Indignation over this newspaper's suggestion that a wing be erected on the Free Public Library as a war memorial instead of a monument was expressed in the town hall last week by a man who, surprising as it may seem, favors the idea but places it in an impossible category . . . "You have no right butting into our business," he told this writer . . . "People in this town; are cheap, we've tried to do plenty for the kids but we never got to first base and things are no different now than they ever were" ...

These Wednesday night meetings in the town hall are worth more than the price of admission to the best Broadway show . . . the actors, of course, are unrehearsed, they're your public officials and they spend your money . . . wouldn't hurt once in a while to drop in and see the

Crooks Net $3.800 In Local Robbery

Investigation was being continued today by police in connection with the theft Sunday night or early Monday morning of $3,800 worth of merchandise from the Geljack Brothers Jewelry Store, 241 Morris avenue. It was said to have been the biggest single haul in the history of this community.

Entrance to the establishment was made by gouging the rear door frame around two bolts. An insuccessful attempt was made to get through a rear window, but the thieves apparently gave up the inside. The robbery was not covered by insurance.

A list of the missing merchandise includes: 22 pocket cigarette ighters, three table lighters, Waterman pen and pencil sets, 13 pen and pencil sets, two electric Citizens League razors, seven pearl necklaces, 200 watch bands, 24 neck chains, 40 wallets, five brooches, 16 compacts, 38 bracelets, 12 gold-capped pens, five sets of earrings, 19 girls' rings and three baby sets. John Geljack, who is proprietor.

of the business with his brother, William, and lives over the store, discovered the theft when opened for business at 8:15 a. m. Monday.

John, who spent all Sunday night in the apartment, said he thought he heard noises that evening but believed they came from adjoining apartments. He visited the store Sunday afternoon to check watches left for timing and such as Citizens' Party or Indefound nothing wrong.

The retention of a cost of living bonus was approved, although it was pointed out that the price index is admittedly on the way down. Regarding the proposed police and fire salaries, it was shown that these would be higher than most Essex and Union County communities of equal or somewhat larger size. A tax rate of $6.33, an increase of 39 points over last year, is now virtually assured. Principal point of argument last night was the $500 increase for police and firemen and for which police have agreed to continue to work their present 48-hour week. A letter from the citizens League urged careful consideration of the budget and recommended that the wage increase item be submitted to the voters. "Since the people have to pay, let the people have their say," the letter declared. Louis W. Pignolet, member of the league, said he wanted to make it clear the group was not opposing the salary increases but simply wanted the taxpaying public to have its say at the polls. Pignolet's statement following a engthy talk by Herbert A. Kuvin. former township attorney, who Kuvin, who sald he was speaking as a taxpayer and "not on that political springboard," asserted poplice are the perennial targets for reductions in the tax rate., "I've heard lots of griping," he said, about parents requiring protection for their children on their way to and from school. I know what it means to have a child killed in an accident and all one has to see are those special cops hired for school duty around here. They certainly wouldn't be there if we had enough_regular_policemen=in_this town."—Kuvin continued: "I don't think there is one taxpayer who would object to paying 50-cents per month to safeguard children. You don't get protection for nothing. And just in case you did not know it, every policeman in Springfield is a citizen, a home owner, a family man and a taxpayer. They give you dollar for dollar in service and L believe they should be commended for their proficiency in the use of sidearms, As a taxpayer and not as a politiciam I ask you to give the police

It Is Your Red Cross

For 67 years the American Red Cross has meant sympathy, compassion, and help in time of need to the people of the United States and of the world. During that span of time it has become a vital part of American life-a powerful symbol in this country of man's humanity to man, of his universal compulsion to aid the suffering and the distressed.

The Red Cross is not a thing apart, but an essential section of the fabric of America. It is as truly of and by and for the American people as our government itself.

The broad activities of the Red Cross-for disaster victims, on behalf of members of the armed forces and veterans, with the hospitalized-in teaching safety and health to hundreds of thousands of people—and through the Junior Red Cross-are dependent upon the volunteer efforts of the millions of men, women, and children who make up its member-

Its ability to help, instantly and effectively, the family across the street, or across the nation, or across the sea, is founded in the broad network of Red Cross chapters which reaches into every community in the United States. And it unfortunately left my glasses in the exists only to serve, to do what you would do if you were on

In truth, the American Red Cross is your agent for the complicated task of meeting human need wherever it exists in this modern world. That is a heavy responsibility. Each individual American must bear his share of it.

