BACK-TO-SCHOOL

The movement back to school starts this week-end and the entire educational system in Springfield is prepared for the impact of increased registration.

The usual advice is given to motorists to "watch out—school is open." This protection for school kids in Springfield is augmented by having special traffic guards on duty at all crossings and intersections—a service that has contributed a great deal to the safety program here.

The youngsters will naturally get caught up in a great many activities in addition to the school day itself. There are many clubs and groups the children will want to join, and there are sports and games they wish to play during the daylight hours after school. And at night comes television with the many favorite programs they do not want to miss.

Keeping busy is fine, but it can go too far. Sometimes parents complain that their child is never home except for a hasty meal crowded in between different meetings.

Going all the time at too fast a pace can make youngsters tense. It's natural that they want to take part in everything that is going on, but sometimes it's too much for them. Even though all the activities are most worthwhile, sometimes they just can't possibly keep up with all of them.

A New Jersey State University specialist tells how one family solved the problem for themselves and the children by having two nights a week when everybody went out to their various meetings. Other evenings, they were at home together.

This takes the ability to make choices as each person had to choose the activities he preferred instead of doing everything. However, youngsters learn through making decisions, and the decision of what activities to keep and which ones to drop should be the child's choice with parents' guidance.

MORE STUDENT DRIVING COURSES

The very popular Student Driving Education program at the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School here will now be extended to a full schedule with the purchase of two cars by the Regional Board of Education for that purpose.

Until now and since the Student Driving course started about four years ago, Regional School had the use of cars furnished for that particular purpose by Morris Avenue Motors of Springfield, the L&S Chevrolet Co. and Union County Auto Sales, both of Union.

However, the training cars for this school driving program were only made available at certain times of the year and the Regional Board decided to purchase the cars and arrange the course under a full time schedule. Student driving classes will be able get under way as soon as the new cars are delivered.

This student driving program is part of a nation-wide safety plan to teach youngsters not only driving techniques but also the courtesies toward other motorists on the highways. Safety authorities agree that this course in the high schools helps prepare students for greater responsibilities when they become licensed drivers.

Sometimes it pays to have a name like "Throckmorton." The worst that can happen is that some junk mail gets mixed up and the wrong member of the family receives the invitation to invest in the latest uranium stock.

But imagine the confusion in one section of Springfield where there are residents with the names of Garner, Garber and Gerber—all friends.

A recent vital statistic, published in the Springfield Sun, which had to do with the birth of a new baby, gave the Garners, Garbers and Gerbers an interesting topic of conversation.

Bill Jensen, former Springfield "drum beater" and public relations man for the Township, is in love with Florida, judging by a postcard received yesterday.

Jensen is basking in the sun at Sarasota. But he "kisses everybody in Springfield—especially the SUN—which prompted us to put Bill on the mailing list immediately.

Bill writes that he will teach adult classes in the Sarasota High School and is planning a public relations campaign for the police department at that Florida city. And, he wants to say "hello" to his many friends in Springfield.

NOT JUST THE GOOD NEWS

NEWSPAPERS have had to remind their readers that newspapers have a duty to print unpleasant facts of life about their communities as well as some of the happy little stories of achievement, success and prosperity all newspapers are pleased to print about local citizens and community.

It is interesting to note that this common problem was pressing enough to deserve comment why it prints stories about juvenile delinquency. Some critics evidently thought that such matters do not reflect great credit to the city.

"Does it 'boost' our great city to minimize the evils which take place here, pretending they don't exist? Isn't that the same thing as ignoring a disease? The main function of a newspaper is to reflect the society in which it is published, to publicize the unusual or noteworthy events which take place in that society. It shouldn't have to be said that a newspaper is to reflect the society in which it is published, to publicize the unusual or noteworthy events which take place in that society. It shouldn't have to be said again that a newspaper does not make the news, but simply reports it.

It's true that for every juvenile delinquent there are 10,000 youngsters who are credits to their parents, their communities and themselves. That isn't news, any more than it is news that 10,000 motorists were not arrested for drunken driving.

"No one contends that it is pleasant to read about unpleasant things, but, they must be faced so they may be remedied.

"If you like to pretend there are no robbers or con men, no slum profiteers and no slums, no dishonest officials, or race tension, that is your privilege.

"But don't complain if others are more honest."

The primary function of any newspaper is to report news. But because no one likes to have his faults made public, much news is distasteful to some of those who read it. If a paper attempted to print only stories pleasing to all, the contents would be limited to innocuous accounts of all births and weddings.

The local paper is a small insignificant publication in an out-of-the-way corner of the nation, but because it is a newspaper it has a great heritage to maintain, a heritage as old as the country itself, a heritage of free and independent reporting, an important heritage protected by

Rec. Dept. Gets Town Building At 59 Mountain

Springfield's Recreation Commission has submitted a formal request to have the Township property at 59 Mountain Avenue turned over to the commission to be used for a year-round recreational program.

