FRIENDS!!

The editor of this newspaper is having the time of his life—and I don't mean maybe—for several successive issues prior to last week's paper it seemed all stories favored the Democratic side of the fence with the result being that Republicans sneered, hissed and boomed every time a representative of life Sun crossed the street. . . . And then last week's issue carried a lead story that would have prompted refusal of the smallest crumb of bread to the "starvingest" Democrat . . . suddenly the editor became a hero to the Republicans and the worst bred of rodents to the Democrats . . . all this, of course, makes life very interesting and, in addition, sends circulation soaring to unprecedented heights!

But all kidding aside, folks, the Truman-Dewey campaign won't amount to a tinker's twip in comparison once the fireworks get underway in the local battle for political control of Springfield . . . it's either do or die this time for the Democrats and die or do for their opponents.

For two solid hours Sunday this writer travelled all over town with delegates of one political group and was shown some stinko conditions . . . they were blamed, of course, on the opposite party . . . On Sunday we have another appointment—this time with the other faction . . . a nickel gets you a definite war will be shown the same rotten stuff, and without a doubt, the blame will be placed squarely on the shoulders of the original group . . . but we'll continue to remain neutral on the whole setup until it comes time for a showdown . . . then we'll come out swinging!

Just in case you haven't heard, neighboring Union Township during the next two weeks will celebrate the 140th anniversary of its incorporation with a bang celebration over a two-week period . . . the opening gun will be fired Saturday afternoon with a parade that will take more than two hours to pass Union Center . . . there will be free evening programs at Connecticut Farms School from Monday night on . . . these will be preceded by exhibits of Union's industries, something which that town is mighty proud to have . . . local municipal officials have been invited to attend the big show and so has every resident in Springfield . . . our advice is to see at least a portion of the event so you get an idea what makes a successful community celebration.

Had occasion to sit for an hour or so recently with a fellow who knows Springfield inside and out . . . despite the definite trend by the Chamber of Commerce and other civic groups in an up-to-date direction, he is of the opinion Springfield is ticked . . . "there's no hope," he says, "we've been bypassed" . . . to say the least, the gentleman in question succeeded for a time in dampening our spirits . . . a few days have passed since the little talk and in the interim we've checked facts and figures again . . . we think he's wrong, but it's going to be a long, tough grind to prove it!

Because many persons have been turning in material for publication days later than is necessary the editor hereafter reserves the right to reject copy, which, in his opinion, could have been submitted sooner . . . for example, there is no reason why a story of an event occurring Thursday night cannot be in before the following Wednesday . . . it should be in the next day . . . some semblance of a newspaper deadline must be observed . . . we believe readers can make the deadline if they make the effort.

Guess it's okay for an afternoon wedding party to hunk horns going through town after the ceremony, but that group of screwballs who tore down Morris avenue after 9 o'clock Monday night making more noise than a battery of 108's should have had their wings clipped, but good.

Power Step Up Necessitates Light Shut Off

Residents Will Be Notified by Post-Card at Once

Postcards are being received by Springfield residents this week from Jersey Central Power and Light Co. telling them that their electric power will be turned off for a two-hour period this Sunday while certain changes are being made in the voltage of the power lines serving this area. The hours for the power shut-off will vary in various sections of the township and those who do not receive a notice this week will receive one next week as the change-over will necessitate two Sundays work.

Electric power capacity for the Millburn-Springfield area will be greatly increased when the Jersey Central Power & Light Company completes changes scheduled for Sunday, September 26, and Sunday, October 4, according to the power company. These changes involve additions to the Millburn substation and increasing its distribution voltage from 2,400 to 4,800 volts.

Church Fire Test Successful

Something new in the line of fire protection was installed this week in Springfield's historic First Presbyterian Church. Discovery of any type blaze in the church building or Sunday School within a matter of seconds is assured from here on out.

TEACHER TURNOVER LOW AT REGIONAL

Salary adjustments made by the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School Board of Education have figured prominently in stabilizing the teaching staff. The average turnover of 30 per cent for the last six years dropped to a low of 5 per cent for 1948-49. Although salary is an important factor, there are other reasons given. Teachers who have turned down offers for other positions equally remunerative cite the more than liberal provisions for equipment, the daily program of the teacher, and the high morale of the teachers and students, important reasons for remaining. These factors, along with a satisfactory relationship between the teaching and supervisory personnel which has resulted in a more permanent faculty for Regional.

Chisholm School Job Being Studied

Acting on recommendation of the school government committee, the Board of Education Tuesday night delayed action on the naming of Mrs. Thelma Sandmeier as full-time principal of Chisholm School.

Supervising Principal News-wanger and the committee was instructed to study her replacement as a grade teacher and make a salary recommendation for action at an adjourned meeting October 5.

Mrs. Sandmeier teaches sixth and eighth grade English and is special reading instructor at Chisholm School. She was made part-time principal September 1 when News-wanger was advanced from Chisholm principal to supervising principal.

As principal, Mrs. Sandmeier would retain part of her duties as special reading instructor. The committee and News-wanger are to study a suggestion that Mrs. Alice M. Lushorn, special cases teacher, replace Mrs. Sandmeier as grade teacher and that the special class of 19 pupils be dispersed to their respective grades. That plan would avoid an addition to the teaching staff, it was stated.

The same committee is to consider a recommendation by News-wanger that overcrowded conditions in Chisholm School first grade be alleviated. The former has 38 pupils and the latter, 36.

News-wanger reported 407 pupils registered at Caldwell School and 208 at Chisholm. The figures last year were 473 and 206. Total enrollment was 66. Kindergarten enrollment was 69 at Caldwell and 47 at Chisholm, compared to 72 and 43, respectively, last year.

Mrs. Margaret Pittinger was named to head the publicity committee to replace Wilbur Pao. Board President Schmidt said the change, with assent of the committee, was made because most publicity emanates from committees headed by Mrs. Pittinger. They are the lunch room and recreation committees.

SPRINGFIELD MAN PROMOTED IN BANK

Announcement was made this week by Ralph W. Crum, president of the United States Trust Company of Newark, that at a regular meeting of the board of directors held September 20, Edward P. Steltz, former assistant treasurer of the bank, was appointed assistant vice-president.

Steltz joined the Mt. Prospect National Bank in 1927 when the bank was absorbed by the United States Trust Company of Newark in 1941, at which time he was appointed assistant treasurer. Last year, he was presented with a gold watch which presentation confirmed his membership in the bank's "Twenty-Year Club." Steltz resides at 23 Battle Hill avenue.

BALTUSROL GROUP ARRANGES PICNIC

A picnic for neighborhood children has been arranged by the recreation committee of the Baltusrol Civic Association.

Scheduled at the Wentz avenue playground for Saturday at 2:30 p. m., weather permitting, there will be a program of field events for children between 3 and 16, followed by picnic refreshments.

VFW Open House

Members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars will hold an open house meeting Tuesday, 8:30 p. m., at Clinton Baltusrol. The U. S. Army will show combat films of World War II. All are invited to attend and refreshments will be served.

Automatic Alarm System Installed

A new type fire alarm system, just installed in historic First Presbyterian Church, was approved for efficiency by representatives of the Springfield Fire Department.

The alarm system, a product of the Automatic-Alarm-Alerting System, is intended to detect presence of fire anywhere in the building and to transmit the alarm. Under test conditions, Fire Chief Charles A. Pinkava said the apparatus bore out the maker's claims.

Installation of the new system will afford maximum protection for the congregation and children of the Sunday School, the Rev. Bruce Evans, pastor, said today. The church building is a frame structure erected in 1792 and is one of the nation's Revolutionary landmarks.

The system consists of small, light copper tubing which is hidden along ceilings in such a manner that as a part of the building moves this fifteen feet away from the tubing.

When temperature rises three degrees or more within the space of one minute, air is expanded within the tubing and creates pressure through the line to the detector unit, whose two diaphragms are depressed to set the alarm machinery in motion. A siren in the church steeple sounds the warning.

In this week-end's test the alarm system responded twenty-seven seconds after a small fire had been ignited in a pan of alcohol. Chief Pinkava said.

The church board, which authorized installation of the system after tests proved its value, has been commended by members of the congregation of the historic institution. The new setup will mean prompt discovery of a blaze, particularly if it should occur late at night when no one is around.

