Skate 22 shut down in wake of fatal shooting

By Joseph M. D'Alise Staff Writer

UNION --- In the wake of a fatal Eve, shooting outside of Union's Skate 22 rink in the early morning hours of Dec. 26, the Township Committee unanimously decided to revoke the facility's entertainment license.

"This was an unfortunate incident that called for immediate action," said Mayor Clifton People

Township officials voted on Dec. 28 during an emergency hearing, after noting the skating rink's owner allowed security problems to escalate in the months leading up to the shooting death of a 16-year-old boy in the parking lot of the facili-

The death of teenager Jean D'Haiti came after a series of violent incidents at Skate 22, including fighting and several crowd-control problems, according to authorities.

The Elizabeth High School student was one of 700 people, ages 13 to 25, who attended the Skate 22 Christmas roller-skating party, when several fights erupted between two groups of people in attendance, culminating in gun shots outside the facility at about 12:15 a.m.

He said there have been issues with Skate 22 in the past.

According to Capodice, private parties the rink hosted until 2 a.m. were the source of the problems at the facility.

"We tried to regulate their business hours in 2006, but a judge told us we could not," Capodice said. "Because of their late ... hours, they agreed to provide protection inside and outside of the building."

the township has passed a resolution opposing the state Council On Affordable Housing's most recent round of regulations.

Cranford was already embroiled in a lawsuit with Lehigh Acquisitions, a developer seeking to build age-restricted housing at 555 South Ave., when another lawsuit was filed in superior court Nov. 12 by the S. Hekemian Group, a Paramus-based developer seeking to build 400 residential units on Birchwood Avenue.

"The township intends to fully comply with its obligations under the Fair Housing Act," said attorney Carl Woodward. "However, there is an inherent conflict...I see between policies that encourage preservation of open space and COAH policies encouraging the development of housing on open space to satisfy a perceived need for affordable housing."

Woodward said the resolution, adopted at the Dec. 9 meeting urges the legislature to address and resolve this policy conflict. Many other towns have adopted similar resolutions.

COAH assigns towns to provide varying levels of affordable housing. Some developers have filed lawsuits against municipalities, claiming they are not meeting their obligations, despite the obligations existing in a near-constant state of flux and revision.

Hekemian Vice President, Peter Hekemian, could not be reached for comment at press time.

ROSELLE --- By the end of the 2007-08 school year, Roselle had failed the state Quality Single Accountability Continuum, an evaluation of a district's operation, falling short in government and instruction, personnel and fiscal management.

With the new school year, came a slew of fresh academic initiatives, along with a few old ones aimed at moving the district forward.

Officials say changing the identity of the schools may take time, but they are taking steps in the right direction. "As we turn our thoughts toward 2009, I...assure...we will continue to work tirelessly to turn Roselle into an Institute of Excellence," Superintendent of Schools on a child's education. Elnardo Webster said in a recent progress report sent to parents. .

For the second summer, the district offered free day camp to approximately 475 students between the ages of 7 and 18,

The 12-hour day wasn't all fun and games. At the camp, teachers were used as counselors and campers participated in mandatory reading time, along with other educational activities.

Ciborowski broke into the vehicle and dragged out the victim, who was asleep inside. He patted down the man, whose clothing was on fire. Both men were treated for burns at a nearby hospital and survived.

Robert Weck

The Summit police Lt. rescued a 9-year-old boy and his father from drowning July 17. The pair in danger had been swept away from shore by a strong riptide at a 14th Street beach in Surf City.

The married father of two, was awarded the "Chiefs Exceptional Duty Award" by Summit Mayor Jordan Glatt and police chief Robert Lucid Oct. 7.

Joe Puerari

The Kenilworth student rescued a 41-year-old Pennsylvania girl from drowning Long Beach Island July 13. The victim was being dragged under water by a riptide in the Beach Haven section when Puerari, then 17, swam out to her.

In August, the sea lover received a lifeguard merit award from Beach Haven Mayor Thomas Stewart.

