stallation of officers for next year took place at this meeting. Mrs. George Lord, past-president of the Seattle, Washington P.T.A. conducted the installation of the following officers: President, Mrs. J. Frank Jakobsen; Vice-President, Mrs. Victor Bracht; Secretary, Mrs. Robert Isley; Treasurer, Mr. Robert Ojehoff.

A Physical Education demonstration by Gaudineer students, under the direction of Miss Geraldine Finch and Mr. Norman LeBoeuf followed the business meeting. The program consisted of: The Charleston by 8th grade girls; Scooter Cagball by 7th and 8th grade boys; Scooter Relays by 8th grade girls; Ball Bouncing by 7th grade girls; Volleyball Championships by 7th and 8th grade boys; Square Dancing by 6th and 7th grade boys and girls; Roller Skate Square Dancing by 8th grade boys and girls; Rope Skipping by 6th grade girls; Tumbling by 7th and 8th grade boys; Folk Dancing by 7th grade boys and girls, and Social Dancing by 8th grade boys and girls.

SPRINGFIELD — The Spring County Council meeting will be held Thursday evening, May 7th at 7:45 P.M. in the Scotch Plains High School, Westfield Road, Scotch Plains. Supper will be served at 6:30 in the Cafeteria, but reservations must be made before May 1. Price, $2.50.

Guest speaker will be Mr. Fred M. Hechinger, and his theme will be "What Is Right With Our Education." Mr. Hechinger has written "The Big Red Schoolhouse," recently published by Doubleday, in which he traces developments of American, Russtan, and other foreign schools, and cautions against wholesale aping of another educational system through fear. "Catching up with Russia" and "our children are behind European pupils" are the newest goads being applied to an American public already sensitive about its schools, and Mr. Hechinger warns that the extremes in education are being discarded by all countries. There is much in our own system of education that is good — it is up to us to maintain it and to improve upon it for the best results for our American culture and way of life. Mr. Hechinger was formerly education editor of the "New York Herald Tribune," and is now associate publisher of the Bridgeport, Conn. "Sunday Herald."

There will be audience participation and discussion after the speaker presents his views and recommendations.

Then onward to the Kleine Konditori in Yorkville where we were reckless with calories and enjoyed German pastries and Viennese iced coffee.

"I KNOW THEY WILL LOVE EACH OTHER"

Here they are—the winners of the three thoroughbred watchdog puppies. The letters they wrote to tell why they would like a puppy were voted by the judges to be the most appealing of all those sent in.

"I know they will love each other, and that they deserve many happy years together."

"Everyone at Eastern joins in congratulating the winners and thanking all of our neighbors who took part in the contest."

The results of soil tests, held at the Cardinal's Garden Center last Saturday, showed that most people are liming properly. Almost everyone questioned lined once a year, and the one person who applied two applications last year brought the pH up to neutral, which is satisfactory, although a little on the high side. The conclusion is that lime can be applied about once yearly, but at a rate of about 25 pounds per 1000 square feet. To be on the safe side, have a lime test made every few years. If you have not already fertilized the lawn, and it has a poor color, or appears stunted, by all means get a good heavy application of fertilizer on it at once. It will amaze you to see it turn green within a week, or two and start growing with increased vigor.

Q—I seeded my lawn a month ago, but very little seed has sprouted. Should I apply more seed to this area?
A—Good seed takes nearly a month to germinate under normal conditions. At this time of year it sometimes takes longer. I feel that your seed will start to ger-were quite dangerous, but the modern ones are clearly labeled as to toxicity. No death to man, birds, or animals has come to my attention in recent times. However, always use caution in applying any chemical. Inhale as little as possible, and wash your hands after using. The only danger would be in leaving them around where infants, or young children might drink them. Generally speaking, I would say you have very little to fear with prepared garden insecticides, or weed killers, but keep the kiddies off the lawn until you have had time to water in the chemicals, or until a good rain has washed the chemicals off the grass.

bubble screen are a 4 x 8-foot panel of 3/4" exterior fir plywood and a power drill with an adjustable circle cutter. For an extra smooth surface, ask for a panel of medium density overlaid fir plywood. Get a firm backing behind the plywood panel and adjust the circle cutter as you cut holes of various sizes.