SUPPORT RED CROSS

The days of February 25, 26 an 27 have been set aside for our 1949 Red Cross Fund Campaign. On one of these days your neighbor will call on you and ask for your contribution. Give, and give gener ously. The goal for your Springfield Chapter is $2,410, of which 62 per ent will remain with the local chapter to carry on with the many services made available to everyone in town. The remaining 38 per ent will be forwarded to the National Red Crose to be used for disasters, the armed forces, blood John Kisch, Billy Franklin, Donald program and other nationwide activities. Any amounts received over and above the set quota will be used for our local programs.

Your Red Cross Chapter is expared to act in any emergency. It ors for their clever work in makstands ready to assist you and me at anytime. I urge you to lend your whole-hearted financial support so that you chapter can maintain its home services to you. Remember, that when you contribute, you are not giving to the Red Cross, but rather through the Red Cross to your fellow man. KENNETH NORRIS, Jr.

Explorers Find Service Yields Its Own Reward

A study of those who are giving such service in Springfield indicates that rewards do follow, but that the individuals get most of their return from the satisfaction that accompanies the giving.

This week's Trophy Room carrics reports of a man and a boy. both of whom are giving maximum service to the community. and both of whom are satisfied with the rewards-tangible or intangible-which they receive.

There also is the account of a school teacher who takes a "postman's holiday" on week-ends and evenings, who also appears satisfled with the return on her investnent of time in service to others. The Trophy Room

Trophy No. 20: A Personal Trophy (submitted by a Springfield Dad)-There is a youth who delivers Sunday papers in Springfield who refutes the oft-repeated charge that young people are heedless. Although he gets up early on Sunday mornings (in order that this home-teaching aid is working personnel grown-ups may have a paper to read at the breekingt table) he apparently realizes that some people like to sleep leter on that day. He takes pains not to disturb them.

A Springfield Dad, who also gets up early on Sunday, watched this newsboy's, performance one Sabbath and believes it worth noticing by other young people and their parents. The boy delivers a Newark Sunday paper. He carries them in a basket on his bleycle. As he goes down the street, making his-deliveries, he carries each paper, open, up the steps of each house. Where there is an enclosed perch, he opens the door carefully, puts the paper inside, and closes the door without slamming it. His aim is to keep the paper undamaged, to protect it from the weather if possible, and not to disturb slumbering residents.

Questioning of this paper boy by Springfield mother reveals that he knows it takes twice as long to cover his route in this fashion, but that he also knows people appreclate it. That appreciation is shown in the "tips" he receives which often amount to more than his profit on the papers. He never wordes about collections, but tells how a substitute one week lost two customers for him by failing to give the usual service. "But," he relates, "I got them back again," Is he your newsboy?

YOUR LIBRARY

"Brotherhood is the giving to others the rights and respect we want for ourselves." Brotherhood Week is almost over but the opportunity and the need to practice that it stands for go on from year to year. A list of books that may help everyone to understand the beliefs, hopes and problems of other peoples may be found at your library. It includes such titles as "The Gauntlet" by James Street, "Lights Out" by Bayard Kendrick, 'One Nation" by Wallace Stegner, The World, the Flesh and Father Smith" by Bruce Marshall, "Abundant Living" by E. Stanley Jones and "On Being a Real Person" by Harry Emerson Fosdick. Among the new books of interest to all ages is "Honor Your Partner" by Ed Durlacher. It contains 81 American Square, Circle and Contra Dances with music and instructions. This may teach the young people a few untried figures and-brick back pleasant memories to the older generation.

"The Greatest Story Ever Told" by Fulton Oursier and "England to Me," another example of Emily Hahn's wit and frankness, are two new books in great demand. Other new titles cover a wide range from "All the Best in Scandinavia" by Sydney Clark to "The '49ers" by Evelyn Wells and Harry C. Peterson, and including The Parson Takes a Wife" by Maria Sheerin, "The Gaudy Century" by John Bruce and "Flower Arrangement for Everyone" by Dorothy Biddle and Dorothea Blom.

