Brotherhood Week Support

It may sound ironic to beat the drum for Brotherhood Week in face of synagogue desecrations in various parts of the world, of swastikas being painted on buildings and sidewalks in Germany and here in America; in the face of the heated controversy created by the possibility that a Roman Catholic may be the candidate of one of the major political parties for the presidency of the United States; in view of the furor which developed when Negro families sought homes in developments in suburban Chicago; with integration of schools and the right of franchise of Negroes in the South being fought step by step; in the face of many another instance of bigotry and prejudice staring out of the front pages of our daily newspapers.

Yet we do welcome the arrival of this annual observance (appropriately set in the period of the anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln, as outstanding an example of tolerance as this nation has produced) and urge participation in such programs as the one scheduled for Congregation B'nai Israel in Millburn this evening, Thursday, and any others which are being arranged.

For, despite the discouraging enumeration above, progress is being made. Will anyone challenge our belief that today there is a greater degree of understanding and acceptance of minority groups (what a vicious couple of words!) and of religious practices which differ from our own?

While discrimination in housing exists, we read about the plan for orderly infiltration of Negroes in a Westchester development. While school integration moves at snail's pace, at least it is moving forward.

While Negroes are not permitted to vote in some states, action in The Congress indicates that this form of discrimination is about to become a thing of the past.

While anti-Semitism exists, we read that the government of West Germany is arresting defacers of synagogues. . . . we know that in this country the thinking people of all religions decri such actions. . . . that law-enforcement agencies are diligently on the job in an effort to uproot the practice. . . . And we have read statements from people in high position asserting that they will vote for ANY candidate who convinces them of his outstanding qualifications for the position of President.

It is true we are far from perfection. It is equally true that we are making headway in the elimination of those undesirable and un-American performances so abhorrent to right-thinking citizens.

Those organizations having for their chief purpose the combating of bigotry, defamatory and discriminatory acts and thinking are doing their part in this direction. So are Brotherhood Week observances. Participation in such gatherings and programs can only strengthen the will and desire to keep up the fight against prejudice and injustice.

Getting Later and Later

The action taken by Springfield Board of Education last week in authorizing an option on ten acres of land offered the Board by Baltusrol-Golf Club for $25,000 was a good move.

Also proper was the move made to find out how much of the Bednarik property next to the Caldwell School can be bought and for how much.

Completely in order were the remarks of Board Members S. Bryant Haas, Loran K. Skousen, Robert H. Multhaup and President Howard S. Smith to the effect that additional property also should be sought and that delay in this direction could prove costly.

They were talking just plain common sense. The growth of our township is plain to see. . . . one-family home and garden apartment developments are under way in several parts of town. So long as there is ground available, there will be more of the same.

Homes-mean-children-and-children-require-schools. It is as simple as that. We hope the new members who join the Board next week feel this way about this most serious matter, and that the people, in whose hands the final decision lies, feel the same.

Last week the Board of Education released a statement in connection with the option action which we feel should be repeated in larger than news story type. The Board said:

"The Board of Education expresses gratitude to Baltusrol Golf Club in its support of the local school system by offering this most desirable property at such an attractive price, which is much lower than the prevailing market."

SUN Rays

This department had a visitor last week—and a charming one, at that. Mrs. Valerie Zara of Springfield came in to tell me about an organization to which she belongs and about which I knew nothing. This is the Cosmopolitan Club. As its name implies, it is composed of people with varied, world-wide backgrounds. . . . its membership is entirely female. . . . it is made up of foreign-born G.I. war brides, with a sprinkling of mothers of the brides.

As an illustration of how this association operates, take the case of Mrs. Zara herself. She was a Londoner who met Sgt. Louis Zara, U.S.A.F., while he was stationed at Oxford, some 60 miles away. When she came to this country as Mrs. Zara, my visitor knew no one other than her husband and his family and had a right to feel strange in a strange land with strange customs. The Cosmopolitan Club gave her an opportunity to mingle with girls in the same circumstances and the strangeness wore off.