The other two screens are achieved by cutting shapes from plywood panels and re-mounting them back on the panel with waterproof glue and nails. You can cut out circles, triangles, or oval shaped pieces with a sabre saw and mount them, according to the drawings shown here.

apply material to kill the weeds at this time?
A—Wait until you cut the grass a few times before applying hormone weed killers, or you may damage the tender, young shoots.
Q—I find hundreds of pencil size holes all over my lawn. Are these holes caused by worms? Also, how can I prevent the birds from eating up all my grass seed?
A—I am glad you asked both of these questions at the same time, for it is a clue to your troubles. The birds are not eating the grass seed, but are foraging for Japanese beetle grubs in your lawn. In order to get at the grubs, which are just below the soil surface, they are making a hole with their beaks to reach the grubs. This is a serious condition, for the grubs can destroy your lawn. Grub-proof the lawn with liquids, or powders prepared for this purpose. You can get them at any good garden center and the cost would only be around 75¢ per thousand square feet.

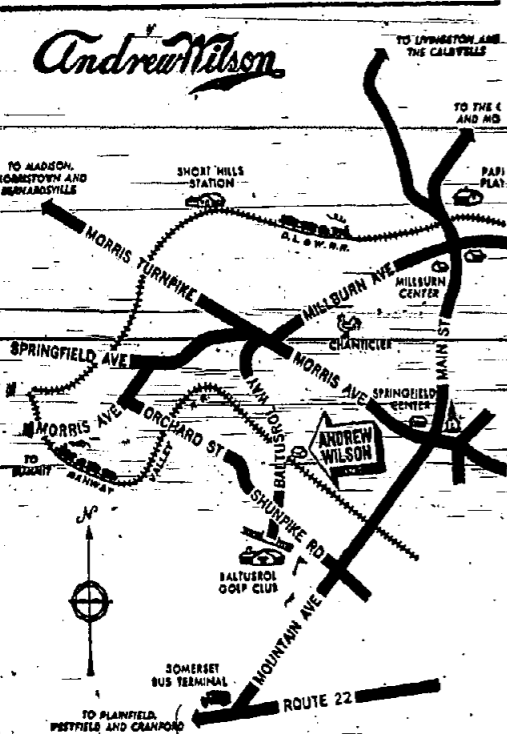

Q—How dangerous are lawn killing chemicals to man and beast?
A—Many chemicals in the past

Halibut a la South Seas

Cocunut and lime juice give a South Seas flavor to baked halibut in this fine recipe, borrowed from those sunny islands. Easy to serve, and easy to eat, it's a perfect dish for a buffet supper. . . . bake the fish in an attractive oven casserole so that you can take it directly from oven to table.

Guamanian Halibut
2 pounds boned halibut
Salt and pepper

Ingredients:
1/2 cup lime juice
3 tablespoons water
1 cup cocunut
2 tablespoons butter

Cut halibut into 1-inch squares. Place in buttered 1-quart baking dish. Season with salt and pepper. Then pour lime juice and water over the fish. Dot with butter. Sprinkle with cocunut. Bake, covered, in slow oven (325° F) 25 to 30 minutes. Makes 8 servings.

Peaches And Garden Pests

There's nothing Rutgers Garden Reporter says, like biting into a juicy, tree-ripened peach that you grow on your own tree in your own back yard.

That's what you keep telling yourself when you plant a little tree this spring. And your dream in all its natural colors will come true, if . . .

If you're willing to follow a few rules and accept the fact that your tree will need some help from you.

For example, you and your tree start just learn to live with peach tree borer if it's one of the stone fruit trees—peach, plum, cherry and the like. Borers have got to go.

This worm feeds just under the bark of the tree trunk at the soil level and in the larger roots. One way to get rid of this pest is first to remove the soil from around the base of the tree to a depth of 6 to 8 inches.

When you scrape away the soil that you may find, you'll see a hole. The caterpillar that made it may still be there, so all you have to do is poke a wire or willow twig into the burrow and spear him. He won't fight back, not being a people eater.

After you have probed into all the tunnels you can find, scrape the soil back in place. That's all for now. But next July and August you can ward off future borer troubles by spraying with DDT all around the trunk and grass at the base of the tree.

That'll take care of the borer, which is the subject of so many questions because of the tell-tale gummy stuff that shows something's amiss.

This is only part of the careful-of-fruit-tree problems I got when I called Ernest G. Christ, extension fruit specialist, to get answers to questions from readers.