The new fiction lists "Elephant and Castle" by R. C. Hutchinson -"The Fires of Spring" by James A. Michener-"Oh Glittering Promse" by Anne Fisher-"The Golden Salamander" by Victor Canning-'Family Trouble' by William Mc-Fee and two volumes of short stories-"The Man Who Invented Sin" by Sean-O'Faolain and "39 Stories" by Graham Greene.

A DEEP lot, pleasantly shaded, bordered by a real brook; on a quiet street—80 convenient to—station and just a nice walk to Franklin School—good neighbors, too. Oh yes—the "house, it's a 1946 colonial; only 6 rooms, but 2 bedrooms will take twin beds. There's a sleeping porch too. The kitchen is a honey, cheerful, lots of cabinets and plenty of room for "hurry-up" meals. The lavatory is in just the right place. The oil is cheap because the house is built right, $19,800.

was held at the Methodist Church on Tuesday, February 15. There was a very good attendance. The topic reviewed was Troop Government, which is so necessary to the KINDERGARTEN new leaders. The next meeting will be on March 3 at the Methodist Church. Those who care to attend are cordially invited to do so. TROOP ACTIVITIES Troop 2-These Scouts had-a ocial meeting of refreshments and games and promised us some news soon about the first aid course they are planning to take. Troop 4-This troop also had ocial meeting. They did finish their bracelets and are now ready to start a new project. At the next meeting two new Brownles are to be invested into the troop; they are. Rita Blomberg and Alice Huber. This is a very impressive ceremony and the girls' mothers will be invited to attend. Troop 5-The only news we have for this troop is the announcement by Mrs. Alvester Parker that they are to have a new leader. Miss Eleanor Walker, Mrs. Parker will stay on to assist the new Troop 7-This troop has been making bracelets from plastic craft strips which they have been weaving on steel. After only three meetings they are finished and they have done a remarkably good ich. The girls are planning a trip to the Best Pencil Factory and the leaders are trying to arrange this for the near future.

Troop 8-This troop has finished their bead-project and now are busy with plans for their approaching Fly-up Ceremony.

Troops 9 and 12-These Brownies had a combined meeting as the eaders of Troop 12, Mrs. C. Wyckoff and Mrs. M. Pringle were both ill. Mrs. Thompson, very capably handled both troops by keeping them engrossed in playing games. However, they did write letters to Holland for Thinking Day which was February 22 and some of the Brownles sewed cards for Washngton's Birthday.

Troop 14-The meeting place of this troop has been changed from the James Caldwell School to the Methodist Church; same time, 2:45 p. m. on Thursdays.

Troop 3-Mrs. Jahn, Mrs. Lindauer, Mrs. Andrews, Miss Elia Mae Jahn and Jane Bolles attended the Girl and Boy Scout Minstrel on Monday evening, February 21, at St. Michael's School Hall in Elizabeth. They reported having a delightful evening and that the Moffet Minstrel was excellent. This troop is planning its own minstrel on Friday evening, May 20, at the Raymond Chisholm School, Details will be announced at a later date.

"If they're old enough to fight, they're old enough to vote," was often heard during the war years. One state, Georgia, with this in mind, has aiready adopted a law that permits 18 year olds Many high school teachers and principals, aware of the ever increasing growth in the percentage of nonvoters in recent years, bewall the 3 year time lag between high school graduation (average age 18) and voting ege-21. (Last week's New Jersey Poll report revealed that more than one out of every three adults in New Jersey (35 per cent) didn't vote.)

Educators argue-with some justlfication-that they spend much time and effort in civies, history, and English classes in stressing that Democracy works best if every citizen uses his voting privilege; and that their work in the schools along these lines is frequently undone because of the three year waiting period between high school graduation and voting

An analysis of the findings by population segments reveals an interesting pattern.

Young adults between 21 and 29 -the community leaders of tomorrow-are somewhat more favorably impressed with the idea of permitting 18 year olds to vote than are older people. People over 45, who comprise almost half the adult population in the state (44 per cent), look with less favor on letting younger people vote.

