Regional Names Shop Coordinator

Coordinating the industrial arts program in the Regional High School system, district 1, will be Donald Hoagland who has 20 years teaching experience behind him.

Mr. Hoagland taught industrial arts for 19 years at Kearny High School and for one year at West Essex Regional High School. At West Essex he was responsible for organizing, planning and directing the entire industrial arts program.

Several of his articles have been published in "School Shop."

Regional Board Officially Adopts Coordinator Duties

For the past year the three schools in the Regional School District, Jonathan Dayton in Springfield, Arthur Johnson in Clark, and Governor Livingston in Berkeley Heights, have utilized the services of coordinators in each subject field. The coordinator is responsible for administering and supervising the operation and work of his department in all three schools.

On Tuesday night the Regional Board of Education officially adopted a new chapter for its rules and regulations manual which specifically defines all duties and requirements of coordinators.

The major responsibility of the coordinator of the school system is in the improvement of instruction, development of curriculum and the coordination of the work of the high schools within the district so that a greater uniformity of achievement may be obtained. Coordinators, as a group, are directly responsible to the council of principals in all policy and procedural matters.

The Board is also contemplating changing the diplomas in the school district. As the diplomas are now printed, there is no legend stating that the student is a graduate of Union County Regional High School District 1. The diplomas consist of a small square-sized sheet of paper enclosed in a leatherette case. The diplomas are printed at a charge of $1.42 for each 5000; the printer works one year ahead of schedule on the orders. The board said it would cost too much to insert the legend in the next year's diplomas and instructed Dr. Warren Davis, superintendent of schools, to look into the matter and make recommendations at the next meeting. To insert the phrase would cost two additional cents, bringing up the cost to $1.44 per diploma.

Board members John Conlin and Thomas Nolen also suggested "dressing up" the diplomas and asked Dr. Davis to investigate this idea.

Dr. Davis, in his superintendent's report, announced the enrollment in the three summer schools was 1203. This was the first year Arthur Johnson in Clark led in enrollment figures with 473 registered for summer courses. Of the 1203 figure, 14 received high school diplomas as a result of attending summer school. Tuition students numbered 272; 25 high schools from at least three states were represented; tuition receipts totaled $9,844; and the students took 4373 courses. Westfield and Chatham were the largest out of area contributors.

Dr. Davis stated the summer school program is "an extremely important part of our school venture. I sincerely hope we can carry out an even more extensive expansion program next summer."

The board will accept bids for the Governor Livingston football field at its September 19 meeting.

SPRINGFIELD, A GROWING SUBURBAN COMMUNITY

Springfield History Rich

Pictured below is a "Wheel of Springfield's community progress." These pictures only begin to exemplify the growth and maturation Springfield has seen since its inception as a member of the New Jersey family of communities.

In Springfield an observer can easily detect all the necessary ingredients for a well-rounded suburban community.

In industry, Springfield has been blessed with a number of industrial areas plus one of the most heavily traveled and prosperous highways in the nation. Route 22 serves as a matrix of Springfield's industrial and commercial centers and ranks among the leaders in varied business pursuits.

The hustle-and-bustle of Route 22, however, fails to overshadow the recognition of Springfield as a serene community with tree-lined streets and residential dwellings of every style and description. Swimming pools and playgrounds, grass lands and winding paths dot the area, making it a natural haven for those wishing the accessibility of the metropolitan area while enjoying the peace and quiet of the suburbs.

New housing developments are rapidly dotting the available vacant land, bringing with them the young and ambitious and the retired seeking a refuge from city life. The cool air winding its way through the trees refreshes nature and people alike. Progress thrives in such areas.

The self-contained shopping centers eliminate the necessity of traveling far from Springfield to obtain items. Farm lands abound for those desiring fresh ripe fruits and vegetables.

Springfield is proud of its historical heritage which dates back to the early 1700's. There are many landmarks which date back to the Revolutionary era. The Presbyterian sanctuary, opposite the Church on Main Street, contains graves of about 25 Revolutionary officers and soldiers. The "First Bridge" on Morris Avenue at the Rahway River commemorates Colonel Angell and his Rhode Island regiment. A tablet on the north railing of the present bridge makes note of this fact. The Cannonball House on Morris Avenue between Springfield and Maple Avenues is the only remaining one of the four houses not burned by the British on June 23, 1780. It was built about 1760.

The Presbyterian Church was organized in 1745 by a part of the Connecticut Farms congregation. It was incorporated September 25, 1786, and the church seal—a dove with an olive branch—was adopted in December, 1792. The first church was built in 1746. It stood approximately a mile to the north of the present church. The second was built in 1761 and was burned by the British during the Battle of Springfield. The present building, erected upon the same site, opened its doors for public service November 30, 1791.

"The Second Bridge" over Van Winkle's brook on Morris Avenue, west of the First National Bank, marks where the British advance was halted.

claims to land in New Jersey, but reserved the right to fish. This final right was sold in 1832 for $2,000.