Harold Williams

The 30-year-old Linden man was sitting in front of his home one day in early November when a 1995 Ford Taurus rolled past him, hitting his parked car. Williams acted quickly, chasing down the vehicle and diving through the open window to find the driver's brakes had failed. In minutes, Williams managed to turn off the car's ignition as it traveled south on South Stiles Street, heading toward Routes 1&9. Compiled by Stacey Eaton, managing editor.

Borough recognized as one of best, again Mountainside ranks in top 100

By Joseph M. D'Alise Staff Writer

MOUNTAINSIDE - When James Debbie said. New Jersey Monthly magazine released its list of the top 100 places to live in the state on Feb. 21, Mountainside was on it.

The borough ranked 16th out of 100 municipalities that made the list. It was also the highest ranking Union County town on the list, which also included Union in 75th place. The second highest ranked municipality was Summit, in 29th place.

Mountainside's spot on the top 100 rose from 2007, when it was ranked 20th. "This is a tribute to the borough," Mayor Robert Viglianti said at the time the list was published. "It's a tribute to the municipal employees, the governing body and the residents themselves."

Though municipal employees were honored, the results did not shock most.

"I'm not surprised," Police Chief and Business Administrator

Debbie saw the designation as a complement - not only to Mountainside, but to all smaller municipalities. He said it should serve as an eye-opener to state officials who attempted to cut aid to municipalities with smaller populations.

"Ten of the top 16 towns had populations of under 10,000," Debbie said.

New Jersey Monthly considered population, population growth, median home sales price for 2007, median property taxes, open space, crime rate and the number of hospitals and theaters within a 10-mile radius, among other criteria, when ranking municipalities.

Mountainside's population at the time of its ranking was 6,644.

LINDEN - This year's news was overgrown with environmental issues, and the city's garden had more than its share of blossoms and weeds.

The Good One of Linden's best efforts to go green began with garbage.

earlier, a teenager was brutally beaten at the site. The rink re-opened several months after being shut down.

"The two overwhelming issues are a lack of security and a lack of cooperation with the township," said • Deputy Mayor Anthony Terrezza.

Phillip Walker, the attorney for Skate 22's owner, Darren Gelber, told the Township Committee Christmas party had been planned by a promoter, but he did not recall the name of the promoter and said it was likely his client would sue to reinstate his license.

"It would be a travesty for a judge to open up that place again," Capodice said.

Spokesman for the Union County Prosecutor's Office, John Holl, said an investigation is under way.

Detectives have been interviewing the 700 people who attended the party and the office has made significant progress, but there were no suspects Monday. "With each new interview, we are getting a clearer picture of what happened before, during and after the shooting," Holl said.

Township Police Chief Thomas Kraemer could not comment due to the ongoing investigation.

Union County Prosecutor Theodore Romankow said the initial homicide probe indicates D'Haiti was the target in the shooting, not a bystander. Investigators believe the victim was involved in one of the disputes that began inside the roller rink and continued outside.

"We know there were at least two groups. Both groups, to our knowledge, were out of Elizabeth and they were factions of an organized group. We believe...there were gangs involved in this," Romankow said.

Officials oppose COAH regulations

"We want the matter heard thoroughly before the Planning Board," Woodward said.

Planning Board Chair Robert Hoeffler said the developer has not approached the board.

"The procedure for submitting any-thing...requires a lot of information and data and they haven't even done that," Hoeffler said.

According to planner Stan Slachetka of T&M Associates, many communities feel the COAH regulations are based on a "flawed" and "unrealistic" methodology.

"This backdrop of changing statues and regulations makes it difficult for municipalities to come up with practical and reasonable plans when the foundations for those plans may change," Slachetka said.

Slachetka noted the hazy nature of these obligations also puts municipalities at a disadvantage in terms of defending themselves in litigation.