Plans for altering and changing the present building accompanied the request and, as the Township Committee formally accepts the program, the Recreation Commission will start immediately to transform the house to meet the needs of the program.

The building has been used, until this week, to house most of the Township departments. It is now vacant since all have moved back into the newly completed Municipal Building.

According to the reports, members of the Township Committee favor the approval of the request and the proper authority will probably be given at the next meeting—September 11.

The plans call for tearing down some walls to enlarge rooms needed for meeting purposes.

Methodist Church Here Plans 'Round-Up-Sunday'

A very important day in the lives of the children of the Springfield Methodist Church School has been arranged for next Sunday, September 8.

Members of the Church Board of Education have sent letters signed by Church School Superintendent, Robert Bevan, stating that "the board feels that a fine start is essential for a strong church school. With this in mind the board has designated September 8 as Round-Up-Sunday. We feel that this Sunday should personify the entering of our Fall program by all the children of the church.

"The service" the letter continues, "is to have a western atmosphere indicating a 'round-up' or gathering of all members of the church school at the 9:15 service. With this in mind, we request that the students attend Sunday School in jeans or western garb. All children, except the nursery, who will go directly to class, are to enter the church with their parents. The children will receive a special communication from two of their favorite radio and television and screen stars, plus a small memento of the day.

"Of great importance to all present is the fact that many of the students will be promoted to their advanced classes on this 'Round-Up-Sunday.' Those graduating from the Primary Department into the Junior Department will be presented with a Bible for their personal guidance.

The television and screen stars referred to in the Board letter are Dale and Roy Rogers who wrote a letter addressed to the Children of Springfield's Methodist Sunday School with an autographed photograph of the entire Rogers family. Following is the letter from the Double R Bar Ranch, Chatsworth, California: "Congratulations for your outstanding effort in increasing the attendance in your Sunday School! "With all our hearts, we believe in Sunday School for children and adults. Sunday School affords wonderful opportunity for the study of God's Holy Word, the Bible, and how to live by the Bible. We think Sunday School is extremely important in the Christian life, because the lessons are geared to your particular age group—and then, church or the worship service is the consummation of inclusive worship of all ages. "In other words, the worship service is the place where the whole family can share the Bread of Life at the same time and enjoy fellowship in Christ. "We cannot think of a more worthy endeavor than to invite others to Sunday School, where they may learn the Truth, our Lord Jesus Christ."

A gala night has been planned and the committee hopes that all will attend.

Drivers Warned As School Opens

Police Chief Albert A. Sarge warned motorists to be extra careful this week with the opening of school today, Thursday.

The chief has placed posters all over town to caution drivers as a record crop of Springfield youngsters enter the fall term of school. The Springfield Police Department has re-painted the street signs and purchased two new "stand-up figure" signs for Mountain Avenue.

Chief Sarge says Springfield's recent traffic record is good, and he intends to keep it that way. There was only one minor accident over the Labor Day week-end—a non-injury collision at the corner of Linden Avenue and Wabeno Avenue on Sunday evening.

Women Prepare Nov. Bazaar

The monthly meetings of the Women's Guild of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church will be resumed on Tuesday, September 19, at 10 o'clock in the parish house when the members will work on bazaar projects. There will be a box luncheon at the noon beverage served with the business meeting at 2 o'clock.

Officials Move Into New Town Hall This Week

Springfield's sparkling new municipal building became the center of township activities this week as most of the town officials moved into the near-completed structure.

Officials carted books and papers into their new offices this week amidst the smell of fresh paint and noise of continuing construction.

The Township Clerk, Mrs. Eleonore Worthington, has gathered her stacks of official papers into the new suite of three offices on the ground floor. Greeting visitors to the new building ever since Tuesday is the new telephone switchboard operator, Mrs. Dorothy Tallau of 231 South Springfield Avenue. Mrs. Tallau handles the 24 telephone extensions in the new townhall and directs visitors to the proper offices.

Elsewhere in the building are the unsettled files and half-settled officials of the offices of the building inspector, sanitation engineer, Tax assessor, plumbing inspector and township engineers.

The firemen are still sleeping (at night) alongside their fire engines, but the new dormitories should be finished soon. The police department are not yet changing uniforms in the new locker room and there is no padding in the padded cell—but all the functions of the PD are going ahead in the new building. Chief Sarge even reports that someone has put a psychoanalyst's couch in his office, as if he doesn't hear enough problems already.

As the Springfield SUN went to press there was still some doubt as to whether the next meeting of the Township Committee would take place in the huge new meeting room with the elaborate acoustical arch ceiling.

The Police Reserve of Springfield will resume their monthly meetings September 10, 8 p.m. at Police Headquarters. The staff of the Police Reserve under the direction of Police Chief A. Sarge have announced that a complete training program has been planned for the Police Reserve members.

