Package Voting

At a meeting of his Republican workers from six Union County municipalities last night at his Summit home, Eugene F. Daly, Independent Republican candidate for one of three Freshford nominations at the April 10 primary, stressed his belief that a vote for unbracketed candidates would place Republicans in a stronger position for victory at the November general election.

Kurt H. Ueberle of Fanwood presided at the meeting. He said "winning a nomination at the primary is a far cry from winning in November." Mr. Daly decried the "package deal" method of voting for freeholder. He said "it means voting for all three, giving the individual voter little choice." The Summit candidate, a member of Newark Chapter International Typographical Union 103, declared he is encouraged by the pledge of many labor votes, and also a large number of independent Republicans.

Mr. Daly believes that a "pay as you go" basis in county government should be regular policy and not an exception. He argued that unless this policy becomes strongly fixed, it won't be long until county taxes become confiscatory.

Overlook now has 188 doctors on its medical staff. In addition to attending department meetings to review scientific and medical developments in their respective fields, many of these doctors are assigned to medical committees covering areas such as drugs, isolation, medical records, credentials, admission and discharges, doctors and nurses advisory, intern resident training, etc.

CD Personnel Hears About A-Bomb Might

An estimated 100 people attended the meeting of Springfield Civil Defense Council Thursday, March 31, to meet Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Pownall, who, with their children, recently spent two weeks in a fallout shelter at Princeton University.

The Pownalls reported that among the difficulties they faced were the problems of sanitation and keeping themselves and their three children occupied.

Lived in Shelter
They lived in a eight-by-ten foot shelter. According to Bill Freeman, local CD director, shelters are built not for comfort but for survival. The shelter the Pownalls lived in is the recommended size.

There was no problem about food, the rooms having been stocked with canned foods and juices.

Also on the program were two films, "Day Called X" and "Flash of Darkness."

The former movie showed the progress in civilian defense made by Portland, Oregon. The Northwest coast town has constructed an underground control center, complete with map room, hospital and radio center.

High Death Rate
"Flash of Darkness" dealt with the problems of establishing a medical center in and around a nuclear blast area.

Freeman gave a brief talk on the destructive power of a 20-megaton bomb. He said it is equal to 20 million tons of TNT. All people living within a five-mile radius of the blast would be killed, he said, adding that there would be complete destruction.

Only 50 per cent of the residents within a ten-mile radius of such a blast would be killed. Within a radius of 15 miles, only 15 per cent of the population would be killed and only two per cent at a radius of 20 miles, the C. D. director said.

 when the Hebrews were led forth by Moses from their bondage under Pharaoh more than 3,000 years ago. The act of this liberation is commemorated as the most dramatic and vividly presented descriptions in the Bible. In every age it has served as an inspiration to men of all faiths whenever they fought tyranny and oppression. Birth of Nation

 Why has this become one of the best-remembered and ardently celebrated experiences in the Jewish religious calendar? The answer is because the Exodus denotes the birth of the Jewish nation, as well as its sanctification as a people dedicated to being a living witness of Divine Purpose.

Freedom and Responsibility
In Bavaria we found many wonderful things: handsome well-made shoes at half the U.S. price; delicious, cheap beer; dance halls full of uninhibited music and friendly people; and magnificent meals. We got steak-topped-with-fried-egg plus chicken in a patty shell garnished with many good vegetables, for four Deutsche Marks. One dollar.

We had a marvelous time. Our money went so far, bought so much of so many good things. On that trip, we left the world of responsibility behind. We left left Claire, our one-year-old daughter, in Cambridge, England, under the loving care of a friend.

She seemed far away, as did Donald's work at the laboratory. That week, he didn't open a book, I didn't write a word. We just played. Afternoons, we went shopping for clothes and camera gear and car accessories. Evenings, we did full justice to liter upon liter of Munchen beer.

Visit Palace
One day we did manage to rise before noon and get over to tour the Nymphenburger Palace. We wandered through the huge, gilded rooms in a group headed by an incredibly lingual guide. He described the murals, the paintings, the massive furniture in German, then English, then French, then Italian. We learned that Ludwig II was born in that castle—poor Ludwig, the "Mad King" (wahnsinnig-kanig, rol-foi, etc.).

Even then I felt sorry for him. He may have been a rich baby, but he must have been a cold one. There wasn't (and isn't) any method whatsoever of heating that huge palace. He was born in August 1845. I consoled myself with the thought that perhaps they moved to a winter palace when the frost was on the pumpkin.

In his portraits, Ludwig looks chilly. He had a pale, pinched face, long, flowing black hair (the better to keep out draughts?), a brooding, introspective look. He succeeded to the throne of Bavaria when he was 19, and became known as a patron of the arts. He took a special interest in Richard Wagner—in fact, Ludwig grew to idolize the composer.

Into the Alps
Ludwig was not in power long before he began to indulge his strange passion for building castles. Kinks had always had lavish homes, of course, but his outdid his predecessors in sumptuousness—and in weirdness.

Next day we drive away from Munich into the northern part of the Bavarian Alps to see Neuschwanstein, one of the castles that Ludwig built for himself. This enormous, forbidding castle is perched among high, craggy peaks. It cannot be reached by car. We went in a horse-drawn sleigh up, up, up the road that curls around the mountain to Ludwig's castle.