Happy New Year

Tonight is New Year's Eve, when people across the nation watch the ball drop in Times Square and make resolutions they'll break the following week. Although many use New Year's more as an excuse to celebrate and have a day off from work, it is actually the oldest of all holidays, dating back to ancient Babylon about 4,000 B.C. Around 2,000 B.C., the Babylonian New Year began with the first new moon after the Vernal Equinox, or the first day of spring. This made sense, as spring was a season of rebirth.

The Romans continued to observe the new year in late March, although emperors began altering the calendar, resulting in Jan. 1, an arbitrary date, being declared New Year's Day, Julius Caesar continued this practice when he established the Julian calendar in 46 B.C. At first, the Catholic church viewed New Year's festivities as pagan. However, when Christianity became more widespread, it was observed as the Feast of Christ's Circumcision by some denominations.

Many traditions have been established for New Year's most notably, making resolutions. The tradition dates back to early Babylonians, when the most popular resolution was to return borrowed farm equipment. That has been replaced today with promises to lose weight or give up smoking.

Football games are also popular on New Year's Day, dating back to the Rose Bowl football game first played as a part of the Tournament of Roses in 1902. Today, there are dozens of bowls, not only on New Year's Day, but on the days before and after the holiday.

Even using a baby to signify the new year has ancient roots, first begun in Greece around 600 B.C. to represent the annual birth of the spirit of fertility. Egyptians also used a baby as a symbol of rebirth. Christians use it to symbolize the birth of the baby Jesus.

We still celebrate New Year's Day with festivities, although, as wild as we may think we get, they still pale in comparison to the 11-day-long fetes of the ancient Babylonians. Regardless, spend some time with family and friends, rejoicing in what was accomplished in the past year and what the new year has to offer. Make a resolution you can accomplish, even it takes the whole year. The feeling of accomplishment will be one you treasure.

Finally, remember that this is time to celebrate, not regret. So eat, drink and be merry, but know your limitations and always have a designated driver. We wish everyone a happy new year.

Seeing 'candor and leadership'

Maybe it's the quick response of Joe Cryan which makes an interview seem, at times, to be like catching a train at the Townley Station in his hometown of Union. The answers come quick, concise and usually with little variation in tone.

For the man wearing hats as Chris Christie, Cryan says, "After both the New Jersey Democratic eight years of glamorous press, 70 chairman and an assemblyman in Union County, I asked for some predictions about 2009.

The Cryan crystal ball predicts 2009 will be a "difficult year." No sugar-coating here for a person who will also be seeking re-election to his legislative seat. His words include, "belt tightening" and laying out "priorities."

Much of the future of his party will rise and fall on the shoulders of Gov. Jon Corzine who, in seeking re-election, will lead the Democratic Party ticket. Cryan speaks about "a man who has played the tough economic hand dealt him." But Cryan predicts a re-election celebration for Corzine come November.

"The governor is doing what he knows best -- being governor." Cryan predicts the citizens will see the "candor and leadership" of Corzine in the tough times and November. He added that he really reward him with their vote.

percent of New Jerseyans still don't know him,"

Cryan says, "I believe I can read polls as good as most people, and right now as many as six out of 10 votes will vote for the governor." He acknowledges the issue of the economy is overwhelming all other issues. "It's been a thrill to be state chairman, but the real highlight remains helping constituents in these hard times," he adds.

Cryan praises the skill of the Obama campaign in predicting that this will be the "peoples' inaugural." That may be a problem for Cryan, with the pressure for a small number of seats far outpaced by demand

"I get a call a few weeks ago from a man claiming to be my cousin who says we haven't spoken in three years. He warmly congratulated me on the party's big win in would appreciate two seats to the The career in politics hasn't inaugural. The problem was I have

Democrats an 8-5 margin in the delegation. Monmouth County went Democratic for the first time in a generation. Union County remains solidly Democratic.

Cryan sees a real struggle in higher education. While a strong supporter of Robert Mulcahy in the recent battle over the athletic director at Rutgers, he sees a far greater problem.