The program will include lectures by Police and Law enforcement Officials from other municipalities and states agencies. These lectures will be supplemented by open discussion on traffic safety and other law enforcement problems. Besides the aforementioned program the Police Reserve will continue to supplement the regular Police on a scheduled basis. It should be interesting to note that during the early part of 1957, 547 man hours have been voluntarily contributed to the township by members of the Police Reserve.

Membership in this Springfield Service Organization is open to any citizen over 21 years of age. For information regarding this, contact Reserve Capt. R. Moore at DR 9-4876 or write PO Box 104.

Township Over Goal in Heart Fund Campaign

Springfield, Hillside, and Union are among the 13 municipalities in 21 municipalities in Union County which passed their 1957 Heart Fund quotas, the final report shows.

In Union, the goal was $5,559.29 and $6,600.33 was donated, while Springfield's goal was $1,503.30 and the amount collected was $2,047.47.

Officials carted books and papers into their new offices this week—amid the smell of fresh paint and noise of continuing construction.

The Township Clerk, Mrs. Eleonore Worthington, has gathered her stacks of official papers into the new suite of three offices on the ground floor. Greeting visitors to the new building ever since Tuesday is the new telephone switchboard operator, Mrs. Dorothy Tallau of 231 South Springfield avenue. Mrs. Tallau handles the 24-telephone extensions in the new townhall and directs visitors to the proper offices.

Elsewhere in the building are the unsettled files and half-filled offices of the offices of the building inspector, sanitation engineer, tax assessor, plumbing inspector and township engineers.

The firemen are still sleeping (at night) alongside their fire engines, but the new dormitories should be finished soon. The police department are not yet changing uniforms in the new locker room and there is no padding in the padded cell, but all the functions of the PD are going ahead in the new building. Chief Sorge—again reports that someone has put a psychoanalyst's couch in his office, as if he doesn't hear enough problems already.

As the Springfield SUN went to press there was still some doubt as to whether the next meeting of the Township Committee would take place in the huge new meeting room with the elaborate acoustical arch ceiling.

Police Reserve to Resume Meetings

The Police Reserve of Springfield will resume their monthly meetings September 10, 8 p.m. at Police Headquarters. The staff of the Police Reserve under the direction of Police Chief A. Sorge have announced that a complete training program has been planned for the Police Reserve members.

The program will include lectures by Police and Law enforcement Officials from other municipalities and states agencies. These lectures will be supplemented by open discussion on traffic safety and other law enforcement problems. Beside the aforementioned program the Police Reserve will continue to supplement the regular Police on a scheduled basis. It should be interesting to note that during the early part of 1957, 547 man hours have been voluntarily contributed to the township by members of the Police Reserve.

Membership in this Springfield Service Organization is open to any citizen over 21 years of age. For information regarding this, contact Reserve Capt. R. Moore at DR 9-4875 or write PO Box 104.

Warning!

Local residents are warned against the purchase of a soot cleaner, that is being sold under at least two names, "WONDER SOOT CLEANER" and "SOOT KLEEN", boiler and chimney cleaner. This compound is EXTREMELY EXPLOSIVE, and FLAMMABLE, and is very dangerous for the home-owner to use. The cleaning compound figured in the Aug. 22 explosion in the Jersey City plant of the Walter C. Gregory Corp. in which one man was killed and 12 injured. A check of the town last week by this Dept. showed that at present no local merchants stocked this product. Springfield Fire Dept. O.W. Chubb & Son Publishes History

The history of Chubb & Son has recently been published by the firm in celebration of its 76th anniversary. The beautifully bound book "If There Were No Losses," by Thomas Caldecot Chubb, takes its name from an old insurance proverb, "If there were no losses there would be no premiums."

Thomas Caldecot Chubb, the author, is the grandson of one of the founders and the son of Hendon Chubb, the senior partner of the firm. He is the author of biographies of Giovanni Boccaccio and Pietro Aretino, both of which are now cited as definitive in their fields and has also authored six volumes of poems.

"If There Were No Losses" covers the entire history of Chubb & Son from its founding in 1821 until 1957 and covers such recent happenings of the airline tragedy over the Grand Canyon and the sinking of the "Andrea Doria."

The Short Hills office of Chubb & Son currently employs over 700 residents of the area.

Just as the bathing suits are being packed in mothballs; beach umbrellas banished to garages or attics; and ducks flying south are signs of autumn in general; the closing of Summer Reading Club and the beginning of Story Hour are the autumn signs noticed around the Free Public Library of Springfield.

The "Story Hour" will open its fall series on September 13 with Mrs. Ester Porter, newly appointed Children's Librarian, in charge of the sessions. Songs, rhythms, and dramatizations will make the stories live for the pre-school youngsters. While older brothers and sisters are in school, the children of the 3 to 5 age group may meet at the Library at either 10 a.m. or 11 a.m. on Fridays.