The League of Women Voters prepared a brochure in 1955 giving vital town information. In their discussion of the Battle of Springfield, they go to great lengths to impart all available knowledge. "The American Army was obliged to keep a small body of troops billeted in Springfield, but could not always pay for its upkeep. This added greatly to the discomfort of the inhabitants. The people were kept in a continual state of alarm. The enemy entered the town a number of times to take away farm animals, hay, grain, or whatever was needed to meet their requirements. It became necessary to set up a chain of signals, the nearest being on Beacon Hill, close to the former residence of Bishop Hobart. A cannon, called Old Sow, was fired to alert the militia on both sides of the mountain and to warn the people to flee to a place of safety."

From the original manuscripts

From the original manuscript sources one finds that Washington had his General Headquarters in Springfield from June 7 to June 22, 1780. (All of his communications during this time were dated from here.)

"In order to divide and weaken the American Army General Clinton feigned an attack on West Point. When this intelligence was relayed to General Washington, he immediately advanced to its defense. General Greene was left in the vicinity of Springfield with the Jersey Militia and two brigades of the continental line. Washington had not gone far when word was received that the British were advancing toward Springfield. He immediately detached a brigade to assist General Greene and placed himself in a position to render help if necessary.

"The British made a brilliant display, marching with great precision in two columns consisting of infantry, cavalry, and several field pieces. When our troops, due to the overwhelming number of the enemy, were obliged to retreat, they did so in an orderly fashion, bringing their wounded with them. After this retreat, the British entered Springfield, but the opposition was so intense they felt no inclination to advance further. They then resorted to burning and looting. Only four houses, where they had placed their wounded, remained standing. The Presbyterian Church was left a smoldering ruin. When the British decided to return to the Point, they were pursued by some of our troops and militia almost to their fortifications.

"That night families who had taken refuge in the surrounding hills looked down upon the burning community where they had been obliged to leave most of their family possessions. But, burning even more fiercely in their hearts, was their determination for liberty. Who can say what may have been America's destiny had the tide of battle not favored us that day?"

cross groups of Indians in the area. The Lenape tribe was divided into three groups, the Unamis being nearest to this area. Many subjects belonging to these tribes have been found in this locale. Since the settlers dealt fairly with the Indians there was no cause for hostility. In August 1758 the Indians relinquished all Birthday congratulations go to Andrea Pankin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Pankin of 21 Archbridge Lane, who celebrated her ninth birthday with an ice cream party at John's on August 14. Andrea's guests, who are still too young to worry about the calories, were Marcy Hager, Debbie Brown, Fran Ames, Sandy Segal, Joan Gurian, Barbara Schwartz, Gail Rosenberg, Marcia Bass, Elyse Cooper, Jody Rothenberg, Bonnie Greer and Barbara Schaeffer.

Other member of the family is big brother Scott, age three. Proud grandparents in Springfield are Mr. and Mrs. T. Russell Anderson, Sr., of the same address.

Mr. Al Bussell, of 15 Surrey Lane, wants to thank his friends and neighbors for their cards, their calls and their thoughtfulness, during his six week stay at Beth Israel Hospital.

In last week's column I incorrectly stated that Cantor Irving Kramerman, who was celebrating his nineteenth wedding anniversary was affiliated with Temple Sharey Shalom. Cantor Kramerman is in fact associated with Temple Beth Ahm.

The Manny Salmans, of 10 Dogwood Terrace, are celebrating the first birthday of son Arthur, who was one-year-old on August 7. Glad to see him growing up is six-year-old sister Barbara.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Fried, of 91 Beverly Road, are happy to announce the birth of son David Glen, on August 9 at Overlook Hospital. Welcoming the new arrival were two-year-old brother Roy and Aunt Sharon, age seven. Young David weighed in at six pounds, twelve ounces.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Wayne Crandell have moved from Park Forest, Illinois, to their home at 86 Colfax Road, Mr. Crandell is an engineer with Cities Service Oil Company in New York City.

Another August 9 arrival at Overlook was George Ernest Rey, born to Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Rey. The family lives at 174 Morris Avenue. This is their first child.

Birthday congratulations go to Richard Rosencrantz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Rosencrantz of 45 Christy Lane, Richard, who was six years old on August 1, had previously celebrated at the end of June, when Mom was sure of getting all his friends together before they scattered for the summer.

Those of you who have been looking for an extensive, interesting, adult-education program here in town, should be happy to note the quantity and quality of courses being offered this fall at Jonathan Dayton. I suggest you follow the weekly SUN articles describing the courses, and make good use of the coupons included in each issue, for early registration.

