Wrestler fights for, wins shot at WWE

By Chris Neidenberg Correspondent

UNION - As a young boy, Fred Rosser III's dreamed of reaching professional wrestling's "big leagues." At 25, the pursuit is nearly over.

The journeyman has won an audition with one of World Wrestling Entertainment's premier talent-development groups, Florida Championship Wrestling. He also looks forward to working with some of wrestling's top teachers and television exposure.

Previously, Rosser entertained crowds in venues primarily in the Northeast. He was known as 'Fred Sampson" or "Frederick of Hollywood" while performing on smaller circuits, such as the East Coast Wrestling Association and Chaotic Wrestling Inc. of Massachusetts.

Since winning his FCW contract, following tryouts for 65 competitors May 1-4 in Tampa, the former Russell Street resident's life has undergone major change.

He has moved to Florida city, and promises to focus solely on making the WWE. Before the perform each Thursday night on move, he had been working at Image Planet health spa on West Chestnut Street.

Rosser said he still has a ways to go to achieve the success of Hulk Hogan or Shawn Michaels his two major idols.

But for now, the Union High School wrestler and graduate is taking being one of two aspirants, initially selected from a field of 65 competitors, as a sign of better things to come.

"It's a major organization in the sport, which serves as 'a feeder' for television," said Rosser, who developed a fanatical interest in professional wrestling while in his youth accompanying his father to matches at venues such as the Dunn Center in Elizabeth. "It's the equivalent of the Arena Football League to the NFL, or Triple A to Major League Baseball." In explaining the term, "feeder," Rosser said FCW is often the next step to becoming a big player on the WWE's stage - host to wrestling matches shown on the popular television shows "Raw" and "Smackdown."

With the FCW, Rosser hopes to its local television program. "You have to get noticed," he pointed out. While competing with peers sprouting impressive physiques, Rosser suggested his key to success was displaying as much brain as brawn. After all, professional wrestlers are entertainers first, he explained. "Having the right personality and persona are a very See UNION, Page 2

City fails programs evaluation

By Joseph M. D'Alise Staff Writer

RAHWAY — District officials surprised by a failing score on the instruction/programs portion of the New Jersey Quality Single Accountability Continuum say they are already implementing a plan to improve.

The QSAC report, which is administered to a district every three years, is a five-part of evaluation of the school board. Other evaluations include governance, fiscal, operations and personnel sections. The school board must receive a grade of at least 80 percent on all five sections of the QSAC report in order to pass.

The district received a score of 58 on instruction/programs.

Superintendent of Schools Frank Buglione said Rahway was notified of its results in April and may have failed the instruction portion due to a technicality in the paperwork, not for lack of quality. The district has also taken several measures to improve test scores, such as implementing summer programs for grades 6, 7, and 8, as well as starting an enrichment program See SCHOOL, Page 14

Mayor, council clash at reorganization meeting regarding a number of resolutions on the agen- should be heard before moving forward "One

HILLSIDE - Different council, same troubles?

Last week's reorganization meeting witnessed the reformed Township Council struggling to find common ground with new Mayor Joseph Menza, while a throng of residents expressed frustration at the familiar rift between the council and it's chief executive.

The July 1 meeting also saw the swearing in of incumbent Councilman Frank Deo and newcomers Angela Garretson and President Carlisle. Menza, who was sworn in earlier that afternoon, came to the meeting with concerns regarding a number of resolutions on the agen- should be heard before moving forward. "Once requested the mayor express at the end of the meeting, after the council had approved most of the items. Menza described the council's first meeting since the elections as "not a good start."

The municipal conference seemed to confuse council members Shelley-Ann Bates and Gerald Freedman, who abstained or voted against nearly every item on the night's agenda, which included resolutions to make several appointments to boards and committees and appoint Bank of America as one of the township's depositories.

Freedman argued the mayor's comments be in a much better position to make an educated vote. Until then, I must abstain," Freedman

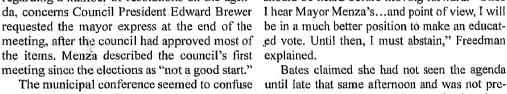

Bates claimed she had not seen the agenda until late that same afternoon and was not prepared to vote on items without reviewing them in detail. "Any item on the agenda cannot be voted on because we did not get time to review it." she said.

Following the passage of the resolutions, Menza informed the council that Bank of America is under investigation by the FBI and may See NEW Page 4

Jnion gets the 'works'

By Don E. Smith Jr. Correspondent

UNION - On a sunny Saturday afternoon, James Mulligan and Lake Dobes stood in the middle of the diamond unloading their rented truck. They were ready to light up the sky July 4.

"I say between him and me, we have about thirty years of experience," said Mulligan, an employee with Millington-based Garden State Fireworks.

This year, economic concerns prevented many towns from celebrating Independence Day fireworks. Union was nearly victim to the same trouble.

"Many towns have cut budgets, and they ended up cutting...fireworks out." Dobes said, as he set up the fireworks at the baseball diamond, across from Biertuempfel Park on Winslow Avenue.

He added many towns were rescued this year by local businesses. "These local sponsors have stepped in to assist with covering the cost," said Dobes.

According to the township's Web site, the fireworks show went off thanks to sponsorship from Investors Savings Bank and Union Center Business District.

Mulligan and Dobes said last year's display was nearly ruined by rain --- both men recalled huddling beneath tarps to help pull off the show. But this year, as they unloaded pipes that housed fireworks, they foresaw a night of fun ahead for area residents.

Mulligan mulled the work that goes into producing the show. When you start planning something like this, it takes months," he said.

It is particularly important to be aware of wind conditions to avoid a disaster when fireworks blast off. "Sometimes we have had to move our fireworks rigging to a whole new location because of the houses," he said. "You have to watch for the safety of the nearby houses, nearby trees and people watching. Every show we work with the local fire officials and they mark out where we can load the rigs up."

What goes into lighting up the sky? It's like playing with crayons, Mulligan said of streaking the sky with brilliant flashes of light.

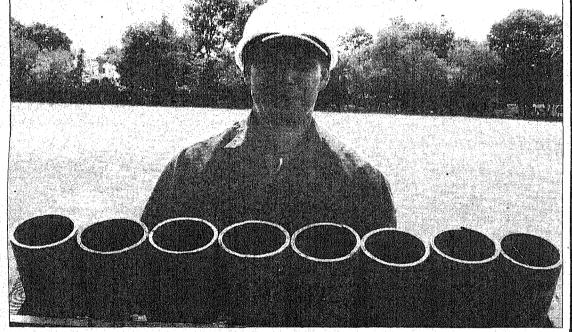

'You 'experiment with colors," he said. Before fireworks are added in with the explosives, different color chemicals are combined. 'For instance if you want gray, you mix a black chemical with a white one," he explained.

Between 2,000 to 3,000 people typically attend the Union show, and this year's crowd was hearty. "When we heard that crowd erupt after the show, it made it all worthwhile for us," Dobes said.

Affordable housing plan complete; town awaits approval

By Paul Greulich Staff Writer

UNION - Local officials hope their updated affordable housing plan will fulfill the latest state requirements and win the approval of the state Council on Affordable Housing.

At a brief June 30 Township Committee meeting, officials OK'd, a resolution to submit the plan to COAH for third round approval.

Township Administrator Frank Bradley said it has already been accepted by the Planning Board.

According to committee member Brenda Restivo, the application took nearly three months to craft and cost about $50,000, which was paid to planner Rich Cramer of T&M Associates.

Restivo said the new plan has reduced the township's affordable housing requirement by determin-spaces in Union, as opposed to those sites identified as vacant by COAH. Other municipalities, such as Cranford, have found the state's aerial survey of buildable space to be inaccurate. Working from aerial photographs of Cranford, state planners managed to identify more than 200 "developable" acres of space in the town. Cranford officials estimate that number to be ing the actual number of buildable closer to 11 acres. Restivo said she how long it may take COAH to could not recall what the most recent COAH requirements are.

Bradley said local officials are confident the town's plan will win COAH's approval. "It meets all the third round requirements," he explained.

"COAH will review the plan and advise us whether it is acceptable," Bradley said.

"We're process the plan. hoping...it's soon, maybe by the end of August," she said.

If approved, there will be subsequent ordinances established, stipulating the requirements developers and local government must follow.

Rich Cramer of T&M Associates was not available for comment. Paul Greulich can-be reached at Restivo noted she is not sure 908-686-7700 ext. 121.

The six-foot, 230-pound Rosser said the judges took note of "many fundamentals," including "promo

He promised to spend many weeks ahead "refining" and "perfecting" his character, which will need a new name Rosser said he

He had occasionally performed at some of its bigger venues. Jim Kettner, a Delaware promoter who organized cards featuring the wrestler the last five years with the ECWA, is cheering for Rosser. "He's worked hard in achieving his success and is a very good talent," said Kettner.

She added, "moving into a bigger league is a great achievement.'

(Continued from Page 1) lose its charter. Menza also objected to the council making committee and board appointments that are usually handled by the mayor. He indicated the council's execution of the mayor's duties, as employed during former Mayor Karen McCoy Oliver's tenure, is no longer needed nor appreciated. "There are duties...the mayor has and duties...the council has, and they have to learn the difference," Menza said.

