Unico Ladies Auxiliary Doing Fine Charity Job

Members of the Ladies Auxiliary of Unico National, Springfield Chapter, organized only since February, have been carrying out a very ambitious welfare and charity program which is expected to reach a climax for Thanksgiving Day and Christmas.

Many worthy causes have received the attention of this group of workers, the St. Wallberga Orphanage in Roselle being one of their favorite charities. One of the high spots for the orphanage was the Halloween party staged by the Springfield Unico Ladies. They made the trip to the Orphanage in four cars, loaded with candies, lollipops, 5 cases of milk, chocolate milk, balloons, costumes and other Halloween items to give more than 110 children "the best party they ever had."

In addition to the "party," the Unico Ladies brought enough new pairs of shoes to take care of practically all the orphans, the gift of John Colantone, proprietor of a shoe store on Morris avenue, bearing his name. Mr. Colantone has been helping the Unico group by giving new shoes to the orphans, Nuns and girl helpers at the St. Wallberga Orphanage. The next important project of the Springfield Unico Ladies will be to bring complete Thanksgiving Day dinners for 125 at the orphanage.

Other important gifts for the Orphanage include enough vitamins for all the children, clothing and other necessities.

A big Christmas party is also being planned with gifts for all the children at St. Wallberga.

Other projects by the Unico Ladies include three scholarships for the pupils at Regional High School, Florence M. Gaudineer and St. James.

In order to raise funds for all of the welfare and charity projects, the Unico Ladies have planned a luncheon and card party to be held at B. Altman & Co., December 23, the proceeds to go toward carrying out the program at the Orphanage. Plans have also been made for a dance to be held in the Spring as part of the fund raising program.

The Springfield Unico Ladies group was organized only last February and they have already done a great deal of work in this area. The ladies who have de-

Mr. Carton's firm has been affiliated with North American since 1952.

Charter Study Group Is Ready to Start Survey

Workers, officers and newly elected Commissioners for the Springfield Charter Study have arranged for a dinner to be held at the China Sky Restaurant next Wednesday at 7:30 P.M.

While the dinner has been planned for relaxation, several important matters concerning the Charter Study program will be discussed. Certification of election is expected to be in the hands of the newly elected Commissioners who will be formally sworn in some time next week.

The people of Springfield are thanked for their support in the following submitted to the Sun: Editor, Sun:

While this letter is addressed to you as Editor of the Springfield Sun, I am imposing on your good offices to convey to all those persons who cooperated so fully and who unstintingly gave up many hours of their time to bring our job to a successful conclusion far beyond the expectations of all of us, our many thanks.

Since it is impossible for me to thank each one individually, although I have attempted to do so, I am taking this means to extend my heartfelt thanks to all those who worked for our cause. Our success in this undertaking was not due to the efforts of any particular individual but was accomplished by the cooperation and concentrated efforts of all concerned working as a team with one goal in mind. I want to mention in particular the cooperation I received from the members who comprise the Springfield Organization for Charter Study. I would like to state at this point that I have never worked with a group who applied themselves so diligently and worked so smoothly and with a total absence of friction. It was indeed a pleasure to be associated with them.

I would also like to extend my sincere thanks to the League of Women Voters of Springfield for their untiring efforts on behalf of our cause.

I want to thank all those who helped materially for without this material help, we would have been seriously handicapped in our effort.

If perchance I have overlooked anyone, I can assure you that it was not intentional and my sincere thanks goes out to my many friends in Springfield for their cooperation and encouragement.

Letters to Editor

Dear Sir:

On behalf of the Springfield Methodist Church, Springfield, New Jersey, I wish to express our appreciation for the many notices that your paper printed regarding our Annual Fair and Supper last week. It was a huge success, influenced, no doubt, by the service you rendered for us. Thank you for your time and consideration.

New Pastor Speaks To Holy Name Soc.

The monthly Holy Name meeting of St. James was opened last night by a brief address from the new pastor, Father Farrell.

Congratulating the group for the excellent turnout and fine spirit of cooperation, he asked for their continued support. He also asked that the society be continually mindful in all of its planned activities that it is essentially a spiritual organization.

During the regular meeting a program planning committee was formed. This committee will work out a schedule of events and dates correlated with the church calendar and submit recommendations at the next meeting. Members were advised that the regular first Friday Nocturnal Hour of Adoration will be from 9 to 10 o'clock at St. Mary's Church in Elizabeth. By next month, it is hoped that we will have a schedule incorporating our society into the national "round the clock" nocturnal watch.

After the regular business meeting, Father Edward gave a talk on the influence at work today undermining religious faith.

"Members could effectively cooperate in countering these forces," Father Edward said, "by insuring a sound religious education of the children."

After his talk there was an open forum on the subject. Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the evening.

Election Sidelights—Both Republican and Democratic Poll workers in the 7th and 8th districts had an unexpected treat shortly after George Rynar cast his vote. Mr. Rynar, who owns the G and L Deli-ettes on Morris avenue, sent them a carton full of delicious sandwiches and coffee.

Speaking of food, the Democrats were treated to a tasty buffet after they calmed down enough to think of food. Mrs. Bonadies seemed to have an endless supply of goodies that appeared as if by magic.

Lucille Hargrove, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hargrove Jr. of 125 Salter street, has been smitten by fire engines, firehouses, and firemen ever since hearing about Fire Prevention Week in her kindergarten class. This suggested an unusual theme for her fifth birthday party held on November 8. All the little guests wore firehats and each received a souvenir fire engine. The group of fire chiefs included Lucille's sister Janice, Judy Belcuore, Judy Emmel, Cynthia Kistner, Jeffrey Kroeger, Janice Melroy and Richard Stender.

Dinner at the Newarker complete with a birthday cake and sparklers set the scene for the 7th birthday of Stanley Yablonsky who was feted on that happy day by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. Yablonsky of 215 Hillside avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Shiel of 96 Wabeno avenue have returned home after a 12 day Bermuda vacation.