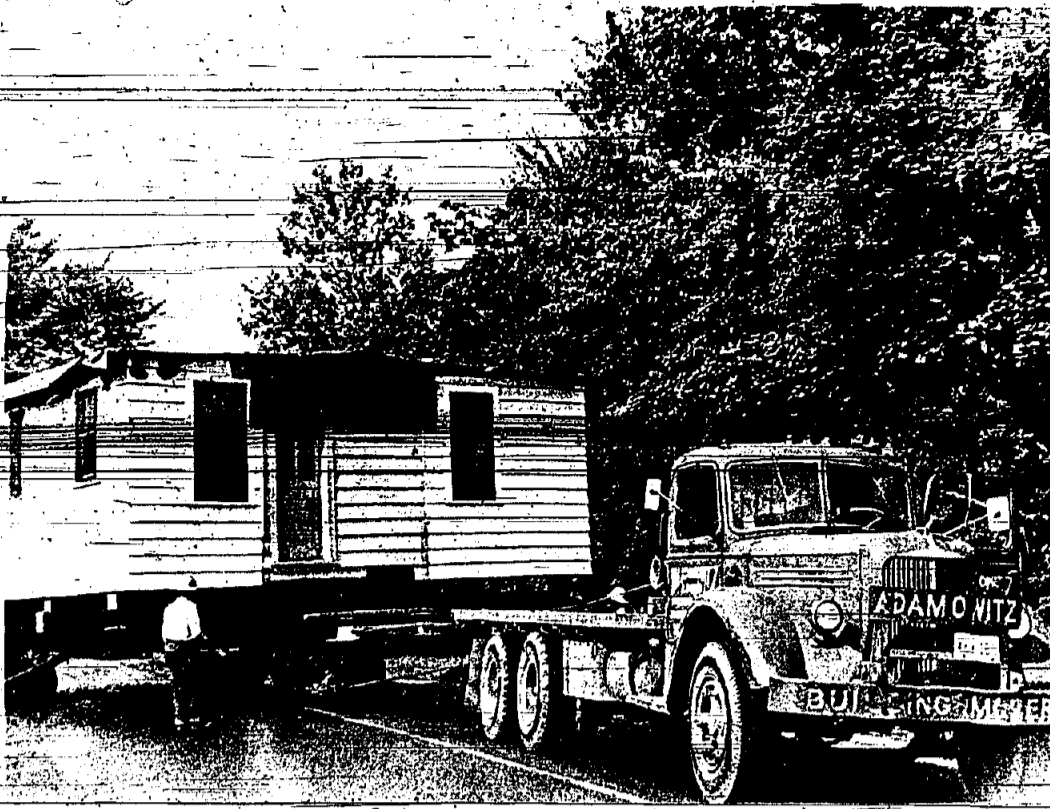

Dr. and Mrs. Kaplan have just returned from a short vacation which started in Atlantic City and wound up in New York, when the sun refused to shine.

The small demon riding down Hemlock Terrace on the two-wheeler is Judy Millman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norton Millman, who received the bike as a present for her third birthday. Little Judy celebrated last Saturday by treating other members of "The Tigers" at Spring Garden Country Club.

Church to View Film on Japan

The unique beauty of rural Japan and the throbbing life of Tokyo are part of a missionary film to be shown at The Community Free Church of Springfield on Sunday Evening, Aug. 20, at 7:00 P.M. "BREAKING JAPAN'S BARRIERS" also portrays the methods used by missionaries to present Christianity to the Japanese people. Some of the barriers which they encounter are the difficult Japanese language, the cultural gulf which separates the world and mind of the East from that of the West, and the fact that adults, particularly men, are reluctant to accept the Christian message. The film, which is a 32-minute color sound picture, was produced in Japan for the Conservative Baptist Foreign Mission Society, Wheaton, Illinois, by Prims Afield.

Congratulations go to Mr. and Mrs. T. Russell Anderson, Jr., of 137 Tooker Avenue, on the birth of daughter Kathy Lynn on July 27 at Overlook Hospital

PANISH HOUSE MOVED—The Parish House of Holy Cross Lutheran Church, 639 Mountain Avenue, Springfield, was moved to a new location on Stiles Street, Springfield 4, last Friday morning. The move was necessary to make ready for the Church's expansion and building program scheduled for next spring. A new church will be built on the parish house site. (Dick Schwartz)

Art Rehberg

Bowls 300 Game

The three hundred bowling score is golf's hole-in-one, baseball's no-hitter and racing's triple crown. It is the best a kiegler can do on any given alley at any given time. There is no formula for the perfect bowling game. The bowler throws to the best of his ability and Fate does the rest. The evasive feet was turned in by a local resident at the Springfield Bowl Tuesday evening. Art Rehberg, of South Maple Avenue, performed the trick while receiving instruction

Gary Clark

Hoernig, a 160-average bowler, was trying to teach Rehberg how to slow down his delivery. Rehberg complied, and the strikes began to mount. As the bowler reached the tenth frame, Kirk, who was tallying the score began to get excited and called to Mario Latella, owner of Springfield Bowl. By the time Latella realized what was taking place on his No. 4 Lane, Rehberg had tossed his twelfth and final frame giving him a perfect score of 300.

While Rehberg was being congratulated by onlookers, Gary Clark, 15, of 762 Suburban Road, Union stood at a neighboring alley and calmly completed a 257 game, which is pretty fair bowling for a 15 yr. old or otherwise. Gary copped a trophy for his effort, and Art merely towled himself off and continued practicing.