He told the council he was willing to work with them. "We need to have dialogue," Menza said. "We need to cooperate to move this township forward."

Residents applauded Menza

and voiced support for him.

Former Mayor Barbara Rowen was among those who took to the lectern to criticize the council. "You have far exceeded your powers on tonight's agenda," Rowen said.

But council members said they are willing to work with Menza, and contended they only took the action necessary to move the town forward.

"We're not looking to stymie the mayor or his rights," Kulish said. "I hope this year gets better."

Kulish said Menza had been poorly advised" of the workings of the agenda, and that better cooperation will be needed to ensure a temporary budget is passed as soon as possible. Former Mayor Karen McCoy Oliver did not attend council meetings and many of her appointments to local boards and committees were repeatedly rejected by the Township Council, leaving some of those committees unable to function. The council eventually assumed some of the mayors' duties. McCoy Oliver did not run for reelection in 2009. Menza narrowly defeated Councilman Jerome Jewell, although Jewell's slate of council candidates defeated Menza's ticket.

Police cuts avoided

Staff Writer

RAHWAY — A series of negotiations between the local Policeman's Benevolent Association and governing body have avoided layoffs and furloughs for city police.

Business Administrator Peter Pelissier said he was satisfied with the outcome of the three-month talks.

"They helped the city in a considerable way by agreeing to defer their four percent raise until retirement," Pelissier said. "In addition to that, they gave up the ability to sell back sick time in 2009."

Two clerical positions in the police department were also altered from full time to part time.

As city officials work on the 2010 budget, they are looking into pay waivers and the elimination of positions to save more money.

Pelissier said every city employee, except those retiring this year, have given up 15 days worth of pay, which will be deferred until the time of their retirement. In the economic development department, one position was eliminated, while another is being reduced to part time. One position was also eliminated in the finance department and three were eliminated in the recreation department. Already, a total of about $1.2 million has been saved. About $400,000 of the $1.2 million came from the police department negotiations.

Rahway PBA representative Christopher Danielle did not return repeated calls for comment.

Council President James Baker said the concessions city police made are reasonable, considering the difficult economic times and the compromises other local departments have made. "The concessions were consistent with those made by other unions," Baker said. "I don't think they were anything exceptional."

The recently-adopted 2009 municipal budget totaled $42.3 million; down from $44.4 in 2008. Property taxes per average household increased to $107 due to a loss of about $3.3 million in revenue from 2008 to 2009. The budget also saw a reduction in state aid of $73,000, while budget appropriations were decreased by $1.6 million.

Local Republican Chair Patrick Cassio said he was not familiar with the specifics of the police contracts but said financial disagreements between the city and Riverwalk Developer were partly responsible for necessitating the layoffs and pay waivers. "If the redeveloper would only pay what money was owned to us, we wouldn't have to do any of this," Cassio said of the negotiations and concessions.

City officials hope to introduce the 2010 budget in the next few months.

An employee told police an unknown man entered the station store, brandishing a shotgun. The suspect demanded cash. The employee handed him $300. The suspect is described as 5-foot-8 inches tall and wearing a gray sweatshirt with a hood. The victim told police he noticed two other possible accomplices standing outside the store during the robbery. All three suspects fled on foot.

TESTIMONIALS:

"...my husband had to hold me up so I could brush my teeth ... "

I had low back, leg and hip pain for years and it became more intense during the past three months prior to starting the DRX 9000. I can't believe in August my husband had to hold me up so I could brush my teeth. Recently, I was walking all day around New York City and even visited the Metropolitan Museum of Art, without pain. You changed my life and I am living fully again. – Marie Burke, Berkeley Heights, NJ

"... I traveled from the Middle East (Doha-Qatar) to receive DRX 9000 spinal decompression treatments..."

I had neck pain and numbness and tingling in both hands for eight years following a car accident. I tried physical therapy and pain man agement with little success. After extensive research on the internet, I wanted to try non-surgical spinal decompression therapy on the DRX9000. I traveled from the Middle East and stayed in a local hotel for 6 weeks while undergoing the spinal decompression process. Upon completion of the treatments 1 feel about 90% better. Thank you so much Performance Rehab. – Khalid Al-Hammadi, Doha-Qatar

"...I couldn't even walk after skydiving and rock climbing injuries..."

I had intense pain for 6 months after multiple injuries from skydiving and rock climbing. I was in so much pain I couldn't even walk; my body was "twisted." I went to several different physical therapists and chiropractors, but no real success. After completion of the program, I can now run and exercise without pain. I feel great. Thank you for giving me my active lifestyle back. – Leo Leyfrera, Warren, NJ

"...I am back to running marathons and could not be happier with the DRX 9000,..."

I was training for the New York City Marathon when I developed low back and right leg pain. An MRI showed a herniated disk in my low back. After 6 weeks of spinal decompression treatments I am back to running and couldn't be happier with the results. Thanks Performance Rehab!! - Amy Drylewicz, Metuchen, NJ

"...I was told I had degenerative disc disease and there was nothing that could be done ... "

In 2005 I was diagnosed with degenerative disc disease and was told there was nothing that could be done and I would have back pain the rest of my life. At times, I would have to take 5 Percocet a day for the pain. My husband recommended Dr. Spiaggia, and thank goodness he did. After completing the DRX 9000 program I am like a new person. It has been over a year since I finished treatment and my low back pain has not returned, - Mary Everitt, South Plainfield, NJ

Congress OKs grant for police equipment

By Joseph M. D'Alise Staff Writer

SUMMIT --- Funds may be secured to help the city build a state-ofthe-art dispatch and emergency management operations center, utilizing current radio, computer, Internet and supplement communications equipment.

City Police Chief Robert Lucid said he first applied for this grant three years ago and the upgrade is overdue.

Congressman Leonard Lance made a special trip to Summit's police headquarters last week to publicly announce the congressional approval of the $1 million request for communication improvements.

Mayor Jordan Glatt expressed his gratitude. "I believe this is the largest grant Summit has ever received and one of the most important projects," he said.

Lance agreed keeping police equipment up-to-date is a safety measure that cannot be overlooked.

Summit first responders are dedicated individuals who work day and night keeping the public safe," Lance said. "Making sure they have the right tools and resources to carry out their important jobs in public safety is a win-win for everybody."

Glatt described the department's current equipment, all of which is at least 20 years old, as "archaic" and "being held together by tape and chewing gum.'

Councilman Andrew Lark also noted the system has broken down several times in the last few years, resulting in several $40,000 allocations for screens and gear repairs. The cost of repairs has been steep because few companies even have the tools to service the equipment.

According to Lucid, the new equipment would provide emergency service to a full-time population of nearly 50,000 city residents.

Currently, when a 9-1-1 call is placed in the city, it first goes to the fire department, and then transferred to the police department. The new equipment will avoid this step.

"Seconds and minutes make a huge difference in emergency situations, and with the new equipment emergency call will be directed more proficiently," Lark explained.

Lucid emphasized the need for new equipment. "We've been pursuing this project for nearly three years, and this is clearly something we needed, not only in this town but all over the state," he said.

The new digital equipment will help better coordinate the city's three dispatch centers at the police department, fire department and emergency services. "This is the wave of the future," Lance said.

He noted the funding bill approved by congress must also gain approval from the Senate and president, but that he is unsure how long this process may take.

"We are optimistic...we will receive these funds," said Lark who sits on the council's Finance Committee. "If we do not receive it, we need to bite the bullet and proceed with updating ... equipment by means of the capital budget."

EDITORIAL More of the same

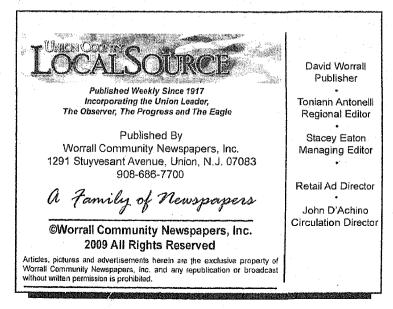

Something is horribly the same in Hillside.

Today, while the mayor's seat as well as many of the council seats are occupied by completely different people as they were two or three years ago, something else, unfortunately, has not changed. Hillside's elected officials still can't seem to work harmoniously.

This was evident almost as soon as the township's recent re-organization meeting began last week, when newly-elected Mayor Joseph Menza stood to share his concerns regarding agenda items, only to be gaveled by newly-appointed Council President Edward Brewer, who told "Mr. Menza" that he would have an opportunity to speak during the public portion of the meeting.

The council then went on to pass a number of appointments that traditionally fall under the responsibility of the mayor, such as those that name new members of local boards. The Township Council's assumption of the mayor's duties during former Mayor Karen McCoy Oliver's turbulent tenure was a questionable course of action, and any honest elected official should be eager to now dispense with such methods and welcome Menza's more involved execution of the office of mayor.