"Would you favor or oppose re-ducing the age at which American

School Children To Get Federal Orange Juice

School children of New Jersey will receive about 133,000 gallons-oforange juice during the current school year from supplies provided by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, according to the New Jersey Department of Conservation and Economia Development.

The allocation is New Jersey's share of total Northeast distribulion since last July 1 of more than one million gailons of concentrated juice purchased under Federal programs.

Under the federal-State program. food is made available to suppleschools in New Jersey and in private schools of secondary grade or under, providing the schools are not operated for profit. State, county, municipal and private welfare institutions also receive monthly allotments of available loods through the State agency.

The supplies of orange juice being distributed in this region were purchased under Section 6 of the National School Lunch Act, which provides for direct purchase and distribution of some foods by the Production and Marketing Administration of U.S.D.A. to supplement purchases made by state and local school lunch administrators.

The juice is delivered to schools Teoncentrated forms, canned. The addition of water in a sevento-one ratio preduces the recorstituted product equal in nutrients to natural orange juice.

The distribution-of-eitrus-juloo to school children of the State Is a valuable_nutritional supplement. since surveys show that children's diets throughout the nation are generally deficient in vitamin C, and properly-stored orange juice is rich in this important nutrient.

One Room Is Made Into Small Home

Many a family home in recent years, has, to its own surprise, found itself suddenly having to expand in a way it never dreamed it could to accommodate sone, daughters or relatives who would otherwise be

Attics, even basements, have been turned into attractively livable apartments, and all kinds of other space has been found to be convertible into practical living quar-

Sometimes, just one room can be made available to an extra person or persons, and then, if each individual family unit wishes at least a reasonable degree of privacy, bedroom must double as living room, or living room must be turned into eleeping room at bedtime, according to how-you-think of the arrangement.

If this happens to be the situation, there are things the home owner who is handy with tools can do to make everybody happier.

He might, for example, do as wes done in the double-duty room shown here; that is, build in narrow bookcases at one end of the room so that an alcove is formed, then install folding screens that shut off that end of the room into - bed alcove just deep enough to accommodate the length of the bed. A fairly elaborate job has been done in the room pictured, with a lavatory dressing table and toilet, like those in a Pullman roomette built in at one side of the bed alcove and a large wardrobe with sliding doors on the opposite side. The combination bed headboard and twin night tables was built to order in this instance, but similar pieces are now available in many large stores that handle unpainted furniture and the like.

Federal Help Asked For Free Libraries

When Sen. George Alken (R.-Vt.) was a boy, he walked six miles twice a week to the nearest library. Last fortnight he walked 600 yards to drop a bill in the Senate hopper. Its purpose: to supply Federal aid to the states to promote free library service, reports Pathfinder news magazine.

If it passes, the bill, which is sponsored jointly by Sens. Aiken, Lister Hill (D.-Ala.) and Paul Douglas (D.-Ill.), will test the appetite for libraries of some 35,000,-000 Americans who do not now have access to them.

To each state would go a grant of $40,000 a year for five years to set up demonstrations of free library service in areas where there are too few libraries, or none at all. State library agencies would administer the program, "There will be no control or interference from the Federal Government," promisès Alken.

Modern door-yard gardens are as simple as possible in design, in order to center attention upon the beauty of the flowers. These are grouped in masses of one color, so arranged that each mass harmonizes with and sets off the others, and all provide a pleasing decoration for the house. For these beds, annual flowers of low, compact growth are most suitable subjects. They will flower without ceasing from July until freezing weather, even in the northern states, and are easily grown from seed, when started early under protection, or in the garden itself as soon as the weather permits.

Such a bed, for example is a imple arrangement of border plantings for a small house where the walk leads from the private driveway to the front door, Both house and lot will be made to seem larger by this arrangement. Bright red, or pink salvias, and the clear vivid red, pink, blue and buff verbenas will provide a brilliant decoration for a white, or grey house Both salvia and verbenas are slow growing, and seed should be started early in a hot-bed or greenhouse, so that plants of good size can be set out as soon as danger of frost is over. If seed is sown directly in the garden, flowers may be delayed two or three weeks Sweet alyssum, however, will grow quickly from seed and either a lwarf white variety, or the dark purple Violet Queen Alyssum may be used. If the plants are sheared when they grow too tall, flowers will be increased, and a low growing border constantly maintained

Pruning of grapevines should e done as soon as possible now. With the warm weather we have been having, it may be that pruning even as early as this may result in running of watery sap, Howover, it is very seldom that the flow of this kind of sap will result in harm to the plant, because it is nainly water.