Henshaw Playground Wins Team Honors in Tourney

The Springfield Recreation Commission held the annual Township Playground Championships last Wednesday at Regional Playground. After a tight race Henshaw Playground was team champion, beating Irving Regional team.

Boys and girls from each of the eight playgrounds participated; each playground sent a boy and girl representative to compete in all events. The children competed for both individual honors and team points. The winners in each event will represent Springfield in the County Championships to be held this week in Elizabeth. The events were horseshoes, tether ball, foul shooting, paddle tennis, ring tennis, checkers, chess, washers, standing broad jump, hopscotch, and jacks.

Points were awarded on a basis of 5 for first, 3 for second, 2 for third, 1 for fourth. In winning the championship Henshaw overcame an early point lead built up by strong Regional team. The final score was Henshaw 49; Regional 40. Riverside finished third and Sandmeier was fourth. The remaining order of finish was—Irwin, Caldwell, Denham and Woodside. Henshaw had six individual Township champions.

The first event of the day was the Horseshoe Championships with divisions for boys and girls. Sherril Baldwin of Sandmeier Playground won this event for girls. Susan Ganska of Henshaw was second. Linda Barrett, who played a very close semi-final match with Sherril, was third and Kathy Vecchiarelle of Riverside placed fourth. Linda Barrett represented Irwin Playground. Sandmeier Playground made at clean sweep of the Horseshoe Championships, as George Garner won this event for boys. George defeated the Regional representative, Gilbert Van Buskirk, for the championship. Richie Falkin of Irwin was third and Johnny Schneck of Riverside finished in fourth place.

The next activity to take the spotlight was the Tether Ball competition for boys and girls. Kathy Francis from Regional Playground won the championship in the girls division. Kathy defeated Mary Franklin of Sandmeier in the final set to win the title. Paimy Hantoon of Henshaw and Diane Dreher of Denham placed third and fourth. Doug Giese, representing Riverside Playground, swept through the tether ball competition for boys without losing even a single game to gain the Boy's Championship. Dennis Leis of Henshaw was second. Jimmy Fitzgerald of Regional, the youngest player in the tournament, defeated Stuart Falkin of Irwin Playground for third place. Stuart placed fourth. Lella Moore of Riverside and John Gardella of Regional were the most accurate of all the basketballers this year at the playgrounds. The girls following Leis in the foul shooting contest were as follows: Pat Feeny of Henshaw, Claire Franklin of Sandmeier, and Barbara Kernish of Irwin. The boys who finished behind John in the competition were: Jeff Hitchings of Henshaw, David Peacock of Irwin, and Joe Vent of Woodside.

Henshaw Playground swept both divisions of the Paddle Tennis Championships. Henshaw captured the girls' competition, as the same player won her third consecutive Springfield Paddle Tennis Championship. Bart Tiele, also from Henshaw, took the boys' Championship by winning a thrilling match from Ted Levit of Irwin Playground. Ruth Smith of Denham was again the runner-up in the girls competition. Ruth has been runner-up in Paddle Tennis for three years now. Ruth Slugorke of Riverside finished third and Judy Wenk of Irwin was fourth. Fred Reu of Riverside was third for boys, and Gerry Circeilli placed fourth.

Joan DePalma of Regional Playground gained the girls' Ring Tennis Championship by upsetting last year's winner Judy Leis of Henshaw. This upset was surprising in view of the fact that this was the first time Joan has played the game. It seems as she is certainly a natural. Irwin's Barbara Kornish was third and Darrilyn Baldwin of Sandmeier was fourth. Dale Leis successfully defended the championship he won last year. This year Dale, a representative of Henshaw Playground, defeated Steve Pillar of Irwin for the championship. Joe Sarne of Regional was third and Dan D'Andrea of Riverside was fourth.

Marie Lewandowski became the Girl's Checker Champion for the third consecutive year. Linda Smith of Caldwell finished second to Marie this year. Third and fourth place went to Joanne Rapuano of Riverside and Barbara Cardone of Denham.

Don Eckman of Riverside Playground became the Boy's Checker Champion when he defeated Lenny Scelfe of Regional Playground. Scott Gordon of Caldwell and Rich Eskin of Sandmeier finished third and fourth.

The final games in the Chess competition found last year's champions defending their titles. Chrissy Jo Landrigan of Caldwell successfully defended her championship. Chrissy Jo won from Janet Bash of Regional Playground. Christine Miller of Woodside finished third for girls, while Frances Moore of Riverside was fourth. In the boy's competition Fred Melroy of Caldwell was third and Stanley Fedorovich of Regional placed fourth.

Robert Costanza of Henshaw Playground came from behind to defeat the returning champion from Regional Playground, Peter Lawrence in the Washers competition. Robert Garner of Sandmeier and Kevin Dreher of Denham placed third and fourth. Larry Anthony of Sandmeier Playground won the Boy's Standing Broad Jump with a terrific leap of 8'3". Larry simply leaped away from the others in this event. The remaining order of finish was Phil Baumer of Riverside, John Chisholm of Caldwell, and Paul Wade of Henshaw.

