Investors Association are: J. Albert Kub, president; Roland Lewan, secretary and executive vice-president; Willard L. Hills, vice-president; Major E. B. Ward, treasurer; Robert Marshall, assistant treasurer; Charlotte D. Uppgraff, assistant treasurer; and Dorothy K. Naylor, assistant secretary. Counsels are Hobart L. Benedict and Fred Herrigel, Jr., former surrogate of Essex County.

The directors of the association are: Albert E. Aldopp, Howard P. Armstrong, William M. Angell, Charles A. Mundy, Herman Philchard, C. A. Pedecine, Fred Thompson, Emil Herrigel, Capt. John L. Kommoser, Jr., Joseph C. Collett and Richard Bunnell.

Mr. Kub is former superintendent of Millburn schools. Mr. Lewan, who is the executive in charge of the Association, has been a resident of Millburn for twelve years. He served as part-time secretary of the Washington Rock Association and has had twenty-six years banking experience. He was formerly associated with the Fidelity Union Trust Company of Newark and the Guaranty Trust Company of New York City. Mr. Lewan is a member of Continental Lodge F. & A. M. and is a former vestryman of St. Stephen's Church in Millburn. He has served on several of the committees of the New Jersey Savings and Loan League.

Town and Farm IN WARTIME

Local Selective Service boards are lightening up on non-fathers, lessening the number of agricultural and occupational deferments for them and at the same time increasing the number of these deferments for pre-World War I fathers. It was revealed by a comparison of local board reports for October 1 and December 1 by Selective Service National Headquarters. Total deferments in agriculture, December 1, were 1,006,001, of which 692,252 were fathers. This was an increase of 33,874 agriculturally deferred fathers between October 1 and December 1. Selective Service figures it will be required to furnish between 1,000,000 and 2,100,000 men to the armed forces between December 1 and July 1—thus providing 700,000 to 900,000 replacements and bringing total strength of all forces, including WAVES and WACS to 11,300,000. During October and November, an estimated 150,000 men were reclassified out of 4-F for reexamination by the armed forces.

"What are some of the shortages which have bothered you most?" Nearly 5,000 persons throughout the country were asked this question, in a recent survey of consumer requirements made by the Office of Civilian Requirements. The most serious inconvenience and hardship is caused by the shortage of food affects the greatest number—followed in order of numbers by elastic, galvanized ware, some textile products, and alarm clocks. "Most of the needs brought out by this survey can and will be met," Arthur D. Whiteside, vice-chairman of OCR, said.

More than 400,000 commercial and institutional eating places will be affected by a new OPA rationing program to go into effect in 1944. At present, the size of an eating establishment's food ration depends upon the number of people served, regardless of whether they are served food or refreshments—alcoholic and soft drinks, milk drinks, coffee, etc. Under the new plan, the establishment's food allotment will be based solely upon the number of persons served food. Rations for refreshments will be based on the number of servings of refreshments alone.

Persons returned to civilian life from military service will be provided with shoe ration stamps, OPA shoe stamps 1 through 4. The "shoe" stamps, were removed from Ration Book Three before it was issued to eligible servicemen. Discharged persons may exchange this book for one containing the shoe stamps.

STATISTICS OF SPRINGFIELD

Population—1942, 5,600; unincorporated—1942, 25,224,920; tax rate—1941, $4.02 (Township)—$2.11; schools, $1.79; state and county, $1.03.

Springfield was settled in the early 1700's. Its territorial form of government was established April 15, 1764, and was incorporated in 1837.

Springfield is essentially a community of homes, with little industry except for farming, nurseries and construction of materials for the 45 schools from New York City to the Atlantic Ocean. It has two stations, Millburn and Florist Hills, less than a mile away; 7 miles to Elizabeth, 7 miles to Newark; excellent bus connections to Newark, Elizabeth and Jersey City.

The Highway Valley Station with a freight station in the township, affords facilities for factories, commercial and industrial purposes. State Highway 29 makes New York City convenient, and the railroad affords the only direct connection to Philadelphia, High School, serving Springfield, Montclair and other nearby municipalities.

It has good streets, water, gas, electricity and modern sanitary sewer system, excellent police, fire and school facilities, and modern zoning and building regulations for the protection of the individual property owner.

Of interest in Revolutionary history with its historic Presbyterian Church, where the Rev. James Osgood Easton, B. D., with two stations, Millburn and Florist Hills, less than a mile away; 7 miles to Elizabeth, 7 miles to Newark; excellent bus connections to Newark, Elizabeth and Jersey City.

Several Revolutionary landmarks are to be found in Springfield, one of the oldest communities in Union County.

Hospital Sets Goal at $150,000 In Fund Campaign

"Our needs are present needs; this is not an expansion program," said P. V. G. Mitchell, general chairman of the Overlook Hospital Campaign, yesterday. The fund drive includes a new laboratory extension, a hospital blood bank, a physical therapy department, a fireproof roof to replace the wooden shingles on the main building, reconstruction of the pharmacy and general stores, the expansion of the emergency clinic and outpatient department, insulation, instruments, and tiling the walls and floors of the kitchens and new kitchen equipment.

The goal of the campaign which will reach into 20 communities in Union, Morris, Essex, and Somerset counties, is $150,000. The campaign will run from January 17 to 31. P. V. G. Mitchell, a member of the Board of Trustees, is the general chairman of the drive. Under him there is an executive committee of the Board of Trustees which will deal with matters related to the Board. The steering committee which will direct the campaign will be headed by Oliver Thurman, Walter Livingston Faust will act as chairman of the publicity committee and Robert G. Jewett will be chairman of the gifts committee. Dr. Frank B. Jewett has been selected as the honorary treasurer with Ernest Patton as his assistant.