The alarm then would automatically sound a fire bell instead of the usual great bell, instead of the blaze having to be discovered by a neighbor or passerby. In the latter cases, particularly in the early morning hours, flames might have gained great headway before being noticed.

Officials of the Springfield school system also have been shown how the Alamo system works and several have indicated they will recommend its installation in local schools next year.

MISS DECRESCENZO ALBRIGHT FRESHMAN

Miss Barbara J. Decrescenzo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Decrescenzo, 120 Morris avenue, Springfield, has begun studies at Albright College, Reading, Pa., as a member of the freshman class, Dean George W. Walton announced.

Miss Decrescenzo is a student in the science course at Albright. In 1947 she graduated from Regional High School where she was a member of the glee club, dramatic and literary societies, the choir, staff of the school paper, cheer-leading squad and basketball team.

Republican Club Opens Campaign

The Springfield Republican Club opened its campaign for the election of a full slate of Republican candidates in the coming election at American Legion Hall Monday night. Democrats should note that their hopes for a split in Republican ranks has not materialized and party harmony is in evidence everywhere," states a GOP press release.

Republican Township Committee candidates Fred Brown and Al Binder pledged their wholehearted support to each other's candidacy. Both candidates said they would conduct a clean campaign, free from mudslinging.

Art Handville, Brown's unsuccessful primary opponent, and Dick Horner, as co-manager have agreed to manage the campaigns of both Republican candidates. A coordinated campaign is already under way with participation by the Republican County committee men and women together with special committees already organized as well as assistance pledged by the officers and members of the Republican Club.

Mayor Selander endorsed the candidacies of Brown and Binder, urging that the best interests of Springfield require their election to the Township Committee. The mayor listed many noteworthy achievements looking towards Springfield's growth and development as a desirable suburban community under the guidance of Republican officeholders. Among these achievements was the elimination of the cesspools and their replacement with a modern hygienic sewer system. The mayor also pointed to the $1,000,000 or more of building undertaken in town this year as evidence that Springfield under Republican administration is a desirable place to live.

Selander extended an open invitation to all citizens of Springfield to attend Township Committee meetings. He pointed out only in that way could the citizens of Springfield recognize the relative services rendered by the Republican and Democratic members of the committee. The mayor closed with a plea that the Township's interest be placed above partisan politics.

"To president of the Republican Club, Bert Layng goes much of the credit for the solidarity manifesting itself in Republican ranks today. The healing of primary wounds and the spirit of teamwork prevalent among Republicans bear strong testimony for Mr. Layng's leadership and urges well for the party this November," the GOP publicity department said.

OUR POLICE CHIEF Says

A really good driver is constantly alert for youngsters who may dash into the street or rear from a driveway or alley. Safe habits have been developed in youths by school safety patrols, police teachers, and parents, but in the excitement of play they can—and sometimes do—forget. Children who are not old enough to go to school are dependent in every great or degree on the supervision of parents and skillful driving by all motorists. It's especially advisable to look back before backing out of a driveway or pulling away from a curb to be sure no child is in the way.

Turk's 'Mexican Army' Remark Called 'Unfair' To Police Department

Registered Voters Far Ahead of 1947

Official Refuses to Make Retraction of Statement

Township Clerk Trest has, for the last six weeks been on the job extra hours for the convenience of the voters so that all qualified citizens living in Springfield may be ready to vote on General Election Day, November 2.

Trest says there were 2,801 registered voters in Springfield on General Election Day, November 4, 1947, and this number has increased since that time by approximately 325 new registrations, making a total of approximately 3,126 voters which is an increase of approximately 20 per cent.

Trest wishes to bring to the attention of all citizens that the deadline for registering is this evening, Thursday, at 9 p. m. He also requests that all registered voters watch for legal advertisements that will appear in this paper under the dates of October 14 and 23, which will give full instructions as to the officers to be elected, time that polls will be open, location of polling places, the public question to be voted involving Post Office site, together with an outline of the election districts.

WOMAN, BABY UNHURT IN FALL FROM CAR

A woman holding a baby fell out of a moving car at Morris avenue and Seven Bridges road at 4:45 p. m. Tuesday, with the surprising result that the woman suffered only minor bruises and the baby was described by police as "not even scratched."

Police listed the woman as Mrs. Helen Holdered, 53 years old, of 440 Third avenue, Roselle, and the baby as George Holdered, Jr., 2½ months old. According to police, George Holdered, Sr., the baby's father and the woman's son, was making a turn at the intersection when Mrs. Holdered was thrown against the door handle in such a manner the door flew open and the two tumbled to the street.

"But this is not concerned with the budget," Sherman declared, "your 'Mexican Army' remark, if you made it, was uncalculated and should be retracted."

At this point Turk admitted making the statement, but said its true meaning was misconstrued. "I still mean what I said, however, and I see no reason to make a retraction," Turk added.

The controversy ended with Sherman admonishing Turk to be "more temperate in your remarks as a member of this Township Committee."

Democrats Issue Second Statement

Timothy J. Sheehan and Paul Callahan, Democratic candidates for the Township Committee, this week issued their second statement of the current general election campaign. It follows:

"Springfield is growing at a rapid rate and paralleling that growth at an equal rate are the problems and complexities of administering the township's affairs. We believe, therefore, that wherever possible steps should be taken to plan and put into operation now certain procedures which will guarantee an efficient and adequate township administration.

"One of the most important factors in a community is that of its employees. A community has a right to expect from its employees a full measure of ability, efficiency and loyalty. The employee has the right to expect in return for such service, fair compensation, desirable working conditions, and the assurance of his job provided that he does his job in a proper manner.

"We wish it to be known by everyone that if we are elected to office no present employee of the township need have any concern about his job. It is our belief that if an employee is satisfactorily doing the job required of him he should be continued in that position.

"We believe also that a sound basis of employee relationship should be provided as soon as possible to meet future problems in this field arising out of the community's growth. Therefore it is our suggestion that steps be taken to give to the people of Springfield the opportunity to express their opinion by referendum regarding the adoption of civil service.

"So that our introduction of this subject cannot be politically distorted in the coming campaign we wish to point out that beyond suggesting that the system be adopted and pledging our efforts to support its adoption, we can do nothing more and for that reason can look for no political gain. The decision rests with the voters.

"The adoption of civil service will cost the community nothing and will have many distinct advantages, some of which are as follows:

"It will eliminate politics and pressure group tactics in filling vacancies. This in turn will permit the township committee to act freely.

"By virtue of the examination requirements for advancement it will assure a fair opportunity for all employees to better themselves and will also assure the townspeople that the best qualified employee will fill the job.

"It will remove the possibility of creating unnecessary appointments.

"It will eliminate the prolonging of temporary appointments into permanent service.

"It will classify and define each job so that the scope and responsibility of each position will be clearly understood.

"We believe that the civil service system is now a necessity in Springfield and that to defer its adoption is to retard the installation of good government."

Two Local Youths At Marine School

Cadet-Midshipman Joseph William Helmbach, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Helmbach of 28 Maps avenue, and Cadet-Midshipman Harold George Seales, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Seales, both of Springfield, were among the three hundred men who reported to the United States Merchant Marine Academy, Kings Point, Long Island, last week, for a four-year course in the United States Merchant Marine Cadet Corps. They were among those selected for appointment out of four thousand applicants who sat for an examination throughout the nation and territories in April of this year.

The Merchant Marine Academy is the fourth and youngest of the four federal academies, having been dedicated in September 1943. During the war it had the enviable record of training approximately 6,000 Merchant Marine Officers, of whom 3,000 were on active duty with the United States Naval Reserve in all theaters of the war.

During their four years at the Academy and in the Cadet Corps the men will spend one year in preliminary training at the Academy followed by one year at sea aboard vessels of the American Merchant Marine, where they will apply the theoretical knowledge of their first year. Upon their return to the Academy, they will continue their academic work which will qualify them for a Bachelor of Science degree. Upon graduation they will be licensed as deck officers in the Merchant Marine and receive concurrent commissions in the United States Naval Reserve and United States Maritime Service.

A letter will be sent to the Board of Assessors instructing that body to comply with orders of the Township Committee to move its equipment into the office of Tax Collector Huff, where it will carry on its work until larger quarters can be found.

PARENT-TEACHERS WILL MEET MONDAY

Parents and friends of the Springfield Parent-Teacher Association have been invited to attend the first fall meeting, to be held Monday night at the Raymond Chisholm School. The session will start promptly at 8:15.