Yet in statements that could have been lifted verbatim from the minutes of a 2007 council meeting, Councilman John Kulish insisted that Menza had failed to appear on time, failed to answer faxes and had not been properly advised on the workings of local government. The ongoing efforts on the part of the council's majority to justify their inability to resolve simple issues and delegate responsibility went on to reach uncharted levels of desperation during the meeting. One of the newest members of the governing body, Councilman President Carlisle, advised outraged residents to abandon any notion that those with more power than themselves might have a hand in creating what, at this point, can only be considered a permanent phenomenon surrounding the mayor's office. This enigma apparently prevents basic communication from taking place among elected officials, and seems to have been in existence for years. Carlisle insisted that the residents themselves are partly to blame for the discord. "Stop blaming others. Blame yourselves," Carlisle told the assembled citizens. "You're the people. It's your responsibility." We have to agree with that statement. The people are responsible — and the people elected Joe Menza in the hope of resolving the issues that have plagued the Hillside Township Council for years. By the same token, the residents have also put their faith in the council members who must now find a way to - finally - put their petty differences aside and just do their jobs. We can only hope the phrase "the more things change, the more they stay the same" will not apply to Hillside in the coming years.

choice between layoffs, fireworks

Peter Pelissiere's close-up -The often unavailable Peter Pelissiere had suddenly become very accessible. Rahway's business administrator became a celebrity symbol. The decision by Rahway to eliminate fireworks from last week's July 4 celebration was in the news parlance - a story with legs.

Pelissiere granted interviews to the local press and television. Stations explained the obvious choice between layoffs and fireworks. The networks got hold of the story and Pelissiere was more than accommodating in telling Rahway's story nationwide.

Critics and bridges - Rahway's loss became Cranford's gain. The county funneled money slated for Rahway's show to Cranford fireworks. Coupled with aggressive fundraising by some ex-mayors, the fireworks show went on in Cranford at Nomahagen Park.

A whole lot of people got to the event walking across the bridge onsite, constructed last year as part of the county's MusicFest event. The band of frequent critics of County Manager George Devanney used the construction of the bridge, which was part of the original park plan, to unleash a barrage of criticism.

reminding that instant criticism should be tempered with the long term results of a project.

Park sewerage - Whatever happens ultimately with the Avalon Bay project in Roselle Park, it will probably be remembered for their threats of litigation which accompany the project. Last week, the Rahway Valley Sewerage Authority in a rare split vote, approved to accept 20,000 gallons daily of sewage from the project. With the ever present threat of litigation even with two Commissioners voting no, and two others abstaining by a slim margin, Avalon Bay got the needed approval for sewage treated.

A very big question for the little borough to face down the road is, if refined measuring systems find the borough is in an excess capacity of treatment, it may lead to a very costly hit in scrambling to buy more capacity.

Summit's job market --- The decision by Schering Plough Corp. The whole matter lends itself to to construct new buildings in Summit is pretty amazing. In this lousy economy the pharmaceutical giant has been approved for 50,000 new square feet of construction. It's estimated that within a few years the company will house 3,000 employees in Summit.

The congressman's job ----Seventh District Rep. Leonard Lance wasn't posing for smiling pictures with kids and soldiers last week. His first real controversial vote saw him side with the Democratic majority in the House on the subject of CAP and trade. The concept supported by environmentalist sets tough standards for emissions controls and trading of available slots. Conservatives oppose the measure and a group decked out in Revolutionary War clothing let their displeasure with Lance be known with a demonstration in front of Lance's office.

Rahway games — The crowds are getting bigger on Friday evenings at the Rahway Middle School. The competition and high level of soccer playing in a adult league at the site is impressive. The real winner is the Rita's Italian Ice stand across the street which does a bang-up business during breaks.

Invaders of the Rahway River

Japanese Stilt Grass pervades throughout the Rahway River watershed parks and natural areas capitalizing upon the low density of native plants over browsed by the white-tailed deer.

types from moist to dry soils in low light and direct sun, Japanese stilt grass is an annual herb that creates an effective mat that is dense. Generating thousands of seeds per year, the stilt grass can spread dramatically in a few short years. Native plants such as wildflowers and grasses cannot compete, therefore, leading to the local extinction of many species. Even worse, there is a growing body of evidence that the Japanese Stilt Grass changes the chemistry of the soil to facilitate its existence at the expense of local flora.

Controlling Japanese stilt grass is relatively easy if you hand-pull since it has a shallow root system. Hand-pulling should be done only in late summer or early fall. Other methods to control this invasive plant include chemical applications such as Roundup and Rodeo which contains the systemic herbicide glysophate.

Japanese invader, Another knotweed is the only plant growing along the shores of the Rahway River and its tributaries for miles around.

This tall bamboo-like perennial that quickly forms dense mats of nearly 10-foot shoots that grows quickly; easily outcompetes native herbs, shrubs and tree saplings. Preferring moist soils but persisting in dry landscapes, Knotweed can grow in direct sun and light shade, even the sidewalk cracks of our streetscapes.

Eliminating knotweed is not easy once established. Chemical treatment in combination with cutting is the most effective method way of culling this public nuisance. Cutting at two inches above the > ground and then treating with Round Up or Rodeo on the cut stem is effective. This practice may be necessary two or three times in one growing season to exhaust the energy reserves of the targeted plant until it inevitably dies. For controlling large populations, a foliar method is practiced. This application of glysophate to moisten all foliage will poison the plant. Great care must be taken in avoiding polluting wetlands and killing nearby native plants.

> Garlic mustard is the bane of native wildflowers and grasses. This invader from Europe is a conspicuous plant that grows in early spring, often ahead of our own native ephemerals just about anywhere.

> Garlic mustard will more aggressively capitalize on moisture, nutrients, soils and space. Where garlic mustard is on the march in the region's natural areas and parks of the Rahway River watershed it quickly establish itself as the dominant spring wildflower.

> Eradication of garlic mustard on a landscape basis is not practicable unless using Round Up. Handpulling remains the most expedient method of removal. Employing fire is effective but it will create fertile ground for germinating dormant seeds.

Multiflora rose has become the most common understory and successional shrub of the watershed's parkland. Neither new nor as noxious as the aforementioned plants, the multiflora rose has supplanted our native roses, swamp rose or Carolina rose as the most common rose in the wild.

Removal of multiflora rose is unrealistic except in limited areas because of what is would cost. Replacing it with our own native roses in would be beneficial but deer would eat that too.

Japanese barberry is the one plant that most benefits from the white-tailed deer herbivory which is excessive at the South Branch Preserve.

This dense, globular, thorny shrub is a generalist plant growing under the canopy of forests, fields, wetland edges and in waste areas. Changing the soil ph, nutrient levels, and reducing leaf litter are all advantageous consequences of spreading barberry.

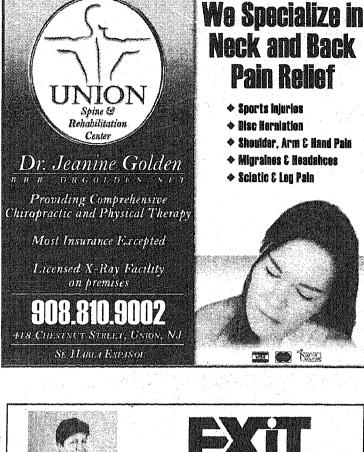

While providing limiting food sources and shelter for nesting birds, the negative factors far outweigh the positives. Fortunately, barberry has a shallow root system, making them vulnerable to hand pulling. Chemical treatment on a large scale is impractical like the multiflora rose; however, they can be eliminated by using Round Up and Garlon.

Oriental bittersweet is a terrible invasive vine that can destroy 40foot tall trees by vigorously growing and smothering it. Often the tightening vise of the vine will force a tree to snap which is apparent and die off. While the plants are not eaten by native animals, the seeds of oriental bittersweet are readily eaten by birds and mammals

Manual, chemical and mechanical methods to eradicate the vine are quite effective.

Rodeo, Garlon and Accord contain Glysophate which will kill the plant within a week after application.

Ready for the Fair Tax To the Editor:

A Rasmussen Poll from May 29 suggests that Americans may be more ready for the Fair Tax than one may think. Unlike some add-on VAT proposals, the Fair Tax is a national retail sales tax to replace income, payroll and estate, gift and generation-skipping taxes.

According to that poll, just 18 percent of Americans nationwide favor a national sales tax to raise additional money for the government, and 68 percent oppose such a tax. But the numbers change when Americans are asked to support a sales tax, if it would mean getting rid of the income tax. There a plurality of Americans, 43 percent, favor the trade-off, while 38 percent are opposed. Forty-eight percent say a sales tax is fairer than an income tax — and that is with no mention of a pre-bate --- while only 26 percent hold the opposite view. Urge your senator and congressman to cosponsor the Fair Tax. There is no longer a political risk to co-sponsorship of the Fair Tax.

Residents argue fee increases

By John O'Reilly Staff Writer

RAHWAY — Some residents are furious about $20 sewerage and minimum $10 water fee increases. Approximately two dozen residents shared their ire at a special City Council meeting June 30, which saw the total annual sewer fee jump from $245 to $265, a $1.67 increase on the monthly bill.

The change was unanimously approved by the City Council.