Cryan says recent numbers show that less than 50 percent of Rutgers freshman will have a degree come the end of four years. In terms of Kean University, 16 percent graduate in the four-year period.

In a rare flash of anger, Cryan pointed out that some college presidents who appeared before the Education Committee he chairs didn't know their own graduation rates. "This is like a CEO not knowing the value of his stock," he sareastically guips.

Another bit of candor comes out when I ask Cryan how he balances the traditional Democratic Party idea of promoting programs to assist the communities he represents with budget cuts. "It is very tough, but I do believe people have elected us to make hard choices."

The hard choices and priorities don't leave a lot of good cheer for 2009. Still, Cryan is banking that a strong dose of candor and making punching. ### LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

A 'thank you' to voters To the Editor:

We want to express our sincere gratitude to all who helped or otherwise supported us during this past campaign. It was a new experience for both of us, and that assistance, and the friendships that it fostered, made the endeavor enjoyable.

Having the opportunity to serve and give back to the community we live in is truly an honor. The residents that we met, and all of the issues brought forth to us, gave us great insight into the tasks at hand. We are confident that the information provided to us will enhance our ability to continue to make sound decisions in the future on a variety of difficult issues facing our township in the coming years.

We also want to thank our opponents, Daniel Aschenbach and Kevin Illing, for remaining focused on the issues. Civility is, in our view, the cornerstone of productive debate. We are most proud that this past campaign was marked by substantive dialogue.

Finally, we both look forward to continuing to serve the people of Cranford to the best of our abilities. We trust that even our humble efforts will be of benefit. We wish you all the happiest of holidays.

'Breach of contract' To the Editor.

A Morristown & Erie Railway Inc. article in a Nov. 23 local Sunday paper titled "Tying One On," could have been labeled "Take Your Marbles and Play Elsewhere! We Can't Afford Your Games!"

Six years, six months and 16 days have passed since the signing of the contract between the Morristown & Erie Railway and the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders. The score: M&E, $14.9 million plus; Union County-$0 minus.

This obviously wealthy, money-making, privatelyowned company did what it had to do to suit a local client in Bayway who was in need of storage and rotation of railcars crowding their Bayway refinery property. M&E is using residential neighborhoods to play checkers with their storage of hopper cars for a mere pittance, $20 for a 10-year lease. Our public funds have been used to support this company that doesn't need a government bailout.

Fifteen million dollars is an outrageous overcharge for intermittent weed-whacking, toxic spraying, replacing a few tracks with creosote ties --- that many states have outlawed --- and some ballast upgrades. None of these public funds were used to do safety tests on this 130-year old rail bed which runs within feet of residential housing, schools, a temple, Girl Scout camp, a firehouse, as well as the Sun Gas pipeline.

None of these public funds were used to study security risks in light of incidents in Union County of multi-million dollar freight hijackings, nor the threats of being so close to "the most dangerous two miles in America," according to an Anderson Cooper CNN report.

There are at least a dozen grade level crossings through these eight Union County towns where M&E leased the right of way.

M&E did not spend any of our public funds to insure residents' safety, security or the economic benefits of their deal with the Freeholders,

Two years ago, Union County spent $95,679,44 to study "Freight Access" in our towns. Why didn't the county use the money for this study before they signed a contract in May of 2002? They permitted -M&E to spend a fortune of our money before they did the "Freight Access" study.

Where does our money go? It is used to subsidize a company who caters to a local high-end client and who also runs very expensive train excursions described by Gordon Fuller, Morristown & Erie's CEO, as "$6,500 weekend train trips to Canada, $30,000 trips to Seattle, and $27,000 trips to Miami."

Why should over-burdened taxpayers be forced to county freeholders have to make M&E give an accounting of the $15 million Union County gave them. This was required by their contract with M&E as well as the NJ state contract giving Union County

The county has breached its contracts with New Jersey and with M&E by not fulfilling its clearly stated responsibilities of "monitoring and supervising" this runaway freight train project. Copies of these seen by visiting

Concerned Citizens hope for further compromise

By Paul Greutich Staff Writer

ROSELLE PARK - Although tensions continued throughout 2008 as officials vied with developers to decide the fate of the Romerovski Corp. site, October saw the emergence of a possible compromise between the borough and the developer, Avalon Bay.