Mastering Tricks for Perfect Custard

Most families are fond of baked custards. But not every home-maker is certain that every time she makes them they'll turn out to be perfect. Sometimes they come out exactly right. Other times, they may be a bit on the watery or even curdled side, and many cook gets the idea that they're temperamental things, of which you never can be sure.

According to the experts, how ever, making the perfect baked custard is simply a matter of mastering the knack of a few easy

Here they are - and good luck with your next custard-making venture!

1. Be sure to use sweet, fresh nilk. Custards made of slightly sour milk ourdle readily during heating.

2. Go easy on the sugar. Too much sugar raises the setting temperature so high that curdling re sults before custard sets.

3. Beat eggs just enough to mix yolks with whites. Overbeating adds too much air to custard mixture, which makes custard porous produces a foam on top and in creases baking time.

will cut down baking time conalderably. Add it slowly to the eggs, however, while stirring, so hat no curdling or uneven cookng of eggs occurs.

b. Butter cups or casserole lightly. If given too thick a coating of outter, custard becomes porous on ilde and bottom surfaces. Buttered baking dishes make it easier to unmold custards.

6. Bake custards in one-inch bot vater bath, and use hot, not bollng water for it. If water is too hot when poured around custard, it will become porous on side and bottom surfaces. The one-inch bath with hot, not boiling water, tends to slow down the rate of cooking from underneath just enough to give a uniformly smooth custard.

7. Bake custards at low temeratures and just until done. If baked too long, or at too high temperature, they become tough, orous, curdle or "weep." And here's a Master Recipe for he Perfect Custard, to serve six: Scald 21/2 c. milk with 1/2 tsp. salt and 1/3 c. sugar (if used as dessert. If making a cheese, corn or other main dish custard, omit sugar, increase salt to % tsp. and add ¼ tsp. pepper). Beat 4 eggs just enough to mix yolks with whites; slowly stir in scalding hot milk, blending well. Add desired flavoring-1 tsp, vanilla for plain lessert-and mix well. Pour into lightly buttered custard cups or 1% qt. casserole.

Place in baking pan about 2 or 214 in. deep. Put In oven, preheated to 300F; and pour hot water around cups or casserole to depth of I in. Bake until a sharp-pointed knife inserted into center comes out clean-about 30 min. for cups and about 1 hr. for pessorole.

To prevent overbaking, start testing for doneness shortly before baking time is up. As soon as custard is baked, remove from water bath. Serve hot or cold.

Reflex Has Advantages For Amateur

By T. T. HOLDEN

When selecting a new camera amateurs should give particular thought to the many advantages of the reflex types, particularly for such rk as photographing pets and children, sports pictures and pictorial acenes. -

The first important feature of a reflex camera is the ground glass screen which shows you the subject right side up and the same size if will appear on film. This enables you to compose your picture exactly as you want it and know how everything will look before you press the shutter release.

No rangefinder or measuring device is necessary to focus a reflex camera. You see on the ground glass exactly what is in focus and what blurred. While a rangefinder only sights a small portion of the picture, the ground glass gives you an opportunity to study the entire subject for sharpness.

Various Angles

'If you study any large collection of outstanding pictures, you will find that relatively few of them are made from human eye-level position. When you are shooting small children or animals, you have to get down to their level. Action pictures usually look more exciting when shot from a very low angle. Almost any subject can be improved by photographing it from a somewhat different aspect than it is usually seen by eye.