Two sessions of the Story Hour will be held each week for five weeks, September 13 to October 11. Tickets for the entire series are being distributed now. Parents may pick up tickets at the Library or call on the telephone to have a set reserved until they have time to stop in for them. The Library telephone is Drexel 6-4264.

Meanwhile the most outstanding maps from the Summer Reading Club are on display for two weeks. This year 522 children joined the Reading Club. Of these, 357 read some books, which is twenty-eight more than last year.

A smaller group read a great many books. To have finished an entire map, which means that a boy or girl has read 84 books, is really an achievement. Only the following had finished before Labor Day: Linda Enz, Mary Ann Getteau, Richard Leonard, and Carol Rutz. Four more had almost completed the map. One or two states were missing. These are: Thomas Brogna, Janet Evans, Susan White, and Trudy York. Eleven others have read over seventy books, which makes the total of twenty young people reading an outstanding number of books, or five more than last year. It is the consensus of opinion of the Library staff, that books selected for this year's reading represented an exceptionally discriminating choice. Some of the boys and girls who read less than others, chose more worthwhile books. It likewise was pointed out that the quality of the reports was exceptionally high—the handwriting and arrangement were clear and neat, the thoughts well-expressed. It is hoped we can include some of the gray notebooks in this exhibit. Now that the fall activities such as the Story Hour are starting, all maps not saved for the exhibit may be taken home to show to parents and teachers.

Part 2 Stewart Hartshorn

... Merchant, Inventor, Artist and Town Planner. A Little History of the Short Hills Section By His Daughter, CORA L. HARTSHORN

Aside from the practical problem of supplying water for his village, he took keen interest in making ponds for beauty alone; beauty in nature in all its aspects was a vital interest to him as were all forms of creative expression. He used to say he wished to attract nature-loving people to his little village, as he found such people had taste and initiative. His Short Hills Water Company was sold to the Commonwealth Water Company of Summit, New Jersey, on October 30, 1929.

The first houses in Short Hills were supplied with cesspools, but the natural drainage of the hills suggested the idea of having one main sewer with a connection from each house, and by 1888, when he had 52 houses, the sewage system was completed. In 1887 he went to Berlin to see the Imhoff sewage disposal plant, the first successful plant for large tracts. There were extensive vegetable gardens in the area, and I remember the American doctor who piloted us stooping to drink water from one of the ditches from his cupped hand. George Edwin Waring, Jr., however, had devised an improved disposal system for Memphis in 1878; and it was the Waring system which my father decided to use. The Imhoff system was used for the first time on a large scale in this country at Chicago's World Fair in 1893.

The Short Hills sewage system terminated in a disposal plant with filter-bed, below Chatham Road, west of the Short Hills Station; and in 1888 "The Short Hills News Item" stated, "It is widely known that Short Hills is provided with a sewage system based on the most approved and only practicable plan for an inland town", and suggested that "a sewer system would be more useful to Millburn than a Town Hall," for which there was a demand at the time. Short Hills had both water and sewage system long before many nearby towns. Millburn had only limited sewage disposal till 1900, and in October of that year it passed an ordinance providing for the construction and maintenance of a joint-trunk sewer between the township of Millburn, the City of Newark, Summit, Irvington, West Orange, Orange, and Vailsburg. It was not, however, till 1903 that Millburn was able to connect its system in Short Hills Avenue with my father's system in Chatham Road.

The beauty of Spring was preceded by mud and having struggled from this home in Springfield to the old Millburn "depot" through mud up to the hubs, the question of roads became a matter of interest.

The only public roads in his Short Hills area, when he started his little village, were Hobart Ave., Farsonage Hill road and Chatham Road; and Millburn only spent from $300 to $400 a year on its 27 miles of roads. I have heard my father tell how the town fathers would sit around the pot-bellied stove in the Short Hills "depot" all winter waiting for the appropriation to come in, and at public meeting, there being a lack of enthusiasm for the position, he suggested it would save them a lot of trouble and money if they appointed him road-master, as he had a quarry in Springfield and his crushed stone would do the trick for the mud.

In 1880 he was crushing 100 tons of blue traprock a day, and he was telfordizing the roads and walks as fast as they were built. He designed the roads topographically following around the contours of the hills, constantly mindful of subtle easy grades and rhythmic curves for which he had the keen eye of an artist.

Highland Avenue, the first road, has the only steep grade; as it was an old road to Mr. Seaver's property at the top of the hill and could not be changed.

He ran a long strip of road, west of the Short Hills "depot" only a few feet north of the railroad, not leaving enough depth to build on. Years later, asked why he put that road there, he said he had passed by long rows of privies backing on the railroad on his trips to New York, and he was "damned if he would have a row of them in his village." The land along the railroad, east of the station, was protected; as it was part of his homestead property.