It so happens that most of the members of Westfield Chapter, which includes the Springfield area, are English brides. There are a few of German and Belgian extraction. So far, there are none from Japan. I was ready to make a crack about the Tower of Babel aspect of the group but I'm afraid it will not apply until more languages are represented in the group. I wish a Japanese-born bride or one from some other part of Asia or somewhere in Africa would hurry up and join.

The local unit of the nation-wide association (which originated in Newark) meets in St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Westfield in the evening of the last Wednesday of each month. The brides are civic-minded and socially inclined and have programs reflecting a serious interest in their locality and a desire for a pleasant time.

One of the accomplishments of the organization that makes the girls glow with pride is the reduced-fare plane junkie to Europe arranged every now and then in this way girls are able to visit their parents and overseas friends at much less cost than in the conventional manner.

When parents come over here, by the way, they always are welcome as guests at club meetings, and when mothers become U.S. residents, they may become members. Mrs. Zara's mother, Mrs. Phyllis Prior, for example, is bulletin editor of the local unit.

Officers of Westfield Chapter are Jean Faber, Scotch Plains, president; Marge O'Connell, Rahway, vice-president; May Hogenson, Roselle Park, secretary; Phemie Glassburn, Mountainside, treasurer.

If you are a foreign-born war bride and want more information about the club, call any of the above-mentioned officers or Mrs. Zara at DR 6-2594 or Mrs. Dorothy Wentze at DR 6-5576.

P.S.—I note my hometown area is represented in the Cosmopolitan Club set-up; Mrs. Joyce Earnshaw of River Vale (Westwood) is editor of the organization's news bulletin.

THANKS TO MRS. ROBERT RUBAN, assistant to Board of Education Secretary A. B. Anderson, for calling my attention to the story last week in the Union Leader (published in next-door Union) about the school election held this week from which report I quote:

"Only one in every four citizens polled here this week is aware that a school election will be held Tuesday. . . . Only three of the 100 residents called. . . . could name at least two of the four candidates. . . . Twelve were aware that the budget would be up for approval. . . . Not one person out of the 100 knew the amount of the budget ($4,710,683) or could offer an informed guess. . . . Nineteen expected to appear at the polls on Election Day."

Is it any wonder that so much emphasis is placed on school matters and the importance of school elections?

No doubt you've noticed how certain types of newsworthy events appear to occur in cycles. . . . like airplane crashes, multiple murders, hit-run cases, big fires, etc., etc.

Now that no one has written in to explain why the car radio of this column's writer gets jammed at a certain spot on the Garden State Parkway, perhaps a psychologist, philosopher or scientist would like to explain the theory behind such repetition.

It has taken me all this time, what with the bad weather of my first weeks here and this-and-that since, to discover the ancient cemetery on Main Street. It is tied in with the Battle of Springfield during the Revolution, about which I am totally ignorant. I note this occurred June 23, 1789. . . . that the Cannon Ball House on Morris Avenue, now the headquarters of Springfield Historical Society and of the local unit of The American Red Cross, earned its name in 1787 skirmish. . . . that the quotation "Give 'Em Watts Boys" is associated with the clash of the Colonial and British forces. Now will someone please fill in the details? S.E.L.

Town Takes

meeting with the Springfield Township Committee. The evening of Feb. 24 was set as the time for this conference. Mutual problems, such as the trunk sewer under construction, are expected to be discussed.

It was voted to proceed toward awarding a contract to Duellen Communication Service for taking care of the fire department's radio equipment.

Request Denied
Request from Channel Lumber Co. led Township Committee member William H. Balentine to remark that Springfield did not "want to go into the electric business." The lumber company asked that the township apply to Jersey Central Light & Power for more road lights on Route 22 in the neighborhood of the lumber company. Utility will not do business if it seems that the public this kind directly with a private concern but will act only when asked to do so by a municipality.

Shunpike Association asked for improvements in Kew Drive, and the township's Engineering Dept. is to make an investigation.