Progress in the redevelopment of the textile recycling facility on Westfield Avenue has been impeded since 2007 when the developer filed a builder's remedy lawsuit.

Borough officials had initially made an agreement with the property owner, Israel Braunstein, in 2006 to work together in an effort to find a suitable developer. The Romerovski site is of considerable historic and economic value to the borough, and is the borough's largest ratable.

However, bitterness grew as the interests of owner and borough diverged and Braunstein opted instead to work with Avalon Bay, a developer more focused on residential apartments than mixed use or senior housing.

The town opposed the developer's proposal, and in January 2007, Avalon Bay representative Ron Ladell filed a lawsuit against the borough for failing to meet its affordable housing obligation.

Cohen scandal stuns county

By John O'Reilly Staff Writer

This summer, county residents were shocked when 20th District Assemblyman Neil Cohen, 57, resigned his post amid allegations he viewed child pornography on a computer in his Union office.

Dec. 17, he was charged with reproducing, possessing distributing and child pornography and official misconduct. He faces a maximum combined sentence of more than 30 years in prison and fines of approximately $500,000.

police The probe into the matter came after a staff member told legislators who share the offices with Cohen on Stuyvesant Avenue, Joseph Cryanand Raymond Lesniak, they had found at least one photograph of a nude adolescent girl Cohen may have printed. Assemblyman Cryan and Sen. Lesniak contacted authorities and confronted Cohen, who was quickly admitted into a psychiatric facility.

"We knew (Mr. Cohen) as a compassionate, caring individual, but...clearly there was a side to him neither of us knew," Cryan and Lesniak said in a joint statement after going to authorities with the information they were given.

During his career, Cohen had worked on measures aimed at protecting children, including sponsoring Judy and Nikki's law, a bill that mandates life imprisonment without parole for anyone who murders a child younger than age 16. The bill was created following the deaths of Judy Cajuste, 14, of Roselle and Nicole Giovanni, also 14, of Roselle Park. Cajuste disappeared Jan. 11, 2006. Her body was later found in Weequahic Park in Newark. Nicole was murdered by her mother, Lynn Giovanni on Feb. 4, 2005. Cohen had attended both the arraignment and sentencing in that case and had been in frequent contact with Nicole's father, John Giovanni.

"I'm beyond words, I'm in shock right now," Giovanni said when told of the charges. "I've known Neil for three-and-a-half years, I find it hard to believe."

On Aug. 19, Annette Quijano of Elizabeth was chosen to fill Cohen's Assembly seat. She won a special election in November to complete his term, which ends in 2009.

The national economic instability that buffeted all levels of government in 2008 also paid a visit to Union County, bringing increases in crime, unemployment and housing concerns.

Reports from government and financial entities concerned with the economic stability of Union County have illustrated both strengths and weaknesses in the region that will likely play a role asthe financial tumult continues.

Several Wall Street financial rating agencies gave the county outstanding bond ratings, citing the county's prudent fiscal practices and diversified economy as a whole.

"Now, more than ever through this period of great economic uncertainty, it is comfortable to know that Union County's finances are in sound condition," Freeholder Alexander Mirabella said.

While the county's financial operations remained relatively solid, the finances of individual residents are a different matter, especially for the many people who work outside the county in less stable regions.

between the borough and the developer have brought hope that 2009 could see the matter resolved. According to Mayor Joseph Delorio, Avalon Bay has made some concessions such as reducing the number of apartments in the proposed plan, and allowing the Roselle Park Historical Society to maintain a space in the building for a nominal rent. Delorio could not be reached for comment.