In 1883 he built a "Club Stable" on Chatham Road near the "depot". It still stands, an interesting stone building. He made many sketches of fine old buildings abroad, and this stable was evidently inspired by one of them. He loved stone, and many Short Hills houses were built of the blue traprock from his Springfield quarry. I remember some years back, a man bought a lot from him planning to build a frame house, but was induced to build it of stone by my father's offer to give him the stone.

Next to the "Club Stable," a small sturdy house was built and equipped by subscription for the first Short Hills volunteer Fire Dept. which was organized in 1894 by James E. Brown with 10 or 12 local boys. The first truck and pump were kept in the small house, now an attractive book shop, and my father's alarm was rung from Christ Church, a great occasion. By 1895 the boys had established a fire alarm system with galvanic batteries in the "Music Hall"; it had an open metallic circuit stretched with lines from house to house and had 50 call-boxes in the houses and on streets. A New York fire chief had come out to direct their work and they were the pride of the village in their uniforms. When Millburn Township took over the Short Hills Fire Department, under control of the Township Committee in 1912, the Short Hills fire insurance rates were the lowest for any like community in Essex County.

In 1879 Short Hills residents were still using the old Millburn depot at Main Street and Old Short Hills Road, but by 1880 my father had finished building his Short Hills "depot" and had succeeded in getting the Railroad to stop two trains a day.

The new depot, which cost $2,320, became a meeting place for local discussion and even had its Christmas tree. He maintained it for a number of years, paying the Station Master, Louis C. Goodrich, who also became postmaster, as the post office was installed in the depot where it remained from 1880 to 1885 when it was moved to his store building on Hobart Avenue, then outside the village. It remained in the store till 1913 when it was removed to a building my father had bought on Hobart Avenue, north of the "Music Hall." It was transferred to Chatham Road and later, on May 10, 1937, to the present Government owned building, south of the railroad station.

My father would not allow any stores in his village and wished to own and control the store, allowing no liquor sold there. His store was equipped with a very handsome set of both large and small lacquered bins, ornamented with fine Chinese figures. One sold recently for $40.00 at a charity auction; the scales also were beautifully designed.

The first regular train service running through the Short Hills section was on October 2, 1897. There was no community between Millburn and Chatham at that time, and Summit was only a cross-road.

The original settlers in this district were Protestant, but at the time this road went through, a number of Irishmen, who had been driven from home by religious persecution, were brought in to build the railroad and settled in Millburn. Later, in 1892 the railroad imported Italian labor, through Burk Bros. from Scranton, Pa., to work on the realignment and grade improvement of the road; and again many of these Italians settled in Millburn, changing the religious and political character of the town. The more experienced Irishmen were made foremen at this time.

My father was ever mindful of public safety and when this realignment took place, he agreed to let the railroad move the tracks over on his land if they would build 3 underpass culverts, at Forest Drive, Taylor Road and one on his homestead property. The deeds were exchanged on July 2, 1892, and on that date, his original "depot" was deeded to the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad which also built a freight siding near the Short Hills Station. Millburn Township has an underpass for Short Hills Avenue which was a "public" road.

My father's original depot was torn down by the railroad in February, 1907, and the new station, built by them, was ready for use July 1st of the same year. Much later, on December 18, 1930, my father and I had the pleasure of riding on the first electric train between Hoboken and Morristown in company with other "old timers."

Note: Telfordizing, named after its inventor, a Scottish road engineer—named Thomas Telford (1757-1834) consisted of laying the road-bed with large stones, then rolling in crushed stone to fill all interstices. A very satisfactory hard road resulted.

Girl to Mixhauds Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Mixhaud of 55A Flemmer avenue announced the birth of a girl on August 29 at Overlook Hospital.

TAKING CARE OF YOUR GARDEN
By Edward A. Cardinal
Chairman, Springfield Shade Tree Commission

I have never seen so much Japanese Beetle grub damage at this time of the year. Usually the damage occurs much later in the year, but probably due to the dry weather the damage has shown up QUESTION: I treated my lawn for grubs last year, but I see damage to my lawn now. Isn't grub-proofing good for several years?

ANSWER: The directions given by manufacturers is usually the minimum rate and is good for one year. If applied in heavier amounts the material should last from three to five years, but do not depend on it. The heavy spring rains sometimes washes the chemicals deeply into the soil and will kill the grubs eventually, but the beetle eggs are close to the surface and the newly hatched grubs can eat off the grass roots before coming in contact with the poison. If you value your lawn, by all means grub-proof the soil every July using the minimum rate. This not only takes care of beetle grubs, but surface insects as well.

QUESTION: Last week you recommended bluegrass for this area, but my neighbor says you are wrong. He heard fescue is best. Can you help me solve this problem?

ANSWER: Many years ago my best friend said I was crazy not to buy all the stock I could on margin and make a killing. I left my few dollars in the building loan and got a reasonable dividend. My friend went broke and has not yet recovered. The moral - every man to his own trade. Therefore I'll stick to my recommendation of mixtures containing a high percentage of bluegrass and fescue.