Insects and diseases account for many back yard fruit growing troubles just as they keep commercial growers busy. If you'd like a copy of "Pest Control Recommendations for Home Orchards" just print your name and address and "S. C. 77" on a card and send it to Garden Reporter, College of Agriculture, Rutgers University, New Brunswick. Better do it right away.

AMBROSIA PIE

1 1/2 cups hot water
5/2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 cup sugar
1/2 cup egg yolks beaten (3 large)
2 tablespoons sugar
1/2 cup plus 1 1/2 tablespoons orange juice
1 generous tablespoon lemon juice
1/4 teaspoon orange rind, grated
1/4 teaspoon lemon rind, grated
1/4 teaspoon salt—generous
Meringue
1/2 cup egg whites (2 to 3)
1 pinch salt
3-4 drops vanilla
1/2 cup cocunut
1 orange

Mix cornstarch and first quantity of sugar thoroughly. Add 1 cup of hot water to this mixture and stir until smooth; add this to remaining hot water; cook the mixture until thickened, stirring constantly with wire whip. Combine the slightly-beaten egg yolks and second quantity of sugar. Add to hot mixture and cook 5 minutes, stirring frequently. Remove from heat. Add juice and rind from orange and lemon and salt. Cool mixture slightly and put into baked shell. Meringue: Have the egg whites at room temperature. Add salt and flavoring to egg whites and beat them until stiff but still shiny. Add sugar gradually; beat until the mixture piles up well in the bowl and sugar is dissolved. Swirl the meringue over the pie filling, but do not brown it. Section the orange and arrange on top of the meringue and sprinkle cocunut over pie.

Grated Fresh Coconut "Makes" Ambrosia Pie

Fresh coconuts are the choice of epicures, and Mary W. Armstrong, Home Agent, suggests fresh grated coconut for ambrosia pie. In this day of ready-prepared and packaged food items, fresh coconuts still add a luxury touch to cakes, pies and other desserts.

Some housewives "never buy" coconut—not just because of the work of breaking and grating, but because they are a "lottery." You, too, may have had a sad experience in buying a fresh coconut. But there are signs for judging quality.

The three senses are involved, sight, sound and touch. A top-quality fresh coconut feels heavy for its size. Also, it looks dry, particularly the three soft spots or so-called "eyes" at the top of the nut. And, when shaken, the milk inside the whole coconut should sound or feel as if it were moving about.

Be sure the shell is not cracked, this usually means some "milk" is lost. Cocunut milk is excellent to use in many kinds of soups and in puddings; many enjoy it to drink. But retaining the milk in the cocunut is even more important, to keep the white flesh moist until used.

Fresh, whole coconuts have a fairly long storage life. Coconuts in the shell will remain in good condition for a month or more when stored in the refrigerator.

Fresh cocunut meat requires little fuss to obtain if you know how. One method of opening a cocunut follows:

Pierce at least two of the soft areas or "eyes" at the top of the shell with an ice pick. Pour out the liquid. Tap the cocunut gently with a hammer, turning the nut slowly until the hard shell cracks leaving the nut meat. Remove the meat and trim off the brown skin. Grate as needed.

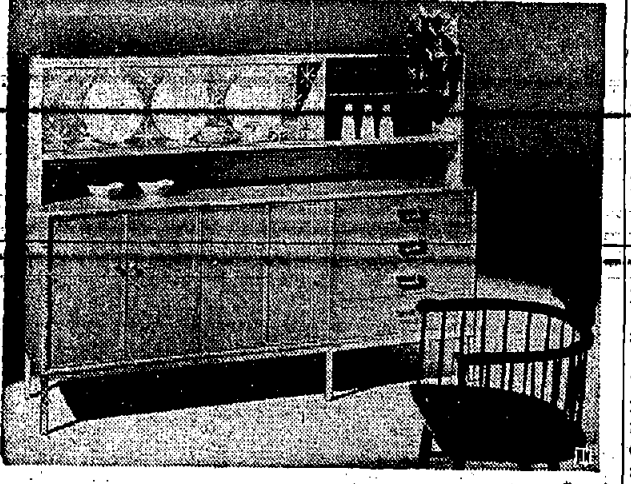

Fresh cocunut sprinkled over sliced oranges and bananas is an old-time dessert known as Ambrosia. A new version is called Ambrosia Pie. This is the recipe for one pie:

Salmon Is New Muffin Flavor

Suitable for any meal of the day are salmon muffins which are simple to make and can be baked in 20 minutes.