Because you look down into a reflex camera, your pictures, will have a lower angle of view automatically. And, no matter how low an angle you may be after a reflex camera can be operated comfortably, even on the ground. If occasionally you have to shoot over a to the camera's versatility and ease

These cameras break down into two types: the single lens, which uses the same lens for viewing and photographing, and the twin-lens which has a separate optical system for composing the picture and for taking it. The principal advantage of the twin-lens is the fact that you can view the subject right through the exposure period. On the other hand, the single lens principle offers s number of unique features that add

> Many single lens reflexes permit interchanging of lenses. The cost of matched sets of lenses for variour focal lengths would be prohibitive for the twin-lens models. Most of the better single lens cameras have a focal plane shutter, noted for accuracy through an extremely broad range of speeds. This obviites the need to buy separate shutters for each auxiliary lens.

The better quality single lens cameras offer another important advantage in revolving back which enables you to make horizontal or vertical pictures with the camera held in proper viewing position. Most twin-lens reflexes ignore this problem by making a square picture. At first this seems like a good solution until you realize that photographers instinctively compose almost all pictures with one longer dimension. This means that the twin-lens user seldom utilizes more than two-thirds of the total negative area, thereby limiting himself to an extremely small image.

A final small, but important point. Most twin-lens cameras use roll film, with its attendant advantages as well as disadvantages. The more popular single lens cameras take cut film and film packs, enabling the photographer to switch emulsions at will with no waste and to develop as few or as many shots at any time as he

*Why we are known as TELEVISION HEADQUARTERS

Even before the war, Millburn's Marks Brothers pioneered in the sale and installation of television. They realized then that installation and service were equally important with exhaustive analysis of manufactured sets to determine which they could recommend to their customers. Choosing their men carefully, they have built up an installation and service organization of 16 men, all specially trained not only in the Radio Sales Corp. shops, but also in factory and other schools. Manning a fleet of 6 trucks, these men form one of the big reasons why Radio Sales Corp. is now one of the largest television dealers in the state. We invite you to inspect the models in daily operation in our comfortable Television Theatre.

Current Impressions

By REEVE STONE

ALL RUSSIAN PROGRAM Last Thursday Stravinsky Day at the Mosque went by without any mark of distinction except for the appearance of Igor and Soulima Stravinsky.

Before a well-packed house, Igor Stravinsky first led the Boston Frenchmen: Francols Couperin Symphony Orchestra through with Maurice Ravel and Jean Coc-Glinka's Overture to "Russian and teau with Darius Milhaud. Ludmilla." For me, the spirited reading of this not overly impressive score was the highlight of the haud's "Nothing Doing Bar." The evening. The soaring melody spirit of the two pieces presented against a background of steady on this one disc are completely and demanding rhythm made this opposite. The Ravel work looks familiar work a fairly easy pill to back on the days of Francois Couswallow—but, not so with the perin and by the use of the 18th Tschalkowsky piece that followed.

Tschalkowsky's Second Sym- is presented with a 20th Century phony is not by the maudlin interpretation of the prelude, forbut by the younger, over-dramatic which Couperin used skillfully. Tschaikowsky. A fragile opus, the work was held together only by Stravinsky's skillful conducting and the expert playing of the large string section and the French

After the intermission, Soulima Stravinsky appeared on stage with | rhythms, this piece is as obvious his father and, as the man said as the Ravel one is subtle and dellwho sat in back of me, "They cert cate, tainly look as much alike as two Originally written by Milhaud in peas in a pod." They joined forces in the elder's Capriccio for Orchestra with Piano Solo. A minor Stravinsky work, it gave little opportunity for the young planist to display his abilities. The persus-sive Capriccio has never impressed me favorably and last Thursday's rendition was no exception.

The balance of the program consisted of Swan Lakeish and Nutcrackerish themes tossed around to make what Stravinsky calls "The bunch of shameless ditties escaped Fairy's Kiss." On first hearing, the piece is vaguely entertaining in spots, but once is enough. Even a strong stomach squirms more and more as the four movements proceed to the final notes.

One of the most prolific composers of our day, this one time bad-boy-of-music is becoming accepted by the musical public to a far greater degree than was probably ever expected. It is understandable that all of his works can not be on a par with his best. We the jazz idiom (before Mr. Gershcan regret, however, that Thursday's program presented us with the poorest of his creations. It would be a mistake to consider the rollicking 'Nothing Doing Dan' as typical of the bulk of his work. Other sides are seen in the domestic recordings of his "Suite Provencale" which he says is based or "popular folk airs from the Prov once of the Eighteenth Century" "Creation of the World," one of the first pieces of-music-to-use win, incidentally); and his Incldental Music to "L'Orestie."