Birthday greetings to Phyllis Andrew, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Andrew of 21 Cottler avenue. Phyllis was 8 years old on November 3.

Add a note of birthday cheer to little Frank Frieri who was feted by his family on his third birthday on November 5. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Frieri of 753 South Springfield avenue.

Among the newer arrivals in town are Mr. and Mrs. Glenn DePuy formerly of St. Louis and now residing at 70 Adams terrace. They have a daughter, Diane, who is 10 years of age.

Jeffrey Kroeger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Kroeger of 142 Salter street celebrated his 4th birthday at a party on November 6. Jeffrey's guests were Bill Steffy, Carl Mende, Judy Belcuore, Lucille Hargrove, Judy Emmel and Cathy Handville.

Birthday time for Randi Hendrickson was November 9. Randi, who was 10 years old, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hendrickson of 76 Kipling avenue.

Teacher to Act As Panelist

Miss H. Virginia Stackfleth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Stackfleth, of 83 Kipling avenue will attend the New Jersey Education Association Convention in Atlantic City, November 7 and 8. At the request of the National Education Association's Travel Division, Miss Stackfleth will be one of the New Jersey teacher travelers, who will act as a panelist. The moderator of the panel will be Dr. Charles Reid of the school of education, City College of New York and mayor of Hastings on Hudson.

The topic the panel will discuss is "Ways in Which Our Teaching Has Been Enriched Because of Travel Experiences," on November 8 at 9:30 in Convention Hall. Miss Stackfleth is a teacher in the Belleville School System and has travelled through Europe, the United States, Mexico, Canada, Hawaii and the Caribbean.

Sometimes a man gets a reputation for courage by not getting frightened until it is too late to run.

Couple in Nassau For Free Vacation

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Baumgarten of 314 Northview terrace arrived in Nassau in the Bahamas a week ago for an 8-day expense-free vacation-convention awarded by the Fedders air-conditioning company in New York.

Mr. Baumgarten, who is associated with the firm of Public Service E. and G. Co., Newark, won the luxurious trip for his sales of Fedders air conditioners during the past year.

A treasure hunt around the city is just one of the many highlights of the activities set up especially for Fedders' guests. The treasure is a sackful of 500 silver dollars to be delivered in an armored truck at the residence of its winner. Guests are also being entertained by top show business talent.

50-Year Members Honored at Church

A special recognition service was held on Sunday at the First Presbyterian Church for those who have been members of this church for over 50 years.

Special recognition was given to Miss Lizzie Kessler of 257 Short Hills Avenue who has been a continuous member for 80 years and is the oldest living church member.

Those in attendance were: Misses Caroline and Flora Day, Miss Marion Gardner, Mrs. William N. Heard, Mr. M. Herbert Higgins, Mrs. Clifford Willis. Those who were unable to attend because of illness or residence elsewhere are: Mrs. Albert Cain, Mrs. Harvey Roberts, Mrs. Benjamin Woodruff, Miss Elsie Leber. These members were presented with corsages and boutonnières upon entering the Church.

The records of the church show that the First Service held in the present building was held on November 11, 1781. Hence it is most fitting that this day is annually observed as Recognition Sunday.

Deborah Doings

This will inaugurate a weekly column dealing with the purposes and doings of the Suburban Deborah League, an Auxiliary of Deborah Sanatorium and Hospital in Browns Mills, New Jersey, a free non-sectarian hospital for the treatment of tuberculosis, operable heart disease, chest cancer and all allied chest diseases.

Suburban Deborah's annual contribution reached a new high this year. Mrs. Allen Borsky, president, presented a check for $5450.00 to the hospital at the annual National Donor held at Grossingers Hotel. Those attending the National Donor from the Suburban chapter thoroughly enjoyed their weekend.

B. Altman's was the scene of a very successful fashion show and luncheon. The flu made some substitutes in the committees and models. Mrs. Anya Grammatoseo, Mrs. Koslowsky, Mrs. Irene Weiss, Mrs. Frankie Zurav, Mrs. Noema Lehrhoff, Miss Jody Cohen and Miss Marie Berg did an outstanding job of modeling the new look for this year. Mrs. Cluett, Altman's fashion coordinator and commentator made the afternoon most enjoyable for over 100 women who attended. Mrs. Zivill Szeplid did an able job of introducing the show for the chairman, Mrs. Harriet Himmel, who was at home with the flu.

New Jersey has twenty-three State parks with almost 27,000 acres, 11 State forests with more than 150,000 acres.

Congratulations

to the people of Springfield upon the dedication of their new Municipal Building on Sunday, Nov. 17, 1957.

We, the youngest member of the Springfield family, take pride in the colonial town hall as a fitting symbol of the community's historical heritage and contemporary progress.

RECIPE

for a perfect Thanksgiving dinner

1. Take one family--starve them for four or five hours.
2. Add one tender, juicy turkey with all the trimmings--stuffing, fresh vegetables, and (mmm) giblet gravy.
3. Pop the turkey in the flameless electric range, set the timer and relax. The exact, even, electric heat brings the bird to its succulent best without searing or burning. There's less shrinkage, too. And no basting is necessary.
4. Let the vegetables simmer in their own natural juices on the flameless electric surface units (no more than a half cup of water needed). Electric heat pampers the flavor and vitamins--gives you healthier, tastier vegetables every time.
5. Mix the family with these electrically cooked delights. Then join the taste treat yourself.
6. THE RESULTS: One happy, satisfied family who'll praise your cooking to the roof. (And it was all done automatically on a flameless electric range.) SIMPLE, HMMM?