The last event of the day was Jacks for Girls. Mary Garner of Sandmeier Playground won the championship in this event. Joyce Martini of Riverside placed second. Pat Howarth from Irwin Playground was third. Fourth place went to Pat Bufo of Henshaw.

The competition during these championships was very keen and the winners were all deserving of their titles. Springfield will indeed be well represented at the County Championships this week.

Let's Face It

by Lorraine LaFerrera
Perhaps you are a housewife who is discouraged by a lack of skin tone and clarity. Maybe you're a teenager who is losing that adolescent fight against oily skin and acne. Could be, you are a career girl who is determined to keep your complexion clear and sparkling despite constant contact with carbon smudges and city soot. The fact is that skin cleanliness is a universal problem, a major cosmetic situation that faces women of every age and skin type. The answer to this problem is a good skin cleanser. Assuming that everyone should be using a cleanser, why doesn't everyone actually buy such a product? Most likely the importance of a skin cleansing preparation has never been fully explained. Women still cling to soap and water scrubbing (which does have merit, of course, but does not begin to solve many skin problems.) Why doesn't the idea of a special cleanser sell itself? Perhaps the average woman hasn't been given the solution to some of the following typical problems. "Can my skin really be clean without a soapy scrubbing?" "Yes, definitely! Only women with naturally oily skin, in fact can afford to limit facial cleansing to soap and water, and even they can benefit from special products. Creams and lotions, being emulsions of oils and waxes, have a special affinity for certain debris found in the pores and are better able to penetrate and flush out dirt and impurities. Further, such products help to soften and smooth the skin and prevent dryness. There are so many different kinds of cleansers on the market. How do I know which is best for me?" Sometimes, for the adult, it is a matter of personal taste and preference. If you have a brand name you especially trust, you may want to try the cleanser in the line. Generally speaking, however the woman with oily skin will prefer the liquid type cleanser—such as Du Barry's Penetrating Cleanser with Enzymes. The enzymes break down the oily substances and bring them to the surface, to be rinsed away with the skin freshener. The woman whose skin is really dry will find the cold cream type more satisfactory. Dorothy Gray has developed two fine cold cream cleansers. Salon Cold Cream is a light extra-fine type that will not stretch the skin and Satura Cleansing Cream which leaves the skin soft and mildly stimulated is excellent for a more mature skin. Even those women who do use cleansing cream and lotions with reasonable regularity all too often fail to follow with the very important step of rinsing. No one would ever think of leaving dirty soap on her face. It is, of course, rinsed away. Cleansing creams and lotions also must be rinsed away with a Skin Freshener, not Astringent, and there is a difference. Fresheners are mild and may be used by all skin types. They do not dry the skin and are excellent for a fast refreshing pickup on a hot and humid summer day. After your skin is properly cleansed in this manner you may apply either a good night cream or your makeup and be assured that the results will indeed show that little extra care.

JUST BETWEEN US
The traditional idea of a different rouge to match each lipstick is on its way out and I for one am glad to see it go. Du Barry has developed Bloom Rouge in cream, liquid and cake form to match every complexion and lipstick. Vive La Bloom! All of the above items may be located at Sav On Drugs at the Echo Plaza Shopping Center. If you have a problem. Address it to Lorraine LaFerrera Sav On Drugs Echo Plaza Shopping Center Route 22, Springfield.

CONTEST-BOUND—Lovely Linda Schlegel of Summit, a Watching Weekly employee, is competing for the "Miss Garden State, 1961" crown on August 21, 22 at the Morris County Fair. A recent Summit High School graduate, Linda is 5'6", weighs 120 pounds and has blond hair and hazel eyes.

To Compete In Beauty Contest

When the entrants for the "Miss Garden State" contest at the Morris County Fair parade before the judges on August 21, Summit's Linda Schlegel will be among the contestants. Linda holds special interest for us since she is employed by the Watching Weeklies as a typist. Linda, a member of the Summit High School Class of '61, has never appeared in any beauty contests prior to the Miss Garden State contest, and one can only wonder why she hasn't. She stands 5'6", weighs 120 lbs., has blonde hair, hazel eyes and measures 34-23-35. However, beauty contests will not take up all of Linda's time now that she is making her initial appearance. She has hopes of entering the Legitimate theater in the not-to-distant future and has been studying toward this goal, for three years. While Linda is not boastful, it is only natural that she think of the prize awarded to the new "Miss Garden State". This year, the lucky young lady chosen to this title will receive a round-trip, all expense paid holiday in Jamaica, The British West Indies. "It's ironical," says Linda, "if there is one place I've always wanted to see, it's the British West Indies, and now I have a chance of seeing this wish come true." You will be able to see Linda and much more at the Morris County Fair which is being held in Troy Hills. It will run from August 19 thru August 27.