Overlook Hospital is now running its largest census since its founding in 1914, with a record of 187 patients one day last July. The hospital is at present badly in need of funds since it is entirely dependent on gifts and since its expenditures on charity cases exceeds its intake on regular patients. Any funds which are received over the $150,000 goal will be applied to the building fund. Plans and drawings for a proposed new wing will also be among the expenditures and improvements proposed by the hospital board.

Paralysis Fund Support Asked By Postmaster

Support for the 1944 campaign for funds for the "continuance of the excellent work" of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis in arresting the spread of the disease was urged yesterday by Postmaster Otto F. Heinz, chairman of the committee for the Celebration of the President's Birthday for Infantile Paralysis.

Mr. Heinz pointed out that the State is developing an increasing number of blind workers in the Sister Kenny method. New Jersey also is attracting widespread attention because of the work of its isolation and convalescent hospitals for polio victims, he stated.

"There can be no doubt," the postmaster said, "that we shall achieve results which will be an excellent tribute to the President on his birthday, January 30. Every cent contributed to the drive is insurance for a healthy fighting American. The work of the foundation has been so successful in the past that it must be increased to take care of the many patients still unable to obtain hospital treatment."

A vicious little insect is at the bottom of every spending spree—causing prices to soar. His is the "Squander Bug." His die is the dollars you throw away. And he likes dimes and quarters as side dishes. The best way to give him indignation is to hand him a big helping of War Bonds. Do your part to starve him to death—now!

Pvt. Edmund Frey Wounded in Action

Plainfield Trims Regional Team For First Win, 34-25

Plainfield, a "soft" opponent in past years, failed to live up to its reputation against Regional High School's basketball team Tuesday night, 34-25 on their own court.

It was the Queen City team's first win in three starts and the third defeat of the season for Coach Boutot's quintet. A heavy scoring spree in the third period, in which Plainfield ran up 15 points for 7 for the locals, proved the margin of victory.

Height of 6 foot 3 inch Jack Moody, Plainfield center, was used to good advantage in regarding the ball on rebounds. As the half ended, 12-all, the teams resumed and Plainfield needed off 14 consecutive points to take a 27-14 lead.

Ray Burns, Regional's star, was held to a single field goal by Ziggy Gabruk, guard for the winners. While was the top scorer for Regional with 8 points.

Jayvees Win Over Plainfield, 28-24, Still Undefeated

The Regional junior varsity squad took its fourth straight win against Plainfield Tuesday night, 28-24, to keep its record unblemished.

Bill Detrick and Bob Belliveau were high scorers for the locals, with 7 and 6 points, respectively. An oddity of the contest, one for the books, was the first period in which both teams were scoreless and again in the third quarter, when neither side made any points.

Summit Marine Gets Record Of Battle

Marine Sergeant Roy A. Maypole, whose wife, Celeste, lives in Summit, was a producer of radio programs for many years before signing up with the Leathernecks last May. But it took a trip to Empress Augusta Bay, Bougainville, Solomon Islands for Maypole to score the radio scoop of the war.

When the Marines landed at this new historic spot, 29-year-old, blond Maypole lugged his microphone and recording instruments right into the front lines. As the boys went over the side he caught them for a few words "for the radio audience." When a benchman was needed, the former writer of the Hobby Lobby program took his gadgets and instruments ashore. Soon he was giving a play by play description of the battle scene, verbally identifying the gun salvos, siph sounds and bomb bursts.

His unusual job was interrupted only by the important task of digging graves—and dig he did—all day.

Next morning he was all set to continue with the radio broadcast, but the nearest electrical generator was some distance away. Roy, however, wasn't going to miss his opportunity. So off through the jungle he looked, following a thin strand of wire to the generator located at advanced command headquarters.

When the going got tough, he called out to a group of Marines to dress him in G.I.s.

"I'm looking for the command post. Know where it is?"

"Yes—this is it."

"I understand," Roy explained, "that I can get a 100 volt, 60 cycle A. C. current here."

"Oh."

"No," said the Marine, "but I'll tell you, mate, if you go up the trail another forty yards from where you're standing and ask the guys up there—they might be able to give it to you."

"That's fine," said Roy, "who's up there?"

"Japs."

Roy didn't get his "juice" and some days later a bomb concussion caved in the side of his recorder's amplifier cover. The magnetized wire, however, was unharmed and his broadcasts and interviews were intact. And they will be released to the public through Marine Corps headquarters in Washington.

Mrs. Maypole, when informed of her husband's feat by the Associated Press, was delighted to learn his whereabouts.

"It's wonderful, not just what he's done, but the fact that I know where he is, too," she said. "I'm proud. It's grand to hear about him."

She explained that she had received several letters and a Christmas telegram from him, "but they were not informative."

Army Decorates Lt. Col. Todd With Silver Star

The War Department announced Thursday the award of a Silver Star posthumously to Lt. Col. John H. Todd of Summit. He was cited for gallantry in action in North Africa.

Lt. Col. Todd was killed in North Africa December 23, 1942. A posthumous award of the Distinguished Service Cross was made April 24 at Fort Jay to his widow, Mrs. Betty B. Todd of 240 Kent Place boulevard.

Due to increased production costs—such as pictures, engravings, and many other items, beginning February 1, 1944—the subscription rate for The Springfield SUN will be

$2.50 per year
(52 issues)

5c per copy at newsstands

Most of the newspapers and magazines found it necessary to raise rates over a year ago. We have held our old price as long as possible.

We will endeavor to not only maintain our present news coverage, but improve it continually.

No subscription due after February 1, 1944, will be accepted at the old rate. Also we will accept a subscription for only one year in advance.