Crestmont Picks

cellent and warm hosts. They greeted those whom they did not know by name, introduced those who were not acquainted with one another, and seemed generally happy about the whole idea. In addition to the steaks," this thick," the magic of Martini mixing and the general feeling of good fellowship, the big feature of Tuesday's luncheon was that there was no speech making. There were a few words of greetings from the Crestmont "brass" and Albert G. Binder re-joined with a very good "welcome to Springfield, men, and let's have more of these" talk. There was very little—if any—talk of politics but every table managed to keep some interesting topic of conversation going, and only the serving of the steaks caused a temporary lull in the discussions.

While no guest list was available, those present at the "let's know one another" luncheon read almost like "who's who" in Springfield. A great many others were invited by Crestmont who could not be present because of previous commitments but, in prone position over their juick steaks were seen Mayor Albert G. Binder, Township Committeemen Frederick A. Hardville, Raymond W. Forbes and Vincent J. Bonadies; Postmaster A. V. Del Vecchio; Carlye Richards, Robert Bunnell, Building Inspector Wilbert Binder, Former Judge Felix Forlenza, Raymond Wiley, Benjamin J. Chadwick, Edward Cardinal, John Gausam, Timothy J. Sheehan, Lawrence Chidester, John Schable, Jean Marti, School Superintendent Benjamin Newswanger, Dr. Ralph L. Mond, Ike Freedom, Arthur L. Sun in Hot Water

sheet in Springfield, N. J. has come to the conclusion that this university shouldn't be publicized because its supporters believe black and white peas should be planted in separate rows. "As for the news editor, he's entitled to his opinion—that's what made this a great country. And just as important, we're entitled to ours—that is, we still believe black and white peas go in separate rows. Mississippi doesn't need any hybrids. Not for a long time."

Feeling seems to run just as high close to home. Mrs. Morris Lynch, who moved into Troy Village recently cancelled her subscription to the Springfield SUN because of this. She had only received the paper five times before getting angry at us. The general feeling among Mr. Hartman, Mrs. Lynch, and the editors of the University of Mississippi newspaper is that they can get along just as well without us. If, only, that were true. How much easier it would be if the peoples of Corinth, Miss. and Springfield, N. J. could get along without each other? But the fact is that our security depends upon what the world thinks of both of us. At the moment nothing is so damaging to American security as the segregation of schools in the South. The Springfield SUN has spent $3.00 (on subscription rebate to Mrs. Lynch plus postage) to show that Springfield is involved in what happens in Mississippi. It was money well spent.

THE FIRST MEETING PLACE. Combination Town Hall (up stairs) and school in Springfield, located at the east end of Academy Green. It was built about 1859 and destroyed by fire in 1901. (Photograph loaned by Springfield Public Library)

OLD SECTION OF PRESENT TOWN HALL. This part of the Municipal Building was officially dedicated June 23, 1922, and altered to include the new section just completed because of the rapid growth of Springfield.

Story of Springfield - Starting When Millburn, Short Hills, Parts of Summit and Maplewood Belonged To the Township

By DONALD B. PALMER
Curator, Springfield Historical Society

The official dedication of our recently remodeled and enlarged Municipal Building, scheduled for next Sunday, November 17, seems an appropriate occasion for us to examine the records and find out what the Township of Springfield had in the way of a civic center in days gone by.

The first public meeting, after the Township was incorporated by act of the New Jersey Legislature, in 1793, was held on April 14, 1794. According to the minutes of that meeting, still carefully preserved in an ancient record book, now in the custody of Township Clerk Eleonore H. Worthington, the meeting place was "the house of Abraham Woolley, Innkeeper".

The first Township Committee consisted of three members, Joseph Halsey, Samuel Potter and David Little, and their duties were to check the records of the Overseer of the Poor and the Collector of Taxes and report at the next annual meeting, also scheduled for the home of Abraham Woolley.

HELD AT HOMES
Subsequent meetings were held at the homes of various residents, and evidently this went on for many years. It should be remembered that Springfield, at that time, was a comparatively small community, in population, although it covered a rather large territory, including that now in Millburn and Short Hills, part of Summit and part of Jefferson Village, now Maplewood.

Also, the people of Turkey (now New Providence) elected to join forces with Springfield, and were under the jurisdiction of the same governing body until 1809, when they set up a township of their own.

However, evidently there was no building suitable for a public meeting, other than the Churches, and the fact that they had no heating facilities probably had some bearing on the continued use of private homes for the annual township meeting.

In 1858, the Springfield Union Academy, a semi-private school which stood in the middle of Academy Green, was destroyed by fire, and the Township was forced to provide a public school, as laws requiring public education had been passed by that time.

The property between the Methodist Church and the home of Samuel Bailey (now the Public Library), which extended from

Main Street easterly to Black's Lane, belonged to the Academy Association, and although it could have been leased, it could not be purchased.

School laws did not permit the construction of a public school on leased ground, so the Township bought a plot at the east end, just beyond the Academy Association's line, and in 1859, erected a building on the plot which was a combination school and town hall, with the town hall on the second floor.

The first Township meeting held in it was on April 9, 1860. The Academy Green was leased for a school playground. Thus Springfield acquired its first municipal building — just a little less than 100 years ago.

For many years it was the custom of the Township Committee to issue a little printed booklet each year, entitled, "Annual Report of the Township Committee", showing the cost of conducting the Township's affairs — the expenses of the Overseer of the Poor, which seems to have been a major problem from the very beginning; the expenses of the Board of Education and the Board of Health; the total amount of taxes collected, and, in the back of each booklet, a list of unpaid taxes for the preceding year.

Some of these booklets have survived, and the Springfield Library has a fairly complete set, from 1900 to 1930, when the practice of issuing them was discontinued, with a few earlier issues dating back as far as 1876. They provide some interesting figures, and since we are concerned here chiefly with the operation of the Town Hall they show that for most years between 1876 and 1901 receipts from rental of the hall for various meetings, concerts, elections, etc., were enough to cover the janitor's salary and the cost of maintenance of the building.