QUESTION: Is sawdust manure good to top dress a lawn?

ANSWER: It is excellent for mixing into the topsoil when rototilling a lawn, but its value is questionable as a topdressing. Many peddlers stopped by the law from selling sawdust manure as a lawn topdressing. It dries out rapidly and can sometimes spoil the germination of seed. A mixture of humus, peat and possibly manure would be more satisfactory. Topdressing is placed over the seed to retain moisture and save constant sprinkling.

QUESTION: Is it safe to plant azaleas at this time?

ANSWER: Most evergreens can be planted now. Azaleas should be planted early so they may root before the ground freezes. Trees and shrubs are best planted after the leaves have ripened and fallen off. More about planting at a later date.

NOTE: Two half hour pictures in sound and color will be presented at Cardinal's Nursery 272 Milltown Road, Springfield, on Friday evening, September 13th, at 7:30 p.m. The pictures will be on roses and hollard tulips. Every adult attending will receive a free package of Beta Potting Soil. Many prizes will be awarded including a selection of 100 assorted top grade hollard bulbs.

Farming Courses Start Oct. 9

The annual 10-week short courses in agriculture at Rutgers University will start on Oct. 9 this year, according to W. P. Daniels, assistant dean of the College of Agriculture.

The seven courses being offered include dairy farming, fruit growing, vegetable production, animal husbandry, poultry husbandry, turf management and landscape maintenance.

Dean Daniels said these courses are open to men and women 18 years old or older, interested in getting agricultural training in a short time.

"Persons living on farms who wish information about the latest methods will find these courses of great value," he said. "Also, those who live in towns who plan to take up farming will find them very useful."

No tuition is charged residents of New Jersey. Non-residents pay $25. There are no entrance examinations. Each course this year is divided into a number of sub-courses. A student may take all the units, or he can take only one or more which are of particular interest to him without necessarily spending more than one day on the campus.

A catalog describing the courses may be obtained free by writing to Dean Daniels at the College of Agriculture, New Brunswick.

SOIL TESTS

This has been a very hard summer on lawns and other garden subjects... The drought may already have taken its toll of many of your valuable plants, but if your lawn, shrubs or trees are showing signs of weakness you may still be able to save them.

Come in and tell us your problems. A little water properly applied, or mixed with a good water soluble fertilizer, may be all that is needed. Your lawn might require a careful application of a dependable crabgrass control. A small amount of Wilson's world-famous organic Plant Food can make the difference between saving or losing your favorite shrubs, roses and trees.

OR... If you need Insecticides or Fungicides, we have them too... and can tell you just what should be used.

World Premiere At Princeton

Pat O'Brien seems scheduled to get a rousing welcome at Princeton's famed McCarter Theatre the week-end of September 12-13-14 when he makes his long-awaited return to the legitimate stage in the World Premiere of the Broadway-bound play "Miss Lonelyhearts."

An avalanche of mail-order from Hollywood to New York, many from famous names, has prompted the McCarter management to augment its staff. The box-office is now open daily from 10 to 6 and mail-orders, clocked for locations in the order of receipt, are being processed overtime. There will be no advance in ticket prices for the opening night, Thursday the 12th, when the curtain will ring up at 8:00 p.m. Friday and Saturday nights will be 8:30 and Saturday matinee at 2:30.

Local Golfer Makes Hole in One At Galloping Hill

The dream of all duffers as well as the close-to-par golfer is the very scarce hole-in-one during a regular round.

A Springfield resident achieved that exhilarating distinction last Thursday when Jerry Fingerhut of 26 North Derby road, slammed one into the cup on the 182 yard No. 8 hole at the Galloping Hill course.

He performed the rare trick with a No. 3 iron and it was the first such thrill in his five years of serious golf, with score cards running from 80 to 90, putting him out of the ordinary duffer class.

His foursome included Moe Schlangler of 200 Letak avenue who attested to the hole-in-one and is ready to prove the feat to all scoffers.

List Hurricane Precautions

Hurricane precautions for New Jersey's householders were released this week by Thomas S. Dignan, acting director of State Civil Defense and Disaster Control. Because the northeastern seaboard in recent years has been in direct path of tropical storms, Dignan urges that the following safety measures be observed.

Check supplies of flashlights and batteries, matches, candles, lamps, wicks and kerosene oil. Check batteries or portable radio to be sure that they are charged.

Be sure that articles in your cellar which could be damaged by water are moved to a safe place. Check cellar windows. Tie down porch, lawn furniture and movable objects out of doors.

Close and lock house windows but leave a couple of windows open on the side away from the storm to prevent wind from building up pressure inside the house, pressure that could blow out your windows and doors. If you have wooden shutters, close them. Pull up awnings. Close the damper in your fireplace. Fill your bathtub with water.