Feature of the evening's program will be the introduction of the new Supervising Principal, Benjamin Sandmeier, and Mrs. Thelma Sandmeier, principal of Raymond Chisholm School. A reception in honor of Mr. and Mrs. News-wanger and Mrs. Sandmeier will follow after the business of the evening has been disposed of and parents have had an opportunity to meet with their children's teachers.

Hostesses for the evening will be Mrs. Harold Flucht, Mrs. Chas. Runyon and Mrs. J. P. Olsch-nick, eighth grade mothers of both schools.

3 LOCAL RESIDENTS FINED FOR SPEEDING

Three Springfield residents paid fines for speeding in Union Police Court Monday night. Nebbed by Motorcycle Patrolman John Spahr, they were Harry Whitnak, 50 Divena street, assessed $8; Stephen Terrel, Jr., 144 Short Hills avenue, $5, and Rudolph Marchese, 76 Linden avenue, $10.

ADDED ATTRACTION AT REGIONAL HIGH

A cutaway chassis loaned by the Motor Vehicle Department is the newest attraction at Regional. It has been brought to the Springfield school as a part of the course in driver education sponsored by the state and taken by the students in the United States History II classes. It has created a great deal of interest among the students and proves to be a real value in improving their knowledge of the mechanism of the car. The course in driver education is a most practical phase of the curriculum emphasizing the importance of understanding your car and learning to drive carefully. At the termination of the unit students who pass the examination are entitled to a card certifying satisfactory completion of the course. This certificate removes the requirement of a written examination when applying for a driver's license. In this way Regional is cooperating with the state in promoting safe driving.

LETTERS

Editor, SUN: Your paper printed an article regarding remarks made by Mr. Turk at the last township meeting.

His derogatory remarks about one of the finest police organizations in the state were most heinous and uncalled for.

May I remind you and all people that our town, because of this so-called "Mexican Army" is the decent law abiding community we are proud to call home.

trial plants do anything but place residential property values in a town—especially when allowed to locate indiscriminately.

The first point to be considered then is: How much are we going to suffer as taxpayers by restricting industry? If we can get along without it, why encourage or allow it?

There are two sides to the industry question. Let's have some more views expressed through the SUN.

NEW JERSEY keeps the young 'uns happy

NEW JERSEY is like Santa Claus. It produces wonderful toys. This state ranks fifth in the country in toy production and manufactures nine per-cent of all the toys made in the United States. And such toys! Beautiful dolls—amusing novelties, made of modern plastics—toys which perform amazing feats—electric trains, scale detailed models of trains now in actual service and on which you probably have ridden.

The oldest and largest manufacturer of electric trains in the world is located here in New Jersey. These trains have become the delight of adults as well as children.

New Jersey-made toys are responsible for creating joy in many places, near and far, and Public Service is proud of the part electricity plays in both their manufacture and operation.

A birthday lawn party was held last week by Mrs. Henry A. Cumberley of Mountain avenue in honor of the second birthday of her daughter, Patricia Ann. The guests were Dennis Condon, Nancy Morse, Patty Waller, Barbara Gogel, Mary Ann and Paul Soos from town, and Ialme Dykes of Summit. In the evening, Mrs. Cumberley entertained fourteen relatives from Springfield, Summit and East Orange.

Dolores Clara Dressler is a lucky girl. If her parents hadn't come to this country from Germany many years ago, she may not have the healthy, well-fed look which she shows in this picture. Dolores, who was 2 in August, has blond hair and bright blue eyes. She has a brother, Walter, Jr., 17. Head of the Dressler household at 17 Tooker avenue is Walter, Sr., who has been employed by Westinghouse in Newark the past 25 years.—He and his wife, Clara, married 22 years ago, have lived here since 1934. WOMAN'S CLUB WILL MEET ON OCTOBER 4

Regular meeting of the Springfield-Millburn Woman's Club will be held Friday, October 4, at 2:15 p. m., at the Racquets Club, Short Hills, with Mrs. A. Allen Kelly presiding.

Mrs. A. N. Frederickson, program chairman, will introduce the speaker for the day, Dr. Gregor Ziemer, Educational Director of Town Hall, New York. He will speak on "The Re-education of Germany."

Dr. Ziemer has talked to people in 42 different countries; has been an educator on three continents; and a correspondent for the New York Herald Tribune and the London Daily Mail as he watched Europe prepare for war. He is well qualified to lecture on the situation in Germany today. A social hour will follow.

Rautter-Schramm Wed Saturday

MRS. RAYMOND SCHRAMM

Mrs. and Mrs. Raymond Schramm are honeymooning at Delray Beach, Fla., following their marriage Saturday afternoon in First Presbyterian Church. The bride is the former Miss Katharine Rautter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Chatham, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Albert Schramm of 110 Lyon place. The Rev. Bruce Evans performed the ceremony at 1 p. m. and a reception was held in the American Legion Hall.

Miss Jean Hartig was maid of honor, and Miss Jacqueline Bergman, bridesmaid. Russell Schramm was his brother's best man, and Bernard Schramm, another brother, and Henry Appleby, the bridegroom's brother-in-law, ushered. Miss Virginia Schramm, cousin of the groom, was soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white tulle, fitted, fashioned with a scalloped yoke, sleeves and neckline. A crown of orange blossoms held her fingertip veil, and matching tulle gauntlets completed her outfit. She carried an old-fashioned bouquet of white roses centered with an orchid.

Miss Hartig chose a gown of aqua tulle with round neckline, and pleated neckline ending in a bow-back. She carried an old-fashioned bouquet of yellow roses, and wore a matching coronet in her hair.

The bridesmaid's gown in deep rose was made identical to the honor maid's. Her bouquet and headpiece were of white flowers.

Mrs. Rautter, mother of the bride, chose a street-length dress of royal blue crepe with which she combined gold accessories and a corsage of yellow roses. Mrs. Schramm, mother of the bridegroom, wore a dress of gray crepe, and combined black accessories and a corsage of red roses with her outfit.

For their trip south by plane, the new Mrs. Schramm wore a suit of green gabardine, black accessories and the white orchid from her wedding bouquet. The couple will make their home in Springfield after return from Florida.

Mrs. Schramm was graduated from Chatham High School, Mr. Schramm from Regional High and Essex County High School. He spent three years in the Navy and is a tool and die maker.

Regional High Grid Warriors To Open Season on Saturday

By BOB WOOD

Regional High School opens its 1948 football season when Summit invades the Bulldog's gridiron this Saturday. The host team will need all its strength to repay the visitors for last year's game which the Hilltoppers won 21-0 with virtually the same time. They also have the tallest and heaviest man on the field in 6 foot, 8 inch, 200-pound Roger Pott. Many experts rate Summit as possibly the strongest team in this sector.

Regional, on the other hand, will field five starters from last year's once beaten club, but one of the question marks about the team is how fast and how well they have learned new positions. Not one will start in his position of last year.

Despite this, Coach Bill Brown rates the first team fairly strong. The reserves will need developing and the speed of this will depend on the fortune of the team, Brown says.

Regional will probably line up Saturday with Frank Rice, 175-pounder, who played two years as

Tom Rile, 148-pounder, will play offensive center, but defensively, the slot will be taken by John Toll or Ray DeBerjous.

The backfield will be built around triple-threat Frank Chornley who has been shifted to left half this year, and Ken Belliveau who has been moved into fullback position.

Wingback will be Frank Vicende, with Bob Seel shifted from guard to fill the blocking back post.

Coach Brown says the fans will see more emphasis on speed and an open type game this season. The passing chores which fell mainly to Ray Volden last year, will be handled by Belliveau and Chornley.

The Jay-Vees will open their season at Summit Monday. Cranford at Cranford is the first test for the freshman squad on Friday, October 1.

The varsity schedule follows:

Municipal League Launches Season

The Municipal League bowling season started Monday night. The teams are much the same as last season with the exception of Geljack's Jewelry Store, which has replaced Maroons, and Rau Five which has taken over the spot occupied last season by Rappaport's Pharmacy.

Heat, new wood and freshly shelled alleys had a tendency to keep scores low, but several good games were tallied. Van Lambert of Hershey Ice Cream, was high with a 245; Charlie Morrison, 213; Bob Bunnell, 210; George Rau, Sr., 207; Dick Bunnell, 202; Hop Widmer, 200 and Kessler, 200.