DESTROYED BY FIRE
On November 8, 1901, at about 5:00 A.M., fire was discovered in the Town Hall, following a medicine show held there the night before. The fire had gained such headway that it was impossible to save the building, although the Millburn Volunteer Fire Department made an heroic attempt. (This was before the organization of the Springfield Volunteer Fire Company).

Also destroyed was the adjoining house, which belonged to N. C. ("Cory") Cox, and stood on the spot now occupied by the home of Mrs. Walter Colombo. It is interesting to note that the Township records were not destroyed in this fire, and presumably this was due to the Township Clerk's habit of keeping them at his home, instead of at the Town Hall, which was fortunate, indeed.

The problem of providing new school facilities was handled by the purchase of land in Westfield Avenue, now known as "Mountain Avenue", and the construction of the James Caldwell School, the plot at the end of Academy Green being too small for the larger building required by that time.

However, the municipal government was again without a home, and meetings were held in various places, such as "Terry's old store", "home of L. T. Terry", other homes, and a few times at the new school.

The $1800 paid by the insurance company for the loss of the building in "Academy Green" was kept in a special "Town Hall Account", and by 1920 had been built up to $3,337.23.

Meanwhile, a referendum submitted to the voters in the election of November 8th, 1910, "Shall the membership of the Township Committee be increased to five?" was carried by a vote of 78 to 31, and two new members were added to the Governing Body the following year.

URGENT NEW BUILDING
In 1921, it was decided that it was high time Springfield had a municipal building, and an ordinance was passed authorizing the use of the "Town Hall Fund" for the purchase of a site. The land on which the present Municipal Building stands was then bought for the sum of $2,850.

Presumably, the plot extended from Mountain Avenue through to Elemer Avenue, as it does now. It is said that there was a pond of water on it, just east of the original building, and this is borne out by the type of earth uncovered during the excavation for the addition just completed.

At any rate, there are two items in the report on the cost of the original building: "Dirt for Filling — Delivered — $510" and "Carting Dirt Donated, and other Team Work — $71.38", which indicate that considerable fill was required.

The next step was the sale of bonds, in the amount of $53,000; then the awarding of contracts, and the job was under way. The building was completed in the spring of 1922; furniture, fixtures and equipment purchased and placed, and Springfield's Municipal Building was ready for business. The total cost of building and grounds is given in the report for that year as $62,801.44.

The formal dedication of the building was arranged for June 23, 1922, so as to fall on the 142nd anniversary of the Battle of Springfield.

COMMUNITY CENTER
The 1922 Municipal Building soon became the center of community activity. The Fire Department moved in with its little Reo hose wagon, which was soon replaced by the Township's first piece of modern apparatus, a Mack-chemical, hose-and-ladder truck.

The Police Department, which consisted mainly of Chief Edward Ruban, with occasional extra men hired for special duty, now had a headquarters and a jail.

Both the Fire Department and the jail had been housed in a little wooden building on Morris Avenue, about halfway between Mountain Avenue and Keeler Street. Rev. William Hopps, then Township Treasurer, was provided with an office on the south side of the building, and the public was notified that he would no longer accept payments of taxes at his home.

An auditorium, which occupied the entire second floor, with a stage at the east end, was equipped with movable chairs, so that the floor could be cleared for dancing, and the Fire Department Dinner, held on Washington's Birthday each year, was followed by a dance upstairs. The Police Department held an annual dance on Thanksgiving Eve. Entertainments and meetings of many kinds made use of the auditorium.

It was also provided with basketball equipment, and was the home court of the "Springfield Lassies", the latest girl basketball team ever seen in this vicinity. This team was composed of Daisy Ruban, Helen Conley, Dorothy Mermin, Emma Ruby, Helen Bentz, Caroline Nuse and Helen Rauter, and the manager was Al Schmandt. They were so good that the team was booked for a game at the old Madison Square Garden, in New York City, where they played against a team called "The Inwood Girls". Although the Springfield girls didn't win the game, they made a very creditable showing before a large audience.

BECAME CROWDED
As the Township grew and the departments increased in size, it became necessary to reduce the size of the auditorium, leaving just room enough for Township Committee meetings and Police Court hearings. The remainder of the second floor was remodeled to provide offices for the Tax Col-

Mayor's 7-Man Citizens Group Helped In Plan

Springfield's new Municipal Building—being dedicated this Sunday afternoon—is the culmination of an exhaustive study made by a 7-man citizens committee named by Mayor Albert G. Binder "to thoroughly explore the need of a new town hall."

The members named by Mayor Binder were: James M. Symington, now president of the Public Service Coordinated Transport Company; George D. Harrison, then president of the Springfield Board of Education; Richard T. Bunnell, member of the local firm of Bunnell Bros.; Raymond W. Forbes, now Township Committeeman and then President of the Union County Regional Board of Education; Thomas A. Argyris, with the Prudential Insurance Company legal department in Newark; William C. Chirgottis, well known architect; and Sam O. Sarokin, publisher of the Springfield Sun.

Regular meetings were held, with Mayor Binder participating, several sites visited as possible locations for a new municipal building, and, finally, it was the unanimous decision that best and most economical plan was to enlarge the present facilities.

Conferences were held with the Township's finance officials and when it was determined that the money was available for a full program of alteration and addition, the "go ahead" signal was given.

Mr. Chirgottis, under whose direct supervision the entire job was done, gave the Mayor's Citizens Committee a great deal of his time in estimating the costs for constructing a new wing to the present library, a new public garage and an elaborate addition to the Municipal Building.

Heads-of-every-department-in-Springfield were invited to appear before the committee and recommend the space needed for the proper administration of their offices. All these suggestions were taken into consideration by the committee and Mr. Chirgottis then began to submit a series of rough plans to incorporate all the space needs.