On the recommendation of Fire Chief Ormond Mesker and the approval of Public Safety Commissioner Russel W. Sibole, the status of Fireman George Wentz was changed from third to second class.

Balloting for the other candidates was as follows:
Two-Year Term: Mr. Haydu — 385, 421 - 806; John L. Aggar — 164, 370 - 534.
One-Year Term: Mr. Bender — 303, 552, 855 (top figure among all the candidates); James M. Cawley — 271, 304

It is interesting to note that Mr. Bender who was elected to a one-year term, was one of the most outspoken foes of the fire-detection referendum while Dr. Josephson, elected to a three-year term, was just as outspokenly in favor of the proposal.

No worry about fallen cakes with an Electric Range

There just is no more accurate way to cook!

What makes a cake fall? The same thing that causes uneven roasting—Varying heat in the oven. But the electric range has this problem licked. Because it's flameless, the electric oven is insulated all around, top and bottom. The cooking heat never varies more than 5° up or down. In fact, electric heat is so accurately controlled it practically eliminates baking failures. Simply set the dial and you're sure of just the right temperature to bring cakes to their fluffiest best every time.

NEWS ABOUT

SPRINGFIELD LIBRARY

"THE PAPERBACK REVOLUTION"; BOOKS ON DISPLAY—Let us grant that a great many of the titles commonly seen on the racks have not much allure for people of good taste. But, these are only a small part of the output. In many cases the covers are the most lurid part of the production. It was estimated that 300,000 copies of 7,000 titles in paperback were sold last year.

With such a heavy demand, all the book world is being searched for suitable books to be reprinted, and in some cases publishers are commissioning original works. It is rather amusing to learn that a few of these books are being published in hard covers on the same day they appear in paperback. This is supposed to give them "status."

After carefully examining the lists and visiting several stores, the director of the Free Public Library of Springfield purchased about 50 titles. Among them are some books which were long out of print (could no longer be purchased) and some on subjects for which there is a heavy demand from students at various levels.

In order for the readers in Springfield to have an opportunity to discover what excellent materials can be purchased in paperback books, there is an exhibit in the main hallway of the library. Library members who would like to read them may leave reserves. Very shortly the books in this exhibit will go into circulation.

It has been decided to use four of these "paperbacks" for the short series of book discussions to be held this year. The titles include "The Organization Man," "The Lonely Crowd," "The Hidden Persuaders," and "Brave New World." More will appear in this column about them next week.

Mrs. Elizabeth Loeb spoke on a suggested hearing screening program for the schools, pointing out that most loss of hearing occurs before the age of five.

Dr. S. Lawrence Samuels had for his subject the cause and treatment of hearing loss.

Miss Elizabeth Eyster outlined the special needs of the child in the classroom referring to such factors as causes of deafness; intelligence; general health; personality and attitude of family and school as it affects adjustment in school.

Miss Anne Mitchell, R.N., president of the sponsoring organization, brought the session to a close.

Literature and displays relating to the day's subject were on view in the meeting hall.

Good Deal Is Still Waiting For The Word

Start of construction of a new Good Deal Super Market in the rear of the Bunnell property, Morris avenue, near Mountain avenue, Springfield, is being delayed because some of the Township authorities cannot make up their minds what effect left hand-turns will have on the traffic.

The new market and large parking lot is being planned with the razing of the Bunnell home which would give it a much larger entrance than many of the present operations in Springfield but some members of the official family are fearful of what traffic jams any left hand turns might cause.

The new Good Deal market operation adjoins the new municipal parking lot, which is now the extension of Mountain avenue. This, according to those who have made a study of the matter, could be used for left turns into Morris avenue with the traffic light at the corner of Mountain and Morris.

This would solve the problem if the officials cared to permit the "Good Deal" customers the right to use the present parking lot with the traffic light as one of the exists.

Springfield may lose a very desirable rateable if the Good Deal Super Market people are driven out of town.