Salmon Muffins
2 cups sifted flour
2 teaspoons double acting baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons sugar
1/2 cup shortening
1 cup milk
1 egg (1 3/4 ounces) salmon drained and flaked

In a mixing bowl combine flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. With a pastry blender or fork times cut in shortening until it is broken into fine particles. Mix milk and egg, add to shortening, flour mixture and stir gently until dry ingredients are moistened to make a lump batter. Fold in the flaked salmon. Fill greased muffin cups two-thirds full and bake at 400 degrees for 20 minutes. Recipe makes one dozen muffins.

Sun-Bursts On Glass

Unusual use of materials is attracting attention to the new Sun Coast group of dining and bedroom furniture. Buffets are built on bases of either cherry wood or brass-colored aluminum. Sun-burst designs are silk-screened on glass or lacquered on wood doors.

Have A Kitchen Pretty-Up Shelf

Be a step-saving homemaker by setting aside a special place in the kitchen for some of your make-up equipment. It will eliminate those mad dashes to a bedroom upstairs or on the other side of the house each time the doorbell rings.

A mirror and shelf hung on the inside of a cleaning closet door away from food preparation centers is all you need. Here you can keep simple supplies such as lipstick, tissues and face powder for quick beauty repairs.

Bermudians Grow Their Own Bananas And Have Many Delicious Recipes For Eating Them

By AUDREY CHASE WALTERS

The Bermuda Islands really aren't very far south. They're on a line with our Carolinas, actually, but the Gulf Stream gives them a warmer climate. On our recent trip there, we took a taxi from Hamilton out to St. George where we were going deep-sea fishing with Captain Roy Taylor aboard his Wahoo II. Jack Meloche, a friend from Detroit who was with us, asked the driver just how low the temperature did get and the driver said, "Oh, it has gone down to 30."

"Does it ever snow?" Jack wanted to know. "No, sir," said our driver, "but we sure has plenty of hail."

On the way back to Hamilton, we had a different driver and Jack asked him the same question. He came up with this interesting answer. "Well, now, back in 1954 I think it was, or maybe 1953, we had a record low of 55." I think this boy had been reached by the Publicity Department.

Anyway, it is warm enough in Bermuda to grow bananas from July to October. It does get too cold to grow a winter crop but the fruit is available just about the year round. No bananas are exported and the 36,000 residents of the islands consume the entire crop of some two million pounds a year. As you might expect, they have devised some varied and delicious banana recipes.

The one I particularly like is a chiffon pie combining the fruit with pumpkin.

Soften one tablespoon of gelatin in a quarter of a cup of cold water and set aside. Mix together three-quarters of a cup of mashed bananas, one tablespoon lemon juice, half a cup of canned pumpkin, one-quarter cup sugar, one-quarter teaspoon each salt and nutmeg, one-eighth teaspoon cloves and three slightly beaten egg yolks. Stirring constantly, cook over low heat until mixture thickens slightly. This takes about five minutes. Remove from heat and stir in gelatin until it dissolves completely. Set aside to cool.

Beat three egg whites until foamy then gradually add one-quarter cup of sugar. Beat until mixture is stiff enough to form peaks. Blend with first mixture and pour into baked pie shell. Chill until firm and serve with whipped cream.

I find myself in the unfortunate position (and I expect the situation is the same in most households) of liking many foods which my family does not. I think this Bermuda recipe is delicious and my family doesn't. I hope you try this pudding and then agree with me.

Cream one tablespoon of butter with three and one-half tablespoons dark brown sugar. Add four cups mashed bananas and blend together well. Add alternately one-quarter cup milk and two tablespoons flour measured after sifting. Bake in 375 degree F. oven until knife inserted in center comes out clean. This takes about 45 minutes. Serve warm with whipped cream.

Rum is very cheap in Bermuda. The best Barbados costs only $1.80 a bottle. Bermuda is the home of the famous Rum Swizzle which isn't a drink at all but a stick with which to mix a drink. Recipes for the drink itself are as varied as colors at a Gypsy festival. No two places so much as serve a Rum Swizzle in the same size or shape glass. But I'll go into this another time. Rum appears in many Bermuda recipes and banana recipes are no exception.

Cut six partially ripe bananas in half lengthwise and sprinkle with two tablespoons sugar, two tablespoons lemon juice and rum to taste. Set aside for half an hour.

Sift one and one-half cups flour with three teaspoons baking powder, one teaspoon salt and three-eighths cup sugar. Beat two eggs, and add one tablespoon melted butter and one-half cup milk plus two tablespoonsful. Combine both mixtures and beat until smooth.