Joseph Accardi, a resident involved in the group Roselle Park Concerned Citizens, which is dedicated to the issue, said the year has seen positive changes regarding the Romerovski case and redevelopment efforts in the borough. "There's definitely positive progress," Accardi said. "The town was really fighting with its back up against the wall."

Another member of the group, former Councilman Jacob Magiera, said residents are eager to learn more about the specifies of the new agreement with Avalon Bay.

"Within the last three council meetings, more information has come out from the residents in doing research and discovering more things we did not know in the past," Magiera said.

Specifically, Magiera said he wanted to know more about the tax programs that could be applied to the property.

Accardi said he thinks negotiators nerformed admirably and that Avalon Bay has a lot to offer the town. However, he hoped negotiations will continue.

"I think there's still room for the town to get additional concessions," Accardi said.

The next meeting of the Concerned Citizens' group will be Jan. 10 at 2 p.m. at the Casano Community Center on Chestnut Street.

Unemployment rises as economy struggles

(Continued from Page 12) By September, various government and public service departments were reporting changes likely fied to the national economic decline.

In October, Union County Publie Information Director Sebastian D'Elia noted an increase in people who are out of work across many job sectors. "There's a spike up in people looking for training and employment opportunities," D'Elia said. "We're seeing all kinds of people coming in."

In October, the United Way of United County's Chief Executive Officer James Home reported that the tracking of calls made to the organization's help lines revealed 10 percent increases in the number of people seeking housing and mental health care.

"What we're finding is calls for temporary financial assistance is up 46 percent from a month and a half ago," Horne said.

Union County Sheriff Ralph Froehlich said crime and public safety may be affected by the economic situation. Froehlich said that as more residents lose their homes to foreclosures, younger people anticipating difficult times in the future may be swayed toward gangs and violence as an alternative means of surviving.

HAPPY TAILS TO YOU

A dog communicates sounds and with body with language such as the tail wag. A wagging tail has a variety meanings, depending on of the position and speed of the tail The tail wag is a means of communication because dogs wag their tails only at other dogs, other animals, or people, and never at inanimate objects. The most familiar tail wag is a broad, medium to fast sweeping motion. This indicates happiness and submission. The faster the tail, the more excited the dog. The tail position can also telegraph interest, challenge, dominance, confidence, relaxation, fright, confusion, or aggression. A tail that is held high and stiff and is wagging fast is a telltale sign not to mess with that dog.

Today's column on the amazing communication abilities of a dog's tail is brought to you by our entire staff. We hope you found it informative, and helpful. At T.L.C. ## Book takes 'spiritual journey' Small 'work of fiction' can have big impact on Christians

An infinitely brief spiritual acknowledgement of the path one must follow to allow God's presence in one's life is presented in the Rev. Clarence Price's new book, "Anatomy of a Christian Walk."

The book, all 41 pages of it, is Shelf more than a series of sermons; it is an inspirational and spiritual journey offered by the minister from Rahway.

Price also is a singer, a pastor, a preacher, a barber, a poet and a comedian. But most of all, he is a man of God, and as such, has written a miniature book that can change the life of a Christian.

And although Price considers this book "a work of fiction," his messages reflect his beliefs on taking a Christian walk with God in one's heart and highlight the history spiritual value, the Holy Spirit, sin and salvation.

In his introduction, the author presents a scenario of Christianity's full potential.

about his recent experiences in Ethiopia and its inhabitants' beliefs. In his chapter on "God," he discusses institutionalism and movement and the boundaries that surround religious decisions in accepting God.

In the "Sin" chapter, Price categorizes the argument of various sins as "age-old issues." And he quotes Biblical distinctions.

The chapter on "Salvation" is identified as "a byproduct of God's grace," and its concept, Price explains, "is expressed in a number of Hebrew words: delivered, redeem, ransom, remnant and savior."