REGIONAL HI-LITES

by Barb Roemer

Hi again! Regional's all routine now, isn't it? Gosh, it doesn't take long for the teachers to get us organized.

The Hall Patrol under the direction of Miss Middler, is really doing a great job. At least we're learning which side of the door is right and which is left. Saves a lot of congestion, I must admit.

"Watch the birdie!" That's right! Senior portraits are going to be taken October 4, 5, 6, and 7.

In assembly last Friday a program was given, commemorating the signing of the Constitution on September 17, 1787. The speakers were Ingeborg Williams, Don Springle, Yvonne Hillway, Leonard Doolan, and Joe Worthington. They gave short talks about the New Jersey representatives to the convention. Radio-station WNJR awarded certificates to those who participated in the "Cavalcade of Youth" program last year. Miss McCarthy received a large certificate and Ed Leonard, Edith Thompson, Dave Hansen, John Sippell, Arlette Moore, Gwen Wenman, Phyllis Smolley, Carolyn Nye, Don Sprinson, Paul Hilderbrandt and Dick Schroeder were presented with smaller replicas.

There was a senior class meeting Tuesday, September 14 and it was decided that the first social event of the season, the Senior Sports Dance, was to be held Friday, October 1, with Bill Jacobus' Band providing the music. Seniors cast their ballots last week for officers of the Senior Class. The candidates are as follows: Secretary, Joan O'Leary, Elise Phillips; Marilyn Rein; Treasurer, Dick Schroeder, Tom Rile, Leonard Doolan; Vice-President, Sal Casale, Paul Hilderbrandt, Charlie Fleck; President, Jim Saffery, John Rutherford, Barb Roemer. I'll give you the results next week. Good Luck Candidates.

TEACHER TRANSFERS IN LOCAL SCHOOLS

Miss Lorraine Anderson, first grade teacher, and Robert Bailey, professor of science and geography, both formerly of Raymond Chisholm School, have been transferred to James Caldwell School. Mrs. Helen Ryder, third grade; Mrs. Elsie Dimpegna, sixth grade; and Mrs. Austa Moser, art teacher in both schools, have also become new members of the teaching staff.

Constitution Day, September 17, was celebrated with the showing of "Servant of the People," which illustrated how the new Constitution was made for the U. S. A.

Girl Scout Corner

BY TERESA DOHERTY

With the beginning of fall, Girl Scout activities have been resumed. Everyone in the organization is full of ideas—hope and good resolutions for the coming year.

meeting Saturday at Methodist annex, 9:30 a. m.

This Saturday, the troop will meet at the Methodist annex at 8:45 a. m., where transportation will be provided for a trip to the R. C. A. plant, Harrison, N. J. This special tour will be part of the Radio Badge on which the troop plans to work. Miss Anne Richards is leader.

Troop 2—This troop opens today under new leadership. Mrs. Leonard Field has had an active interest in these girls and this year became leader of the troop. For a few months she will be assisted by Mrs. John Kennedy, president of the Girl Scouts. Regular meetings will be Thursday afternoons at 3 p. m. in the Methodist annex.

Troop 3—Under Mrs. Lee Andrews, this troop will open Tuesday, September 23 at the Raymond Chisholm School at 3 p. m.

Troop 5—Miss Victoria Buffalo, leader, will have regular meetings at her home Tuesdays, 4 p. m. The first one was held this week.

DISABLED VETS BUY NEWSPAPER SERVICE

The Springfield News Delivery Service, formerly operated by Tom Mulligan, has been purchased by The Community News Company which has been doing business in Short Hills and Millburn for years.

Owners of the company are Herbert R. Alpert and Stanley Gilbert, both disabled veterans of the last war. Alpert, who was an engineer officer in the Army, was stationed overseas in the Mediterranean Theater and spent a total of five years in service. He is a graduate of New York University.

Gilbert served with the Field Artillery as a Forward Observer and Liaison Officer in the Mediterranean and European Theaters with the Fifth and Seventh Armies. An alumnus of Rutgers University of the class of 1946, Gilbert finished his studies after being discharged from the Army.

Both have been in the newspaper delivery business since their discharges and state they will do their best to maintain a dependable service.

Troop 9—First meeting, Oct. 1, 3 p. m. at Presbyterian Church. Mrs. William Thompson, leader.

Troop 10—Mrs. Lawrence Street, leader. Meetings are at her home on Tuesdays, 4 p. m. The first was held this week.

Troop 11—Opened Tuesday, at Raymond Chisholm School, 3 p. m. Leader, Mrs. Theodore Olsecky.

SPECIAL

There will be a reunion of all Camp Lenape attendees Sunday, Sept. 26, at the camp. Parents of the girls are invited and each is to bring a box lunch and blanket. Ice cream, coffee or soda will be served at a nominal cost.

All Springfield Scouts or Brownies who enjoyed a pleasant camping week at Camp Lenape will be glad of the opportunity for another get-together. All are urged to turn out for the reunion this Sunday from 3 to 6 p. m., and are asked to bring their parents. An enjoyable program has been arranged.

Council Begins Drive Industry to New Jersey

Easy access to 45 million potential customers, who spend $59 billion a year... excellent shipping facilities to the rest of the world... a reservoir of highly competent labor... helpful local and state governments which offer friendly cooperation, good industrial legislation, and favorable taxation.

These are some of the benefits accruing to industrial concerns located within New Jersey, according to the renewed advertising campaign launched this week by the New Jersey Council, Department of Economic Development, with the theme "Industry Succeeds in New Jersey."

THIS IS RUBBING it in a little bit—we must admit. But just a reminder kids, swimming in the ole swimming hole is just about over until next summer. In the meantime there will be plenty of readin', 'ritin', 'rithmetic—until next summer that is, then once more there'll be much splashing and cavorting in the swimming pools. Honest—it's not too long to wait.

By GREGORY HEWLETT A new era began for far-famed Jersey Justice, the "battle" of Berlin continued, the new state of India "conquered" the last of the princely states in the sub-continent, etc., etc., but as important as all of these were in the world last week, they were overshadowed by a single incident which shocked the people of this and every other country.

That incident, was the cold-blooded assassination in the Holy City of Jerusalem of Count Folke Bernadotte, the man who had worked against the heaviest kind of odds through the last several months to halt the war in Palestine. It was a brutal thing, a senseless thing, and it brought once more the full attention of the world on the Jewish-Arab struggle over the establishment of a Jewish nation.

Partly because Bernadotte represented the United Nations, but even more because of his own personal popularity, his murder was strongly condemned by people here who previously had taken no interest in Palestine. And because he was shot down by Jews, the first inclination of many was to condemn the infant state of Israel. No incident could have been worse, no timing could have been worse, than this one for the Jewish cause.

When we stop to think of it in the light of history, however, it becomes evident that it is grossly unfair to allow this tragic incident to color, or to change one's views regarding the Jewish cause. From the beginning of time, there have been extremists in our midst who have gone beyond the realm of common decency, men and women who in their fanaticism have killed—and worse—in the mistaken hope that such actions would aid their cause.

Our Neighbors

With the approach of cooler weather it seems that the "light-fingered set" is removing clothing from stores and homes. In Bloomfield a couple of fast talking operators walked into a clothing store and while the clerk's back was turned deftly slipped several suits under their coats and left. The suits were two double breasted ones, valued at $45 each.

Again in Bloomfield a 7-year-old girl attracted quite a crowd by tap dancing near the Erie Railroad crossing in Bloomfield. Curious police investigated and discovered that the child was missing from a Newark home. But the talented tot had collected 60 cents for her efforts before police interrupted the show and took her home.

While the Canadian Mounties may always get their man, the Game Wardens of Sussex County are equal to any situation. It was only last week that two wardens were confronted by a highly unusual situation. One was cast in the role of baby sitter while the other played the part of arresting officer.

Seems that one of the officers had arrested a New Yorker for allegedly obtaining a New Jersey license when he was actually a resident of New York. The arrested one, Wellpot by name, did not take kindly to the arrest and the warden had his hands full restraining the New York man. In the meantime Wellpot's wife had gone to get a lawyer, leaving their baby in the accompanying warden's hands.

