The wedding of Barbara Rose, Church daughter of Mr. Ernest A. Ulrich of 225 Sport Hills avenue, to C. James Saffery, son of Mr. Charles H. Saffery of 161 West avenue, South Orange, formerly of Springfield, was held on September 19 at Saint Teresa's Roman Catholic Church in Summit. The Reverend James Coyne, St. Rose of Lima, Short Hills, officiated at the ceremony after which a reception was held at the bride's home.

The bride wore a gown of nylon tulle over tulle, with a illusion neckline, puffed sleeves and bouffant skirt. Her fingertip veil was of Brussels princess lace. She carried a corsage bouquet of gardenias and pink sweet-heart roses. Mrs. Mary Ann Ulrich, sister of the bride was maid of honor. She wore a gown of mint green bengaline with a jacket trimmed with bands of silk at the neckline and sleeves. She carried a corsage of crimson gladioli and pale-pink shattered carnations. Mrs. Allen D. Wright of Plainfield and Mrs. Shirley A. Mullin of Mount Airy were bridesmaids. Ernie K. Saffery, brother of the groom, was best man. The ceremony was held at 12:30 p. m. The guests were Thomas S. Hill, Richard C. Schroeder, all of Springfield, and John J. Rutscher of Berkeley Heights.

The couple are both graduates of Regional High School. Mrs. Saffery attended Berkeley Secretarial School, East Orange, and Mr. Saffery attended Princeton University for three years and at present is stationed with the U. S. Marines at Camp Lejeune, N. C. The couple will spend one week in Miami Beach, Florida.

Parent-Teachers to Hold Fall Meeting

The first fall meeting of the Springfield Parent Teacher Ass'n will be held Monday evening, September 28, at 7:45 p. m. in the Florence M. Gaudinier school. Mrs. Loran E. Skousen, president will preside.

Following the business meeting, Mrs. Maurine Koch, graduate of the New England Conservatory of Music, will present a program of music.

Superintendent of Schools, Benjamin F. Newington will be on hand to introduce the new members of the faculty.

All teachers will be present to meet the parents during the social hour. This will be the first opportunity this year for parents to meet their children's instructors. Class mothers, PTA Officers and Board members will make a special effort to welcome those parents whose children are attending Springfield schools for the first time.

If plans formulated at Monday night's Executive Board meeting are indicative, this will be one of the biggest years the Springfield Parent-Teacher Ass'n has enjoyed so why not reserve the last Monday night in each month for your PTA.

Printed programs, listing speakers for subsequent meetings will be ready for distribution at Monday meeting.

PTA Exec Board Seeks Action

The Executive board of the Springfield Parent Teacher Ass'n decided last night, September 22, to request a report of the Township Committee on what progress if any has been made on the proposed plan to install sidewalks in the various parts of town as indicated in the Ordinance passed last June 28.

Since, with the coming of cold weather, such work has been said will not be feasible, and since the work is already delayed, it is deemed advisable that some action be taken.

Deaths from tuberculosis in Camden dropped from 22,000 in 1917 to 14,000 in 1952.

Industry of Springfield

Success is something that does not come easily nor does it come to everyone. That is why the success story of Bond Electronics Corporation and its president, Vincent J. Bonadies, one of the young industrialists in the state, is one that any smiling man or woman should know.

This story started seven years ago when Mr. Bonadies left his position of vice-president in charge of engineering with John G. Ruskebau Company. On borrowed money, the encouragement and inspiration of his wife, Constantine, and his own self-confidence and ability, Vincent Bonadies started his own small company in Summit. For the first year he and his wife ran the business by themselves and then gradually put on help.

Mr. Bonadies related a favorite story of his which gives proof of the fine reputation that Bond and its president holds. He heard through a salesman that one of his competitors was having difficulties in supplying a customer. On his own initiative, he made samples of the particular product, went to the customer and showed him the finished work. From that day on, this customer has bought exclusively from Bond Electronics. Service certainly is a good part of this success.

After four and one-half years in Summit, Bond moved to Springfield, doubling its capacity in the move. As Mr. Bonadies said, "The Springfield location was advantageous to transportation and especially bus connections to Elizabeth, Newark and Morristown." Ninety per cent of the employees at Bond are women and come to work by bus. Also the Bonadies are residents of Springfield and prefer being nearer their home.