We were stunned and horrified and fascinated by it. Ludwig built it for himself as a tremendous stage on which to act out his peculiar, romantic dreams. He never planned to have any meetings there. He never wanted to have any visitors. It was for him alone.

Ludwig a Dreamer
Ludwig was a romantic, a dreamer. He shunned the job of ruling Bavaria. Somehow, he couldn't face up to his job in the workaday world. He hid himself in his castle and dressed up as a knight of old. The German myths about the Emperor Charlemagne, Sigurd and others that had inspired Wagner's operas were to be an obsession with Ludwig.

We felt his strange personality as we wandered through his strange castle. There are miles and miles of paintings showing the figures (more than life-size) in these myths doing heroic deeds, rescuing maidens, slaying dragons—doing all the noble things Ludwig yearned to do.

His dressing room is designed to look like an open bower: the ceiling is pale blue, imprinted with clouds and birds; the walls are painted with vine trellises. The tremendous echoing lounges and reception rooms are lined with huge murals. According to his servants, Ludwig would dress up and promenade in these halls for hours. Alone.

Wanted to Be Alone
There is a tremendous throne room where he planned to build a monumental throne. But there is no record that he ever intended to have any company whatsoever in that room. He designed a vast festival hall. But no festivals.

Adjoining his study is a false grotto, complete with imitation caves and waterfalls, stalagmites and stalactites. The dining room, where he ate his solitary meals, though a big room by my standards, is small compared to the other in his castle. The massive table has one solitary chair.

The Castle of Neuschwanstein is built in the style of the late Romanesque period of the early 13th Century—but Ludwig added some modern touches. The kitchen below stairs is beautifully appointed; there is good plumbing in the bathroom. He included a special electrical bell system so that his servants could tell when he rang for them, which of the many rooms His Majesty was in. I bet he conjured up some way to heat these rooms, too. Declared insane.

It took a long time to build Neuschwanstein. For 17 years, painters, architects, masons, workers hauled materials up 3,300 feet above sea level. And Ludwig lived there for six months.

In June, 1886, the ministers of Bavaria declared Ludwig to be insane, and on June 13, Ludwig drowned himself.
History has counted him a bad king because he spent the royal funds on resplendent palaces for himself. But without his patronage, many fine painters and architects would not be known today. Wagner himself might not have the fame he deserves. Modern Bavaria owes Ludwig a vote of thanks because his castle has brought millions of tourists into the country.

We left the castle somehow sobered and depressed. For the first time that day, we thought of Claire back in England. Seemed so little to be left alone. We said to each other, practically at the same instant, that maybe we should take her with us on our next trip.

Experts See Landscaping At Record Peak in 1960

The year 1960 will open a decade of nationwide landscaping and planting of trees and shrubs for beautification that will break all previous records, Valleur C. Curtis, Collicoon, N. Y., president of the American Association of Nurserymen predicts. Every year for the past 10 years a new peak of planting has been experienced and the momentum is increasing, Mr. Curtis states. "Early in the next decade total nursery industry sales volume should reach and surpass a billion dollars annually if the rate of increase for the past 10 years is sustained. Volume in 1960 is expected to be around $335 million. It is at $350 million and at least a 10 to 12 percent increase is expected next year."

"The expanded rate of home building has been a strong incentive for more planting and landscaping," Mr. Curtis says, "but there have been other trends which, in the aggregate, neers for high speed traffic with too little regard for roadside landscaping and beautification. There's little or no relaxation in driving. Under the circumstances, the only recourse for many families is to plant and beautify and enjoy life around the home. Once there is a taste of garden living, the family discovers it to be a happier and more peaceful way to live. "All over the United States," Mr. Curtis states, "both home owners and businesses are reacting to much greater extent the important part trees and shrubs play in their lives. Factories, banks, utilities, stores and indoors for economic and aesthetic reasons. Good landscaping is found to be good business. Cities are turning to trees and shrubs to help stem the tide of business to outlying shopping areas, the recently planted 'malls' in Kalamazoo, Michigan, and Toledo, Ohio, being examples. New York and other cities have installed miles of large urns in which they change the plants according to the seasons. Some 55 cities are reported to be considering or installing landscaped shopping malls.

COZY LITTLE NOOK — In cities, where yard space is at a premium, a cozy little garden nook can make living more delightful. Holly vines and azaleas here have transformed an otherwise lifeless and unuseable piece of land in the rear yard.

Oyster Shell Scale Can Kill If Not Identified

By William Calnan, Forester, City of Summit

Oyster shell scale is one of the insects not noticeable until it builds up to an infestation. The scales do their damage by sucking the plant juices or sap out of the plant until the plant begins to die back or sometimes die altogether. It is a pest of many trees, shrubs and in some cases, flowering plants. The insects are fairly well distributed throughout the U.S. but are most prevalent here in the North East.

Life History. The winter is passed in the egg stage under the female scales which are grayish white in color (brownish yellow in summer). The female scales are approximately 1/4 inch in length and are shaped like an oyster shell. Eggs hatch from late May until late in June, depending on weather conditions. Young scales or nymphs, are very active, pale yellow in color and soon crawl to a good feeding place where they will spend the rest of their life not to move again. This generation matures and lays its eggs in August or September to give us one generation a year.