The new wing to the Public Library and the Public Garage have been completed and in use for some time. The Town Hall, while being occupied by various departments since September, is being formally dedicated Sunday afternoon.

Township Committeeman For-lector and the Township Clerk, and the former Tax Office was added to the Fire Department's space.

During the "depression" days of the late 1930's, relief activities were conducted from the Municipal Building, and throughout World War II, Civil Defense and Red Cross work was centered in the building. During the Korean War, a Civil Defense control center was located on the second floor.

The addition to the building just completed will give all departments room enough in which to operate with greater comfort and increased efficiency. This relief from overcrowded conditions has been long awaited and much needed. In the Municipal Building civic center of which the residents of 1957 Springfield again has a may well feel proud.

HOW IT STARTED! Mayor Albert G. Binder named a 7-man Citizens group to study need for new Town Hall, which eventually led to the remodeled Municipal Building. Mayor Binder, working with the Committee, helped formulate plans, explored the financing and spent considerable time on the project.

Old Section of Town Hall Was Opened in 1922

The old portion of the Municipal Building was completed and dedicated 35 years ago, the exact date of the ceremonies being Friday, June 23, 1922. It was a program for the afternoon dedication exercises and a band concert and dance in the evening.

The ceremonies for the official opening of the new Town Hall were arranged on this date to coincide with the 142nd anniversary of the Battle of Springfield. Following is a copy of the original printed program, taken from the records kept at the Springfield Public Library:

Nothing symbolizes Springfield's progress more than the new Municipal Building. Colonial in style, modern in concept, this building will go even further in unifying the town. We salute the members of the present Township Committee for looking as realistically to the future as they provide for the needs of the present in the new town hall.

Architect Did Excellent Job For Town Hall

The man who designed Springfield's glittering new town hall, architect William G. Chirgotis, says he is "very much satisfied with the results from an architectural point of view."

Chirgotis handled the difficult problem of designing a new building that would dovetail perfectly with an old one.

"Getting the new partitions to join perfectly with the old and still make the building look unified was the problem," the architect commented.

He thinks Springfield got a great deal for its expenditure, stating that few towns have all municipal services, administrative, police, fire, etc., combined in one building.

"We kept the flavor early American colonial throughout," Chirgotis remarked. "And, at the same time, I don't think the interior could be improved on for modern efficiency."

Chirgotis pointed out that, even in Union, where they have just spent close to a million dollars on a new town hall, all the municipal activities haven't been brought together.

"In most suburban towns you have to travel all over town to see the tax collector, town clerk, police chief, and board of health," he said, "in Springfield they are all under one roof."

Chirgotis thinks the members of the Mayor's Citizens Committee are to be commended for getting everything under one roof as much as anybody else. He says they are the ones who wisely recommended that the new municipal building be an addition to the old building. Their farsightedness, according to the architect, has created one of the nicest town halls in the area.

"With the new town hall, the American Legion Headquarters, the First Aid Squad Headquarters, the General Greene Village and Regional High School all facing each other with unifying architectural design, we have a beautiful center to Springfield."

Pro Entertainers At Hadassah Lunch

Mrs. Nathan Sherman, president of the Springfield Chapter of Hadassah, invites members to a paid-up membership luncheon which will take place at Temple Beth Ahm on Wednesday, November 20, at 12:30 p.m.

The afternoon has been planned by Mrs. Fred Braun, Membership Chairman. The luncheon is being prepared by Mrs. Ralph Jacobson and her hospitality committee. Mrs. Martin Berger will bring greetings from Northern New Jersey Region of Hadassah.

The program committee is bringing to Springfield the mother and daughter team, "Sandy and Jill," professional radio and television entertainers. "Sandy" is a former singer with the Horace Heidt Orchestra, and "Jill" has appeared on the Horn and Hardart Children's Television Show. They will be accompanied by their coach and arranger, Blanche Zeller.

In addition to the customary door prizes, there will be other surprises for everyone. All members are urged to attend. Those with baby sitters problems contact Mrs. I. J. Gershen at DRexel 8-5772.

Girls on Altman Advisory Board

B. Altman & Co.'s junior advisory board will present a fashion show for teenagers on Saturday morning, November 18 at ten o'clock. Fashions will include sports, afternoon, date and evening clothes.

The junior advisory board represents public and private high school seniors in this area. Carol Fox and Carole Powell of Springfield are members of the group.

Town Officials And All Employees Very Happy

Much to the surprise of nobody the people, who work day in and day out in the new municipal building, have nothing but good things to say about it.

If you ask anybody how their new offices compare with the old town hall they just laugh.

"Are you kidding?" The new facilities have more air, much more light, twice as much room, and new comfortable chairs to enjoy it all in.

Not only is it more pleasant to work for the township now, but the work efficiency has increased enormously according to Mrs. Eleanore H. Worthington, township clerk.

She summed it up by saying "Every time you want something you don't have to lift up 16 other things first."

Mrs. Worthington now has a desk almost as big as her job. The huge ping pong table in her office is still the repository of all the township problems, only now you can see the desk top occasionally. But everything will be cleared away by Sunday.

The township clerk pointed out some of the less obvious advantages of the new building. She says there are now sufficient cabinet space and closets to hold the masses of forms and papers the township must keep on hand. The new walk-in fire-proof vault is sufficiently large to hold township records going back to the first town meeting in 1794. As near as possible a complete record has been kept of births and deaths in Springfield.

Everything Modern Mrs. Worthington describes the interior of the municipal building as a "functional modern office building." The colonial exterior gives way to an efficient interior that makes, according to Mrs. Worthington, "us feel like coming to work in the morning."

The new furniture that sparkles throughout the building was purchased from the Columbia Steel Office Furniture Co. at a great saving owing to the fact that L. S. Stevens, of town, is an official of the firm.