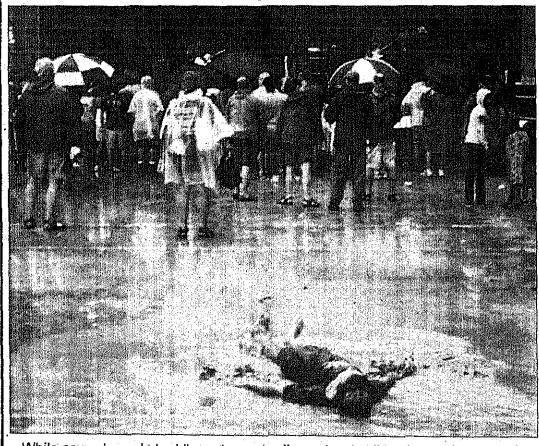

His final chapter, "Making the Connection," in one's walk with Christ, the pastor addresses some of his own personal issues.

Staff Writer The Rev. Clarence Price of Rahway has run the gamut of professions throughout his life and concluded with the ministry of a Baptist Church in St. Albans, N.Y.

He even wrote an inspirational book called "Anatomy of a Christ- me," ian Walk," and it contains invalusermons and quotations from the Bible itself — both the old and new testaments.

"The idea of a book came to me after my pilgrimage to Ethiopia," Price explained. "I've always done some writing throughout my life. mostly poetry, however. I wrote a book of poems called 'Unspoken Words.' This book, 'Anatomy of a Christian Walk," is my first book, from my visit to Ethiopia; others I just drew from different experiences and my religious studies."

Price mentioned that "what really inspired me was the fact that I learned that there were three religions surviving in Ethiopia: Islam, Judaism and Christianity, and they

How does alcohol affect a person's ability to drive? The more a person drinks, the more their ability to make crucial driving decisions becomes impaired. After just one drink, a driver can begin to lose their ability to perform the tasks necessary to drive a car: Braking, steering, changing lanes, and using judgment to adjust to changing road conditions. At a certain point, a driver will become legally intoxicated and can be arrested for attempting to operate a motor vehicle.

What does DUI and DWI mean?

DUI means "Driving under the Influence" of alcohol or drugs. DWI means "Driving While Intoxicated". These are terms used by police. In every state in our country there is a legal limit to how much alcohol you can have in your body if you are driving. If you drink and drive you can lose your driver's license and even go to jail. How do you Measure how much Alcohol is in the Blood? A driver's Blood Alcohol Content (BAC) is measured by the weight of the alcohol in a certain volume of blood. Police test breath to measure a drivers BAC. It can also be tested in blood, urine or saliva. What can you do about drunk driving?

· Follow these suggestions from Mothers Against Drunk Driving (MADD).

Your best defense against a drunk driver is to wear your safety belt, make sure any children in the car are in child safety seats.

· Never ride in a car operated by someone who has been drinking call a cab or ask a friend to drive you home.

· Report drunk drivers to law enforcement from a car phone or pay phone.

· Keep a safe distance from anyone driving erratically.

No matter how many times you've heard it, there are people who just don't get it. In fact, every 30 minutes, someone in this country dies in an alcohol related crash. Every 30 minutes!

GL battles New Providence to the very end

- MILLBURN - In what can be considered an earlyseason classic between neighborhood rivals that could only possibly meet one more time this season in the Union County Tournament, New Providence and Governor Livingston played their hearts out Saturday afternoon in a first round Millburn Tournament girls' basketball clash.

A free throw by GL senior forward Alyssa Dilly who led the Highlanders with 11 points - with 10.3 seconds left in the fourth quarter sent the game to overtime before New Providence senior guard Shelly Montagna missed a shot that hit the rim with one second left.

Then New Providence junior forward Nan Tucker came up with a huge offensive rebound after a second consecutive missed free throw and put the ball back up in for two points made in the game to give the Pioneers a three-point Johnson, which has won the Mountain Division the lead and the advantage for good.

more-than hard-fought 38-34 overtime victory over falling at Johnson 51-47 after splitting two regular a tenacious GL team that was seeking to hand the season conference games with the Crusaders. Pioneers their first loss of the season.