Dewey Stands Good Chance—But There's a Hitch to It

A recent New Jersey Poll survey reveals that Governor Thomas E. Dewey stands a pretty good chance of winning the majority of New Jersey's presidential ballots in the coming November elections. According to the poll, Dewey would rake in at least 51 per cent of the Jersey public's votes. Truman would receive 35 per cent of the ballots. While that isn't particularly cheerful news for the present resident at the White House, it's interesting to note that Truman's strength increased during the summer months.

On June 3, Truman would have polled 31 per cent of the Jersey votes according to the poll. However on August 13, the poll noted a four per cent increase in Truman's strength, mostly at the expense of the Progressive Party's candidate, Henry Wallace.

While these figures indicate optimism for the GOP, it should be borne in mind, says the poll, that 10 per cent of the voters are still undecided as to which candidate they will vote for. And the big majority of these "undecided voters" voted the Democratic ticket in 1944. If the bulk of these people, still on the fence, decide to vote for the same party as they did in 1944, the election would become a very close one, the report concludes.

Here's the way pre-election statistics stack up according to the New Jersey Poll:

Dewey	51
Truman	35
Wallace	4
Undecided	10

And another more recent New Jersey Poll indicates that if President Truman should confine his campaign in the coming weeks to the work of the recent session of Congress, he is likely to find a sympathetic response from his listeners.

Despite the fact that both houses of Congress are Republican controlled, even GOP voters do not feel that the 80th Congress did a good job in dealing with problems facing the country. Significantly enough, Independent voters, who hold the balance of power in the coming elections in this state, are more critical of the work of the recent session of Congress than are Democrats.

Principal reasons cited by those who say Congress did a poor job are that they didn't do anything; they ignored the high cost of living; that both parties played politics; that they didn't do anything about housing; that they neglected the important things; and the same old problems are still with us.

Few of the people who said that Congress did a good job have in mind specific accomplishments of Congress. Chief reasons for saying good bills were passed were: that it had a tough job with a Republican Congress and a Democratic President; and that they just think it did a good job.

People who believe Congress did a fair job are about evenly divided between those who criticize it for lack of a housing program and failure to solve the problem of high prices; and those who say they did as well as could be expected under the circumstances.

13 BILLION DOLLARS OF FHA INSURED LOANS

All for housing... privately built... and privately financed

Since 1934 the Federal Housing Administration has insured over $13,000,000,000 of loans under various phases of its program.

THE 14-YEAR RECORD OF ACCOMPLISHMENT IN THE NEWARK AREA Under the FHA Program in this area—

- Better housing has been provided for 373,000 families.
- For this purpose private capital has advanced $604,382,000.
- 88,000 homes have been built or purchased under the FHA Plan for which private lending institutions have advanced $457,185,000.
- 285,000 families have received Property Improvement Loans amounting to $147,197,000.

Through April 30, 1948, FHA had insured:

- Over $9,400,000,000 of mortgage loans on 1,800,000 houses and rental housing projects.
- Over $2,000,000,000 of repair and modernization loans on more than 7,800,000 structures.
- Since April 30 the total has increased beyond the 13 billion mark, and more billions of FHA insured loans are in prospect.
- Borrowers have paid off or amortized well over half of this total.
- Dividends declared to borrowers are more than $9,582,000.

FHA is self supporting. Its gross income in 1947 was more than $50,000,000; its net income, after expenses, exceeded $31,500,000. Total net resources of all FHA Funds exceed $175,000,000. Insurance claims paid have been one per cent net on property improvement loans and six one-hundredths of one per cent on home mortgage loans.

We are proud to have played an important part in FHA's record of public service. We particularly recommend FHA insured financing to investors in rental housing, to prospective home buyers and to property owners wishing to remodel or to make repairs.

We shall be glad to explain to you anytime the details of FHA's low-cost, long-term loans.

Government Loans Will Protect Jersey Farmers Against Price Slump

Farmers who are harvesting a bountiful corn crop in New Jersey have assurance today that government loans will be available to protect them against any considerable slump in price. Announcement of the availability of loans came from Jacob A. Blakeslee, chairman of the state committee of the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Production and Marketing Administration.

This year's corn crop in New Jersey is estimated at about 8 1/2 million bushels, which is a million bushels more than the 10-year average, and three-quarters of a million bushels above last year's harvest. Loans will be used on farm-stored, rather than warehouse, corn. Prices will be announced about Oct. 10. Last year the price was $1.53 a bushel for Grade 3 or better, and farmers are speculating that this year's price surely will be no lower.

This home was planned to meet specific demands of a Short Hills family with two growing daughters, ages 12 and 17. The family had been reading home magazines and discovered that their furniture, although not modern, did not require a Colonial house to properly set it off. The mother felt quite strongly that she did not want a flat roof, ultra-modernistic type of dwelling but neither did she care to live in a "period" home. Both father and mother agreed that a simple exterior would meet their needs-provided it was not boxy and tall. The family felt the house must fit them so that living would be easy and pleasant. Specifically, they listed these needs: 1. It looked as if a maid's room with bath might be required at certain times during the next few years. 2. A first floor lavatory was to be included. 3. The parents wanted a study or reading room when their daughters entertained in the living room. 4. They thought a guest room with bath would avoid having the girls double up when week-end guests arrived. 5. Though they usually had their meals in the dining room, they wanted space for an occasional quick breakfast or lunch. 6. The mother wanted her Bendix washing machine near the kitchen to avoid steps. My main problem was to fulfill these demands and yet keep costs down to meet the family's pocketbook. I have found that one way of effecting economies is to combine several uses within the same space. We realized that a future maid's room, a first floor lavatory, and a study for the parents would involve costs beyond the family's means. The solution seemed to be multiple use of one downstairs room and bath. Should this room be used for a maid, the bath is so placed that she could enter her room through the bath, thereby avoiding the front hall. The second possible use for this room is a reading room for the parents when the living room is occupied by the young people. A third use of this same room would be for week-end guests. The closet would provide clothing storage while a studio couch would convert the room for sleeping purposes. The first floor bathroom doubles as a lavatory since it can be entered from the rear hall when occupants of the bedroom do not wish to be disturbed. After considerable study an extension of the kitchen was planned for the Bendix washing machine and for informal meals. By installing the Bendix in the closet off the space marked "Laundry or Dining Space," there would be plenty of room for table and chairs.

Looking Through the Lens

By EDWARD K. ALENUS, F.R.P.S., F.P.S.A., F.W.P.S. Salon Judge and Instructor of Photography Basking Ridge

(SECOND OF A SERIES) The discovery of photography cannot be attributed to any one person. Its origin was in the form of a darkroom with a small opening, or pinhole. This was the so-called Camera Obscura. The first known description of a Camera Obscura with a lens was published as early as 1568. This lens was a single piece of glass. At this time, however, a lens was practically of no use because there was no knowledge of any light-sensitive substance on which to record the image—and so, this primitive camera was completely forgotten until the beginning of the 18th century.

First Compound Lens Then several scientists in various countries found a substance that was sensitive to light. This

A Piece of Your Mind

No man yet born can understand what a beauty parlor means to his wife. To him her attendance there is of little importance. All he knows is that she goes in with long hair and comes out with short, or with straight hair and comes out with curly, and spends several hours each time in the process. She comes out looking very little altered in his eyes, and any change he can discern is for the worse. If his wife would not always immediately ask, "Well, how do I look in this new hair-do?" he wouldn't even notice it. A man who is only affianced or newly-married may be tempted to answer her question truthfully; a veteran husband will say merely, "You look beautiful!" and let it go at that. To do otherwise, would get him only an argument, to tell her how exactly she now looks gets him steak and apple pie for dinner the next evening.

But this is not a dissertation on how to get the most from your wife; that may be reserved for another time and space. This is an attempt to explain to husbands just what makes their wives save up their household money until they have enough for a visit to a beauty parlor. It is an effort to interpret the reason that makes women say, "I haven't washed my hair in weeks. I must make an appointment at the beauty parlor," when by all rational and sensible, that is to say, masculine ways of thinking, they could wash their own hair just as clean and with considerably less exertion.

The secret is this, in one sentence; a visit to a beauty parlor is not like that to any other conventional establishment; it is rather a ritualistic purging, a psychotherapeutic experience. Consider the various parts of a psychotherapeutic interview. There is rapport, the feeling that one is with a trusted friend. There is ventilation, the airing of one's problems and grievances. There is some feeling, perhaps, of penance. There is the relief of having cleaned oneself, of feeling better able to cope with life.