He and Mrs. Worthington toured the Columbia plant last summer to select the grey desks, green cushioned chairs and innumerable spacious filing cabinets that fill the building.

The finest compliment Mrs. Worthington could give to the building was that it was "well-worth the summer in Hades" that township officials suffered while operating out of the temporary quarters at 59 Mountain avenue.

The first person you meet upon entering the township clerk's office is Mrs. Dorothy Talian, the switchboard operator. If you're lucky you'll meet Miss Helen Mager, the visiting nurse who is usually visiting. Miss Mager calls on all reported cases of communicable diseases, childbirths, patients who need nursing care and nursing needs at the St.

PUSHED PROGRESS—Township Committeeman Raymond W. Forbes, as head of the Department of Public Works, kept all the contractors "on target" by giving the new town hall much of his time and experience. Obstacles were licked by Mr. Forbes' personal attention to the many problems during construction. He was president of the Regional High School Board of Education when named to the Mayor's Citizens Committee. He was later elected to the Township Committee and named chairman of the Public Works Department in Springfield, under whose supervision the Municipal Building construction job was completed.

James Parochial School. Also in the township clerk's office is Mrs. Christine Ungemah and Mrs. Betty Keller, the senior and junior clerks respectively.

Ask Mrs. Alice Cosgrove in the tax collector's office on the first floor what she thinks of her new quarters and she says:

"We were in the garage before—there's no comparison."

The most appreciated improvement in Charles Huff's tax collection office is expressed by tax payers themselves:

"We don't have to climb all those steps anymore."

Mrs. Grace Fox, secretary on the second floor, finds her office big enough to handle any extension of work in the engineer, building inspector and sanitarian offices.

Everybody Pleased Alfred H. Swenson, township engineer, seemed particularly pleased with the big office and drafting room under his control. A far cry, he said, from their old offices on Morris avenue with the trucks stopping and starting all the time.

With his assistants, Walt Kozub and Ormand Mesker, Mr. Swenson surveys, makes plans, layouts and supervises construction of such municipal projects as storm sewers, pavements, etc.

No office better illustrates the improved facilities in the municipal building than the tax assessor's rooms on the second floor. Wilbert W. Layng, the assessor, pointed out that in the old town hall he worked out of a room 6 feet by 10 feet, along with his two assistants. On the second floor of the new building, Mr. Layng has about 300 square feet of space in two rooms and in the basement he has a printing room of about 200 square feet.

The assistant assessor, Harry E. Monroe and the clerk, Mrs. Marianne Oakes, agree that the improvement is "more than wonderful."

Elsewhere in the building the police department find everything up to expectations from new locker room to chief's office to cell blocks. Only the basement pistol range is as yet uncompleted.

The firemen, who used to park the engines like building blocks, now have two more truck doors and a third again as much room. They have moved one hose truck from the Briggs Garage on Morris avenue into the new fire house and extra long ladder truck they borrowed from the Union County Fire Training School to replace the antique that went to the Battle of Springfield.

The firemen say the lounge upstairs, new dormitory, and cooking facilities downstairs make their 58 hour week on the job and 56 hour week on call "not too bad."

This from a fireman is a rave notice.

Women Attend 1st Synagogue Confab

The first conference of the Central New Jersey Branch of National Women's League of the United Synagogue of America was held on November 14, 1937 at Temple Beth Torah in Rahway. Twenty-one Sisterhoods from the Central New Jersey area were represented.

The conference was attended by Mesdames Earl Lawit, Ralph Feldman, Arthur Miniman, David Stamler, Benjamin Slapin, and Reuben Levine of the Sisterhood of Temple Beth Ahm.

The theme of the day was, "Not Words But Deeds" with Vice President Mrs. Victor Siegel of Red Bank as chairman of the day. Mrs. Saul Teplitz, National Program Chairman of the Women's League was the guest speaker and devoted the afternoon to the topic, "Fun With Music."

Our new municipal building is one of the finest in the state---combining police, fire and administrative functions all under one roof. We should be proud of the men who conceived the idea, the citizens committee. We should be proud of the men who carried out the idea, the township committee and the contractors. We are proud of the town that produced such a splendid sign of growth and prosperity.

Construction Work Was In Capable Hands

The construction men under the supervision of the Delaware Valley Construction Co. have done such a neat job in finishing up the new municipal building that everyone is afraid to mar the walls by hanging maps, calendars, etc.

The smooth plaster walls with no ceiling molding presents such an obstacle to map hanging that the police waited until this week to call in a skilled carpenter to drive two brads into the wall to hang their trouble-spotter map.

In fact all the finishing touches done under the personal direction of Delaware's president Walter L. Willcox are so exact that one is tempted to remove one's shoes when entering.

Actually, Mr. Willcox points out, everything in the building has been designed for maximum ruggedness. From the plumbing, installed by Springfield's Albert Colandrea to the heating system, installed by Springfield's Ben Yarrow, the building is a marvel of construction that should last longer than any of the people paying for it.

Doctor Attends Vision Clinic

Dr. Raymond A. Constantian of Springfield, attended a modern vision forum in New York City, November 10 and 11.

New research on vision as a factor in school reading problems was a major topic of discussion by leaders from the American Optometric Association and the local organizations in six Middle Atlantic states.

We Sure Are Proud Of Ourselves

No job has given us as much satisfaction as installing the heating system in our new municipal building. Our town should be equally proud of the beautiful new town hall.

Congratulations to our fellow workers, township officials, and the people of Springfield.

CONGRATULATIONS

The people of Springfield are well deserving of the new municipal building. We're proud to have taken part in building this town hall which demonstrates to surrounding communities that our town has come of age. We, who live and make our living in town, express our appreciation to the township officials, from the Mayor on down, for the work which resulted in this building.