The third-place and championship games were scheduled to be played yesterday afternoon. North Plainfield faced Millburn in Saturday's second game.

"I was really happy about it because we needed to score and I knew I was going to get fouled," Tucker said of her game-winning basket. "I had a feeling it was coming first and I knew I could beat the girl in front of me, so I had to box really hard."

Tucker scored four of her six points in overtime. New Providence improved to 4-0 by winning the first close game it was in this year. The Pioneers went 21-5 last year and captured Central Jersey, Group 1 for the first time, which was their first sectional crown since winning North 2, Group 1 in 1985.

New Providence also captured the Mountain Valley Conference's Valley Division title, going a perfect 16-0 in league play.

The Pioneers are back in North 2, Group 1 this year. GL fell to 1-1, with its first game being a 45-41 She followed with the first of two free throws she home triumph over MVC-Mountain Division rival past two seasons. It may be a bit too early in the season to get a handle on how well this year's Roselle Catholic boys' basketball team will mesh. However, there's plenty of promise with the players included in this year's rotation.

"Our only team goal right now is mixing a lot of new players with a lot of old and making sure everyone is on the same page," second-year head coach Dave Boff said last Monday afternoon, right before his team traveled to Essex County to face Newark Vocational High.

Roselle Catholic cruised to a 65-19 triumph, sparked by a 19-point, six-rebound effort from 6-6 freshman center Jameel Warney.

The Lions evened their record at 1-1 after falling at home to Roselle 43-35 Dec. 20 in the Mountain Valley Conference-Mountain Division season-opener for both. Roselle is the defending CJ, Group 2 champion.

Roselle Catholic fell to defending MVC-Mountain Division champion Rahway 71-51 on Dec. 23 in the Lions Den in Roselle.

"We want to improve as a group every day," said Boff, whose first RC team finished 11-14 in a non-state playoff qualifying season.

Warney is one of the younger players with a great deal of upside. Against the visiting Rams Saturday, Warney paced Roselle Catholic with 11 points and grabbed 12 rebounds in his varsity debut.

"He has tremendous potential," Boff said of the Plainfield resident. "He has a presence in the post and is a terrific rebounded and shot blocker."

The lone returning starter is 6-1 senior guard Ryan Sullivan. "We're going to lean heavily on him," Boff said of the Roselle resident. "He's improved as an all-around player. Last year he was mainly a shooter. He will be the target of most teams, so he has to step up to that challenge. So far I'm pleased with where he is at."

Boff previously had success as the Governor Livingston girls' coach. "It's a slow process, but I feel like we're making strides in the right direction," Boff said. "Everyone has to stick together. It will take time," · See Roselle Catholic's roster and schedule on JR's Sports Blog at www.localsource.com.

Montagna, who will continue at Franklin & Marshall, was limited to just five shots the entire game, including none in the third quarter and none in overtime and only one in the fourth quarter, which was the last shot of regulation.

An effective box-and-one designed by GL secondyear head coach and former New Providence assistant Andy Silvagni - with GL senior Rachel Cook doing a great job of guarding Montagna - prevented New Providence's leading scorer from producing any kind of offense.

Montagna, who has already scored 1,000 points, averaged 14 last year and is averaging in double digits again this year, was limited to seven, just one 3-point basket and the final four points of the game - all on her only free throw attempts.

Stepping up offensively for the Pioneers was sophomore forward Kaitlyn Cresencia, who netted a gamehigh 16 points, including all seven of New Providence's point production in the fourth quarter. She was also all over the court grabbing rebounds, including four in the second quarter. It was after her second missed free throw that Tucker came through with the putback, was fouled and then made the ensuing free throw to give New Providence the lead for good.

New Providence sophomore guard Connie Haggerty also did well to score seven points and take the ball at the point.

GL freshman guard Alyssa Polimeni played more like a seasoned veteran and scored 10 points for the Highlanders, including their only two 3-point baskets. She made two free throws with 1:31 left to giver her team a 28-26 lead.