The property at 60 Springfield avenue was merely a lot covered with weeds. The building was erected for Mr. Bonadies according to his specifications and on December 1 of 1951, production began.

Bond Electronics is engaged in the manufacture of precision wire-wound resistors, coil assemblies and other precision components of a special nature. A wire-wound resistor is a limiting device of precise nature used in precision instruments and precision electronic equipment such as computers, firing devices, electronic calculators and wherever precision networks are used.

Resistors wound with wire are compared to film type resistors or composition type are of a higher quality because of the rigid requirements of the former as to stability, temperature changes, humidity changes and overall life characteristics.

Bond Electronics manufactures standard units patterned after military specifications as well as commercial types designed over the years according to customer requirements. They maintain research facilities for the benefit of quality control and design of military type units. In fact the company is one of the leaders in its industry in the program of miniaturizing components to meet military requirements and were the first ones to make the smallest wire-wound resistor. Bond also maintains a machine shop where they build their own parts, fixtures and tools.

Mr. Bonadies is a graduate electrical engineer of Newark College of Engineering. He recently received a certificate of award from the United States Office of Scientific Research and Development for doing work under this office and thereby contributing to the successful prosecution of the Second World War. This included work on guided missiles and proximity fuses. This fuse is the nose of a bomb which can be set to explode at a specific altitude. It is also used to fire at planes, being set to go off at a given distance from the object, thus making it most effective.

Today Bond Electronics is rated quite high in its industry and is operating completely free of debt. During the years they have maintained relations with only the best organizations as General Electric, Western Electric, Westinghouse, Bendix Aviation, Crosley and many others.

Bond Electronics employs forty. These people come unskilled and are taught to run the machines which were built according to Mr. Bonadies' design. The employees work on an hourly basis and have no quotas to reach since the company is interested in quality and not productivity. Working conditions are of the finest and employees are given all benefits and portable bonuses. The office, decorated in the best taste and extremely attractive in its comfort, and the factory are air-conditioned. The building is supplied with tiled rest rooms and music to make working more restful.

In the company's name, Mr. Bonadies has sponsored a softball team in the Springfield Softball League. They proved their prowess by copying the winners trophy. Next year Bond Electronics will sponsor a "Little League" softball team. The manufacturing at Bond is a progressive process. The first step is that of winding wire on ceramic spools. This wire, made of precious alloys, is from one-third to equal the diameter of a hair and therefore requires special skill in its handling, the skill of manual dexterity. The finest wire is .0008 inches in diameter and one must be quite adept in using it. This wire is soldered and calibrated. In a very close tolerance and adjusted to a specific resistance. Instruments are used to make accurate measurements.

The spools go through an aging process to be stabilized after soldering and are then coated with a special varnish to protect them from weather conditions. They are put in an oven, built by Mr. Bonadies, to be baked so that the varnish hardens. These finished products are subjected to rigid quality control tests as temperature and accuracy tests. They are checked by the Wheatstone bridge instrument which is also used as a standard for all the other instruments in the factory. When the resistors have been thoroughly approved, they are boxed and sent.

The successful growth of Bond Electronics was not a war growth. The industry was started at a time when government contracts were not available. The Korean war did give the company a boost but its reputation and growth is due to the executive ability of the front office. Vincent Bonadies took his talents, personality, honesty and courage and used them as the nucleus and basis for what has evolved—a successful industry giving service, quality and cooperation.

of General Controller of that company.

"From 1912 to 1916 I was in the Naval Aviation service in the successive ranks of Lieutenant and Lieutenant Commander. During the latter part of that time I was up in 1940 continued and prospered under the care of my partners. In 1946 we received an offer to sell out our interest which we felt we could not reject and in that year we disposed of our holdings.

"Immediately thereafter I took on an assignment to set up a sales force and brokerage set-up for a nationally advertised candy manufacturer, which had been engaged almost wholly in war-time production until then. This assignment was completed in 1948 at which time I took on the job at which I am now engaged.