"I'm proud of the electrical industry. I suspect every American feels the same way about it."

"I have been deeply impressed in observance of the magnificent proportions which electrical development has attained." At the time Thomas Alva Edison made these remarks the electrical industry was still in its infancy. Electricity was used for little more than light. Edison foresaw the possibilities but even he would gasp at the growth in just the last 15 years. Television! The automatic electric washer and dryer! The electric dishwasher! Electric air conditioning! Electric home heating! The entire list is too long to print here but just look around you and count the many ways you now use low-cost electricity. And the electrical industry won't rest on these past achievements. In Edison's words, "The record is wonderful, but it can be made still better."

TAKING CARE OF YOUR GARDEN

By Edward A. Cardinal

Mild weather has brought forth the acid gardeners, and the primary question is, "What shall I do first?"

Clean up all debris. Large leaves and pieces of paper can raise havoc with germinating grass, and stones, metal tins, etc. can ruin a good lawn mower. Rake out all that dead crabgrass and give the good grass a fair chance to get started properly. Don't wait until the grass is three inches high for it is a much tougher job to rake at that time.

How about the lawn mower? Did you fail to take care of it properly after the last mowing? Bring it to your serviceman now—before the spring rush. After loafing all winter your serviceman will be in no mood to have you bring in a rusty fouled-up mower some Sunday morning demanding that he rush it through while you impatiently wait.

QUESTION: I applied a pre-emergence crab grass chemical in the fall of 1958. I got pretty good crab grass control during 1959, but wonder if I should re-apply now, or am I too late?

ANSWER: While attending a course on lawns this winter I found that the consensus of opinion is for late winter, or very early spring application. This gives less likelihood of late season crab grass germinating. This year the Scott company is going all-out for application at this time.

Q: I used liquid chlordane for crab grass control last year, but was not satisfied. What is your opinion?

A: Let's not take my opinion, but foremost authorities at the State Experiment Station feel that the dry materials are the only ones worth applying. Liquids leach rapidly into the soil during spring rains and lose effectiveness.

Q: I am puzzled as to which brand of pre-emergence material to use. Can you help me?

A: Apparently all three major brands have given good control under certain conditions. However, why not take advantage of the money back warrant offered by one of the leading lawn care brands. This way you have nothing to lose if you are not satisfied.

Q: Shall I apply more peat moss to the flower beds this spring?

A: Yes. Cultivate the beds thoroughly, removing all grass and weeds. Rake smooth and cover with a fresh layer of peat. Weed seeds that blow on the soil surface during the winter will then be covered, with less chance of germinating, and any seeds that happen to fall upon the fresh peat are easily removed. If you plan on feeding the plants, do it prior to the cultivation.

Q: Can you give me some tips on making a lawn to help us newcomers?

A: I will be glad to at a later date. In this column I try to cover first things first. By reading it weekly you will be kept up to date, and don't hesitate to ask questions by writing care of the local paper.

Self-Help for Survival

A series of articles issued by Springfield CD-DC Council.

(First in a Series of Five Articles)

Your town is listed as a prime target in the event of an A-bomb attack on the United States of America.

Your home is in the aiming area—the tight circle of jam-packed population and mass-production industry where the bomb one day may hit.

What have you done to protect your family?

Will your children's lives be snuffed out because their parents would not bother to protect them? Worse—will they survive, only to suffer because their parents did not know what to do to help them?

These dangers are stressed by Saul Freeman, director of Civil Defense for the City of Springfield.

Freeman emphasizes that this municipality is officially designated a prime target for A-bomb attack in case of war, and that every home here is within the aiming area for an A-bomb directed at New York City, the economic capital of the world.

Freeman emphasizes, too, this truth:

"Scarcely any families here know what to do in case of enemy attack."

The result of an A-bomb attack on this metropolitan New York area at this time would be virtual chaos, Freeman predicts. He warns that an unprepared populace would panic and run, and that tens of thousands of lives would unnecessarily be lost. Finally, he says, the strategic success of an enemy attack might be assured by the shortcomings in this area's Civil Defense preparedness.