Control. Oyster shell scale can be controlled by trimming out and burning all infested branches. Apply a dormant oil or miscible oil spray when the temperature is 40 degrees or above and has a drying period of two

Changing Plants With Season Is Suburban Trend

As an immediate outgrowth of municipalities planting large concrete tubs of flowers and shrubs, which they change with the seasons, many home owners in large cities whose yards are quite small are following this trend according to the American Association of Nurserymen. The planting of shrubs both in moveable and stationary tubs is not new. It has been done on large estates for years. The difference is that the containers today are planted every three months or so with different species to conform to the seasons. Thus one will have spring flowering bulbs in combination with a small shrub annual in the summer, perhaps combined with roses, chrysanthemums and some bright foliage shrubs in the fall. In the winter the containers may be left outdoors when planted with evergreens to be lighted at Christmas time, or plants and moved indoors.

The planting of seasonal flowers is growing rapidly in large cities. New York City is a leading example — starting with spring flowers, changing in summer to annuals and small shrubs, with chrysanthemums in the fall and holly and ivy in winter. Although this practice has long been followed in some parks, it has become popular in urban yards, it is reported.

The champion golfer at the Naval Ordnance Laboratory, Silver Spring Md., is not human. A hypervelocity gun in use drives a model of golf ball size at 10,000 feet per second — almost 7,000 miles per hour. Naval mines so intelligent they will select only the biggest, best and most important ships to blow themselves up under water warfare experts at the Naval Ordnance Laboratory, Silver Spring, Md.

As specimen plants, roses add color to the property. Grandiflora roses have a big future in landscaping.

How electric heating makes a home easier to keep clean

Take a look at an electrically heated home and you'll see that there are no radiators, pipes or ducts — no hard-to-get-at places to dust behind. Electric heating units are set inconspicuously in the baseboards, walls or ceiling. There's no furnace, either. So there are no fumes, soot or grimy film to add to your house-cleaning chores. In fact, electric heating is as clean as an electric light.

Every month, more and more homes in New Jersey are being heated electrically. More and more people are enjoying the complete convenience and worry-free comfort that it brings. If you'd like to learn more about electric home heating, just fill out and mail the coupon below. You'll receive our free booklet, "How To Heat Your Home Without A Furnace," by return mail.

HARVARD GAINS STATE LEAGUE CHAMPIONSHIP

Harvard defeated Princeton 50-45 Wednesday evening, March 30, at the Florence Gaudineer School gym as Cici Monticello, Gary Faucher and Keith Neigel sparked the winners to the Springfield Recreation State League title. Harvard survived the double elimination tournament without a loss, with a vastly improved Princeton five gaining the final after eliminating Dartmouth and Yale, both outstanding teams.

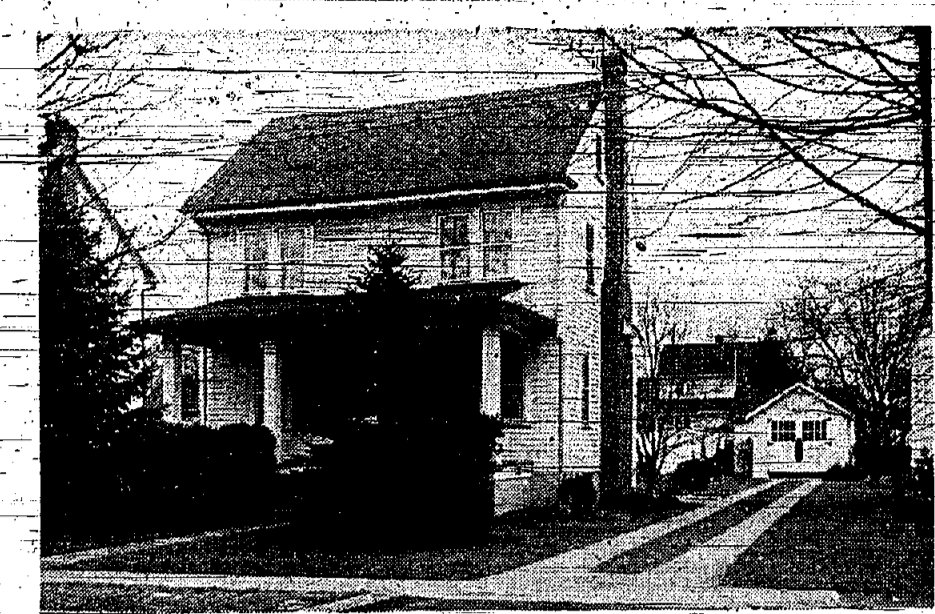

The clubs battled to a 12-12 first-quarter score, with Harvard gaining a 23-17 halftime advantage, then held on as Princeton rallied for 18 points in the third quarter, narrowing the lead 37-35 at the start of the final period. In the final period four baskets by Keith Neigel and four points by little "Iggie" Gardella provided the margin of victory.

Marshall Anthony with 14 points and little Jimmy Lies with 12 were the scoring leaders for Princeton, with Mike Rekon chipping in with ten points.

BULLETS TRIP CELTICS FOR SMALL-FRY TITLE

The Bullets defeated the Celtics 24-20 Wednesday evening, March 30, at the Florence Gaudineer School gym, thereby annexing the Caldwell division championship of the Springfield "Small-Fry" Basketball League.