Rahway Business Administrator Peter Pelissier said the rate hike was necessary for pump replacements at the Rahway Valley Sewerage Authority site. He noted that several pumps have failed recently, causing sewage backups for residents. Baker added that aside from improvements to the water plant filtration system, a water consumption decrease in Rahway is also inflating the fee. As residents pay based on usage, the sudden lack of revenue stream made it necessary to raise the fees, Baker explained.

Members of Rahway's Republican Committee criticized the all-Democratic council, saying the increase is a tax being disguised as a fee.

"It's not a fee if it's not based on the water you use," said former council candidate Brian DesRochers. He also complained the "socialist tax" will benefit people with larger families that use more utilities.

Other residents also pointed to a letter mailed to residents last year, in which the council assured there would be no fee increases in the future. Some residents at the meeting said they felt the money was being used to assist the municipal budget.

Baker said the fee is not a tax. "There is no secret slush fund," he contended. "[In regards to the letter], we probably should have said we don't expect the fee to increase. But then again the economy wasn't in the state it is in now, things happened that were above and beyond our control."

City administrator selected for Argentine exchange program

Sheila Cole, principal of Summit's Franklin School, has been selected to participate in the 2009-10 Argentina Principal Exchange Program. The program provides the opportunity for U.S. and Argentine school principals to work together on issues of mutual interest to their communities, schools and students. Argentine principals will travel to the United States for a three-week program with the U.S. partner principal in October or November 2009, and then U.S. principals will participate in a reciprocal program in Argentina during June or July, 2010.

The U. S. principal, in collaboration with his/her Argentine partner principal, will design and implement a program for the Argentine partner during their U.S. visit, and will arrange a home-stay. Exchanges may focus on the areas of personnel administration, school management, instruction, curriculum development, student affairs and educational policy.

"I am very excited about this program," said Cole. "We will be planning activities during the entire school year for our students and teachers to interact and learn from this enriching experience."

In October 2009, approximately 40 U.S. and Argentine principals will participate in a joint orientation program in Washington, D.C. The U.S. principals will host an Argentine principal for approximately three weeks following this orientation.

U.S. principals will travel to Buenos Aires and Cordoba for a pre-program orientation in the summer of 2010.

E. Edgar Rd. crash leads to one death

By Spencer Reiss Correspondent

LINDEN - East Edgar Road is the site of yet another fatal car crash, police said early last week.

At 11:50 p.m. June 29, police responded to the deadly collision, involving a car struck by a tractor trailer south of Park Avenue.

The victim, Cibley Borges, 23, of Rahway was traveling in the right lane on the westbound side, when her 1993 Nissan Altima struck the curb. She lost control of the vehicle, which careened from the center of the road across all lanes of traffic, jumped the concrete median and headed into oncoming traffic. Borges vehicle was struck on the passenger side by a 2002 Peterbilt driven by Miklos Magyar, 37, of Effort, Pa., according to police reports.

Investigators believe Borges was text messaging on her cellular phone and speeding when she lost control of the vehicle. She was taken to University Hospital in Newark, where she was pronounced dead due to blunt force trauma resulting from the crash. Magyar was not seriously injured, and no charges will filed against him, police said.

There have been several accidents in the area during the past year, as well as another fatal accident a few years ago, according to city Detective Lt James Sarnicki

He said the accidents are likely the result of two factors - few traffic lights are mounted along the road that includes many curves. "There is no traffic light for a long stretch." Sarnicki said.

Though steps had been taken to prevent accidents in the area, including the installation of higher concrete barriers added in several locations, sadly, barriers were not been put into place where the accident occurred. Calls made to the state Department of Transportation were not returned. Editorial can be reached at 908-686-7700 ext. 121, or editorial@thelocalsource.com.

IS NON SURGICAL SPINAL DECOMPRESSION THERAPY

Performance Rehabilitation and Sports Injury Center, located in nearby Watchung, NJ provides a newly renovated 4,000 square foot facility dedicated to the conservative management of orthopedic injuries. We offer a variety of non-surgical treatment options including Physiatry (Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation), Medical Pain Management, Physical Therapy, Chiropractic Manipulative Therapy, DRX 9000C Spinal Decompression Therapy and Massage Therapy. Our Staff of Board Certified Medical and Chiropractic Physicians and Physical therapists allow us to offer a Multidisciplinary "team" approach in the treatment of such injuries. This results in the most comprehensive conservative care for your conditions. Our dedicated staff, lead by Dr. Ronald Spiaggia DC, is committed to the wellbeing and progress of every patient. The office has been ahead of the curve by keeping with cutting edge technology as it arises, which in turn, provides the best results for our patients.

Our clinic has addressed the growing problems of spinal pain and dysfunction and the lack of nonsurgical conservative treatment options that were previously available. We are pleased to announce the acquisition of two DRX 9000C spinal decompression therapy systems. This FDA cleared medical equipment, works by reducing disc pressure with in the spine thus, causing a "vacuum effect" within the disc. It is theorized that this effect will draw herniated or bulging material into the center of the disc and will also cause rehydration of disc fluids. Subsequent to successful treatment on the DRX 9000C, post MRI observations have shown significant reductions in herniated or bulging discs.

The DRX 9000C has been proven to be an effective treatment for low back and neck pain associated with acute or chronic back pain, failed back surgery, spinal arthritis, spinal stenosis, sciatica, posterior facet syndrome, herniated discs, bulging discs and degenerative disc disease. Spinal decompression therapy is not recommended for pregnant women, patients who have severe osteoporosis, spinal surgery with instrumentation (screws, metal plates or 0 "cages"), unstable spondylolisthesis or severe progressive neurological symptoms are also contraindicated. However, spinal decompression therapy after non-fusion spinal surgery can be performed.

Clinical studies demonstrate that decompression therapy does indeed cause disc pressure to decrease, generally by producing and sustaining negative intradiscal pressure. One such study looking at patients with herniated and degenerative disc disease found that 86% of 219 subjects who completed decompression therapy reported significant improvement of symptoms, while 84% of the total maintained clinical improvements for 3 months afterward. The specific treatment plan will be determined by the doctor after your examination. However, based on current research and our clinical experience, the best results have been achieved utilizing 12-24 sessions over a 4-6 week period when coupled with physical therapy and ant-inflammatory medications. Feel free to contact our office with any questions and please visit our web site www.performancerehabnj.com to review patient testimonials and the most current research supporting Spinal Decompression Therapy.

for grades three, four and five and a high school transition program for grade 8. "We lost 28 points because our curriculum guides were out of date," Buglione explained.

Every four years the state updates its core curriculum standards. Though Buglione claims Rahway teachers were using 2004 standards, paperwork noted that certain programs were unitizing 2000 standards.

"We have so many courses at the high school, it can be difficult to update everything we need to," Buglione explained. "They incorrectly inferred that all our programs were out of date. They are hurting us on a technicality.'

The district appealed the decision soon after the results were released, but in June, the appeal denied. The district approved a plan to update its core curriculum standards at its June 30 meeting, and now must wait for the county superintendent to approve the plan before moving forward. Buglione is confident that by September, the entire district should be updated with the new, 2009 standards:

Executive Union County Superintendent Carmen Centuolo and a state Department of Education representative did not return calls for comment.

Learning plan hits Roselle

By Ryan O'Reilly Correspondent

ROSELLE — Ninety school districts applied to take part in the state's Personalized Student Learning Plans pilot program; 16 made it. Among the lot is one Union County institution — Abraham Clark High School.

Roselle Superintendent, Elnardo Webster, said the program will help follow the academic progress of participating students. "The program gives...an opportunity to take a customized and individualized approach to the educational advancement of the students," he explained.

The program, which will kick off during the 2009-10 school year, will be implemented in the sixth and ninth grades.

Roselle Director of Curriculum and Instruction, Tamika Bauknight, said ninth-graders were targeted by school officials. "One of our goals is to advance the curriculum at the high school level and to be in line with upcoming high school requirements," she said. "There are a lot of the changes going on in the high school during the next four years, and we're looking at what the guidelines for the next high school reform will be."

With New Jersey guideline changes looming, Bauknight said the district is already ahead in terms of advanced requirements for graduation.

The purpose of the program is to create a career portfolio for each student, detailing both academic and career goals. As the pupils progress through high school, advisors will track whether they are doing the necessary work to be successful in whatever career path they choose.

"What has happened in the past is students start talking about career paths in eleventh grade, but realize they should have done something else when they were younger," Bauknight said. "Once they identify their interests, they set their path goals."

Three years ago, the school began implementing some form of a personalized learning plan with its

High Schools that Work program. The current advisory program in Roselle is similar to the pilot program being launched. The main difference is advisors have not implemented a formalized student learning plan.

Marie Barry, state director of the Office of Career and Technical Education for the Department of Education, said the districts' High Schools that Works program set Roselle apart during the selection process. Another nearby school that made the cut was Bloomfield High School in Essex County.

"Abraham Clark was what we called one of our 'Level 2' schools, because they're a little further along in implementing personalized student plans. It had some plans, community involvement and a strong leadership team," Barry said.

The school will receive a $15,000 grant from the New Jersey Department of Education as part of its acceptance into the program.

According to Bauknight, the grant will be used to support work-shops and training advisors.