Holler Attends Science Class

Francis Holler, 137 Meisel Avenue, Springfield, was among the 40 scientifically outstanding girls and boys from this area who attended the Pingry School Summer Science Institute which ended Wednesday, August 16. Francis, a student at Seton Hall Preparatory School, was enrolled in the chemistry class. C. Brett, Jr., the institute's associate director, was the administrative head of the 1961 program.

Homebuilders Are Seeking Beauty Queen

A quest for a beauty queen to represent the Home Builders Association of Metropolitan New Jersey in the Miss New Jersey Homebuilder's contest is starting this week with the distribution of application blanks throughout Essex, Union and Hudson counties, reports co-chairmen Earl Martin and Larry Paragano. The contest, open to any single girl residing in the state of New Jersey over eighteen years of age, offers a $200 first prize, a $50 second prize and gifts for the eight runners-up. The final competition will be held at the Braidburn Country Club in Florham Park on September 21st. The winner of the Miss Metropolitan Homebuilder will represent this group at the Miss New Jersey Homebuilder contest to be held in Atlantic City in January. Any girl interested in acquiring an application form may obtain one by calling BRIDGE 6-7070, or writing the association at 106 South Avenue, East, Cranford. The Homebuilders Association of Metropolitan New Jersey is a non-profit organization comprising builders, developers, and allied firms who are interested in constantly improving the quality and design of new homes and apartments. The organization is affiliated with the National Association of Homebuilders. Hugh Stearns of Murray Hill is president of this group.

A Shirt of another color

Have your white shirts lost their sparkling appearance and started greying... are those colored shirts slipping across the spectrum? If they have, then it's time you gave some thought to the way they're being laundered.

Shirt laundering is truly an art. It requires that the shirts be separated according to fabric and color, and washed in the proper mixture of soaps and detergents. The chemistry of the wash, the heat of the water and the individual care given will determine the color retention of the shirt, and its brightness.

The presser adds the finishing touch. With a little extra care and attention your collar is free of wrinkles and unnecessary folds. Each shirt should be checked to see that no buttons are missing and it has been properly starched.

If you haven't been getting this type of service, may we invite you to send your next batch of shirts to Pan American. We promise complete satisfaction and the optimum in service.

It was announced today that Harry H. Martin, former Director of Purchases and Transportation for the Sylvania Electric Products, Inc., has been appointed Vice President of Operations by Triangle Conduit & Cable Co., Inc.'s president and chief executive officer, Carl S. Meagher.

Mr. Martin resides at 3913 Troy Drive, Springfield, with his wife, the former Jean Anne Leslie of Clinton, Massachusetts, and his three children. In this position Mr. Martin will report directly to the Office of the President and will assume responsibility for the administration of all manufacturing operations of the company, as well as the key related functions of Purchasing, Industrial Engineering, Industrial Relations, Traffic and Warehouse Management.

Harry H. Martin

Mr. Martin was general manufacturing manager in charge of all purchases and production for the division in early 1960 when he was named Director of Purchases with headquarters in New York City. In this position, Mr. Martin was responsible for the development of corporate purchasing policies and was responsible for the coordination of purchases by Sylvania's nine divisions. Before leaving Batavia, Mr. Martin was honored by the community for "exceptional civic contributions" and was presented with a citation by the City Council. During his tenure at Batavia, he participated in a number of major civic projects including service on a non-partisan commission to revise the city charter. He was active in church affairs, serving as viceroy of St. James' Episcopal Church and was chairman of the advisory board of the Salvation Army. He also served as a director of the Batavia Chamber of Commerce; a director of Rotary; a director of Stafford County Club and its president in 1959, and as director of the Batavia United Fund, and chairman of its industrial division. Triangle is a leading manufacturer of electrical wire, cable, conduit, copper tube, plastic pipe and marking inks and coatings; with plants located in New Brunswick, N.J.; Landisville, N.J.; and Moundsville, W. Va.

You breathe cleaner, purer, fresher air. You sleep better, feel better with a Puritron around. Portable; plug-in. Get it for a $39.95 10-day trial.

Your Library

The Summer Reading Program at the Springfield Public Library has kept the Children's Room in a perpetual stream of motion. Students from St. James School are constantly seeking a book from their required lists. Gaudineer students are also floating about with their reading lists. In the meantime, other younger readers are doing a considerable amount of reading and writing. Creativity seems more productive among the later group of readers. This group has 442 members. Donna Fingerhut, nine year old daughter of the famous family of four Fingerhut sisters, has completed last year's, and another new chart this year. She has reported on over seventy books so far and is still requesting another chart. Her sisters—Gail, Rayna, and Linda—are running very close to Donna's achievement. Others too, are steady patrons, such as Philip Logan and David Shrensel. Some of the comments are unique in style, showing individualistic characteristics in both spelling and writing. Little Maria De Fino, who will be entering second grade in September, reported on "Justice Holland's Pirates, Planters, and Patriots". "I like this book because it tells about Washington and the Colonese Days." Another over-enthusiastic reader of music biographical books, Shelly Rutkow, 5th grade, Caldwell School, wrote about Opal Wheeler's "Ludwig Beethoven". "I think this book is the most I should win a blue ribbon, if it was in a contest. It is the best book throughout the hole (sic) world. Everyone who is interested in music should read this book. It sounds kind of funny, but I think a lady should be standing outside, saying, 'READ THIS BOOK'." An excellent review by one of the older girls follows: Author - Manty Wald-Welstein