Solution To Last Week's Puzzle

Pictures, Plays and People

Review of the Week: For those interested in observing the female in highly energetic pursuit of the male animal we recommend, "Every Girl Should Be Married." It's the story of how girl trapped boy.

the invasion of Europe than does Betsy Drake in her offensive to capture bachelor baby doctor, Cary Grant in this entertaining film. Miss Drake it seems has only one intention in life, namely, to get human drama it is, and with conmarried and have a home of her own. We presume this is characteristic of the female gender. However, we are equally sure that few have gone to the extremes managed by Miss Drake in the hour and some odd minutes of this film, Mr. Grant, the unwilling object of Anabel Sims' (Betsy Drake) intentions, obviously from the very beginning doesn't stand a chance, An account of the whole shenanigans would be entirely too involved to place on paper. But they included, among other things, a complete itemizing of Mr. Grant's past" history, likes, dislikes and causes for defeat of past attempts upon his bachelorhood.

They also involved complicated connections with Miss Drake's wolfish employer, Franchot Tone, and a stand in for "Old-Joe," an maginary boy friend from her nome town. By means of these and other wild gyrations she succeeds in landing her fish to the complete satisfaction of both par-

Through it all Miss Drake manages to make an entertaining role from one which might just as well have been downright silly.

It's well possible that this young actress might take nicely to more dramatic roles in the future.

Another film of entirely different temper and quality also appealed to us last week. This one called, "Night Wind," rested its judgment with us on the performance of a boy and his dog, with no thanks to plot or supporting roles. The dog, incidentally, a discharged and decorated war voteran, turns in the finest performance of the lot. The story is a typical Grade B melodrama with stereotyped villains and heroes, but it's the formula, boy and his dog, which gave this film an appealing quality. We wouldn't recommend a special trip to the theatre to see this film, but as a second feature, some, at least, might find it enjoyable. On the air a short time ago we heard a commentator who, felt, came reasonably close to ascertaining a true judgment of the majority-of-Hollywood offerings. The films, he said, do not present to their greatest public, the teen-agers, a true picture of life, in particular, marriage,

Marriage, this spokesman claimed, is a mighty drama, beginning with the nuptial vows, ever changing, full of subtleties, numen passion, boredom and toy. Quite on the contrary, he stated,

Hollywood has its own stock conwomen with paper half and a po- ception of marriage and presents this over and over in a few stock patterns. For example, hero and heroine kiss, decide they are in love, get married. A few years later perhaps a falling out, then reconciliation, usually the result of a coincidental meeting. That,

Without this device when clubs is the agreed suit you can't take a chance on bidding four no trump with only one ace in your hand, because if partner responds five diamonds, showing one ace you will be forced to bid six clubs with two aces out against you Hence the necessity for the arthficial bid of five hearts. The convention is to bid five of the lowest unbld suit when partner's response to the four no trump call shows you do not have enough aces to bid slam. Since this call forces partner to bid five no trump regardless of his distribution, you must be prepared to play the hand at that contract.

3. One heart. When you hold three, hiddeble suits, each four cards in length, your opening bid should be in the suit which ranks just under the singleton. If the singleton is a club, bid one spade. On the second round of bidding, bid the higher of the other two suits. If the bidding goes around again you may bid the third suit if it seems advisable.

Today's hand is unusual in that declaror was assured of the con tract as early as the sixth trick by means of an end-play. Cover up the East-West cards with your thumbs, study the bldding, consider the opening lead, and whether you can do as well as Dave Gibson of Millburn did when

'So Dear to My Heart" At Proctor's Newark

Walt Disney's "So Dear to My Heart" in Technicolor and "Station West" is now at RKO Proctor's Theater.

While the direct story of Walt Disney's "So Dear to My Heart" is told in live action, there is also the traditional Disney cartoon animation and a score of musical num bers to embellish the romantic narrative. Featured in the production are Bobby Driscoll, Burl Ives, Beulah Bondi and Luana Patton.