Normally, the lens of the cat's eye is clear. When a cat develops cataracts, the lens becomes cloudy Cataracts don't occur as often in cats as in dogs, and they always warrant a trip to the vet because they usually occur after some sort of trauma to the eye or an underlying infection or disease like diabetes. Occasionally, cataracts are inherited or are the result of poor nutrition. Cats that are developing cataracts will bump into things or avoid jumping up onto high objects. The cat will probably souint and show signs of eye trauma, possibly redness around the eye, and, of course, there will be the telltale milky bluish white spot in the eye itself.

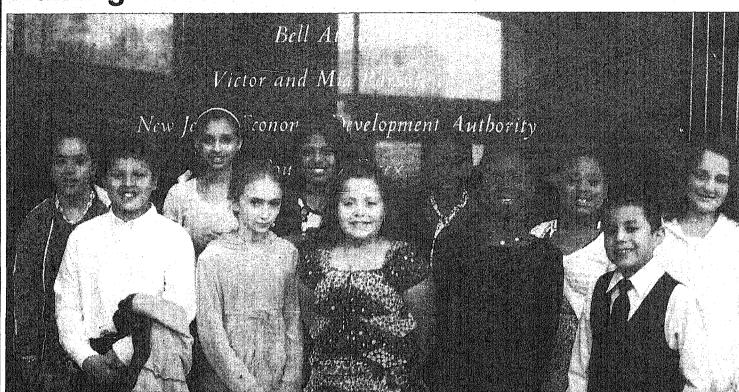

Apart from stealing your heart, your pet's eyes are crucial to his well being and ability to lead a fully functional life. Two men charged with murdering an Elizabeth firefighter earlier this year pleaded not guilty at their June 15 hearing.

Emilio Vasquez and Jose Flores, both homeless, were arrested Jan. 1 after allegedly setting fire to a house on Marshall Street. The two mens' attorneys both claim their clients lit the fire, which later spread to the vacant building, to keep warm and that they did not intend to kill firefighter Gary when a fire truck backed over him. Stephens was a 28-year member of the EFD. The driver of the fire truck was not charged.

The suspects have been charged with murder, burglary, arson and failure to report a fire, A pre-trial date is set for July 20 and both men are expected to be tried together.

'We will vigorously contest the charges," said Union-based attorney Roy Greenman, who represents Flores.

Vasquez's lawyer, Assistant Deputy Pub-he feels the his client will be cleared of the murder charge.

"He denies his guilt as to the homicide," Kabak said. "In our opinion, it was a tragic accident. We believe he'll be vindicated."

The maximum sentence the suspects could receive if convicted is life in prison. Both men are being held at Union County Jail in Elizabeth while awaiting trial.

declined to comment on the case at this time. source.com.

"It wouldn't be fair to comment while a trial is pending," Holl said.

Elizabeth Fire Department Director Onofrio Vitullo declined to comment on the trial or whether the department may be called upon to participate in the proceedings.

Onofrio said until the Jan. 2 incident, there had not been a member killed in the line of duty since the 1980s.

Woman killed in crash Victim was 2008 LHS graduate

By Paul Greulich Staff Writer

A fatal accident left two lanes of the Garden State Parkway closed for more than two hours early Tuesday morning as authorities cleared the scene and investigated the collision that left one woman dead

According to State Police Sgt. Stephen Jones, the accident occurred on the Garden State Parkway's Southbound lane just North of Exit 141 at 4:48 a.m when an empty NJ Transit bus crashed into a 2008 Hyundai Elantra.

The bus driver, Michael Graham, 59, of Irvington was not injured, but the driver of the Hyundai, Christina Pinto, 19, of Linden was pronounced dead at scene at about 5:30 a.m.

Jones declined to comment on the nature of her injuries. Pinto was a 2008 graduate of Linden High School.

The right and center lanes were closed as a result of the crash.

"Two lanes were closed for accident investigation for sometime, but the roadway was open around 7:30 a.m.," Jones said.

Traffic remained affected by the closure for more than an hour after the crash, which created tieups throughout the morning rush hour.

The Union Fire Department responded to the scene. Fire Chief Frederic Fretz could not be reached for comment. No local police were on the scene.

Police investigate series of robberies at gas stations

By John O'Reilly Staff Writer

Gas stations in Linden and Roselle are dealing with a frightening trend; men armed with shotguns have allegedly been robbing locations along St. Georges Avenue and Routes 1 & 9.

Linden Police Lt. James Samicki said his department is investigating three similar incidents that occurred within two weeks.

On June 5, two gas stations along St. Georges Avenue — the BP gas station and Exxon Station were robbed within one hour. At 9:45 a.m. two suspects, one carrying a shotgun and the other a handgun, stole $250, a few packs of Newport cigarettes and several cigars from the BP station. About 50 minutes later, one suspect with a shotgun allegedly took $600 and two packs of Newport cigarettes from the Exxon. No witnesses were injured, according to police.

Authorities said the third robbery took place on June 17 at 10:30 p.m., when a man carrying a shotgun allegedly robbed $300 from the Citgo gas station on East Edgar Road. He was seen fleeing with two other accomplices. Linden police believe these three incidents were perpetrated by the same suspects.

Authorities are also investigating whether those same suspects could be responsible for a botched holdup at a Roselle gas station. The incident took place at 9:50 p.m. on June 20 at the Lukoil Gas Station on West First Avenue, said Roselle Police Capt. Gary Ricardelli. Two suspects approached an attendant demanding money, authorities said.

"A toy shotgun was produced (during the robbery). The attendant grabbed the shotgun out of one suspect's hands and they all took off running," he said, noting there were three suspects. No arrests were made in the Roselle attempted robbery.

Linden investigators say they are trying to determine if the crimes are connected. Earlier reports said the Linden suspects were thought to be teenagers.

"It is an active investigation, and one thing we are looking at is whether these people are tied to our robberies," Sarnicki said.

Police capture escapee

By John O'Reilly Staff Writer

The inmate who escaped from Union County Jail while on garbage duty last week was finally captured Monday after the escapee's father alerted police to his whereabouts.

Phillip Ruddy, 21, of Rahway, was found just after 5 p.m. hiding in the basement of a house on Eagle Street in Newark, said Union Counprosecutor Theodore tv.

escape and is being held without bail at Union County Jail. No court date has been set.

Ruddy fled the prison shortly after midnight on June 29 while he and another inmate were emptying trash in Elizabethtown Plaza, in Elizabeth.

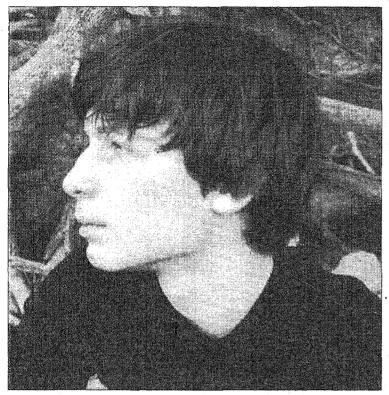

The officer guarding the men secured the other prisoner and called for backup, said UCPO spokesman John Holl.

Ruddy was allowed to work outside the prison because he was granted "trustee status," meaning he was deemed a low risk to escape.

He was first admitted to the jail on June 1 for a parole violation, said Romankow. No motive on why he escaped has been revealed.

UC Magnet student earns scholar award

Mark Vander Schaaf, a senior at Union County Magnet High School, has become one of only 141 high school seniors nationwide to receive the prestigious Presidential Scholar award.

The student was selected from a pool of 3,000 qualified candidates, out of three million high school graduates.

"On behalf of the Freeholder Board, I'd like to express our respect and admiration for Mark's achievement, and our appreciation for the support and guidance he received from teachers, administration, and fellow students at Magnet High School," said Freeholder Angel G. Estrada.

The Union County Magnet High School for Science, Mathematics and Technology is located at the county's Vo-Tech Schools campus in Scotch Plains.

"Everyone on the Union County Vocational-Technical School District campus is extremely proud of Mark, his accomplishments while in high school and this extraordinary recognition," said Dr. Thomas J. Bistocchi, Vo-Tech Schools Superintendent. "What is even more extraordinary to us is that this is the second year in a row that a Magnet High School senior has been recognized as a Presidential Scholar."

UC names management company for golf services ations turnaround plan, Union County today announced it has selected KemperSports, a golf management company, to manage all golf services, except maintenance services, at its golf courses at Galloping Hill in Kenilworth and Ash Brook in Scotch Plains.

The county has authorized the execution of a five-year contract to KemperSports, with the goal of managing and enhancing its clubhouse services, including food and beverage, providing golf programming, community outreach, sales and marketing, merchandising, while improving profits and providing fiscal control.

Overall, the goal is to provide the public with an affordable, enjoyable golf experience from teetime at the course to leisure time in the clubhouse with modernized amenities, while increasing attendance, and improving the County's fiscal bottom line, Union County Freeholder Chairman Alexander Mirabella said.

"We chose KemperSports because of the company's outstanding record of enhancing_clubhouse facilities, increasing community outreach, and developing golf programs," Mirabella said. "They have a national reputation for providing outstanding customer service, and excellent financial management with the goal of achieving longterm success."