Freeman says the most obvious weakness of the Springfield family as regards Civil Defense preparedness is the failure to know what to do for individual and family protection.

It is, fortunately, the simplest and easiest weakness to correct, provided that the individual parent is aware of the urgency of his family's position, Freeman says.

Self-help is the answer, Freeman explains. He says that Civil Defense programs for the coming year will concentrate on training for self-help survival measures.

"Collective survival is the responsibility of government," he said. "The echelons of our government, from federal right down to municipal—are doing everything necessary to increase the chance of collective survival in the event of a nuclear attack. But the burden of planning for the survival of the individual and of dependents rests squarely on the individual himself."

He says municipal Civil Defense planning includes reporting of damages to the central Civil Defense-Disaster Control Center, and the dispatching of personnel with specialized training and equipment, on a

F. M. Edwards Named Unit Head

Election of officers took place recently at the meeting of Twin Brooks Civic Association. The organization will be headed by F. M. Edwards, first vice president; Alexander Clark, first vice president; Victor A. Bracht, second vice president; Mrs. Robert Bufington, secretary; Mrs. John Adams, treasurer. Trustees are Walter W. Anderson, Mrs. John Dreher, Stanley Groeger, Mrs. H. W. Quinton Jr., Mrs. Robert Southward, Max Weiss, Mrs. William P. Wood.

The newly-elected president stated that an effective means of combating the highways which threaten Springfield would continue to be sought and that first-hand knowledge on current topics would be brought to the members' attention.

He appointed Robert D. Hardgrove Jr., as highway investigation chairman. Members were urged to write letters to legislators, particularly to Congressman John A. Blatnik, House of Representatives, Washington, D. C., who heads a Congressional sub-committee now investigating the huge expenditures authorized by the Federal Bureau of Roads.

Guest speaker of the evening was Loren E. Skousen of Springfield Board of Education. Mr. Skousen outlined the new Sandmeier School, the proposed budget and fire equipment referendum, after which he answered questions from the audience.

Work Of Members To Be On View

Sunday, Feb. 14, from 1 to 8 p.m., Temple Beth Ahm will hold an exhibit of arts and craft, created by its members. This exhibit has become an annual event by popular demand since the first attempt last year was an overwhelming success.

There will be a display of paintings, sculpturing, needlework, carpentry, ceramics and models. A special section will be devoted to the work of junior members.

Admittance is open to the public at a charge of 50¢ per adult; no charge for children. "Temple Talents" exhibit is chaired by Esther Apter, Drexel 8-4247, and Rosalind Miniman, Drexel 6-2686.

Unit Aiding The Retarded To Meet

Members of Union County Unit, New Jersey Association for Retarded Children, will meet tonight, Thursday, at 8:30, at St. Luke's Episcopal Church—Parish Hall, Fourth Avenue and Walnut Street, Roselle.

Mrs. Robert Allen, program chairman, announced Herbert Lichtman, acting principal of South Market Street School, will speak on "Discipline."

PAINTINGS OF GLORIA HILLIARD EXHIBITED AT LIBRARY

The paintings of Gloria Hilliard are displayed during the month of February at Springfield Public Library in the exhibit sponsored by the Art Department of the Springfield Woman's Club.

Mrs. Hilliard specializes in pastels, particularly portraits, and has demonstrated portrait painting on television.

Home on vacation this past week has been Joseph R. Heller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Heller of 29 Garden Oval. Young Mr. Heller is a graduate student in psychology at the University of California at Berkeley.

Here's a great big "welcome to Springfield" to sixteen year old Sharon Sampler of Rochelle, N.Y. Shari, who has entered the Junior class at Jonathan Dayton Regional High, moved to 91 Beverly Road to make her home with sister and brother-in-law Adele and Dan Fried, and 5 month old nephew Roy. We hope she'll be very happy.