Open Garage Window
Put your car in the garage and be sure to leave one garage window open to keep wind pressure from building up there.

Check car batteries, radio, water and oil. Have your gas tank full in case of an emergency move.

If you don't have a garage, park your car away from trees or poles. If car is outside, close the windows tightly, set the hand brake, put the car in gear but don't lock it if you are parked on the street. Emergency workers might have to move it.

Keep away from windows at the height of the storm. Find out where you can procure dry ice or natural ice to use in case of loss of electric power. Have as little perishable food in your refrigeration units as possible so that your loss will be less in case of extended power failure. Check the location of the nearest food freezer unit in the event you have to move your perishables.

Step Up Freezer
If you have a freezer, set it at maximum freezing level as much as possible before the arrival of the hurricane. If you avoid opening it and it is fairly full, you can keep frozen meats and vegetables without spoiling for at least three days.

Save newspapers to wrap garbage in, in case garbage collections are interrupted. If your water supply is interrupted, boil water from faucet or well for at least five minutes before using. Store a three-day supply of canned food in a safe spot along with a can opener. Have paper plates, cups and spoons.

Put in a small supply of canned heat. Have several jars of water tightly capped or buy a supply of spring water. Check on handy tools: axe, saw, pick axe or crowbar, and work gloves.

If you have a boat and can get it out of the water, turn it upside down and store it in a barn or other safe place. If it is in the water, anchor it not too close to other boats. Moor boat at either bow or stern, but not both. Secure or store safely cabin, barometer or other movable objects. Allow between five and seven feet of anchor chain for each foot of depth to cushion wave action.

Evacuate Shore Areas
Evacuate and avoid low-lying beaches and islands. Remember that the majority of deaths from hurricanes are due to drowning.

If you stock up with candles, be especially careful about starting fires. Danger from fire during hurricanes is especially great. High winds spread fires rapidly. Furthermore, firemen will be hard to contact; they may have difficulty getting to you; and their equipment and manpower may not be able to operate at full efficiency.

Don't telephone unnecessarily. Leave the line open for emergency calls. Keep children and pets indoors and stay indoors yourself if you can. Check gutters on house to be sure they are not clogged with leaves.

After the storm is definitely over, move about with great caution. Beware of broken electric wires, trees, buildings, bridges and even streets and woods may be in weakened condition.

Precautions for stores and factories:
Check your cellar stocks and move if possible to avoid water damage.
Check on supply of sand bags. Brief your employees and arrange for reporting for emergency work in the event communications break down. Check on matches, candles, lamps, portable radios, flashlights and batteries. Check windows and gutters. Check on a source for pumps and portable generators. Check on handy tool supplies; axes, crowbars, pick axes, etc.

The annual Fiesta of Santa Fe N. M. is believed to be the oldest community festival in America. The Fiesta was begun in 1712 by the Spanish governor to commemorate the re-conquest of New Mexico from the Indians in 1692.

Rival Taxicab Companies In Battle for Business

Unless local authorities take a firm stand—Springfield may be faced with a taxicab war.

At least, competition between the two rival cab companies—with practically the same names—has reached the bristling, fist-shaking stage and there have even been some close brushes between the rival drivers, according to reports.

The two cab companies, with licenses to conduct a taxi service, are the Springfield-Nadel Cab Company and another called the Springfield Cab Company.

The first named company, the Springfield-Nadel Cab Co., is owned by Herman Nadel, a Springfield resident. The other, the Springfield Cab Company, is owned by the Millburn Cab Company and Millburn residents.

According to Mr. Nadel, he applied for licenses to conduct a taxi service in Springfield, and had his cabs painted black and orange. The Millburn Company, immediately resumed the cab stand on Morris avenue and painted its cab bright-orange on black, Nadel said.

Competition keen
The scramble for fares has resulted in keen competition and the other day one of the Springfield-Nadel cabs was cut off and driven over the curb, Nadel said, by one of the Millburn cars.

"A lady got into our cab," said Nadel, "and as soon as we started, one of the Millburn cabs came tearing after us. He cut me off, drove me over to the curb and shouted to the women to get into his cab. In addition to threatening that we would get more 'blower calls' than we could take care of, their car had dented the mud guard of our cab. I reported the trouble to the Springfield police station. I was advised to do something about it, but I decided we could probably work it out between us."

Nadel explained that "a blower" is a fake telephone call which sends the cab on a "wild chase" with no one at the given address knowing anything about the need for a cab. Nadel said they had received many such calls but they have no way of knowing who was responsible and made no accusations against the competing cab company.

"We would like to build up service for the Springfield-Nadel Cab Company," said Nadel, "but we find competition too much since Springfield residents are not aware that the other cab, painted with the same orange and black colors, is from Millburn. They have a license here—but that's for one cab and several times our drivers reported that they have seen a great number of the cabs cruising all over Springfield.