Among Friends Now, relate these factors to your lady's sojourn in a beauty parlor. She is immediately among friends, all sharing a common purpose and ritual. She is fussed over, made much of, by the attendant. For a little while she, the erstwhile drudge, is now waited upon. She relaxes, begins to unbutton herself of all that bothers her. Women in beauty parlors divulge the most intimate secrets of their lives, and you, Mr. Husband, would shudder to realize how much of you he knows by the salon sister's society. I know not what species of Hippocratic oath keeps beauty parlor operators from broadcasting what they hear, but they seal their lips—and it is a good thing that they do so.

To carry the analogy further, there is much of penance that your poor wife undergoes in what she conceives to be her search for beauty. It is no joke, for example, to sit under a drier, particularly on a hot day. Women endure this literal near-burning at the stake with fortitude that would put an Inca to shame.

Here's a Way to Control The Elm Leaf Beetle

The Elm Leaf Beetle is now enormously destructive throughout New England and the Middle Atlantic States. The beetle is believed to have reached Baltimore from Europe about 1834 and is confined to the elm, with European species most severely injured. The adult beetle is one-quarter inch long, yellow, changing to olive on age, with black spots on the head and a black band on the outside of each elytron or wing cover. It winters in protected places, often in houses, and in spring flies to the elm, where it lays a double row of yellow, lemon-shaped eggs on the underside of a leaf. These hatch in about a week into sluglike, black-spotted larvae, which skeletonize the leaves, eating out everything except veins and epidermis. After 3 weeks of feeding they crawl down the trunk and pupate at the base, more beetles appearing in 1 to 2 weeks, to eat holes through the leaf. There are two or three generations a year, with the elms either entirely defoliated or covered with crisp brown leaves. Two or three years of defoliation may mean death, and always mean a weakening of the tree so that it is subject to attack by the bark beetle, a serious pest of the spruce and Dutch elm disease.

State Appoints Members To Housing Groups

Charles R. Erdman, Jr., State Director of Housing and Commissioner of the Department of Economic Development, by appointment has added a sixth active member to local housing authorities in seven municipalities throughout the State. The Commissioner's action was in accordance with the requirements of a recent amendment to the Local Housing Authorities Law which gave the State member full voting rights not previously enjoyed.

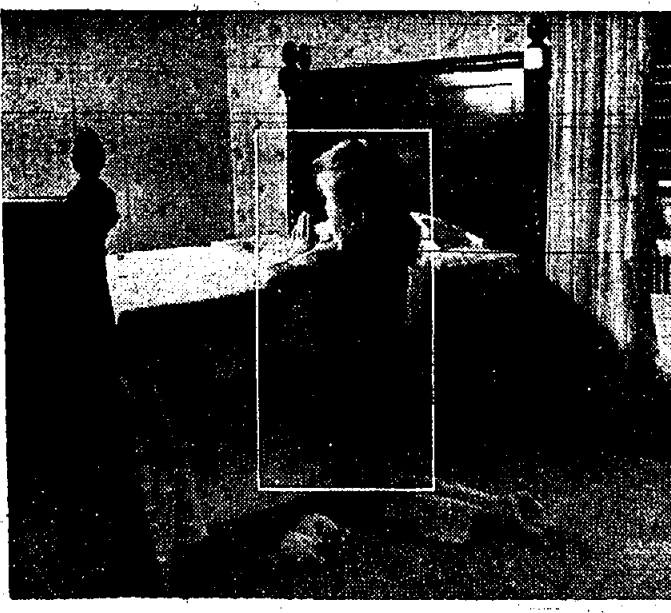

The following, all formerly serving members, have been reappointed by Commissioner Erdman: Sylvia G. Fletcher, Camden; G. Colburn Hardy, East Orange; William A. Stafford, Elizabeth; Christian H. Ziegler, Jersey City; Eugene E. Agger, New Brunswick; Fred G. Stetzel, Jr., Newark; and Dr. Emil Frankel, Trenton.

Attention Becomes Focused Through Proper Cropping

Very few published or salon photographs are made from the entire area of the original negative. Virtually any picture can be improved by cropping unless it happens to be a shot that was composed with care on the ground glass before exposure.

Cropping a picture serves many purposes. First, it can change the format of a picture, making it horizontal, vertical or square. Also, it can remove any unwanted details, unnoticed or unavoids at the time of shooting, which detract from the principal subject. Cropping can change the perspective entirely by apparently changing the camera's point of view or by removing lines which show the actual relation of the subject to foreground or background. It can also selectively emphasize details that were lost in the original scene.

Cropping a photograph is like editing a manuscript. It gives the artist a chance to focus attention more dramatically, to edit composition so that it fits the available space and often to change the whole emphasis of the picture. There are no set rules to work by other than the basic ones of composition. Experiment is the best method. The important thing is to crop tightly. Too many photographers are so fascinated by a picture they have made or so reluctant to discard a good portion of a negative that they don't crop nearly enough. Many experts on the other hand won't use film smaller than 4 x 5 because they plan on cropping away about half the area of each shot, and enlarging the remainder to the desired size, when they have more time to study composition.

Here's a New Type Portrait Easy and Pleasing to Make

The photographers of the Navy during the last war popularized a new kind of portrait, quick and easy to make and pleasing to look at. It was the old synchro-sunlight, reduced to a formula.

The idea is very simple. The face was lit with a photoflash bright enough that a correct exposure could be obtained while still underexposing the sky. Most of the portraits were shot upward, with the sky as a very pleasing background. It was easy to reduce the thing to a formula. The exposure outside, with a given flash bulb at a given shutter speed, is always the same. It is easy to set up a formula that will always work on a sunny day. For instance, with a Press 40 bulb, or any other bulb giving the same 40,000 lumens of light, the exposure at six feet with the bulb at f22 with a film rated at 32 ASA, in long-stay light. This exposure will, of course, give an underexposed sky. The bulb won't light the sky, and 1/300 second at f22 will give a dark sky with prominent clouds if there are any.

With the bulb three feet further from the subject, the diaphragm should be opened one stop. The sky exposure remains static, so we have a lighter sky. This does not mean necessarily that the camera must be moved back three feet. The flash alone on an extension can be moved, while the camera remains in the same position.

And so, moving the flash back to 12 feet, the diaphragm must be opened another stop, and the sky gets lighter again. At this point, we have a pretty normal looking sky.

Little Experimentation At the same time, if you don't have a flash extension—and still want a lighter sky with the flash on the camera at six feet, it is possible to use a smaller bulb. A little experimentation will give you just about the exposure you want to standardize on a sunny day. Using the same setup on a dull, overcast day with a dark sky, will, of course, give you a darker sky. If the day is dull enough, even though it is daylight, you may get a picture that looks as though it were taken in pitch blackness. The daylight was insufficient to record, while the photoflash provided all the light in the picture.

Let's get back the sunny day, when we certainly would rather be shooting. If you shoot with the sun beaming down onto the back of the subject's head, you get a halo effect, because the sunlight will still do of greater intensity than the flash bulb. Of the sun can strike the face from the side. Without the flash, either the other side would be deep, unpleasing shadow, or the sunlight side would be burned white and

Hunt Club Room Opens for College Crowds

PHOTOGRAPHED AT the Hunt Club Room during a farewell party before going back to college were the following Summits: Joy Karn, a student at Connecticut College for Women, John R. Decker, who is returning to Brown as a senior, Mrs. George R. Decker, Malcolm B. Decker, who returns to Dartmouth as a junior, and Norman W. Johnson from Brooklyn Massachusetts.

With the football season just around the corner, plans are being made for after-the-game rallies at the Hunt Club. The Hunt Club Room, Hotel Suburban's popular cocktail and supper room, which has been reopened for the season, offers particular appeal by its convenient location on the drive back from the Princeton games.

Open every day but Sunday, from noon until midnight, the Hunt Club menu will feature attractive Monday night specialties as a further service to patrons on the night many places are closed. The luncheon menus are being built to facilitate speed of service and enable business men and shoppers, who wish to be back on the hour, to enjoy a 40-minute luncheon. A large portion of the entrees from the main dining room will be available on the Hunt Club menu, entrees being selected which enable quick service, rather than those which have to be individually prepared and necessitate a wait.