Title - The Ghost Battalion
 The Ghost Battalion takes place during the Civil War when Clay Buckner, a citizen of the South, decided to join the army. He left home and soon joined the Iron Scouts instead of the army. He had many perils and exciting adventures with the Iron Scouts, a group of Southern spies. I especially enjoyed this book when the Iron Scouts were spying on the Northern troops, while they were laying new tracks along the Rappahannock River. Clay and a few other Iron Scouts started the enemy train engine down the track in the opposite direction. Clay set the engine on fire and burnt the enemy bridge.

I enjoyed this book very much and it may be borrowed from the Springfield Library.

"Threepenny Opera" To Have Limited Run At Papermill

The only summer stock engagement of the original Carmen Capallo, Stanley Chase, Lucille North and production of "Threepenny Opera" will play a two week engagement at the Papermill Playhouse beginning Monday, September 4.

No other musical show, not even "My Fair Lady" or "Oklahoma," has enjoyed as long a run as "Threepenny." On September 20 the New York company will play its 2,480 performance and will have racked-up well over three million dollars at the till.

The producers of "Threepenny" contemplate a national tour, but the presentation by Messrs. Frank Carrington, Henry T. Weinstein and Laurence Feldman will be the first time summer theatergoers will have an opportunity to see the long-running hit.

Olympic Park Again Plans Baby Contest

New Jersey's handsomest children, aged 1 to 6, will vie Saturday afternoon at Olympic Park in one of the state's oldest competitions for pretty babies.

The contest will be held in the first, second and third place winners in each of four categories. Traditionally the largest division numerically is that for blondes. Redheads and brunets also have separate categories.

Ingenuity and weeks of labor on the part of proud parents always are reflected in the competition for floats. Many have topical themes, so a crowd of young "astronauts" is likely this year. Entries in all divisions sign in at the Irvington-Maplewood park office in early afternoon, prior to the opening parade.

"Make Mine Mink" Is Now at Millburn is the humor between Terry Thomas's two front teeth and just that broad is the humor in his new farce.
On the same program that great star, Hayley Mills (Parent Trap) appears in a spellbinder that beats with the pounding suspense of Manhattan. In her very first picture Hayley Mills accomplished what it has taken other stars years to do. She has now become an international favorite as a result of her performance in "Tiger Bay". Also in the cast are Horst Bucholz and John Mills.

To Mother, With Love

Harvey J. Goldenberg

Malvin got into the elevator. As the doors closed in front of him, he began to smile to himself and think of how the doctor was going to forbid him to play tennis. "First he'll get excited, maybe even flustered," he thought. "Then he'll say, 'No, there's nothing more to say. You play tennis, and it's your responsibility. I'll wash my hands of the whole affair.'"

The elevator stopped. "Is this your floor, sir?" the operator asked.

"What floor is this?"

"Six, sir."

"No, I go to eleven," Malvin said, his inward-giggle becoming a guffaw.

The doctor's waiting room was mint-colored and had an abstract painting on the wall behind the receptionist's empty desk. Malvin paced back and forth between the long blond wood occasional table which had two piles of magazines neatly stacked on either side of a beige and brown triangular ashtray, and an even longer cocoa-colored leather couch. He was early, but he couldn't wait to see the doctor's face when he heard the news.

Thelma, Doctor Morton's new nurse, a large-framed, heavy-stepping woman, came into the room. "I'm sorry to have kept you waiting," she said in a brusque, uninflected voice as she picked at a pimple on the right side of her large, oily, prickly nose, when she thought Malvin was looking the other way. "Mr. Burr?" she asked, turning toward him. Her looks repulsed him, and she stared at the green and brown speckled flooring, nodding his head in response to her question. "Mr. Malvin Burr?"

"It's a good thing I don't have any more names, or this could go on all day," he said facetiously, his eyes trying not to look above the silver-framed glasses pinned to her right breast pocket.

She smiled, perfunctorily and said, "Will you follow me, please?" her curt, monotonous tone sounding more like a command than a question. He doubted his steps, trying to keep up with the brisk pace set by the bulky woman as she plowed down the long, incandescent-lighted hallway. Bringing him into an examination room titled in a similar shade as the waiting room, she told him to disrobe. "The doctor will be with you in a moment," she said, and walked out with the same rapid strut she had used to get in.

Malvin undressed behind the screen and put on an examination gown. He sat on the examination table, his feet hanging over its side two feet from the black inlaid linoleum, and couldn't keep himself from laughing. He could picture Doctor Morton's wrinkled, greying face turning best red in his antagonism toward the idea of Malvin's playing tennis. He was thrilled. He was finally going to do something on his own. He had made up his mind. "That was that."

"You're in fine health, my boy," the doctor said.

