County's Dems Must Rise Again

Associate Publisher-Editor

There was a day when Democrats were as tough to uncover in this county as Republicans in today's White House, In 1953 the fortunes of the Union County Democratic Party abruptly took a turn for the better. That was the year the first Democrat in the history of the Sixth Congressional District of New Jersey, which is composed of Union County entirely, was elected to the House of Representatives A young attorney from Westfield, Harrison A. Williams.

From more easily recognized by his friends and constituents as "Pete", came from al-

Pete Williams added insult- to injury to a Republican Party that lost the governorship as well in that same election to another young attorney who also came from almost nowhere. A country lawyer from Phillipsburg, Robert B. Meyner proceeded to overwhelm a squabbling GOP and wrestthe prize from under the nose of Paul R. Troast, quite a controversial figure in

THE ELECTION of Pete Williams in 1953 was quite by accident, but was a signal for the inevitable. Clifford P. Case had served Congress from Union County for a number of years, when in 1953 he was asked to take the presidency of the Ford Foundation. An articulate politician, Cliff Case returned to New Jersey politics a year later and narrowly defeated Charles Howell, Banking and Insurance Commissioner, for the U.S. Senate seat vacated by GOP Sen. Hendrickson, who was sent to New Zealand as U.S. ambas-

Many will say that had Case never resigned from Congress, he would still be our representative in the House. However, the energetic young Williams proved more of a match than the GOP suspected and beat out Judge Hetfield by some 3,000

A HOLE IN THE DIKE had been accomplished by the Democrats and it proved to be the impetus for an overhauling within the party's ranks. Youth became the keynote, and in 1954 vice chairman Jim Kinneally was chosen county chairman to succeed Bill Dowd. Kinneally brought with him a reputation of perception, shrewd political strategy, energy and a well-liked personality - all the attributes for a politi-

It didn't take long for the new Democratic surgé to-take root. Williams, who was elected in 1953 to fill out an unexpired term of one year, was re-elected in 1954 by a more stimulating vote of some 21,000. The Eisenhower sweep in 1956 spelled doom for many a Democraty and Williams was by no means an exception, falling by 4,000 votes. But the most interesting factor here was that while Eisenhower carried Union County by 88,000 votes, Florence Dwyer defeated Williams by a mere 4,0001

The payoff was in 1957 when the Democrats swept on the heels of Meyner's re-election. They dented the Assembly. for the first time since 1914 by/capturing all four seats as well as the three freeholder offices. They came back a year-later to win three more freeholder seats and took control of the county government for the first time ever-

THE DEMOCRATS had reached their highest point in Union County history. In 1959 they lost the State Senate election by a mere-500 votes. Flo Dwyer ran roughshod over Jack Dunn in 1960/as she had in '58. Nelson Stamler bumped Assemblyman-George-Miller in 1959, although Milly Hughes, John Wilson and Jim McGowen were re-elected by Democrats. However, the pendulum had begun to revert back to the direction of the GOP.

The Democratic Party suffered its most stunning loss = in last November's election, with only Mrs. Hughes' retaining victory. Jim/Kinneally weathered a rocky road in 1963. Yet he has managed to put down a rebillion within in the Democratic Party and still hold the reins. Unquestionably, the fortunes of the Democratic Party here will again turn for the better, just as they did with the Republican

UNION COUNTY has, in the generation since the end of World War II, become a bi-partisan county. Voters hereare more inclined to vote the candidate and the conditions than the party. Thus the growing number of Independents have the final say in any election. The Independents keep both parties awake, and it's a good thing for the county.

Ironically, the cycle has turned 360 degrees, and history could repeat if the young attorney from Westfield -- now a U.S. Senator and Il years older -- could carry Union County again the way he did in 1953.

Dr. Johnson's idea was to solve a difficult problem for the smaller communities in Union County, who, by themselves certainly couldn't afford to build a school and whose students were constantly faced with attending out-of-town schools.

It is something short of a miracle that the plansucceeded at all. While committees were formed, and representatives selected from the interested communities, the temporary

Newspaper Workings Varied And Frustrating

BY LOUIS S. WARSHAW Associate Publisher

Our-impulse this week was to write a column on some of the phases of the production of a newspaper -- its woes, its frustrations, and all too frequently its absence of rewards; and we're not speakingof monetary rewards. A couple of fellows called Ralph Pulitzer. William Randolph

Howard and others have done fairly_well for themselves in this area. We don't want to sound like crv-babies: because while this piece proposes to write of the 'Agony' there is also an incalculable amount of 'Ecstasy'; but we're saving that for a future column. This time we feel like writing only about some of the harassments thatare built into ANY publication, whether it be a P.T.A. news bulletin, a college campus periodical, or Time and Life and the New York Times.