A. B. Skarsten, the new banquet manager of Hotel Suburban, under whose personal direction the Hunt Club is operating, came to the organization two years ago as purchasing agent for the Suburban Hotel system. As an expert buyer and one who knows quality liquors and foods, Mr. Skarsten has been able to build a menu which offers the most for the least with luncheons from 85 cents and complete dinners for $2.00. A steak sandwich entree at $1.45, which included French fried onions, French fried potatoes, a green salad, and a beverage is proving a popular feature. The Hunt Club is wired for music by Summit's Remote Broadcasting Company and has a featured pianist Friday and Saturday nights.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay
"The Authority on Authorities"

WHY FAVOR BLACKWOOD?
There is one very simple reason why many first-rank players like to use the Blackwood slam convention, but never would employ the Culbertson 4-5 No Trump convention. It is because the latter gives the opponents too much information, announcing whether the declarer's side has all the aces or not. The Blackwood makes no such information. The maker of the 4-No Trumps bid under it tells nothing about his number of aces, but only asks how many his partner has. Hence the opponents can't tell how many the asker holds—except through estimating or guessing.

Lyric Opera Association Will Come to Mosque

Outstanding American singers and guest artists of the Metropolitan Opera will be presented by the Lyric Opera Association of New York when this organization offers two operas, Puccini's "Madame Butterfly" and Verdi's "Aida" at the Mosque Theater, Newark, the first on Monday evening, October 11 and the second on Sunday evening, October 17.

The Lyric Opera Association of New York will transport to the Mosque Theater its own chorus, corps de ballet, orchestra and a costly array of costumes, scenery and equipment.

"Madame Butterfly" will be presented with Eva De Luca as Cho-Cho-San and Eugene Conley as Pinkerton.

In Verdi's "Aida" Florence Kirk, prima donna of the Metropolitan Opera, will sing the title role. Carlo Moresco will conduct "Madame Butterfly" and Frieder Weissmann, well known Newark Orchestral director, will conduct "Aida." Anthony Stivanello will be in charge of the stage direction of both operas.

Current Impressions

BY REEVE STONE
A NEW VOICE FOR THE OLD: RALPH VAUGHAN-WILLIAMS

When thinking of English music, there are few composers who come to mind after the Tudor period. Musically, England is still resting on the laurels of the madrigalists, early keyboard masters, and the early church music of the time of Thomas Tallis. It is English music that has been heard to any great extent, and that which has been written by a handful of contemporary composers: Delius, Holst, Britten, Walton, and Vaughan-Williams. Of these, Britten and Vaughan-Williams seem to be the most important.

Now that it has happened, it seems perfectly obvious that someone like Ralph Vaughan-Williams should have come along and dressed up the early English musical forms and melodies for contemporary appeal. Examples of these are his "English Folk Songs," "Fantasia on a Theme by Tallis," and "First Norfolk Rhapsody," to mention only a few.

One of Vaughan-Williams' earliest works is the "Fantasia on a Theme by Thomas Tallis." For many years it has been one of the best known and highest regarded of English contemporary works. For this piece he took a melody by the early English master, Thomas Tallis, and composed a set of three variations on the theme, which he scored for double string orchestra, with four solo strings. It has much of the feeling of old church music, and the interpretation by the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra, Dimitri Mitropoulos, conductor, is impressive, comparing favorably with the other domestic and imported recordings of the same work. (Col. MX 300, 2-12")

A much older Columbia album than the "Fantasia" is that of Vaughan-Williams' suite "English Folk Songs." (Col. "X-159, 2-10") This delightful work was originally written for hand and was later transcribed for orchestra by Gordon Jacob, a student of Vaughan-Williams. The straightforward interpretation of the score by Howard Barlow and the Columbia Broadcasting Symphony manages to retain the folk flavor, in spite of this very much expanded orchestral form. This is not one of Vaughan-Williams' largest works, but it certainly affords pleasant listening for those who care for folk music.

It would be improper to think of Vaughan-Williams only as a new voice for the old, as most of his large works are comparatively free of the Tudor and folk song influence already discussed.

Of all contemporary music, it seems easiest to weed out that which is English by what seems to me to be the over-emphasis of string instruments with a monotony of orchestral color and lack of tempo and melody contrast. Delius and Bax are, perhaps, two of the easiest to spot for these reasons. There are exceptions, of course, with Holst and Britten two outstanding ones. Vaughan-Williams falls into what I consider these national traits frequently in his major works—particularly in his symphonies.

A recent recording of a "Concerto for Oboe and Strings," played by the Daniel Snidberg Little Symphony with Mitchell Miller, solo oboist, seems to be particularly free of these English pitfalls. This work is one of the very few compositions ever written for the oboe. Its interest, however, goes beyond that, as it shows the composer to be farther afield from his earlier works than we have previously seen in this country.

The concerto moves along at a pace which seems foreign to Vaughan-Williams, and to much English music. And while it emphasizes the strings, the music does not become bogged down as in the case of his symphonies, due mostly to the dance-like sections and the buoyant character of the studying the critics. There remain his greatest works, "The Castle," "The Trial," and his Diaries (just published in English by Schocken Books) for those who may wish to delve more deeply into the works of a man who has been called by many critics, the greatest writer of the 20th Century.

Extend Current Drama At Foothill

Coming at the closing weeks of a highly glamorous and successful summer season at Foothill Play House, the chiller-diller, "Night Must Fall" is the current attraction and is proving a fitting climax to a series of smash-hits.

James F. Hurley remembered best at Foothill for his role as the harassed and haunted husband of "Blithe Spirit," is featured in the central role of the hero-villain, "Danny," and gives the cash-out-tomers more than their share of thrills and chills with his interpretation of the bell-boy murderer. The others in the cast, also members of the Proscenium Players of Plainfield quit themselves equally creditably in their roles.

The exceedingly difficult and exacting role of the neurotic cottage-owner (and Danny's victim), which was created on Broadway by Dame May Whitty, is played by Annabelle Sandquist, remembered at Foothill as the spiritualist in last season's hit, "Blithe Spirit."

Other roles are taken by: Jean Bull as "Olivia"; Edward Fleischmann as her suitor, "Hubert"; Sue Dunn as the Irish cook; Audrey Morton as the Cockney maid; Joseph Greenwood as the Scotland Yard Inspector; and Bridget Greenwood as the district nurse.

"Night Must Fall" directed by Gertrude Paucett Hurley will continue through Saturday on an extended engagement to October 2.

Robert Sterling to Be Star In "Holiday" at Montclair

On Monday evening, September 27, the Montclair Theater will present one of the outstanding comedy successes of the New York theater when the noted film actor, Robert Sterling, will star in Philip Barry's "Holiday."

A delightful and brilliant comedy, "Holiday" is considered one of Philip Barry's most popular plays. When the management of the Montclair Theater decided to offer the production to its patrons, Albert H. Rosen, managing director of the Playhouse, made special arrangements to have the film star play the leading male role as part of the theater's established custom of presenting the leading stage and screen stars in notable Broadway plays.

Robert Sterling made his screen debut in the screen version of Miss Delmar's "Bad Girl" and his subsequent film appearances had him playing important roles opposite such noted screen actresses as Greer Garson in "Two Faces Woman," Lana Turner in "Somewhere, But Only in You," Claudette Colbert in "The Secret Heart," Esther Williams in "This Time for Keeps," Ann Sothern in "Ringside Mame," and Rita Hayworth in "Only Angels Have Wings."

The supporting cast of "Holiday" includes some of Broadway's most distinguished featured players.

Miss Susan Lyman, an expert on American history, has completed her assignment as technical advisor on "The Heiress," Paramount's drama of 1936, and is returning to New York.

Prior to going to Hollywood, Miss Lyman staged an exhibition at the Museum of the City of New York showing the 75-year history of the Bellevue School of Nursing. She is the author of "One Hundred New York Years," an authoritative history of the past century in Manhattan.

Olivia de Havilland, Ralph Richardson, Montgomery Clift, and Miriam Hopkins head the cast of "The Heiress," which William Wyler is directing and producing.

Company Dinner from the Two Burner

HEARTY AND DELICIOUS, THE STEW, which combines beef, tomatoes, onion, corn, carrots and macaroni to make a well-balanced main dish, is served on a platter, attractively garnished with parsley and wedges of tomato.

Many's the bride who'll be starting in housekeeping this fall with only a two-burner stove in a kitchenette for meal-getting. It's only the very fortunate young couple, these days, who move at once into a home of their own, with a complete kitchen to swing a saucepan in.