"That's good, because I've decided to take up tennis," Malvin said with a slight smirk on his face, his lips turning up at the corners as he anticipated the doctor's violent reaction.

The doctor's solemn, accordion-skinned face appeared young again as a smile momentarily removed the wrinkles from his cheeks. "That's wonderful, my boy. Just wonderful."

"What?" gasped Malvin, the smile and color leaving his face simultaneously.

"This is the best thing that you could do. For a while I was worried that your mother's death might be too much for you. This is splendid, my boy. Splendid."

"But what about my heart?" Malvin asked bewilderedly.

"It's only a slight murmur, a little exercise won't hurt you."

"Don't you think it's going to be a bit strenuous for me?"

"Nonsense, it'll do wonders for you. It'll remove some of that excess weight and put some color back into your cheeks. Right now you could certainly use some color. Is there something the matter, boy?" the doctor asked.

Malvin shook his head negatively. As the doctor continued to tell him how good tennis would be for him, Malvin dressed himself and thought, "If he doesn't care what happens to me, I don't care either. I'll show that old fool. I'll drop dead on the tennis court. That'll fix him!"

As he drove his car north on the Henry Hudson Parkway, Malvin thought aloud, "What a jerk I am. All those years I thought he liked me. He'll be sorry when I die," he said, a smile blossoming on his full lips. "He'll be sorry. The stupid old fool. I'll show him. I'll show him." And as Malvin rode up the long, winding pebble road, lined with a single row of blue spruce on either side leading to his semi-Colonial, semi-traditional white brick mansion with black shutters, he knew he had due provocation to die. It was now something beyond his personal feelings; he was going to die a martyr proving that Doctor Morton was wrong.

His newly found motivation prodded Malvin to make plans to execute his contemplated suicide. He called the Burr Country Club. Dialing the telephone, he laughed as he recalled how a Burr had formed the socialites' retreat to establish himself in Westchester County, and how he'd moved there from his palatial New Jersey estate in 1804, trying to avoid getting mixed up in a family scandal. "He'd turn over in his grave if he knew I was going to use his respectable club as my suicide grounds."

"Ross Richards?" Malvin asked into the mouthpiece of the soft-blue receiver. "Is he the best tennis instructor?... Then I want him. Yes, that will be fine." And when Malvin put the receiver down, he felt better than ever, as he was no longer alone; he had someone to aid him in his plot of self-destruction.

Malvin was ten minutes early for his nine o'clock appointment with Richards. While waiting for his coach, he stood in front of the club-house, wildly swinging at invisible balls. By the time he saw the tall, dark, muscularly slender, strikingly handsome coach with deep brown, almost black eyes, Malvin was almost ready to quit from exhaustion.

As they approached the double row of asphalt tennis courts, Malvin thought of Doctor Morton. "Gee," he thought, "I wish I could see his face when he hears the news of my death. He'll be sorry, but it'll be too late, it'll just be too late."

A cool breeze put goose flesh on Malvin's bare, slender legs. Malvin placed his racket between his legs and started to pull down his sweat shirt in an attempt to cover more of his body. But it did no good. "Have you any idea of the incidence of pneumonia among tennis players?" Malvin asked.

"You'll get used to it soon. Everyone does eventually," said Richards smiling, revealing his straight white teeth.

"I hope I live that long," Malvin said jocularly.

"Don't swear it, kid; I haven't lost a player yet."

At that moment, Malvin began to laugh. It wasn't that Richards' little joke was so funny; it was that it was stupid. Malvin knew that he'd soon show him just how stupid his little joke was.

Looking at the well-defined features of his opponent, Malvin asked himself, "When is this moron going to begin? I'd like to get it over with."

Then removing the racket from between his legs, Malvin smiled embarrassingly, and apologized for holding up the lesson.

For his final hour, Malvin wanted to stand tall, as tall as his five-foot eight-inch body could stand. Armed with only a racket in hand, he bravely awaited death's challenge. At that moment he was sorry that he did not smoke. He had seen so many movie heroes nervously take that

How Water Works

WATER UNDER FIRE!

DURING WORLD WAR II, THE REPEATED BOMBING OF LONDON ENGLAND, CREATED THE ALMOST IMPOSSIBLE TASK OF DELIVERING 900 MILLION GALLONS OF WATER DAILY TO THE WORLD'S LARGEST CITY. THE PROBLEM WAS SOLVED BY USING TANK WAGONS, STAND PIPES, DISPENSARIS IN ADDITION TO THE SERVICE OF THE UNHARMED PART OF THE WATER SYSTEM. AS AN ADDED PRECAUTION, BOMBPROOF SHELTERS WERE BUILT OVER THE MANY SMALL RESERVOIRS!

Did you know? WHILE AN EMPTY GALLON PAIL CAN HOLD ONE GALLON OF AMMONIA GAS, THE ABSORPTION QUALITIES OF WATER IS SO GREAT THAT A ONE GALLON PAIL FILLED WITH WATER CAN HOLD 600 GALLONS OF AMMONIA GAS!