TO BEGIN WITH, there is the creative let-down. A staff, of reporters, feature. writers, photographers -- all buoyed up by what they deem masterpieces, are soon_ faced with the practical need of deleting, cutting, or even omitting from the paper what they had so painstakingly prepared. This writer has frequently felt his deathless prose must not be tampered with. even to the deletion of a comma; but alas! a stonyhearted editor has taken many a liberty with his writing.

There is the further frustration of showing your articles to an editor, and you await his reaction with a glow of anticipation; you-expect a stream of accolades. Nothing happensi-He fixes you with a beady stare and returns it without so much as a single comment. No experience we've ever had is quite so deflating.

MAKE-UP IS a fairly innocuous sounding term, but it is probably the most irritating step_in newspaper production: You've got to follow certain well-defined rules -- the paper has got to have visual appeal. ... it has to "tempt" the reader; you have to avoid "bumping heads" and widows"

The advertisements have to be "built" and woe to the transgressor who hasn't followed advertising procedure. Then there's the matter of position. Every advertiser wants "outside position" and what's more, he wants it on a certain page. ... This is patently impossible-but try telling that to an advertiser. All this time, the hours are flitting by and the press crew is in a state of tension perilously close to a nervous breakdown. If the newspaper isn't printed at a certain from such a possibility would stagger you. =

EVERYONE, WE ASSUME, has heard. the expression "deadline" as it relates to the newspaper industry! Ben Hecht and Charlie MacArthur have written some highly romantic copy on this subject. Countless movies have tried to convey to their audiences the excitement inherent in "putting a paper to bed." Well, it looks great in the movies, and sounds dandy coming from the Hechts and Mac-Arthurs -- but we're going to let your is on a little secret.

Posted all over the bulletins in the Editorial Offices, Advertising Sales Offices, Composing Room, Make-up department,and Press Room, are solemn and stern notices saying that such and such an hour is the 'deadline' hour-and warning all and sundry that if the "deadline" is not adhered to, a fate worse than death awaits the transgressor.

Then comes the "moment-of truth", The deadline has come and gone, and suddenly a sensational newsbreak comes along -- or an important advertiser has just decided that he's "got to" get this new copy into the paper and never mind how much trouble or heartache or discombobulation results. And there, before your very eyes, you witness the death of a deadline.

ALL OF THIS HAS NOT included a myriad of other trials. The news which has offended a number of readers or delighted an equal number of other readers. The irate ladies who want to know why we left out a notice (there just wasn't room!) or the subject of a news report who is indignant because his name didn' shave an accent over the "e" as indicated.

Comes that wonderful moment when the first make-ready sheets come off the press and you feel that all the anxiety, the tension, the harassment, the late hours and backbreaking effort, were worth it. Your baby has been delivered and is apparently in the best of health. You're inordinately proud that you were one of a team that produced this paper.

THAT'S WHY, WHEN we see a passer by casually toss a newspaper into a litter basket, or when our wife takes an old issue of one of our newspaper and uses it to line the garbage pail, something inside us begins to stir with a mightly wrath. How dare they treat this jewel, created with such effort, such leving devetion, such dedication, in so-cavalierly a manner! All this occurred to us as we ourselves were using an old copy of one of our newspapers to wipe up an oil slick-on our garage

It's true that nothing is quite as used up as yesterday's newspaper, but that fact, in no way, eases our pain. We'd like to see all newspapers framed-in-gold-and hour, it will foul up the complicated distribution process and the subscribers may hung alongside Renoirs or Manets, or carefully placed in the family vault. WB get their copies late. This doesn't happen, think they-merit such treatment!

DAYTON DATELINE observed Mrs. Mason as she guided Mr. Bloch, a stenty-one year old senior from Newak State College who is majoring in social sciences through his teaching chores in American History I.

Mrs. Mason has worked as cooperating teacher with practice teachers for the past live years, and her knowledge, perspicacity, animation, and patience shines through as she emphasizes: (1) Value of lesson plans: The plan of the architect, the notes of a public speaker, and the model of the sculptor are similar to the lesson plan of the teacher. They serve to keep the work clear, definite, concrete, and well organized, If effectively carried out, the lesson plan tends to guarantee that the time spent by pupils in class is not wasted. It furnishes indispensable ground-work for review with students who have been absent. It contributes towards an orderly development of a wholeopic in the minds of boys and gorls. Thus a good lesson plan shold mark a change from lesson hearing to planning; (1) for reflection (2) for pupil selfdirection resulting in creative activity, and (3) for developing attitudes and skills.