"The Royal Crown Bottling Company of Newark, Incorporated was seeking a solution to a declining sales volume and high cost of production problem that had reached extremely serious proportions. In April of 1948 I became its Sales Manager and in 1950 its Vice-President, Director and General Manager. The four figures I give you now will illustrate more than mere words what was accomplished. 1948 sales were 728,000 cases, 1949 sales were 1,000,000 cases which will be sold in 1953, 1948 showed a net loss from operations of $19,000 which can be compared with an estimated net income for 1953 of better than $50,000 after taxes. Anyone familiar with the facts of ever-increasing costs of labor and material, price controls, taxes, and other problems which characterized the period 1948-1953 can evaluate what those figures quoted above really mean. Since we are listed on the American Stock Exchange and therefore figures are all a matter of record, do you not agree that I can bring to the job of Township Committeeman the kind of "know-how" needed to serve your best interests as a taxpayer?

"As a running mate on the Republican ticket I am happy to have Al Binder whose record as a member of the governing body for over five years is well known. It is my earnest belief that he and I can work out as a team and I solicit your support for him as well."

Famous Wood Carver, Springfield Resident, Dies

World-famous wood-carver Springfield lost a distinguished resident and the world lost an internationally known wood-carver when Azeglio Pancani, 83, 151 Madison Terrace, passed away just three weeks short of his 83rd birthday.

Born in Florence, Italy, on September 10, 1873, he was educated there, and at a very early age showed his artistic inclinations. His designs won many awards, and at the age of 14 he was presented with a gold medal by the King of Italy for his achievements in wood carving.

After his graduation he served his apprenticeship in some of the best shops in Florence and became an accomplished Florentine wood-carver. At the age of 22 he left Florence and went to London, England, where he remained for five years, going then to France, and then coming to America in 1902. He made many trips between America and Italy, and while there in 1908 was married and returned to St. Louis, Mo., where he had by this time established a growing business.

Came to New York
In 1913, he left St. Louis with his family and came to New York where he opened a store known as "A. Pancani, Works of Art," and it did not take long for his ability and artistry to gain recognition. His reproductions of antiques, his authentic designs, extreme attention to detail, and uncanny skill with a wood-carver's tools brought him lasting reputation. Besides his many private clients, through which his work found its way to all sections of the United States, and South America, he also worked directly with many architects and completely furnished many of the finer homes and major offices throughout New York, including the full panelling of walls, and beamed ceilings, all hand-carved.

Since 1933, when the demand for this type of work fell off, Mr. Pancani allied himself with many of the better art galleries and portrait painters and slowly branched into the designing and producing of the hand-carved frames and mirrors.

Howard Chandler Christy was one of the more famous artists for whom Mr. Pancani made frames exclusively. Together, Mr. Christy with his oils and brushstrokes, and Mr. Pancani with his carving tools, formed an ideal combination in the art world and spread their inimitable works throughout the world.

Frames for the Will Rogers Memorial, the North Carolina State Art Gallery, Gene Aubry, the Greenville Treaty in the state capitol in Ohio and "The Signing of the Constitution of the United States" hanging in the rotunda of the Capitol in Washington, D. C., are but a few of his works. Perhaps the one from which he derived the greatest amount of personal satisfaction was the frame he carved for "The Signing of the Constitution of the United States," for on this frame, one of the largest hand-carved gold frames ever produced measuring 26 feet by 30 feet, he was allowed to place a bronze plaque reading, "Hand-Carved Gold Frame by A. Pancani." This, to him, meant more than monetary remuneration, for it was a permanent record of his work in the Capitol of the United States.

AZEGLIO PANCANI

States, a living moment of his fine art to his family.

Moved to Springfield
In January of 1933, due to failing health, he was forced to retire from his business. He went to live with his son, Azeglio, Jr., and his family in the new home which his son, an architect, had designed and built so that Mr. Pancani would be able to live with his family in pleasant surroundings, having his own studio and a small studio equipped with his beloved tools, bands and workbench which he could use whenever he felt inclined to do so.

For a short time after coming to Springfield his health improved, and he became quite well known and liked in the neighborhood. But with the coming of the hot weather, his health again started to fall, and in spite of all that could be done for him, he died suddenly on August 18, 1953.

SPRINGFIELD SKETCHES

BEVERLY RAPAPORT

Joe Focht was brought up in Union City where he played football for Emerson High School. A Joe said, "These football days are over and my exercise comes about through constantly keeping active."