A smart trick for the gal with limited kitchen space is to get herself a few good porcelain enameled utensils, since these can be used for storing foods in the refrigerator as well as for cooking, which means she won't have to worry so much about places to keep them when she's not actually using them.

Let her select a minimum of items, choosing with care those which will serve several purposes. An efficient "starting set" of pots and pans will include frying pan, medium-sized double boiler, one or two quart saucepan with cover, covered sauce-pot and coffee maker. Those planning showers for prospective brides, take notice!

For ordinary routine, the kitchenette bride will find her two-burner stove does well enough. But when it comes to entertaining, as she'll proudly want to do in that new home of her own there's a little more of a problem.

Secret of success in turning out a company dinner on two burners is to plan a meal that can be cooked in no more than one or two utensils, counting on colorful salads and extra-special desserts to glamorize a meal with a plain main dish.

Here's a menu that's a good one for company use, because much of it can be prepared in advance leaving a minimum of last-minute preparation.

Planned to serve four, it offers apple juice as a starter, a meal-in-one dish stew, garden salad, hot rolls (bought), chocolate fluff pudding and coffee.

Now for the work schedule:—Have canned apple juice, and fresh vegetables for salad, chilling in the refrigerator. Start the stew about two hours before you plan on serving the meal.

STEW RECIPE: Heat 2 tbsp. shortening in sauce pot. Lightly brown 1 1/2 lb. stewing beef (cut into 3-in. cubes) in the fat. Add 1 c. water, 2 1/2 c. cooked tomatoes (No. 2 can), 1 1/2 tsp. salt, 1/4 tsp. pepper, 1/2 c. chopped onion and 1 bay leaf. Cover, bring to boil and cook over low heat for 1 1/2 hrs.

Add 1 1/2 c. whole kernel corn (15 oz. can), 1 c. diced carrots and 1 1/2 c. (4 oz.) uncooked elbow macaroni. Continue cooking over low heat about 30 min. longer. Serve, garnished with parsley and fresh tomato slices. Makes 4-6 servings.

While stew simmers, make the pudding.

CHOCOLATE FLUFF: Melt two squares (2 oz.) unsweetened chocolate in upper part of double boiler over hot water. Add 1/2 c. sweetened condensed milk (15 oz. can) and stir constantly for 5-10 min., until thick. Remove from over hot water and blend in 1/4 c. water and 1/4 tsp. salt. Cook for 5 min. Fold in 2 stiffly beaten egg whites. Place in pudding dishes to cool. Just before serving, garnish with nuts and whipped cream.

Set the table. Make the salad; chill. Measure water and coffee into coffee maker, set aside.

About 15 min. before serving time, heat rolls in top of double boiler; washed clean after making pudding over hot water and covered.

Pour apple juice, arrange individual salads, dish up stew and dinner is ready. Put coffee on one of the burners to perk while first part of meal is eaten.

Extend Engagement of Rasso at Sheraton
Organist Bob Rasso has had his engagement at the Sheraton Lounge extended for an additional four weeks by Douglas M. Boone, general manager of the Newark Sheraton-Hotel. When a Wall's A-Building

By HELEN GREGG GREEN

"A friend of mine, Gertrude Jellop, was quite disturbed. It seemed to her that her children's paternal grandparents, who had come to live in her home for a few months, were doing less than nothing to help build a lasting friendship between themselves and their grandchildren—seven-year-old Throck and four-year-old Janey. It appeared, rather, that a wall was being built between them. I mentioned this to a child-psychologist, who is a neighbor of ours."

"Probably, this apparent lack of which you speak," he replied, "is not intentional on the part of the grandparents. It is likely that they desire this companionship but are at a loss to know how to go about establishing it. They may have very little imagination, or, perhaps, mentally they have been traveling in a rut and find it difficult to start new ways of thinking. There are any number of possible explanations for their behavior—besides indifference."

Tips for Women Desiring Fashionable Lines

The high fashion woman, desiring the last word in fashionable lines, should see all types of bras before purchasing. She must decide among wired bras, plunging neckline types, uplifts, and definite separation styles in attaining a well-poled, firm bustline without undue accentuation.

For young girls the wired bras and bandeau are fashionable, while for women with fleshy shoulders or pendulous breast, bras with built-up lines are desirable. Long line bras provide an unbroken line under sleek fitting fashions. These bras have hooks to be fastened to the top of the girle.

To measure the bust, place the tape measure over the fullest part of the bust and around the broadest part of the back, being sure that the tape line is straight all the way around. Then determine what cup is needed: Cup A for small bust, C cup B for average bust, Cup C for slightly larger than average bust or medium full, and Cup D for large or full breasts.

A bra put on the wrong way fits improperly. Slip the straps over the shoulders; lean forward so that the breasts fall naturally into the cups; then hold the bra at the bottom, and slide both hands around to the back and then hook it. The whole effect of the uplift and supporting features are put to the best use when the bra is placed on the breast correctly.

Too much uplift is worse than none at all, and this is what occurs when shoulder straps are adjusted too tightly.

Do not fit a bra tightly to reduce the breasts, as it will ruin the appearance of the bustline and wreck the tissues if worn repeatedly.

If there are bulges around the arm pit, this is the sign that a larger cupped bra is needed. If a roll of flesh appears under the bra band, a long line bra is needed to capture the roll of flesh and hold it in place.

Fitting the bustline properly means enhancing the figure as is especially important with the new trend in fashion.

Your Suburban Garden

By Alexander Forbes

In springtime, when the urge to garden is strongest, we use every available minute to complete the thousand and one tasks which the warming sun and advancing spring season crowd upon us. Most of these garden efforts can be done only in the months of April and May but there are some which may be accomplished just as well in the fall months.

The remaining of an old lawn or the establishing of a new one is actually better when done in September or October than in the spring.

The setting out of many varieties of perennial flower plants is another garden stunt which can be taken care of now instead of in the busy spring months. There is still plenty of time before the ground freezes hard for the development of sufficient root growth.

Fall planting will give you a larger, better plant by flowering time next year. The only precaution necessary is to mulch the ground about the plant with coarse hardwood leaves or sell hay after it is frozen hard. This will keep it frozen in all winter and prevent the plant from heaving from the alternate freezes and thaws.

Plant Perennials This Fall
The question which naturally comes up is, Can all perennials be planted in the fall? Like most things in nature there are exceptions. A rule of thumb might be that it is safe to plan now all perennials which bloom in early spring or summer. But again, there are exceptions. Actually you should ascertain the needs of each plant variety. Go to a good perennial plant source and get first hand advice or better still buy potted perennials which are already established in liberal balls of soil. By so doing you will be quite sure of success and avoid the necessity of intimately knowing the plant requirements.

From now until winter the air will gradually become cooler than the soil. This will cause a cessation of the sap flow to the foliage. By this wise provision of nature all growing activity from then on will be centered in the development of the root system. As the foliage will naturally die back during the process do not use any fertilizer which is high in nitrogen as such would tend to induce and encourage fresh new green top growth which would be winter-killed. Plant the perennial that its crown is a little higher than the level of the border. If you plant it level with the border and it later settles, a pool will form about the crown when the snow melts. The freezing and thawing of this pool of water will injure and perhaps kill the crown.

Plan Now Where to Plant Tulips
As it will soon be time to plant tulip bulbs for next spring's bloom it would be wise to plan now where to locate them to best advantage.

To create the nicest effect in a garden border, use 8 or 12 bulbs or more of one color for each group. Space these at intervals where they will show their best. Remember that they come in many classes with different blooming dates and heights. Study your garden now for your needs. You can find a tulip variety which will fit admirably. And while you are about it plan for a few groups of difficult and plantings of the interesting smaller flowers like crocus, chionodoxa, snowdrops and grape hyacinths. Top quality, cream of the crop bulbs are in ample supply this fall and several new developments, particularly in tulips, are available.

FOR THE SHORT GIRL

You are short if you are 5 feet, three inches or less. You will want to wear lines that carry the eye up and down, giving a longer over-all effect. Choose softness in line and detail. Avoid bold prints, dramatic or mannish clothes which tend to overburden your figure.

STAYS CLEANER

The smoother and glossier the fabric, the less tendency it has to soil. In general, when resistance to soil is important, choose a smooth-weave rather than one with surface interest.

An inch of fine pleating adds three lines of great elegance to any skirt.