The Northbrook, Illinois-based company operates and managesgolf facilities as well as athletic clubs, lodging venues and major sporting events, including nationally ranked courses and tournament

As another step in its golf oper- venues, including Chambers Bay The county manager and Freehold-- a county-owned course - in Washington State, host of the 2010 U.S. Amateur and the 2015 U.S. Open tournaments.

"We are excited at the opportunity to partner with Union County in developing both Galloping Hill and Ash Brook into premier courses," said Steve Skinner, chief executive officer of KemperSports. "We are pleased to start our relationship with Union County and look forward to delivering area golfers an enhanced experience."

The Galloping Hill golf facility contains a 27-hole course, 18-hole championship course, and a newly revamped nine-hole executive course. The course opened in 1927. A driving range and learning center is currently under construction. The Ash Brook facility opened in 1953 and has an 18-hole course as well as a nine-hole pitch and putt.

In his executive budget letter to the Board of Chosen Freeholders in January, County Manager George W. Devanney announced the county would seek a "public-private" partnership with a golf management company with the objective of attaining profitability at both courses. At the time, Devanney had noted the county's three golf courses were operating at 50 percent capacity, while operational costs are running as if they were at 100 percent.

Overall, the county's golf courses incurred an operational loss of $690,000 in 2008. However, this was a $500,000 revenue improvement over 2007. This improvement was due in part to operational efficiencies and an increase in fees. of the specifications.

er Board embarked on a number of steps that could complete the return to profitability, which included the closure of one course at Oak Ridge in Clark, and the elimination of positions.

In addition, the county began the construction of a $2.3 million driving range and learning center at Galloping Hill. The County's market studies have shown there is a lack of driving range facilities in the region. Such an attraction will bring a wider audience to golf at Galloping Hill, which also enjoys an outstanding location near regional transportation. The facility, which is expected to be completed by the end of the summer, could generate as much as $600,000 in annual revenues.

As part of its final step in its golf operations turnaround plan, the county administered request for proposals for golf course management and operational services for its golf courses. A Blue Ribbon Review Committee was assembled by County Manager Devanney to review the proposals and make a recommendation. The committee included representatives of the county, special counsel to the county, and private sector representatives with backgrounds in golf course management, who evaluated the proposals and determined the proposal submitted by Kemper-Sports was complete and responsive to the specifications, meeting the requirements for the qualifications and experience of the vendor and complying with the mandatory document submission requirements

ENHANCING OPERATIONS — Union County Emergency Management Director Chris Scaturo, center, speaks to U.S. Rep. Leonard Lance, left, and Union County Freeholder Chairman Al Mirabella about enhancements to Union County's Emergency Operations Center that are being made possible by a $500,000 federal grant requested by Lance.

Inmate apprehended in Newark basement

In the wake of this escape, Romankow said the county will take a look at the trustee status.

"We are doing a full review on the escape," said Holl. "We're also going to take a look at the trustee status going on at the jail, take a fresh look in light of the recent escape."

Two other convicts at the jail made national headlines in 2007 when they successfully engineered a more daring escape.

Otis Blunt, 32, of Toms River and Jose Espinosa, 21, of Elizabeth escaped from the Elizabeth jail between Dec. 14 and 15 of 2007, by crawling through holes chiseled in the walls of their cells and leaping over a barbed wire fence.

Within a month both escapees were recaptured. A prison guard on duty subsequently killed himself after the men left a letter allegedly mocking him.

They were both given five-year sentences for the escape on June 26.

Holl said the two incidents were "very different cases and circumstances" and that the added security measures in the wake of that escape — additional cameras, barbed wire and training - are enough to prevent escapes from the actual jail like Blunt and Espinosa.

Trailside mosaics reflect local wildlife pole.

What was once a boring, gray, concrete column is now a mural of mosaic panels featuring butterflies, flowers and birds, greeting visitors to Union County's Trailside Science Museum and Nature Center in Watchung Reservation.

"We wanted it to be educational," said artist DeBorah Goletz, morphosis of a monarch butterfly.

Consider it a modern day totem who along with other members of She was also responsible for overthe Potters Guild of New Jersey, donated hundreds of hours of their time and materials to make the panels that now cover the lower eight feet of the support column.

Goletz, whose professional work includes mosaic murals at New York City subway stations, designed a panel showing the meta-seeing the installation of the 12 panels and five decorative bands.

"For many of the members, this was their first time working with mosaics," Goletz said, noting that columns with mosaic inlays at a Barcelona opera house were the inspiration for the Trailside column.

In discussing the idea with Trailside Director Patricia Bertsch, the decision was made to have the panels reflect species indigenous to the area, she said.

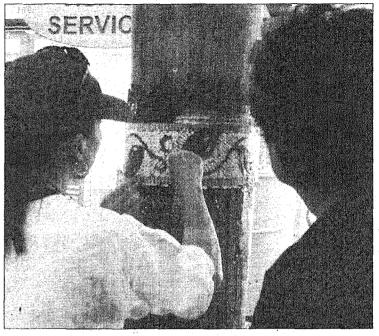

Mountainside resident Judy Musicant was president of the guild when the project was first conceived.

"The idea was for a public mural" Musicant said. "This was the first place I thought of."

The guild used to hold its semiannual pottery sales at the museum. But when the facility underwent a major renovation and expansion several years ago, the show was moved to a nearby church.

But that did not diminish the desire by guild members to create something for the museum, she said.

"I would lose track of time when I was working on this," said Mimi Stadler, whose panel featured a cardinal. "I would look up and hours Bertsch said.

Artist DeBorah Goletz works on a section of mosaic tiles that were recently applied to a column at the Trailside Visitor Center. The mosaic panels depict some of the birds, butterflies and plant life that can be found at the Watchung Reservation.

had passed. It's very engrossing."

As the artists carefully applied one panel after another, Bertsch would swing by to check on the progress.

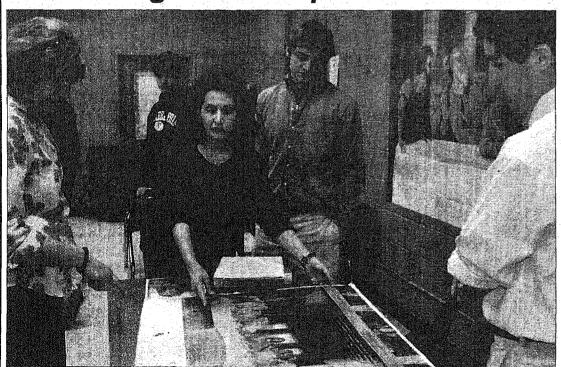

"I love it. It's a beautiful work,"

Bertsch said she was also happy with the way the Trailside Museum Association was able to contribute $600, which was then matched by the Union County Board of Freeholders, to fund the installation of the artwork.

Recreating a masterpiece

Oratory Preparatory School students Joe Altongy of Springfield, Dennis O'Brien of Summit, and Gerard Viola of Cedar Grove admire the work of Springfield artist Jean Canziani with their art teacher Susan Preston, a Springfield resident, far left. Canziani, the mother of Daniel, a junior at the all-boys school in Summit, was commissioned to replicate a painting of DaVinci's 'Last Supper' on the Roman Catholic school's cafeteria wall.

'Bard' continues with dark comedy

Ever wonder what would have happened if Romeo and Juliet had lived? Would their love have endured? Would they still be together or would things have fallen apart? William Shakespeare sought to answer these questions with another couple in his dark comedy "Troilus and Cressida," which will be performed at the David Brearley athletic field on July 23 at 7:30 p.m. as part of the library's The Bard on the Boulevard Set during the Trojan war, Troilus, a prince of Troy, is passionately in love with the beautiful and mature minded Cressida. As an encounter is brokered by father figure, Unlus and Cressida became easily interwoven into the more familiar goings-on of Hector, Achilles, Paris and Helen.

For seven years, the Greeks and Trojans have been at war following the Trojan Prince Paris' abduction of Helen, the most beautiful woman in the world, from her Greek husband, Menelaus. The besieging Greek army is encamped under the walls of Troy and, at the point at which the play begins, the war has reached stalemate.

The Greeks are quarreling amongst themselves. Achilles, their greatest champion, refuses to fight and has withdrawn to his tent with his lover, Patroclus. Ulysses tries to entice Achilles back to the field by arousing his jealously against Ajax, a rival warrior, whom he acclaims as their new hero and elects to meet Hector, the Trojan champion in single combat.

Equally at odds with themselves, the Trojans are debating the value of continuing the war merely for the sake of keeping Helen. Hector declares that she is not worth the lives she costs, but when his brother Troilus contends that honor demands they continue to fight for her, Hector is brought to understand his point of view. In case of rain, the show will be held at library, 546 Kenilworth Blvd., Kenilworth. For information, visit www.hudsonshakespeare.org or call the library at 908-276-2451.

Union's Melody is making most of minor league stint Seeks to learn from veteran teammates

By JR Parachini Sports Editor

Matt Melody did well to graduate from NJIT on time in May with a marketing degree and also pitched four years for the Highlander baseball team, which became Division 1-A when he was a sophomore in 2007.

The 6-3, 210 pound left hander and 2005 Union High School graduate then took part in a Newark Bears' tryout session in June.