A graduate of Pace College and New York University, Mr. Focht is a Certified Public Accountant of New York and New Jersey. For twenty years he has been with C. P. A. firms and private organizations as controller. Today he maintains offices in Springfield, Newark, and Union City. Professionally he is a member of the N. Y. and N. J. Societies of Certified Public Accountants.

Mr. Focht has been active in the American Institute of Accountants, the Institute of Internal Auditors and the Institute of Public Relations, Guidance and Placement Commission.

Mr. Focht has been active in his profession, he works with and for it.

Ten years ago Joe was made controller of a company in Hillside and was recommended to Colonial Gardens in Springfield.

Joe was born on the same date that the Boy Scouts of America was founded and perhaps that is part of the reason why he was chairman of their fund raising campaign for two years and member of the Union County Council for three years.

Joe was auditor for a cancer hospital and showed his personal interest by becoming chairman of the American Cancer Society fund raising campaign for two years, member of the Board of Managers for three years and advisor to the current campaign managers of this group also.

Locally, Joe has been chairman of the campaign for funds at Overlook Hospital and member of the advisory council for two years. He was President and General Chairman, Vice-president and Auditor variously for the Springfield Fourth of July Committee.

Certainly one would think that these civic duties would take up all of anyone's spare time, but Joe Focht has learned how to make more time for the things in which he is vitally interested.

This is evidenced by the fact that he was Chairman of the Budget Committee for the Citizens' League, President and Trustee of the Colonial Gardens Association for two years, member of the auditing committee of the Springfield PTA and member and director of the Springfield Lions Club, serving on various committees of that organization for the past four years.

Most recently Joe was made treasurer of the Chamber of Commerce, is a member of the Professional Men's Club and as a special point of interest, was the first practicing C. P. A. in Springfield.

As Joe put it, "Being in a profession, I like to be interested in public affairs. It appears to me that it is much more than a professional duty to help others. He is concerned with the welfare and progress of his town and thus wants to have a personal hand in it. He has and friends have done a great deal to help him in his activities."

And Joe does have some time to relax. This summer he became a fisherman by his son's choice but that was only done on an occasional weekend.

Certainly if one man can give as much as Joe, there are only a few others in town that are very active. Joe's motto is, "There are no excuses for inactivity."

Often the chairman of a fund raising committee isn't aware of the names of those who might be interested in giving their time and in that sense these people should be organized.

Every organization needs a leader but he must have willing helpers to make the job successfully well done. Joseph Focht has proved himself a most competent leader and Springfield is proud to claim him as a friend, good neighbor and accomplished professional man.

BULLDOG

By DON HALBSGUT

And so another Fall rolls around, and if you'll pass the local athletic field you'll see the 1953 edition of Regional High's Bulldogs, who face the first nine-game campaign since 1949, when the Orange and Blue accomplished the first unbeaten season in the school's history.

Since 1946 the Bulldogs' record has been truly a masterpiece. Regional has won 44, lost only nine, and tied just four. It has put together winning streaks of 15 and 18. It has completed two unbeaten seasons together, and moreover it has succeeded in copping the Group III State title three times.

And again the outlook in the Bulldog camp is bright. Coach John Brown has experience and weight to work with, and predictions are Regional will improve on last year's four wins, two lost, two tied, record.

The weight, oddly enough, will be supplied by underclassmen, rather than the usual seniors. Brown's sophomores are strong and husky, and will probably field the heaviest line unit in the county. The brightest spots on the Bulldog forward wall are Harold Belick, Ed Ruby, and George Mackenzie. All these bear watching, judging from last year's performances. The latter two will form Regional's pass-receiving dual and Belick should be the sparkplug of the line.

The back-field is equally bright, although Brown has yet to find a breakaway runner such as Frank Vicendese or Ken Belliveau. The big line and experienced backs will make opponents shake, but that absence of a speed-merchant could hurt.

Regional's mainstays will include halfbacks Larry Robinson, and Richie Betz, and a pair of rugged fullbacks in Don Reid and Bob Colandrea.

As for the quarterback slot, George Dblastic and soph Bob Schwartz are the top contenders.