LETTERS FORMER SEN. SMITH URGES NOMINATION OF CLIFF CASE

To the Editor:
Having represented New Jersey in the United States Senate as a Republican for 14 years, I am addressing this letter to you to call your attention to the situation in our state this year. I have temporarily asked for a leave of absence from my service in the State Department in Washington in order to return to New Jersey to assist Senator Clifford Case in his campaign for reelection. It has been very disturbing to learn that the current Primary campaign in some areas is being waged among Republicans on the underlying negative premise of "Best Cliff Case." Some aspects of that negative kind of campaign remind me of what I consider one of the saddest chapters in the history of the Democratic Party.

That chapter was the Michaelson-Baskob smearing campaign against our beloved former President Herbert Hoover, back in 1932, when the New Deal was ushered in using these techniques. I feel sure that all fair-minded citizens are agreed that this was a real black mark against the Democratic Party.

These circumstances left with me a strong urge to try to keep our Republican Party out of this particular kind of campaigning. I always have maintained that the positive approach was the one my constituents were entitled to; that I should endeavor to present my case and the reasons supporting it, rather than to attack and endeavor to destroy my opponent personally. My judgment is that we should work for something rather than against something, unless there is corruption or something of that nature involved.

I realize that these statements have nothing to do with Senator Case's voting record. While it is true that he and I, in instances, voted differently, these were the areas, generally controversial, where we find other Republicans differing from what might be called the predominant Republican vote. The variety of our viewpoints, and the ultimate consolidation of our views on the legislation, as finally passed, is the great strength of our Party and our whole system of open debate, discussion, of proposed amendments, pro and con, and final agreement.

I do want to make perfectly clear that, in my judgment, anybody has the right to criticize our public men. However, if we are going to criticize to the total extent of destroying a man's career, we must be absolutely honest and scrupulously fair. Some of the actions of those engaged in the Case opposi-sition do not measure up to this standard.

In Cliff Case we have a man who served the State of New Jersey first in the State Assembly. Later the people of New Jersey sent him to the House of Representatives for eight years, from 1945 to 1953. He then was elected to the Senate six years ago, after a brief intervening interval in private life. Senator Case, therefore, is our Senator with a record of almost two decades of public service.

I hope and feel confident that Republicans throughout the State of New Jersey will support Cliff Case in the coming Primary and that we will all unite in the campaign this Fall for Nixon for President and Case for Senator. This will give us the strongest possible ticket and assure us of this Senate seat to give the citizens of New Jersey a vigorous, intelligent, and conscientious Senator for the next six years.

Always cordially yours,
H. ALEXANDER SMITH,

What would a home be like without a furnace? Well, first, you'd have plenty of room to build a playroom or TV room in the cellar. There'd be no hard-to-clean radiators, pipes or ducts. No fumes, soot or grime. No high maintenance bill every year. Impossible? Not on your life! Electric resistance heating offers all of these things and more. For instance, electric heating units are set inconspicuously in the baseboards, walls or ceiling — make decorating and cleaning easier. You have room-by-room temperature control, too. Dial the heat that suits each individual room.

Sound good? Well, what's even better, now it costs a lot less than you'd think.

If you'd like to learn more about electric home heating, just fill in and mail the coupon below. You'll receive a copy of our free booklet, "How To Heat Your Home Without A Furnace," by return mail.

He was admitted to the hospital the preceding Wednesday, having suffered a stroke as an aftermath of the death of the late Richard J. Dwyer, of Springfield, with whom he had been associated as a newspaper pressman for some 50 years. Mr. Dwyer died on March 9, only 20 minutes after he was involved in a car crash.

Surviving the late Mr. Caldwell in addition to the daughter, Howard T. Sayre, of 64A Watano Drive, Springfield.

ter-mentioned are a son, Raymond A. Caldwell, of Westfield; a brother, James J. Caldwell, of Bridgeport; three grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. Mrs. Caldwell died ten years ago.

Born on a ship coming from Ireland as it was entering New York Harbor, Mr. Caldwell spent the early part of his life and was married in Newark. He had lived in Union, where he was a member of the Excavators' Association, and then lived in Springfield seven years ago.

A pressman about 50 years, Mr. Dwyer was with the old Newark Star Eagle before joining the Newark News.

Funeral services for the late Volmer J. Uhrenholdt were held Monday, April 4, at Smith and Smith (Suburban) Funeral Home in Springfield, with the Rev. Bruce Evans, of the First Presbyterian Church of Springfield, officiating. Cremation took place at Rosedale-Crematorium.

The late Mr. Uhrenholdt died Friday, April 1, as he was awaiting a bus in Springfield center to take him to Newark.

Mr. Uhrenholdt had been employed for some 20 years by Jones & Auerbacher Inc., wholesale hardware firm.

A resident of Springfield 10 years, having come here from Westfield, Mr. Uhrenholdt is survived by his wife, Gudrun Andresen Uhrenholdt, 36 Franklin Place, Springfield, and a son, Kenneth V. Holt of Fort Peck, Montana.

Truck Crashes Parked Cars

Two cars were damaged Monday, April 4, in the Lido Restaurant parking lot on Route 22, Springfield, when a truck being towed went out of control and bolted into the lot.

The tractor trailer was being towed by a jeep truck driven by Herman Williams of Pittsburgh, Pa. He told police he felt the truck sway before it went out of control.

Williams was thrown from his truck. The driver in the second truck, George Slusher, also of Pittsburgh, escaped injury.

When the two trucks came to a halt they were in a jack-knifed position standing side-by-side, police said.

The cars struck were owned by Ernest Zeim of Cedar Grove and Helen Hudis of Mountainside.