(2) Motivation: One of the most important objectives of social science teaching is to develop the mental processes of students. Interest inthe topic at hand plays a very important part in stimulating these processes. Students will be moved only if the material is presented in a challenging and vital manner. The students in the class must be made to identify themselves with the tasks before them. Their interest and attention must be sustained struction. Radio and TV programs, significant present day problems, personal experiences, charts, comparison and contrasts, thought provoking probleads the nation in community planning!

Sound and orderly development is a fundamental objective of progressive communities and is now an important part of local government in New Jersey. With the state's rapid economic and population growth it has become important to "balance" a community's structure. Eighty-five per cent of New Jersey's 568 municipalities have established planning boards, 243 have completed and 168 have adopted master plans, 243 New Jersey municipalities have participated in the federal-state "701" planning program and 18 of New Jersey's 21 counties have official planning boards. New Jersey in 1950 became the first state in the nation to have a statewide development plan. What does all this planning mean? With New Jersey's excellent access to markets, its modern transportation facilities and large supply of skilled labor, enlightened planning also provides space for industrial expansion. Through the master plan, then, industry is encouraged, not displaced, and its citizens profit through the economic growth of our state.

IS IT SOUND PLANNING EOBORROW MONEY?

Prident-borrowing, based on a sound repayment plan, can save money for the borrower. For some people, it means opportunities to improve income. Others reduce costs by consolidating bills. We regularly make loans for modern appliances that save time and expense . . . for new cars that help the breadwinner fill a better job . . . to modernize and improve property . . . for bill-consolidation . . - and for many other worthwhile, productive purposes. If a loan can help you in one of these ways, it's very likely we can be of service. At National State, you borrow at low bank rates and on convenient terms. Come in and talk to us at our most convenient office.

Champe's Spy Role: Fame In U.S. History Eludes Him As Arnold Kidnaping Fails

Y JOHN T. CUNNINGHAM Riding desperately through he darkness of northern New Jersey on the night of October 21. 1780. Sérgeant John Champe wished fervently that someday he might be back in his own beloved Virginia with his wife and four children. Yet his chances seemed slim, for that night he was branded as John Champe, deserter and traitor,

Two people besides the 27year-old sergeant knew the truth: that he rode on General Washington's secret orders to kidnap: Benedict Arnold in New York. The only other who knew of the daring mission was Maior "Light Horse Harry" Lee, Chempe's immediate comma Champe had sergeant. It seemed to the sleepy soldier not like the adventure that Lee painted, but rather like some kind of a nightmare.

FIRST, THE scheme itself seemed impossible. Second, Champe recognized the hatred that his fellow soldiers would hold for him. Then, to cap everything, Lee blandly told In British hands Champe would be a spy and in American hands he would be a deserter. Either might mean death.

Quality Beef Spells Hearty Winter Meals

Union County-Home Agent Snowladen winter weather calls for hearty meals and meat and potatoes have long been considered important in a stick-to-the-ribs diet. Luckily both have been listed among the U.S Department of Agriculture's= plentiful foods at this season. Beef especially is in he news. Quality beef is more abundant at many meat counters because of the unusually large number of grain fed-cattle now being marketed. A choice is available in both quality and

But it's well for the shopper to remember that flavor and nutrition may vary much less than price from one cut to another. If properly prepared almost any meat cut can provide good eating but recommended cooking methods vary according to DEMAND IS one of the largest factors in the higher price that some meat cuts bring than others. Porterhouse, rib, round, and T-bone steaks, for example, are always indemand with demand far exceeding the supply. On the other hand, such cuts as chuck, brisket, plate, flank and neck meat--even though equally nutritious -- are in less demand and, therefore, are lower in price.

-When_selecting - beef for grinding, choose any of the less-demanded cuts, not only because of price, but also because they have a natural leanfat ratio that gives the juiciest and most savory ground beef.

-Too much fat means excess waste and not economy, but no fat means a dry product when cooked quickly without moisture. Ground-beef with an 80-20% ratio of lean and fat, is best. Round steak is not the best choice for grinding either. flavor-wise or price-wise.

On the other hand, "regular ground! is sometimes nearly 50% fat, which is usually wasted. Moderately lean chuck is an excellent choice, not only for good grinding but for pot roasting. Some parts of the chuck makes steaks that properly prepared, can be tender as well as flavorful. -But-ground chuck_can be served in innumerable appetizing and appealing

Getting the right "grind" with any beef cut is also imfor best results. portant