One man's fight against heavy odds forms the basis of "Station West" RKO Radio's exciting new film of the Army and a bandit gang in Wyoming in the 'eighties. Dick Powell and Jane Greer are costarred in the fast-paced romantic drama, with Powell as an Army major in disguise and Miss Green as the lovely but ruthless owner of a big gambling hall and the leader of an outlaw band.

herself. Doubtless the scenes enacted on the sound stages would have provoked polite but firm objections from Miss Post had she visited the set. For there in plain view of the cameras, Kelly, Heflin, Wynn and the others indulged a number of eating habits which are definitely taboo in proper circles today. But Miss Post need not have been shocked at the sight of the men using their Hands to eat their food, or sopping up soup with chunks of bread, or drinking wine and water out of a sort of round robin cup. It all was done according to the precise rules established by her forerunners in the field of etiquette. When a portion of food is lifted from the serving dish to the plate, it is accomplished with three fingers only. In raising a hunk of meat from the plate to the mouth, one hand. and one hand only, is used. That is the way the research department discovered it should be done and that is why Director George Sidney and Producer Pandro S. Berman, both sticklers for real-

George Turk hesn't verified it, but we're receiving lots of phone calls which indicate he will no run for re-election ... Our guess is he will, unless he's convinced that he won't be returned . . . Turk's excuse may be that in view of the fact he's a freeholder candidate he cannot scatter his shot in two directions.

The strangest things happen to Springrielders . . . take the case of Joseph Heimbuch, of 26 Mapes avenue . . . he wie driving down Route 29 one night last week when smoke came pouring from beneath his car . . . he stopped quickly and someone summoned firemen, who found a mattress tightly wedged under the ear, and set affre, apparently by the exhaust pipe . . . Heimbuch said he didn't know how the mattress got there!!

Red Cross Drive In Springfield Goes Over Top

Springfield Chapter, Amer can Red Cross, continued to receive congratulations from all parts of the state today for again being the first unit in New Jersey to exceed its roll call quota. The local drive, which took place on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, was led this year by Kenneth H. Norris, Jr., general chairman.

Mrs. Elizabeth R. Hyer, general Red Cross field representative in central New Jersey, lauded the Springfield chapter for having "an extremely excellent fund organ-

The Federal Government has abandoned plans for the Pencil Company, Springfield, take over operation of Springfield's erection of a post office on the municipal green in the rear was named president of the new ambulance met Tuesday night of the town hall, according to an announcement today by Chamber of Commerce by un- in the town hall. Plans were made Postmaster Otto Heinz. At the same time Heinz said the for the organization of the unit postal department had approved a bid for erection of a building to be used as a post office at 326 Morris avenue, opposite Salter street, and bounded by Morrison road.

Lease on the present post office in the Lyons Building in Morris will not be renewed. The premmonthly meeting Monday night of ises will continue to be occupied, The group is desirous of obtain- the Springfield PTA to hear the however, Heinz said, under a month to month arrangement until the new building is completed. Springfield's new post office building, which will be modeled after Union's sub-station in Chestnut street, that township, will he erected by Renato Glardano, owner chairman, reminded parents to of the property occupied by Gitler's Gulf Service Station. The land is directly in the rear of the station. According to Heinz, the new structure will be 32 feet wide and 81 feet in length. It will have 2,632 square feet of floor space and size of present quarters. Giordano's bid to erect the buildcation chairman, announced that I ing was approved this week and notice of the acceptance was forwarded to Heinz yesterday by the Fourth Assistant Postmaster General. Giordano is vacationing in Florida and could not be contacted concerning additional plans for Bentz, and followed with a group the building, but Heinz indicated work on plans and specifications: probably would start immediately: The government has agreed to lease the new property for a 10vear period.

Heinz said plane for a government-erected post office were abandoned because of lack of funds. A 10-year battle by Heinz to have the township donate the municipal green as a post office site was finally successful last year by a five-vote margin by public referendum. Had the land been donated sooner, Springfield probably would have a beautiful post office of its own today. Heinz declared.

Present postal facilities have been declared inadequate. Originally it was expected that erection of a post office on the municipal green would inevitably lead Arthur W. Herrigel, president of to the development of the business the Glee Club, said the men were area toward that secttion. The