Williams was taken to Overlook Hospital, Summit, where he was X-rayed and released.

Mayor Di Buono Stated That Affairs and Found These Statements to Be in Direct Conflict With Each Other

Mayor Di Buono stated that he was present at both these affairs and found these statements to be in direct conflict with each other.

"Under the circumstances," Di Buono stated, "I can only conclude that my opponent is attempting to gain support in both Mayoralty camps by making statements which will appeal to those present at the particular occasion. My position in the Elizabeth Democratic Mayoralty nomination is clear. I have taken no position as to either candidate except to say that both are Democrats, each entitled to seek the nomination."

Poses Three Questions

"I challenge my opponent to make his position equally clear by publicly answering the following questions:

"1. Are you supporting the candidacy of Mayor Steven J. Berick for the Democratic Mayoralty nomination?"

"2. Are you supporting the candidacy of Freeholder Tom Dunn for the Democratic Mayoralty nomination?"

"3. Are you taking no position as to either candidacy in the Elizabeth Democratic Mayoralty nomination?"

"Only opponent sought diligently to have his name placed on the organization line—and having achieved that end, he apparently now finds himself in a dilemma in Elizabeth in view of the large interest which has been created in the Democratic Mayoralty nomination contest and finds it difficult to know how, when and where not to advocate the support of the organization line."

Family Background Plays Big Role in Decision to Attend College

By Kenneth Fink, Director, Princeton Research Service

Is there a tie-in between members of a family going to college today and the head of the family's job, educational background, religion, or the size of the community lived in?

To determine the answers to this question, The New Jersey Poll sent its trained, professional reporters out from Princeton under 100% "On the Spot" supervision to ask the following question in face to face interviews of a scientifically drawn sample of 1,000 adult citizens:

"Are there any members of your family at the present time attending college full time?"

A tabulation of the answers to the above question highlights a number of findings that should give educators and political leaders across the state much to think about.

To begin with, the less formal schooling people have had, the smaller is the proportion of family members presently going to college.

Whereas among adults who did not complete high school, only four in each 100 have a member of the family in college today, among adult citizens who themselves were graduated from high school, six in every 100 have members of their families now in college, and among people who themselves attended college, there are 12 in every 100 with a member of the family in college at the present time.

Another way of looking at the above findings is this: college educated people in the state today proportionately are sending three times as many members of their families to college today than are those who do not themselves have a high school diploma. (12 per cent of the college educated adults and only 4 per cent of those who didn't finish high school have members of their families in college today.)

And adult citizens who themselves finished high school proportionately are sending one and a half times as many members of their families to college.

today than are those who have themselves had less formal schooling. (6% of those who completed high school and only 4 per cent of those with less formal schooling have a member of their family in college today.)

Still another noteworthy finding is that there appears to be a correlation between the kind of job the person has and the chances of a member of the family going to college.

For example, only two out of every 100 families whose chief breadwinner is an unskilled or semi-skilled worker say that they have a member of the family in college today.

The above finding compares with four out of each 100 skilled workers; five out of each 100 farmers; nine out of every 100 sales-clerical workers, and 11 out of every 100 professional workers or business men with members of their families now in college.

The foregoing findings would seem to suggest that the chances of going to college are better for those from white-collar homes than for those from manual worker homes.

Two other interesting side-light evidence themselves in today's statewide survey.

One is that the size of the community lived in—whether a big city or a rural community—apparently has little influence on whether members of the family go to college.

The other is that the religion of a family appears to have little bearing on whether members of the family go to college.

Survey findings show that exactly the same proportions of Catholics and Protestants—six per cent—have members of the family in college today. And people of the Jewish faith are sending only a slightly higher proportion to college today—8%.

Who Is Going to College? Are there any members of your family at the present time who are attending college full time?

Family Garden Living Spurts To New Heights

The popularity of "family garden living" has spurred to new heights as more and more people discover that the tensions of modern living are chased away by wholesome outdoor living on the property, according to the American Association of Nurserymen.

Modern women particularly prefer garden living—and entertaining whose informally relaxes guests and lessens housework, while everyone, neighbors, friends and family enjoy it more, it is reported.

For family garden living, the following are said to be most in demand:

1. An area screened off with shrubs and trees for privacy, usually rather close to the kitchen for convenience in serving food and beverages.
2. Plenty of flowering plants such as roses and annuals to afford a most pleasing immediate view.
3. Unightly distant views are screened off by strategically placed trees and tall shrubs. Ancient plants are placed in various locations on the property to attract attention by their bloom or contrasting foliage.

The end result is "prestige" living at low cost, amidst nature's loveliest plant specimens, it is stated. Some home owners plant and maintain the plants for their garden living area, while others seek the advice of nurserymen. Those who "plant it themselves" can take heart in realization that the medical profession considers gardening one of the primary activities to relieve the tensions of modern living, the Association states.

Limited Funds Delaying Passaic Flood Controls

The survey of flood problems of the Passaic Valley is being completed by the Army Corps of Engineers as rapidly as limited federal funds permit, according to a statement this week by Salvatore A. Bontempo, commissioner of the New Jersey Department of Conservation and Economic Development.

In spite of the continued efforts of Governor Meyner, members of the Governor's Passaic Valley Flood Control Committee, other State officials and the entire New Jersey delegation of senators and congressmen, during the last few years essential studies have not been adequate for full utilization of the Corps capabilities. Commissioner Bontempo said.