History of Town Includes Turnpike Terminus Here

Near the walk leading to the front door of the Cannonball house, one may see a milestone bearing the inscription "7 miles to Newark." Its original location was the intersection of Morris and Springfield Avenues, western terminus of the Springfield-Newark turnpike.

On March 3, 1806, the New Jersey Legislature passed "an Act to incorporate the Springfield and Newark Turnpike Company." It provided that "Samuel Peunington, Moses N. Combs, Joseph T. Baldwin, Matthias Denman and Abraham Woolley be authorized to receive subscriptions for erecting a turnpike road; not more than six or less than four rods wide, from Springfield to Newark; that such subscriptions should consist of eight hundred shares of twenty-five dollars each; that as soon as our hundred shares should be subscribed, the said Samuel Penington, Moses N. Combs, Joseph T. Baldwin, Matthias Denman and Abraham Woolley, or a majority of stockholders, to choose a president and seven directors; that the said president and directors should be called and known by the name of 'The President and Directors of The Springfield and Newark Turnpike Company,' and should have all the powers, rights and privileges incident to a body politic and corporate, for the purposes in said act mentioned, for the term of ninety-nine years."

and it was further enacted "that the president and directors aforesaid should have the power to appoint all such agents and servants as they should deem necessary for carrying into effect the powers vested by the said Act, and after completion of the road, it was the duty of the Governor of the State to issue a license to permit said directors to erect gates and turnpikes across the said road, and to demand and receive toll at the same, for each and every mile of the said road according to the following rates: for every carriage, sleigh or sled drawn by one beast, one cent; for every additional beast, one cent, for every beast exceeding four, two cents.

and it was further enacted that before the said company should receive toll for traveling said road, they should cause milestones or posts to be erected and maintained, one for each and every mile on said road, and on each stone or post there should be clearly and legibly marked the distance the said stone or post is from Newark, and also should cause to be affixed and always kept up, at the gates or gates aforesaid, in some conspicuous place, a printed list of the rates of toll which might be lawfully demanded, and also a board on which should be printed in large letters "KEEP TO THE RIGHT AS THE LAW DIRECTS."

And it was further enacted "that if any person should willfully break, throw down, or deface, any of the milestones or posts so erected on the said road for the information of the people traveling the same, or willfully tear down, or willfully cut, break down, destroy or deface the table of tolls, or should or otherwise injure any gates, turnpikes or bridges that should be erected in pursuance of said Act, or should forcibly pass the same without having paid the legal toll at such gate or turnpike, such person or persons should forfeit and pay a fine not exceeding twenty dollars, besides being subject to an act of damages for the same, to be recovered by the said corporation to their use, with costs of suit; and if any person should, with his team, carriage, or horse turn out of said road to pass a toll due by virtue of said act, such person should forfeit and pay THREE TIMES as much as the legal toll would have been for passing through the said gates."

It is a matter of record that the authorities experienced considerable trouble collecting tolls, the farmers and others needing to travel inventing ingenious ways of avoiding payment. Our own Shunpike Road, having been cut through to by-pass the Morris Turnpike, is a monument to those who felt it a patriotic duty to "shun the pikes." However, it is surprising to find that even after passage of half a century, certain irreconcilables were keeping up the fight against the Turnpike authority.

On October 29, 1960, David W. Baldwin, Justice of the Peace in Newark, issued a summons for one James Jamison of Clinton Township, Essex County. The summons was served by Constable J. W. Wood on October 30. On November

5, Jamison was tried on complaint of the Springfield and Newark Turnpike Company. The company charged that the defendant "did willfully break down, destroy, and otherwise injure one of the gates or turnpikes erected in pursuance of the Act of March 3, 1806, and did forcibly pass the same, without having paid the legal toll of such gate or turnpike, contrary to the said Act; by reason, whereof and by force of the said Act, an action hath accrued to the plaintiff's to demand and have of and from the said defendant the sum of twenty dollars, with costs of suit; according to the form of the act aforesaid."

"And the plaintiffs further demand of the said defendant the sum of fourteen dollars and sixty-cents due the plaintiffs from the defendant for tolls receivable at the gate or turnpike in said Clinton Township nearest the boundary line of Newark, for passing over TWO MILES OF SAID ROAD AND THROUGH SAID GATE SEVEN HUNDRED AND THIRTY TIMES, including going and returning, between the first day of July 1859 and the first day of October 1860, with a carriage drawn by one beast."

The parties appeared before Justice Baldwin in Essex County Court for the trial of Small Causes. The defendant raised many objections to the suit, but was overruled. He then demanded a jury trial, and paid one dollar and eighty-four cents in advance for the selection and seating of six jurors. Plaintiffs offered four witnesses and defendant ten. "The matter being argued by the respective counsel, was submitted to the jury who retired; after due deliberation they returned and rendered a verdict through their foreman that they find a verdict for the plaintiffs in the sum of three dollars and fifty cents, and costs as follows: issue of summons 15 cents; constable's return 5 cents; trial fee 25 cents; two witnesses fees one dollar; mileage 18 cents; issuing two subpoenas 14 cents; serving same 50 cents, taxing cost 10 cents; recording judgment 10 cents." (From the trial record.)

MUNICIPAL BUILDING

We've grown with the town in the last few years and are proud to join in celebrating the completion of our new town hall. It is an accomplishment that the entire town can take great pride in—for it brings under one roof all the functions of government for the greater convenience of citizens and officials alike.

We at Crestmont celebrated our third birthday in the building pictured above several weeks ago. During our three short years in Springfield our assets have grown from $180,000 to $6,190,498. What better reflection is there of the expansion and maturing of Springfield in recent years? The new town hall is a fitting symbol of that growth.

TO PREVENT READING DISABILITY—Teacher ties through remedial reading program utilized in instructing student in overcoming reading difficulties at the local elementary schools.

medial reading program can bring success to each child according to his abilities. It will have gone a long way toward reaching a major goal of the educational program.