Dip bananas in batter mixture. Fry in hot fat until golden brown and drain on paper toweling. These are delicious served with a lemon sauce flavored with rum.

Two Recipes For Men

Quick homemade breads and biscuits are easy and always a hit with the men in the family. Here are two with a new twist for you to try.

Bacon Corn Bread
1 cup sifted flour
3/4 cup cornmeal
4 tsp. baking powder
3/4 tsp. salt
4 Tbsp. sugar
1 egg beaten
1 cup milk
3 Tbsp. melted shortening
2 tsp. Worcestershire Sauce
8 strips bacon, minced
Oven temp.: 425 degrees
Bake: 20 to 25 minutes
Yield: 1 Square (9 in.)

In a bowl mix and sift flour, cornmeal, baking powder, salt and sugar. In another bowl beat the egg; blend in milk, shortening and Worcestershire Sauce. Add to dry ingredients, stirring just enough to moisten. Pour into greased and floured square pan (9 in.). Bake in a hot oven. During last 15 minutes of baking sprinkle the minced bacon on top. Bread is done when a toothpick inserted in the center comes away clean. Place under broiler until bacon is crisp. Remove to a rack. Before serving, cut in squares.

Zesty Popovers
2 eggs
1 cup milk
1 tsp. Worcestershire Sauce
1 cup sifted flour
1/4 tsp. salt
1 Tbsp. poppyseeds
Oven temp. 450-350 degrees
Bake: 45 minutes
Yield: 8 Large Popovers

In a bowl beat the eggs, milk and Worcestershire Sauce until well blended (about 2 minutes). Add flour and salt; beat until mixture is smooth. Put a teaspoon of shortening into each muffin pan; preheat in oven. Pour mixture into sizzling hot pans. Bake in very hot oven 30 minutes; reduce heat to moderate and continue baking about 10 to 15 minutes. Serve as soon as possible.

The term "pin money" comes from the time when pins were scarce and valuable, and were sold only on the first two days of the year when wealthy women flocked to the shops to buy the pins with money provided for this purpose by their husbands.

Aprons don't do well in New Jersey, Ernest G. Christ, Rutgers extension fruit specialist, says, because they blossom so early they are hurt by cold weather or are not pollinated properly. With luck, they may produce one year out of five.

How To Learn Food Seasons

Along with the weather, sports and clothing, most foods have seasons, too — the times when supplies are largest and prices lowest. Research and education have done much in developing new strains and varieties of fruits and vegetables in an effort to lengthen the growing season. However, there are still times when supplies are greater.

If you want to know the seasons, Mrs. Mary W. Armstrong, Union County Home Agent, suggests you write or call the Extension Service, Court House Annex, Elizabeth, EL 3-5000, and ask for "Seasonal Guide for New Jersey Fruits and Vegetables" and "Preserving Fruits, Vegetables and Meats," Bulletin 254.

Scalloped Dish Stars Shrimp

3 cups corn flakes
1 cup mayonnaise
1/2 cup white-table-wine sauce
1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
2 cups cooked, cleaned shrimp
1/4 cup finely diced celery
1 teaspoon grated onions
2 hard-cooked eggs, finely chopped
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
6 thin slices of lemon
Dash paprika

Crush 2 cups of the corn flakes into fine crumbs. Combine mayonnaise, wine and Worcestershire sauce. Cut shrimp into bite-size pieces, add corn flakes crumbs, celery, onions, eggs, mayonnaise mixture, salt and pepper; mix well. Spoon into 6 baking shells or

Pancake Variations For Breakfast Or Dessert

One tablespoon fat, 3 eggs, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1/4 cup sifted all-purpose flour, 1/2 cup milk, butter, lemon juice, honey or sugar, confectioners' sugar, apple or cranberry sauce.

Place fat in deep skillet (10 to 12-inch diameter) and place skillet in oven while ingredients are being mixed and oven is being brought to 450 degrees.

small individual casseroles. Crush remaining corn flakes slightly; sprinkle over shrimp mixture. Top each serving with lemon slice, sprinkle with paprika. Place shells on baking sheet. Bake in moderately hot oven (400 degrees F.) about 20 minutes or until bubbly and lightly browned.

Yield: 6 servings.