Total federal appropriations for the current survey since the start of the Corps investigations in 1957 for work through this fiscal year ending June 30, 1960, have amounted to $267,500. Additional appropriations of several hundred thousand dollars will be required during the next two years if the studies are to be completed by 1962.

Expenditures Cited

In addition to federal expenditures, in recent years $85,000 has been appropriated by the State and $10,000 by each of the counties of Morris, Essex and Passaic. These funds provided the Governor's Committee with basic data and permitted preparation of its Passaic Valley Flood Control report. This report acquainted the people of the Valley with the problems involved and serves as a guide to the Corps of Engineers in its present development of a flood program.

The Governor's Committee with membership from all parts of the Passaic Valley represents the Valley in coordinating activities with the Corps of Engineers and other Federal State and local interests.

Norman J. Griffiths of Madison, Chairman of the Governor's committee, has advised that for the fourth year an appeal for acceleration of the program will be presented in an application to the Projects Committee of the National Rivers and Harbors Congress to be held in Washington on May 27. He stated that his committee will continue its vigorous effort in behalf of flood control in the Passaic Valley.

"All of us regret the unexcusable delay in completion of the Corps of Engineers' survey," Mr. Griffiths said. "However, now that all groups are in agreement on a plan and working toward a common goal, we can expect prompt action on our appeals for an early answer to our flood problem."

conventions (41 Democratic 38 Republican). The more exciting "popularity contest" was denied New Jerseyans this year when no candidates filed petitions to be placed on the ballot, the attorney general, in the light of this ruled that no space should be left for a write-in vote in order to allow more room for the listing of local candidates. Thus an expression of the popular will for one presidential candidate or another has been foreclosed in this state, unless the Legislature passes a bill quickly reinstating the preference option.

Under New Jersey law, the preference poll is non-binding and a candidate is not considered morally bound to support him at the convention. So, as things stand, the Republican delegates will be pledged to Richard Nixon and the Democrats will back Governor Robert Meyner, the favorite son of the state. It is understood that if Senator Kennedy received the nomination, his running mate would have to come from another section of the country to balance the ticket, and that, ipso facto, would eliminate Meyner. The Governor, therefore, would be happier if the top spot went to a Westerner, a choice which would boost his availability for the second slot immeasurably. This fact may create tension within the delegation because the majority favors the Massachusetts Senator.

...ot, he may deliver them, if opportunity, to the candidate approaching the magic majority number of 761. Or, if the convention deadlocks and his favorite son status is still intact, he may emerge as the dark horse choice for the nomination. Or the New Jersey delegation may seek to bargain with its strength for the vice-presidential nomination for the Governor.

At a recent Midwestern Democratic Conference held in Detroit, Meyner revealed some interest in the vice-presidency by attempting to rotund the Kennedy surge. It is understood that if Senator Kennedy received the nomination, his running mate would have to come from another section of the country to balance the ticket, and that, ipso facto, would eliminate Meyner. The Governor, therefore, would be happier if the top spot went to a Westerner, a choice which would boost his availability for the second slot immeasurably. This fact may create tension within the delegation because the majority favors the Massachusetts Senator.

Of much more interest than the vote for delegates will be the primary contest between Republican Sen. a to r Clifford Case and his challenger, Robert Morris, of Point Pleasant. Case, completing his first term in the Senate, is being attacked for his liberal voting record and what Morris calls "his lack of support" of the Eisenhower Administration. Conservative Republicans, rallying to Morris, say that they are dis-semi-private rooms. All of the rooms have private toilet and lavatory facilities, and ample built-in storage space is provided for patients' property.

The hospital has a special central system for oxygen and uninterrupted supply as required to each room in the hospital. This eliminates the necessity of transporting an oxygen cylinder of limited capacity. In addition, oxygen, an anesthetic gas, will be similarly distributed to each operating room.

A Dahlberg system of inter-communication has been installed, together with remote control radio and television in all rooms. The hospital is also equipped for closed circuit television.

Drs. Crawford A. Butterworth and Laurence Rubenstein, both of the Township, are members of the staff of the new hospital.

Beetles May Kill Elm Trees

By ESSEX COUNTY AGRICULTURAL EXTENSION SERVICE

If your elm tree began looking sickly last summer, with branches wilted and leaves dropped, it may have become infected with Dutch elm disease.

The most important carrier of the disease is the small European elm bark beetle. It attacks all species of elms, choosing living trees as food and weakened or dead trees for breeding places.

Broken limbs and stored firewood containing bark also make breeding grounds. The beetle will not lay eggs in wood without bark, or with bark that has died to the point of cracking.

Beetle feeding in spring and early summer is apt to result in the tree becoming seriously diseased. This is because the

Washington House Adds Hotel to 1738 Structure

A new 50-room hotel was formally opened yesterday at the Washington House in Watchung.

The hotel, which has four long, dottle spring vessels of the tree rapidly carry the fungus disease to all parts of the tree.

A tree that became diseased in spring or early summer may be killed in a few weeks.

The only known way of fighting Dutch elm disease is by killing the insects infecting your trees. A spray with DDT, methoxychlor or dieldrin while the tree is dormant helps to prevent beetle feeding during spring and early summer.

Dead and weak trees should be removed, and dead branches on the ground should be burned.

quartz electric heat and individual room-controlled air conditioning.