Board Reorganizes
Springfield's Welfare Board re-organized Monday evening, Jan. 25 for the current year. Township Committeeman H.-A. Flammer was elected chairman and Mrs. Ruth Hillard was named secretary. Mrs. Daisy Howarth is Welfare Director for the township.

Call for this month are Mrs. Ethel Amodeo, Mrs. Emogene Amodeo and Mrs. Fanny Callo.

It was explained by Mrs. Lillian Masullo that "distress call" is the duty the ladies perform for the firemen when they are out on lengthy fire calls. The ladies serve the firemen coffee and puns.

Leonard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill DeLeonard of 322 Milltown Road. In addition to the other DeLeonard "D's," Diane and Dennis; on hand to help him celebrate were the three Cardinal "D's" Darren, Diane and Debbie—and Linda Crosett, Victor Sarokin and Gary Dorfman.

Mr. and Mrs. James White and the Misses Katherine Jo White, twenty-one, and Norann White, nineteen, have recently moved to 111 Bryant Ave. The Whites formerly lived in Glen Gardner, and we hope they'll be very happy in Springfield.

On February 7th Stephen Sklar, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney O. Sklar of 18 Archbridge Lane, celebrated his sixth birthday with a luncheon party, at which he played host to Jeffrey Slater, Billy Koenig, Steven Glover, Joe Gieri, Michael Alper, Ricky Eaton, Dale and Jo Ames, Sue Hager, Linda Schwartz, Abby Aexhad and Robert Zucker, in addition to brother Dick and cousins Karen and Barbara Sklar. After lunch the guests were entertained with home movies.

I'll bet the happiest kindergarten class in Springfield this week was Mrs. Ball's at Raymond Chisholm, where Stephen Sklar treated his classmates to some goodies on Monday, and Stuart Liebeskind celebrated his sixth birthday on Tuesday February 9th by doing the same.

Gus Schmidt's No. 14 team took all three from McGarrath's No. 2 and moved up to first place in the Springfield Church League on Feb. 5. Teams No. 15 (Brunny) and No. 5 (Andrew), who have been fighting for the lead most of the season, dropped to third and second, respectively, by losing two out of the three. Taking Photos To Be Studied

The question of whether the taking of pictures of school children during class hours in Springfield is a worthwhile activity or an expendable proceeding was raised by the Board of Education meeting Tuesday evening, Jan. 10.

Superintendent of Schools B. F. Newsinger explained the practice was followed in many schools and that no parent was made to feel that pictures had to be purchased. White not defending the act, Mr. Newsinger said it provided the principals with helpful photos for their files on students.

Foreign Students Here Admit Some Of Their Ideas Have Changed

By Cynthia Harter
 This year Regional High School is proud to have two foreign students sent here as part of the Herald Tribune foreign student exchange program. Eighteen-year-old Midori Kawaga from Hiroshima, Japan, and Eric Dietlin, also 18 years old, from Paris, France, became the center of attraction as they answered questions put to them by the U.S. History I and II classes during an assembly program Thursday, Jan. 28.
 Eric told us how he was selected to come to the United States. He said that there were five applicants from France and the Tribune forum chose his es-edge of English and knowledge of their own government and world affairs. Ken Ben-Ari, who moderated the discussion and Eric's "big brother," asked Midori if the Japanese were eager to visit the United States.

 She replied, "Oh yes, very eager. We study English very hard because we want scholarships to your universities and colleges, such as Tokyo College and International Christian University."
 It seems that because of the rise of population in Japan, there are just too many people who wish to go to higher learning. For good jobs in Japan, boys must go to college to study mathematics and science.
 When asked how Americans compare to what they thought they were before they came to the U.S., Eric and Midori laughed and said that they had been quite mistaken. Eric judged America by the movies he had seen in France and thought we were all Cadillac owners, never serious and always dancing.