Just when he was about to begin seriously looking for a job, he got a call from Newark Bears General Manager Mark Skeels.

"Other than to tell me that he was interested, he didn't really say much else," said Melody by way of phone last week.

Melody, who turned 22 on May 28, said he received the phone call from Skeels two weeks ago.

"I definitely didn't expect it," Melody said. "I was looking for a job. This is a great opportunity and I want to give it a shot."

Melody's father John was drafted by the Kansas City Royals, while his cousins Ed and Pat Collins – also UHS grads - played minor league ball as well.

Melody signed a contract with the independent minor league team two Thursdays ago and was on the mound as the starting pitcher for the July 28 home game against the Bridgeport Bluefish in Atlantic League professional action at Bears and Eagles Riverfront Stadium in Newark.

"On the first pitch I had some butterflies, but after that everything was the same," Melody said. "I played most of my home games there for NJIT, so the scenery was real similar."

Melody limited Bridgeport to one run through the first three innings of an eventual 12-5 Bluefish victory in which Melody received a no decision. He allowed the visitors to take a 4-1 lead in the top of the fourth inning on a three-run homer hit by Bridgeport shortstop Rayner Bautista.

NJIT coach Brian Callahan was a proud attendee at Sunday's game, as were about a dozen former Highlander teammates and numerous members of Melody's family and their friends.

"Matt threw the ball very well," Callahan said. "He made one bad pitch and that's the ball that went for a home run. Otherwise, he looked very good."

Melody, who dons No. 32, was scheduled to pitch again last Friday night vs. the Camden Riversharks at Campbell's Field in Camden.

Melody's final pitching line in his pro debut Sunday was: four innings, five hits, four runs (three earned), a walk and a strikeout. He lists his top pitches in this order – fastball, slider and changeup.

"In college I used my slider a lot, but on Sunday I threw a lot more changeups, which helped me," Melody said.

Melody is now one of only two lefties on the Bears' pitching staff, with the other being 6-2, 185-pounder Cory Willey, who is six years older and from Cambridge, MD.

"My goal is to learn as much as I can from these guys and try to compete," Melody said.

To go from a struggling Division 1 program that just completed a forgettable 4-33 season to getting called to play minor league baseball is a dream come true for anyone whoever put a baseball glove on and played America's national pastime.

"When I first walked in I was a little star struck," Melody said.

Former Montreal Expo and New York Yankee Tim Raines – one of the leading basestealers in MLB history – is the manager of the Newark Bears. The pitching coach is former Yankee right hander Mike Torrez, who after winning Game 6 of the 1977 World Series for the Bronx Bombers and earning a championship ring, he gave up Bucky Dent's home run 12 months later in the famous playoff game won by the Yankees 5-4 in Fenway Park.

Present Newark Bears players include notable former major leaguers Ramiro Mendoza, Carl Everett, Keith Foulke and Armando Benitez.

"I know who those guys are from playing baseball since growing up," Melody said. "I⁵ve started to get comfortable here over the past week."

Although Melody did not win a game in seven decisions and had a high ERA for a very young Highlander team this spring, he did have his moments after being limited somewhat by a pre-season back injury.

His season highlight was a school Division 1record 12 strikeouts in seven innings against UMBC in Florida on March 19.

"I had a fracture in my lower back," said Melody, who was the starting quarterback at UHS during his senior season of 2004, leading the Farmer football team to a North 2, Group 4 playoff appearance.

"I wasn't going to throw for the first couple of weeks, but we lost a couple of guys for different reasons and since it was my last year I rushed back if I could throw," Melody continued. "It didn't plague me too bad. It wasn't terrible. Now I'm at 100 percent."

Melody was a tri-captain for the Highlanders this year after appearing in a team-leading 27 games -26 out of the bullpen - last year.

Last year, he struck out 62 batters in 52 innings and fanned a career-high nine batters against St. Peter's on April 22, 2008.

This year, Melody allowed 82 hits in 57 innings, but struck out 47 and walked 38. He was 1-2 as NJIT's No. 5 starter in 2006, 1-2 last year and had a record of 0-6 as a sophomore in 2007, appearing in 11 games of which he started eight, striking out 31 in 33 innings.

"The past two years were real tough, but we continued to work hard," Melody said. "The whole team never stopped working.

"We had 14 guys transfer out the last two years and had only three seniors on the team this year, with mostly freshmen starting. It's tough to win in Division 1 with all new-guys."

A Third Team All-Union County baseball selection by The Star-Ledger his senior season of 2005, Melody grew up a Yankee fan, with his favorite pitcher being Andy Pettitte.

"He always competes, even when he doesn't have his best stuff," Melody said. "He knows how to win."

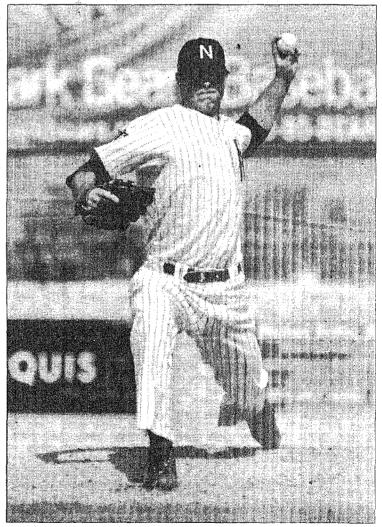

Callahan said that Raines and Torrez gave Melody positive feedback following Sunday's game.

"This is a great thing for Matt and for our program," Callahan said. "It's a tribute to all the hard work he did in his four years with us for him to reach this point."

NOTES: Melody started last Friday's game at the Camden Riversharks and took the loss in a 7-6 defeat. He pitched 3 and 2/3 innings and was 0-1 with a nodecision in his first two starts as of Tuesday.

Matt Melody, a 2005 Union High School graduate, is now a member of the Newark Bears independent minor league baseball team. He signed his pro contract two weeks ago.

Wood bats are a big hit for Union County legion Positive feedback from coaches, officials

By JR Parachini Sports Editor

There used to be a saying in baseball that went something like this: "did he get good wood on it"? That question may be getting asked again more and more these days.

Union County American Legion Baseball went to wood bats for the first time this summer for all three divisions - Senior, Junior and Sophomore.

That seems to be the trend in New Jersey, with Essex County making the move two years ago.

"Everybody has a different opinion on it, but I seem to like it because it's different," said Chris Roof, coach of the Berkeley Heights senior team and also the head coach at Governor Livingston. "I thought using wood bats in the pre-season helped me when I played at Montclair State. It gave us more confidence when we went to aluminum bats when the season started.

"The sweet spot is smaller on the wood bat. It was like a teaching aid. It helps you to try to hit the ball more square."

The main reason for the switch back to wood bats is for the safety of the players, particularly the pitchers. The smash off a wood bat is likely to be not quite as dangerous as that from an aluminum one.

There are other pluses.

"The games are going quicker so far this summer, which is a little neat," Roof said. "There's definitely more small ball, scores are down and there's a lot more sacrifice bunting, squeezes and bunting and running, stuff like that. You need to try to put more pressure on defenses. Pitchers also have more confidence pitching inside.

"The only negative thing I see is that, defensively, it can hurt infielders more than anybody. Infielders are used to the ball being hit quicker off an aluminum bat. You have to shorten the infielders up a bit."

What about the ball hit right back to the box?

"If you hit a ball good, it will get back to the pitcher pretty quickly," Roof said. "However, kids are not getting the bat heads out as quick with wooden bats as they would with aluminum."

There are metal wood bats and your traditional Louisville Slugger bats. The metal wood bats are wood composite bats that are - technically - stronger in that they don't break as easy and go for half the price of real aluminum bats, according to Roof. "They can last from 2-3 months and don't crack," Roof said.

The Louisville Slugger bats are your normal, typical wood bats. "The wood might be a little better, but if you get a jam job, you will break the bat," Roof said. "We're using both of them."

New York switched to wood bats for the high school season two years ago, but Roof, who has been a head coach since 2001, is not so sure it would be a good thing if New Jersey followed suit.

"I don't think we should change because kids don't play with wooden bats all the way up," Roof said. "I just wish there was some way to make aluminum bats safer.

"That would be the perfect combination."

Rich Biddulph, who has had a lot of success coaching the Roselle 229 senior squad, has seen mostly positives from the transition so far.

"The metal/wood bats are actually metal handles with wood barrels and the Louisvilles are all wood," Biddulph said. "Allegedly, the metal/wood last longer. We're using all wood so far."

Roselle began the week in second place in the senior standings behind Union Catholic.

"Going to wood has been an adjustment for us, but we're getting used to them," Biddulph said. "Of course, our pitches love them as all ERAs have plummetted.

"Our outfielders play much shallower than with aluminum and we're taking away the flares."

Chris Van Vliet, who played at Roselle Catholic and served as an assistant coach at Elizabeth the past two seasons, coaches the Elizabeth senior squad along with head coach Tom Urban.

"Using wood bats is the way baseball was meant to be played," Van Vliet said. "You can pitch inside now and stats are much more meaningful."