Mauro revealed that helicopter service to a heliport located next to the roof of the hotel will be available in the near future. He explained that the State of New Jersey has approved a heliport at the site New York Airways has the location under serious consideration as a regular scheduled stop when the company resumes passenger service in New Jersey, Mauro said. A ramp will be constructed from the roof-top garden to the heliport.

The hotel, which has a number of private sound-proof meeting rooms, will be used for business meetings, sales meetings, industrial conventions, in addition to individual use.

The Washington House is located on Watchung Avenue in Watchung where the road cuts through the Watchung Mountain range. The location is one-half mile north of U.S. Route 22 opposite Plainfield.

will fungus is living in your soil. Once it gets a foothold it increases every year that you plant tomatoes.

By mid-season the lower leaves turn yellow, and when you should be picking your crop you have nothing left but dead plants.

This may have happened to you and you may have tried to buy varieties of tomatoes that resist the disease. A few greenhouses raise resistant varieties for sale to home gardeners, but many have only the old, faithful varieties to sell. Unfortunately, the popular varieties including Rutgers, Marglobe, Valiant and Garden State, are all susceptible to tomato wilt.

We bring this subject up now in case your plant market does not stock resistant varieties and you want to buy seed and try to start your own plants.

Among resistant varieties are Manalucie, Manalec, Kokomo and Number 146.

Resistant varieties may not be exactly the same type that you are used to. They may not yield as much fruit and the crop may come later, but you'll have tomatoes instead of dead plants.

Lawrence D. Little, Jr., Essex County Agricultural Agent, has a free leaflet on tomato diseases and their control. Besides listing disease resistant varieties it tells what to do in plants later in the season to prevent some of the other diseases. Ask him for Leaflet 290. His address is 246 Bloomfield Avenue, Caldwell.

Shelter

(Continued from Page 1) consideration to building a similar shelter in the basement of your home. We do not feel that a nuclear war is imminent, but it is quite obvious that such shelters could not be built after an attack has taken place. Mrs. Hardgrove speaks expressing the gratitude of the organization she represented to the ED/DC Council and saying that "neither group could have done this job alone." Mrs. Robert D. Hardgrove Jr., president of Springfield Woman's Club, outlined the events which led to the adoption of a fallout shelter as a club project. Mrs. Hardgrove extended the club's thanks to the business people, including merchants, other organizations and local officials for their "wholehearted cooperation in bringing the project to a successful conclusion." Springfield Woman's Club, said its president, was ever mindful of its obligation to the township and such projects as the shelter always would find a welcome in the club. Guests Presented Mrs. Kenneth E. Bandomer, chairman of the club's Public Welfare Committee, whose efforts in bringing about the erection of the shelter were lauded by Mrs. Hardgrove, introduced some of the leaders of the New Jersey Federation of Women's Clubs in the audience. Among them were Mrs. Ford A. Starkweather, Northern Vice-President; Mrs. Joseph E. Walsh, state chairman for civil defense; Mrs. Charles D. Lindridge, Seventh District Vice-President; Mrs. M. Marshall, Seventh District civil defense chairman. Mrs. Bandomer also mentioned the following as her committee colleagues, pointing out that Club President Mrs. Hardgrove was more than an "ex-officio member": Mrs. Alfred Kopsisch, civil defense chairman for the club; Mrs. M. L. Kefauver, Mrs. John Weber, Mrs. Fred Speer, Mrs. De Forest Hillier. Mrs. J. Raymond Hays, co-ordinator of women's activities for the state CD-DC organization, was presented to the gathering. Mrs. Hays, who represented State CD-DC Director Dignan, who was in Washington, stated that Springfield is a part of Region 1 of the Federal Office of Civil Defense Mobilization, which region is composed of New Jersey, New York and all the New England States. New Jersey leads. Region 1 she added leads the nation in the construction of prototype home fallout shelters, and New Jersey leads the region. Mr. Freeman, who may find himself an associate member of Springfield Woman's Club, introduced a number of civil defense leaders on the county level, among them being the county co-ordinator, Addison C. Eli. At this point there was a pause while Rabbi Reuben R. Levine of Temple Beth Ahm offered a prayer. In prefacing his prayer, the rabbi called upon all the peoples of the world to learn to live with one another in harmony and peace so that the fear of atomic bomb fallout and the building of shelters need not exist and the building of shelters need not be necessary. Sibole Gives Talk The ribbon which was to have stretched across the entrance of the shelter was cut in the council chamber by Mrs. Hardgrove and Township Committee man Russel Sibole. Public Safety Commissioner, who was representing Mayor Vincent J. Bonadies. Commissioner Sibole extended the greetings of Mayor Bonadies and said the governing board was proud of the activities of the township's civil defense unit and of the civic-mindedness of the Woman's Club. He voiced official thanks for all who had contributed to the success of the project and assured the women and the CD-DC organization of the continuing support and co-operation of the Township Committee. Saying that he had chosen a prayer for peace as his contribution to the services, the Rev. Edward R. Oehling, of St. James R. C. Church pronounced the benediction. Bringing the afternoon's ceremony to a close, CD-DC Director Freeman said he was "uplifted by the large turnout in spite of the weather." Inspection of the shelter followed the program in Town Hall, and refreshments were served in the Civic Center by the ladies of the local civil defense organization.