Morrison, the newcomer to the Regional schedule, should provide the biggest test for the "Brown-men." "The Colonials" have always been the top club in Morris County and another contender for the state title. Regional opens this Saturday at home with Hillsdale, a team which has yet to taste victory against the Bulldogs.

Let's all hope John Brown's winged "T" will put Regional back on top where it belongs! Lots of luck from the "Sun" and yours truly.

Facts and Figures

Did you know that Regional's scoring record was established in 1946 against Bloomfield Tech, 53-0 and later equalled in 1950 against Rockaway 53-26... that since 1946 Regional has been shut out only twice while turning the trick against opposition 13 times... that the Bulldogs had a scoring streak of 45 straight contests until Union stopped it last year with a 0-0 tie, a feat unmatched by any other club... and that the "Sun" will cover and predict all games, inside the county.

1st Aid Squad Answered 37 Calls in Sept.

Just to emphasize the wonderful service being rendered by members of Springfield's First Aid Squad, a report released yesterday by Harold Jense chairman of the Fund Drive Committee, showed that the squad answered 37 calls thus far this month. This is higher than any previous monthly total in the Squad's history and September is not yet over.

During this period and in answering these emergency calls, the squad used two large and nine small tanks of oxygen. Over 274 miles have been driven and 105 man hours have been given by the volunteer members in answering these calls.

While no additional financial report is available at this time, Chairman Jense and the workers on the annual fund drive are very much encouraged by the response to the solicitation for contributions. Springfield's residents are asked to help defray the operating and supply costs of the squad's services and it is hoped that the goal set for the immediate needs of the First Aid Squad will be reached before the end of the current drive.

Volunteer collectors will continue to contact every resident in the Township and all are asked to contribute something to this very worthy cause.

Watchung Horse Show Sunday

A top-flight field of riders and horses from three eastern states will appear in Summit, Sunday, when the fifteenth annual Watchung Hunter Show is staged at Watchung Stables.

Wilbur J. Peels, of Watchung, is show chairman. Other officers are: Vice-Chairman, T. N. Tully, of Belminter; Treasurer, Edward A. Walsh, Springfield, and Secretary, F. S. Mathewson, Plainfield.

Many of the riders who will show their skill over the beautiful eight-jump Watchung hunter course will be appearing in the National Horse Show in Madison Square Garden, New York, in November. The rugged Watchung course will serve as an excellent tune-up for the national championships.

Entries have been received from exhibitors in New Jersey, Connecticut and Pennsylvania. Most of the top junior riders in the metropolitan area will be seen in action as well as many veteran show riders.

Twenty-four classes have been scheduled with all but the hunter and jumper champion events to be shown over jumps. There are six horsemanship events for junior riders, including the ASPCA Trophy and the American Horse Shows Association hunter seat medal class. The show also will have eight classes for jumpers and ten for working hunters.

William D. Morgan, of Huntington Station, N. Y., has been engaged to judge the hunter and jumper, while Miss Joan Cochrane, of Westport, Conn., will select the ribbon winners in the equitation events.

Ample parking space will be available at the show grounds and refreshments will be sold during the show.

American Legion Installs Officers

Continental Post 228, American Legion, held their annual installation of the newly elected officers for the coming year at the regular meeting on September 17. Once again, the past Commanders of the post participated in the installing ceremonies. James M. Cawley became the newly elected Commander; Wilbur C. Selander, Senior Vice Commander; Raymond C. Schramm, Junior Vice Commander; Lewis F. Fredericks, Finance Officer; Felix N. Gold, Historian; Nell M. Brown, Chaplain; and William J. Doyle, Sgt. at Arms.

Mr. Cawley conducted the balance of the meeting after being installed by Commander John A. Schock. An interesting report was given by Michael Fevola of Kenilworth of his activities while attending Boy's State in Trenton. He was one of the boys sponsored by the American Legion and after hearing his report the value of this sponsorship to the youth of today was unquestionable.

On the same evening installation of new officers of the American Legion Auxiliary Post 228 was held. Florence Nielsen was made President; Ruth Handville, First Vice President; Muzette Matling, Second Vice President; Katherine Day, Treasurer; Gerry Fredericks, Secretary; June Staller, Chaplain; Marie Nielsen, Historian; and Helen Anglemann, Sgt.-At-Arms. Refreshments were served and dancing held.