Lamb Makes Excellent Stew

For any day when a sturdy combination of lamb and fresh vegetables is what you want, serve this recipe:

Lamb Stew
(Yield: 4 to 6 servings)

Cut 1 1/2 pounds lamb stew meat into small pieces and dredge with 2 tablespoons all-rolling or folding.

Variations: Omit butter, lemon juice and sugar. Place one of the following over the batter just before placing in oven:
Apple: One layer thinly sliced tart apple.
Bacon: Three slices diced cooked bacon. Reduce salt to 1/4 teaspoon.
Cheese: Chopped or grated cheddar cheese.
Ham: One-quarter cup finely diced, cooked ham. Reduce salt to 1/4 teaspoon.

purpose flour. Melt 3 tablespoons butter or bacon drippings in heavy frying pan and brown meat on all sides. Add 1/2 teaspoon onion salt, 1/2 teaspoon celery salt, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon ground black pepper, 1 teaspoon dried parsley-flakes and meat stock or water enough to cover meat. Cover and simmer 1 hour. Add 1 diced turnip and 2 sliced carrots and simmer 1 hour longer. Add 2 cups diced potatoes and cook a little more rapidly until potatoes are tender—about 15 minutes.

Warm weather driving brings increased driving hazards for young passengers. Keep windows rolled up and doors locked when children ride unattended in the back seat. Do not allow them to touch door or window handles or buttons operating power windows. Insist that children remain seated, both for their own protection and to avoid driver distraction.

Spaghetti With Salmon Sauce

A substantial entree for family or guests is salmon tetrazzini, which goes well with a green salad and bread sticks.

Salmon Tetrazzini
8 tablespoons (1/2 cup) butter
1/2 cup flour
2 cups hot chicken broth
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1/4 cup sherry
1 pound can salmon
1/2 cup cream
1 pound spaghetti
1/2 pound mushrooms, sliced
2 tablespoons butter
1/2 cup grated parmesan cheese
1/2 cup bread crumbs

In a saucepan melt the eight tablespoons butter and stir in the flour. Gradually stir in the hot chicken broth and cook, stirring constantly until sauce is smooth and thickened. Stir in salt, pepper, nutmeg and sherry. Stir in the liquid from the can of salmon and cook for eight minutes, stirring occasionally. Stir in the cream and keep hot.

Cook the spaghetti in rapidly boiling salted water until tender and drain. Sauté the mushrooms in the two tablespoons butter for five minutes or until lightly browned. Mix the sauce with the spaghetti and mushrooms and pour into a baking dish or deep platter. Make a hole in the center of the spaghetti. Mix remaining sauce with the flaked salmon and pour into the hole in the spaghetti. Sprinkle with parmesan mixed with the bread crumbs and brown lightly in a 350 degree oven for 15 to 20 minutes. Serves four to six.

Pasty flour makes excellent pie dough, but cake flour is not usually recommended for this use.

REPORT TO THE PEOPLE FROM YOUR CONGRESSWOMAN

FLORENCE P. DWYER

(6th District—New Jersey)

Three major Presidential nominations came to the Senate last week, and each in its way demonstrated the kind of indirect influence the legislative branch can have on the executive and on policy generally through the Senate's power to confirm.

The three nominations were: Christian A. Herter to be Secretary of State; Lewis L. Strauss to be Secretary of Commerce; and Clare Boothe Luce to be Ambassador to Brazil—three of the most experienced and skillful public servants in America.

The case of Secretary Herter represented one of the most striking and important instances of bi-partisan and legislative-executive cooperation in recent history.

The case of Secretary-designate Strauss is just the reverse—a senseless display of political harassment with no apparent purpose other than to prolong the embarrassment and uncertainty of the head of a major Government department.

The case of Clare Boothe Luce differs from both the above. The opposition to her appointment—which, though relatively light, was fairly seemed to be based almost entirely on irrelevancies; old political grudges that had nothing to do with her record as an Ambassador to Italy or her qualifications for similar service in Brazil.

Advise and Consent
All of them involve consideration of the role of the Senate in "advising and consenting" to the appointment by the President of top officials in his Administration—a responsibility fixed on the Senate by the Constitution. While the formal process of advice and consent belongs to the Senate, both houses of Congress, of course, are vitally concerned with the quality and competence of such appointees. There are several reasons for this, the most significant being that department and agency heads must carry out the laws which Congress enacts. In doing so, in the course of the day-to-day Congressional—Executive relationships, it is important that top officials enjoy the respect and confidence (if not the full agreement) of the Congress. The Senate's responsibility, therefore, is to inquire into the background, the experience, the views—anything, in fact, that pertains to the nominee's capacity to do effective and responsible work as a Government official. But there are limits (informal though they may be) to the Senate's role arising chiefly from the fact that it is the President's prerogative to choose his own official family. Frivolous or irresponsible treatment of Presidential nominees is not licensed by the Constitution's mandate that the Senate advise and consent.