YOU GOTTA HAVE HEART—Baseball player-actors strike a pose during the singing of one of the featured songs in the Broadway show "Damn Yankees." Featured players in the production include Murray Zeldner, Dr. Saul Gladstone, Jack Silverman and Sid Lester. Show will be presented by Temple Beth Ahm, Springfield Drama Group at Millburn Junior High School for four performances end of April beginning of May.

He came to the United States in 1947 and applied for citizenship in 1952. The government has charged Agh also with making false statements regarding his place of residence while abroad. Blames Newspaper Ah has blamed his troubles on "You Men," a Hungarian language paper in New York City. He said that the newspaper portrayed him as a "hangman" of the labor force and a "beast." Agh claimed that the paper has been on the subversive list of the U.S. Attorney General's office. The Scotch Plains man stressed that he helped his country fight against the Communists and that he would help the United States fight the Communists. Agh stated: "I am not an anti-Semite. I am fighting Communism." He asked the immigration officials to end the persecution to which he claims he has been subjected.

Five Year (Continued from Page 1) Many officials in this area have maintained that the road could best be built by improving the present Route 27, while others have suggested alternate routes which would help preserve property values in Springfield. Bertumpel has indicated that he is not in favor of the alternate route through that township. However, the state has not furnished the exact route and a list of the homes which lie in the route of the highway. Guy W. Jung trees as a protection against winter winds. Be certain to pad wire where it loops the tree so it doesn't tear the tender bark. Tamp soil gently with the hoe blade after sowing seeds in rows. You'll provide close contact between soil and seeds; get flower or vegetable seeds off to a far stronger start. Plant small groups of bulbs in an oval pattern for best effect. Prepare soil by spading it up, breaking clumps, then raking it smooth.

Monmouth Park '60 Race Stakes Program Is Set

Three stakes with an added or guaranteed value of $100,000 each will highlight Monmouth Park's record 1960 stakes program announced today by Monmouth Park President Amory Haskell. Nineteen stakes with a value of $669,500 will be presented during Monmouth Park's fifty-day meeting commencing Friday, June 10, and running through Saturday, August 6.

The Sapling for 2 year-olds at six furlongs and the Sorority for 2 year-olds fillies at six furlongs along with the Monmouth Handicap at a mile and a quarter for 3 year-olds and up, all carry a minimum value of $100,000. The Sorority to be contested on Saturday, July 30, has been revised for its 1960 running as a complementary feature to The Sapling for 2 year-olds of either sex.

In both The Sorority and The Sapling, Monmouth Park will add $50,000 to all fees and guarantees a gross of $100,000 in both featured events. Provision has also been made for supplementary entries at $5,000 due five days prior to the date on which the stakes are run.

The Monmouth Handicap, scheduled to be run July 16, closes on July 1. The nomination fee is $150. Like The Sapling and The Sorority, however, provision has been made for supplementary nominations. A fee of $7,500 is due on the supplementary closing date, July 6. Nominations to all stakes will close approximately two to three weeks before the running of each featured event.

Included in the 1960 schedule of stakes are two attractions carrying $50,000 in added money. They are the Monmouth Oaks at a mile and a quarter for 3 year-old fillies, to be run July 25 and the Choice at a mile and a sixteenth to be run August 3. The value of the latter stake has been doubled since its 1958 running.

Monmouth Park's principal feature of its 1960 hurdle program will be the $22,000 Midsummer Hurdle Handicap. Features of all American hurdle events. This invitational contest for 3 year-olds and up will be run on July 27 at a distance of about two miles.

Seven added-money opportunities headed by the Monmouth Handicap are open to horses in the handicap division. The others are the $15,000 Oceanport Handicap to be run on opening day, the $15,000 Salvator Mile to be run June 15, the $20,000 added Regret Handicap for fillies and mares June 18, the $25,000 Rumson Handicap July 2, the $25,000 Longfellow Handicap on the turf July 4, and the $25,000 added Molly Pitcher Handicap for fillies and mares July 9.

In addition, five events especially for 3 year-olds and a similar number for juveniles have been added. The Monmouth Oaks and the Choice head the roster of sophomore features. Other events for 3 year-olds are the $20,000 Select Handicap, the $20,000 Miss Woodford for fillies and the $20,000 Lamplighter Handicap.

Other tests for juveniles in addition to The Sapling and The Sorority with their $100,000 minimum gross guarantee, are the $20,000 Colleen for fillies, the $20,000 Tyro for colts and geldings, and the $15,000 New Jersey Futurity for New Jersey foaled 2 year olds. Supplementary nomination for the latter race at $750 each are due June 1.

an extra copy of your 1040, Income Tax Return, and Schedule D, Profit and Loss Statement from your business, are needed along with your canceled check showing payment of the tax. If you are a farm operator, you will need a copy of Schedule 1040 F.

"Inquire Before You Retire"

"Inquire before you retire." This is sound advice to the individual planning to file for old age and survivors insurance payments. Knowing what papers are needed in advance will speed up your claim, according to Albert Furia, District Manager of the Irvington Social Security Administration.

A telephone call to your social security office to find out what papers are needed will speed up your claim. You should always have your social security card, proof of age, evidence of earnings or self employment income for 1959 are required in most cases.

A birth certificate is best proof of age. If you were born in this country, a birth certificate may be obtained by contacting the Registrar in the town of your birth. For those born outside the United States, your district office will advise you of acceptable proof of age.

If you work for wages, your W-2, Withholding Tax Statement, for 1959, will be acceptable as evidence of earnings. If you are in business for yourself,