"We pay rent for our cab stations. We don't keep our cabs parked on busp Morris avenue," continued Nadel.
The Millburn Cab Company has been servicing the Township with one cab—painted Springfield Cab Co.—but the taxi was not stationed at the call box until the Nadel organization started its cab service. Now the two competing cabs have call boxes across the street from each other and the drivers swoop down on every prospective fare.

Mr. Nadel says he is planning to ask Springfield authorities to help clear up the matter to protect the local organization against too aggressive competition.

LITTLE WOMAN

Little girls seem to be "natural-born" little women, right from the start. Laura washes for her dollies just as seriously as if she were tending a "real-life" family. She likes to bake tiny cakes and cookies too, and she has her own way of enforcing discipline when her dollies are "naughty."

Sometimes I'm amazed by her, even if I am her mother. And I am awed at the way God fashioned little girls, so that from the beginning they seem to sense that one day they will be mothers themselves.

When I take Laura to Church with me, she's such a little lady, demure and yet amazingly intent for one her age. I look at her. I see one of God's miracles; and I marvel anew. Watching a child grow is a perpetual lesson in Faith.

Sometimes after Church Laura lines her dollies up on a bench. She tells me that "the dollies are in church," and I don't feel in the least like chuckling at her childish antics. Rather, I am grateful.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake, (2) For the sake of his community and nation, (3) For the sake of the Church itself which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

CATHOLIC INFORMATION

Science with a capital "S" Do you know what we mean? It's the sort of thing that judges the progress of humanity, or its happiness, welfare, or what have you, by the number of bathtubs and telephones per capita. It's always thinking up some kind of a cure-all: "Everything will be all right if we can just put an electric ice-box in every kitchen," for instance.

That isn't real science, of course. We're all for intelligent research and trying to find out how this world is put together. It's the quacks we resent—the men who make wrong applications. Read this—it's typical: "... Nine-tenths of the crimes in the penal code would become obsolete; the long catalogue of human ills would be abridged; men would walk more by day, every pillow would be more inviolable by night; property, life and character held by a stronger tenure; all rational hopes respecting the future brightened."

That was Horace Mann, writing a hundred years ago about the possibilities in public education. Now read a declaration of the American Bar Association, made in 1938; after about a hundred years of widespread education: "The number of major crimes committed in the United States is more than 1,500,000 annually, or one every 22 seconds... It is estimated that, of our present population, 200,000 will commit murder before they die. The prison population from 1924 to 1934 increased 100 percent. Today the United States has the greatest prison population of any country in the world."

Education is good, all right, but there must be education plus belief in God and morality. For sixty years the world has put its faith in Science, a false science which sneered at God and the Church—and look where we are!

Sure! We're rich, but there are some things gold won't buy, just as there are some questions science can't answer; and education, if it is to be effective, must give religious training. We must have God, you see; some fixed principle outside ourselves; some standard by which to know the righteous of an action. That is the important thing. The rest—education, bathtubs, movies, automobiles—they're just frosting on the cake, while it's nice having them, we could get along without them in a pinch. But that other—our belief in God, with all that goes with it—if we haven't that we're sunk. We've missed the point. We're spending our lives barking up the wrong tree.

Third Generation Prince Takes Up Farm Training

Gary Allen Prince, 15, the third generation Prince of Prince's Farm, will begin his formal agricultural training this week as a freshman in Jonathan Dayton Regional High School's "aggie" course. His aim will be to educate himself to maintain a 42-year-old family tradition of bucking the trend in Springfield.

While field after field of crop land has been sprouting residential housing in this fast-growing fast-changing community, Prince's Farm has spread gradually from six acres in 1915 to more than 120. And when builders' bulldozers sink their treads into several recently purchased tracts in the next few months, Prince's will be not only Springfield's largest farm, but almost its only one.

Located roughly between Springfield Ave. and Rt. 22, the now sprawling farm was started in 1915 on 6 1/3 acres by Paul F. Prince, Jr., Philadelphia-born son of an Irvington button maker, and his wife Anna. They constructed the township's first roadside-ice cream stand the next year at 651 S. Springfield Ave., and four years later began the switch to selling their own produce. They raise and sell almost every vegetable that can be raised in the area.

Paul F. Prince, Jr., Gary's father, now manages the farm itself, with Paul, Sr., as advisor.

Sermon Topic—"Telling 'Ears and Tongue.' How do you judge the character of a person? By the clothes he wears? The car he drives? His appearance in a "man of distinction" suit? Jesus, who delved deeper into the human heart than any man who ever lived, used as his criterion a much better judge of character than any of those. "Out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh." (Matt. 12:34) Christ reminds us. In other words, Jesus means to tell us that one of the surest way to discover the true character of a person is to notice what he hears and to listen to what he says. Because the ears and tongue of a person tell so is most important to the sermon this morning will treat the lessons Christ wishes to convey to us with this touching story.