 He read "Blackboard Jungle" and thought this pictured the typical teen-ager. Midori thought we never studied. She said the trend seems to be toward studying and away from the laziness that she thought prevailed.
 Eric made up for his earlier comments by saying that "there is no difference, really, and people are people all over the world."
 Once on the subject of education, it was hard to get away. Eric was asked what he thought of the American attitude toward education. He said that it was "more or less mature than in venie. I had much prejudice when I came, but I found that teen-agers were interested in studies and, of course, some didn't care at all."
 "In America it seems that you are overly fond of such things as dramatics and working on newspapers, where in France we are more aware of literature and writers and strict studies."
 Midori told us about the years of American history she had in Japan. She had five years of English but the teachers merely teach it and don't speak it at all. Along the lines of our Saturday morning classes, Midori also has had for the past few years two hours a week of English composition.
 Eric spoke briefly about Pres-

A Monitoring of the Seasons
Locality

By PROF. DAVID FABLES, Jr.
Union Junior College, Cranford

On March 21 the sun will cross the equator heading northward and, to the average citizen of our land, spring will have begun. To the astute student of nature, however, spring began six or seven weeks before. Perhaps few agree in a discussion on what constitutes the first sign of the vernal season. Most likely the first sign of spring will not be the same for any individual two seasons in succession.

Some mild day in late January or early February will be borne across the ether the arresting whistle of the cardinal. A quarter century ago in our latitude this song would have been unusual, but today it is common, and likely to be the initial response of nature to the new season. Or it may be the familiar notes of the song sparrow, or the drumming of the downy woodpecker that stirs within us memories of the former springs we have witnessed.

While memory works for us, the great horned owl is perhaps already incubating eggs. On Lincoln's Birthday when, as a Boy Scout years ago, egg clusters of the tent caterpillar were collected and destroyed by the thousands, it is possible still, as it was then, to locate the nest of the "tiger of the air" in the crotch of an evergreen. The Second Watchung Mountain, or the First some years, provides a home, as does Long-Hill and the Great Swamp. Before the amphibian sounds echo through the low areas, the reverberating bass notes of hubb are abroad on the night air.

Years ago naturalists from New York City would engage in exploration on George Washington's birthday. Explorations designed to see how many evidences of a new spring season could be unearthed, usually on the west shore of the Hudson. We in metropolitan New Jersey can pursue this currently with comparable results.

In the moist thickets the bud scales are beginning to loosen on the Pussy Willow and before long the catkins will be visible, following close on the "heels" of the velvety precursors of the flowers. Skunk cabbage is a bloom, the purple and cream and green spathe surrounding the spadix which abounds with its inconspicuous florets. High overhead the swollen buds of silver and red maples have put forth flowers though the oaks, sassafras, hickories and ashes are still in tight slumber.

By the middle of the month in a mild season (such as we have thus far experienced, and hope to continue experiencing) Red-winged blackbirds will be swinging into swamp cattails or buttonbushes, putting forth volumes of squeaky notes. They may be joined by grackles, while in the fields close by the swamp may be seen the deep cerulean of the back of the female bluebird, and the darker blue and darker rust-color of her mate's back and breast.

A mild season may witness the arrival of the pintail duck in small numbers in the Great Swamp and Troy Meadows. Blacks may swoop in from their wintering habitat a short distance southward.

Robins, mourning doves, killdeer and kingfishers may soon arrive, though if we experience a heavy and late fall of snow, the advantage of an early return to the nesting grounds is negated.

Along the shore little change is noted. Scoters flock beyond the breakers, loons and gulls are pursuing their diving in the inlets, while Canadian geese and mute swans float on the choppy waters of Barnegat Bay just off West Point Island, periodically submerging their heads to forage for food.

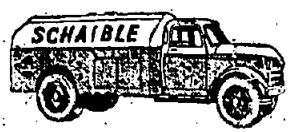

The winter birds are still about, coming to the feeders they have faithfully visited all season: Juncos, white-throated, song and tree sparrows, winter and Carolina wrens, downy and hairy woodpeckers, purple finches and, if the station operator is fortunate, the evening grosbeak.