Regional Director On Campus Staff

Dr. Randolph T. Jacobsen, principal of the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Springfield, was recently selected to become a member of the Board of Educational Directors of the Florham Park Campus of Fairleigh Dickinson University.

The Board of Educational Directors were selected by Dr. Peter Sanmartino, president of the university, to develop the Florham Park Campus. Fairleigh Dickinson at present has campuses at Rutherford and Teaneck.

Dr. Jacobsen will also serve as chairman of a committee in the evaluation of Burlington High School on December 11, 12, and 13. This is in connection with the Middle Atlantic States Association Commission on Secondary Schools for the purpose of determining accreditation for schools.

Investigating the Schools Remedial Reading Program

Reading is generally recognized as a most important subject in the elementary schools. Proficient reading is essential as a tool for learning much of the subject matter throughout the successive school levels. Reading as a leisure-time activity has an important role in the lives of both children and adults. If one can read well, he can function more effectively in daily activities, achieve more satisfactorily in school learnings, satisfy emotional and intellectual needs, maintain better personal and social adjustment, better appreciate our cultural heritage, and be a better citizen.

The need for successful achievement is fundamental at all educational levels. In the well-organized instructional program, therefore, there is an emphasis upon the prevention of reading disability. Reading difficulties vary from minor to very severe. When minor difficulties occur and are not recognized and promptly corrected, their inhibiting effects tend to become cumulative and frequently result in severe disability. We realize that many reading difficulties can be fore-stalled. Others can be corrected in their initial stages by the classroom teacher at a time when corrections are relatively easy. Emotional disturbances are likely to accompany reading disability. In many cases, such maladjustment is due to frustration in the learning situation. If it were possible in day-to-day teaching to provide for each pupil's progress in terms of his capabilities, less occasion for remedial work would arise. But even with the best teaching and in the best organized program, certain children will be in difficulty serious enough to require remedial instruction over and beyond that given by the classroom teacher. Realizing these truths, the Springfield Schools have taken the extra step in developing a successful remedial reading program by providing a remedial reading teacher, Mrs. Lillian Hayward, who works with children in grades two through five having reading disabilities.

To obtain the best results children are placed in small groups of four to six based on their reading level. This grouping allows time for diagnosis of each case. The best learning situation for each child is arranged after a thorough study of the findings has been made. From time to time the groupings are evaluated. A child who has not been able to find success in one group, may do well in another. The children spend two one-hour periods each week in the remedial reading class. Here there is a relaxed atmosphere, and every effort is made to promote good rapport between the students and the teacher. This is important to the success of the pupils. Often a child who hesitates to try in the presence of his classmates will become more confident in the remedial reading room and, consequently, make more satisfactory progress.

The remedial reading program is based on more than an understanding of the child's reading needs. It must also consider any handicap the child may have. The child who is hard-of-hearing, for instance, needs a different approach to reading than does his counterpart with normal hearing. The child who is a slow learner needs modified methods and so does the child who is emotionally disturbed. Inasmuch as each case is different, there can be no one approach which will lead to the solution of all reading problems. Many times remedial training suited to one child would be detrimental to another. Remedial instruction must be modified from time to time as the child progresses in reading. Often a child who is having difficulty in learning changes rapidly in respect to his instructional need and for this reason diagnosis is a constant part of the program.

These children are exposed to a variety of experiences and techniques, so that each one may have the opportunity to succeed according to his own potential. If the re-

An enjoyable time was spent a week ago Monday at a Troop-Parents Meeting sponsored by the Presbyterian Men's Club. We wish to thank the Club for having the Scouts and their parents as their guests.

The Troop now has 4 First Class and 12 Second Class Scouts. Jeffrey Ward, Al Stender, Lynn Redfield and Gene Johnson joined the Second Class ranks and received their awards at the Men's Club Reception. Awards were also presented to Kit Kennedy, Hammett and Alan Isley who became First Class Scouts. Merit Badges for advanced scouting were given to Tom Goghegan, Alan Isley, Kit Kennedy and Ron Gibbins. Mike and Pete Besch, who were unable to attend, will be presented with their Merit Badges at our next meeting.

After a Scout Demonstration of Camping, Fire-making, Compass reading, Knot-tying, First-Aid, etc., the boys and their parents enjoyed refreshments served by the Men's Club. We all had a wonderful time.

You can't expect people to see their own faults when there are so many others around.

TAKING CARE OF YOUR GARDEN

By Edward A. Cardinal
Chairman, Springfield Shade Tree Commission

Trees are now showing their beautiful fall coloring. Some trees turn a dull yellow, while others are a splash of every color in the rainbow. Sweet and sour gum, sugar and red maples and oaks provide the showiest colors, and these trees should be considered in fall plantings. Norway maple and sycamores, while providing excellent shade, are rather dull as far as fall coloring is concerned and should be relegated to the curbing for street trees. It is hard to raise grass under the Norway maple because of the dense shade, so other trees might be better suited where the lawn is to be considered.

QUESTION: I have a soggy, wet back yard and hear that a willow will soak up the water. What is your opinion?

ANSWER: Contrary to what you hear a weeping willow will probably die back in a wet spot. Although you will find them along brooks and lakes they do not like to be planted in a place where there is no drainage. Very few plants will stand this condition.

QUESTION: Last year you had some articles in your column about fall care of roses. Will you please repeat them for the newcomers?

ANSWER: I am glad you liked the information and I intend to have a column on roses in the near future. Meanwhile let them bloom and enjoy the flowers as long as possible.

QUESTION: Is it too late to fertilize my lawn?

ANSWER: No, in fact a liberal amount of organic fertilizer at this time will keep your lawn a beautiful green color until winter sets in. What fertilizer is not used this fall will stay in the soil until next spring and start your lawn growing early in March. Don't