Dramatic Action
The Christian Herter nomination illustrates one aspect of this matter. Coming as it did while the world was still shocked by the resignation of a powerful and towering figure as Secretary of State, and on the verge of the crucial Foreign Ministers and Summit conferences, the attitude of the Senate (representing the American people) toward the new secretary was of the first importance. Thus, the unanimous vote by which the Foreign Relations Committee recommended confirmation and the unanimous vote by which the Senate consented to the nomination of Christian Herter dramatized to the world the great trust and confidence which the Congress has in this fine man. And the fact that the entire confirmation process was reduced from the usual seven days to just four hours and 13 minutes reflected the Senate's awareness of its own power to strengthen our Government's international position.

The contrary has been true in the case of Lewis Strauss. Like Secretary Herter, Mr. Strauss is well known to the Congress, having served in high public office "with distinction" as the New York Times observed, under three Presidents, Democratic and Republican. As chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, much of his service was controversial, but this does not warrant the needless display of bad taste in keeping him off-balance, so to speak, for so long a time. After all, the President sent Mr. Strauss' name to the Senate on Oct. 24, 1958, and the Senate has been in session now for nearly four months—long enough for even the busiest Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce to obtain information, hold hearings and make up its mind.

Senators, of course, have a right—indeed an obligation—to oppose nominations they believe are unwise. But no constructive purpose is served, least of all the purpose of responsible and orderly government, by keeping in suspense the head of a great Government department.

Irrelevant Opposition
While Mrs. Luce's nomination was also subjected to delay and criticism, it was neither so lengthy nor so substantial. In her case, I believe, the opposition was irrelevant, since very little of it was based on her record as Ambassador to Italy or on her qualifications as a diplomat. The 16 to 1 vote by which the Senate Foreign Relations Committee approved her nomination is an accurate yardstick, I believe, of the respect in which she is held—however grudgingly this respect is sometimes accorded her.

Thursday, April 30, 1959

I have long respected and admired Clare Boothe Luce as a woman who has achieved an outstanding record in Government, both as a Member of Congress and as an Ambassador. It was this admiration that led me to speak out in her behalf on the floor of the House here last week.

It was an impressive story to tell—her conscientious performance as a Congresswoman during four years of war-time service—and her skilled handling of such difficult situations as the Trieste crisis, the NATO status-of-forces negotiations, the administration of American aid to Italy and the threat to democratic Italy of powerful communist and fascist factions.

I concluded my story of this brilliant woman's success in Italy with this observation: "No one could reasonably attribute the progress of a courageous people and a great nation to the work of a single Ambassador. And I do not wish to credit Mrs. Luce with achievements that in truth belong to the Italian people. But the important consideration is this: that as Ambassador of the United States to Italy, Clare Boothe Luce was a happy symbol and an effective influence in realizing the mutual goals of our two countries: the growth of freedom." Roll Hair With No-Loose-Ends

When rolling up your hair at night, fold a piece of tissue between the ends of your hair and the clip. It helps keep hair from straying loose.

Just tear off a single sheet of a soft, but sturdy bathroom tissue, and fold it over the hair ends once, before applying the clip. This way you shouldn't have any straight ends when you comb out your hair.

PRETTY AS A PICTURE is the little girl who wears this delightful, crisp dress. Styled with a laced bodice, lace trim and a huge bow that ties at back of the billowy skirt. In a sheer Eastman Chromspun acetate and silk.

Cut Salad With Knife

It is now permissible to use a knife as well as your fork to cut your salad. Using the fork alone too often can result in the lettuce slithering off the plate, causing embarrassment to you and to your dinner companions.

However, when lettuce is served in smaller portions it is proper to use the fork alone. Risk of an "accident" is greatly diminished in such instances.

Report to the People

and prosperity for the Italian people, and the strengthening of Italy as a major force in maintaining the security of the free world.

This, I believe, is the purpose of the Senate's Constitutional duty to advise and consent to Presidential nominations—to assure that the American people are so well served.