Union High School head coach Frank Napolitano doesn't mind seeing his players using wooden bats, but realizes that a less powerful stick might take away the occasional hit a youngster - who does not hit as well as the others - gets every now and then.

"Wood makes it real," Biddulph said. "We're getting low scoring games being decided by pitchers throwing strikes, the defense making plays and the offense putting the ball into play. There are no more Earl Weaver strategies of waiting for a three-run homer. See GAMES, Page 32

MVC All-Stars prevail

Games quicker, ERAs are down as result of change

(Continued from Page 31) "In a non-league game earlier this season, one of our guys mashed a home run with wood - probably 380-400 foot. One of our assistant coaches said, 'I wish I had that crack of the bat on tape. I could listen to that sweet sound all day.'

"He was right on. What a beautiful sound it was!" Jim Caffrey, Union County's 17-and-under chairman, is also pleased with the early results. "Wood bats are working well in Union County," Caffrey said. "The change to wood bats has certainly changed the game and the quality of baseball games have drastically improved this year."

Union County is looking forward to hosting all three State Finals this year, as well as the Mid-Atlantic Regional for 17-and-under - which is junior legion.

"We've had very few 10-run games, keeping teams in games and raising the competitive nature of our leagues," Caffrey said. "Of the 15 games I've seen so far this summer, I've only noticed two broken bats, so the kids seem to be adjusting very well.

"It is my hope that National will follow our lead and convert all of American Legion baseball to wood bats, nationwide."

NOTES: The annual Union County American Legion Baseball (UCALB) Hall of Fame induction was July 1 at Roselle Park High School. This year's inductee was Roselle Park 17-and-under head coach Ken lachio.

> "Like the entire state, we're struggling with rain, but our coaches are doing a terrifice job re-scheduling," Caffrey said.

The first- and second-place teams will go to the states and the third- and fourth-place teams will play on Wednesday for the third state bid,

The Junior Legion regular season' will conclude Saturday.

The All-Star Games are scheduled to be played at Teener Field in Union on Sunday, with the Junior Game at 3:30 p.m. and the Senior Game at 7 p.m.

The Junior Legion playoffs are scheduled to commence Tuesday and continue each day from the 15th to the 20th. The quarterfinals are July 18, the semifinals July 19 beginning at 10 a.m. and the championship game July 20 at 5 p.m. - all at Veterans Field in Rahway.

The states are scheduled to commence July 25. The 15-and-under Union County Sophomore Legion schedule runs through July 18.

Grid teams switch sections

By JR Parachini Sports Editor

According to the Asbury Park Press, which disclosed the new high school football reclassifications for the 2009 season on a blog on June 24 - listing the sections Central Jersey and South Jersey only - Rahway, Brearley and Roselle Park have moved to different sections.

Rahway is back in Central Jersey, Group 2 - which is where it was in 2007.

Brearley and Roselle Park are back in Central Jersey, Group 1.

An official from the NJSIAA said on June 29 that the general classification and the football and wrestling classifications should be posted on its website by sometime this week. It was posted Tuesday.

That official also said that the information was originally set to be disclosed by late June, but was not because relevant information pertaining to determining school group size was not received from several schools.

Rahway was moved from North 2, Group 3 to Central Jersey, Group 2 during the first year of the NJSIAA's reclassification in 2003.

Skipper to play volleyball at Post Rahway resident stars at RC

Brieonna Skipper, a three-year varsity volleyball starter for Roselle Catholic High School and a co-captain her senior season, will continue her athletic career at Post University in Connecticut.

Skipper, a Rahway resident, who graduated from Roselle Catholic on May 31, will join scholastic teammate Kelly Hayes on the volleyball court at Post University's 58-acre hilltop residential campus in the suburbs of Waterbury, Conn.

At Post, an NCAA Division 2 school and member of the Central Collegiate Athletic Conference (CACC), Skipper will play for coach Mike Brienza.

"I picked Post University because it's a small school and it's not too far from home," Skipper said. "I like the student-to-teacher ratio. The class sizes are very small compared to other colleges and universities.

"I also like that the volleyball team is very close knit and everyone gets time on the court."

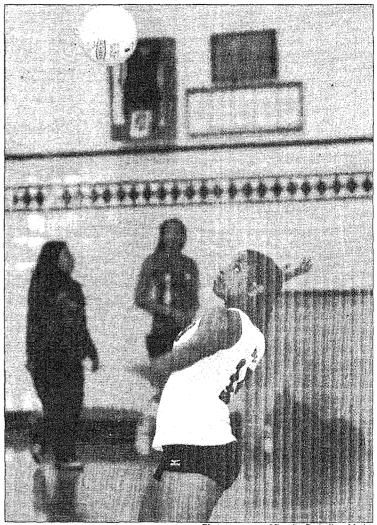

Skipper was a sophomore starter when Roselle Catholic won the NJSIAA Parochial championship and earned a berth in the Tournament of Champions in 2006. She played her final two seasons at RC for coach Don Godfrey.

"The highlight of my RC athletics career would definitely have to be winning states my sophomore year," Skipper said. "It had to be the scariest moment of my life, starting varsity as a sophomore in a huge game. There was so much pressure."

One of Skipper's strengths on the volleyball court is her versatility, which enabled her to a play a variety of positions for the Lions. Skipper was a consistent server for the Lions, who averaged five digs and four service points per game her senior season.

"My senior year was the biggest change," Skipper said. "I started as an outside hitter, but two games into the season I was switched to libero. It was a difficult switch, but I knew my team needed me, so I did what I had to do."

Skipper hopes to major in business administration/management at Post, with the goal of opening up her own hair salon. Skipper has a younger sister, Jayla, who she hopes will follow in her volleyball footsteps.

Brieonna Skipper was a standout volleyball player at Roselle Catholic. She will continue playing the sport at Post University in Waterbury, Conn.

Cranford latest school about to get FieldTurf Memorial Field transformation under way department has been waiting for is here.

The transformation of Memorial Field from grass to FieldTurf is about to begin.

Cranford Athletic Director Marc Taglieri said two weeks ago that the digging up of the field was to commence last week.

"It will take 6-8 weeks to put it down."

Right now, Cranford's first three football scrimmage dates are on the road - at New Brunswick Aug. 25, at Pompton Lakes Aug. 28 and at Mendham Aug. 31.

The Cougars are scheduled to host Somerville on Sept. 4 at 7 p.m. in their game-scrimmage - provided the FieldTurf will be ready by then.

"If it's not ready, then we will have the scrimmage at Somerville," Taglieri said.

Cranford's first three games are scheduled at home, with the first one Sept. 12 at 7 p.m. against Scotch Plains. Taglieri said there will be opening ceremonies to kick off Cranford's first game on its FieldTurf.

"We've not set any definite plans yet, but the first game against Scotch Plains is when we would do that," Taglieri said.

Cranford will then host Hillside Sept. 17 at 7 p.m. and North Plainfield Sept. 25 at 7 p.m. before going on the road for the first time to face Rahway on Oct. 3 at 2 p.m. at Veterans Field.

schedules, although the first SAT Saturday of the football season is not until Oct. 10.

Cranford, which is the 10th school in Union County to get FieldTurf, has five of its nine scheduled regular season games at home this season.

Other home dates are Oct. 16 against Summitat 7 p.m. and Oct. 30 vs. Governor Livingston at 7 p.m.

Cranford will play nine straight weekends and not on Thanksgiving this year.

Cranford remains in Central Jersey, Group 2 for football this season.

The Cougars will play at Voorhees Nov. 6 at 7 p.m. on the state playoff cutoff date weekend, but their The moment the Cranford High School athletic eighth and final game that counts toward attempting to qualify in CJ, G2 for the first time since 2004 will be their contest against GL the week before.

Voorhees is the team Cranford defeated 28-21 in the first round of the 2003 North 2, Group 2 playoffs for the Cougars' first-ever playoff victory.

The move to FieldTurf has been a long process for the Cranford athletic department.

"It was three-and-a-half years of meetings and negotiations between the town and FieldTurf," Taglieri said.

"Interest groups from Cranford came on board and it became a joint venture.

"I would like to thank the Cranford PAL, the Cranford Boosters Club, the Cranford Jaycees, the Cranford Soccer Club and the Cranford Lacrosse Club for their efforts."

Taglieri explained that the Cranford Board of Education committed to $40,000 a year, with other groups providing funds to make up the balance on the bond issue.

"Several other private donations have been made by Cranford residents," Taglieri added.

After seeing how nearby towns such as Linden, Westfield, Clark and Scotch Plains have benefited from putting the FieldTurf down on their football fields, it was time for Cranford to make its move.

"We won't miss any practice time - for all of our The game is listed as a 2 p.m. start on both sports - and it will certainly reduce the number of cancellations," Taglieri said. "It got to the point where we were in the minority for not having it.

> "We want to give our kids the same opportunities. It was time for Cranford, the community, the school and the township to step up and everybody did."

rates and affordable prices of make small purchases a few times a today's real estate market offer year. great opportunities for buyers.

step is to learn more about their can have on their loan eligibility. In particular, prospective buyers who may have concerns about their credit score can benefit from finding out if there are any obstacles they need to overcome on their way to homeownership.

To improve your credit score and qualify for better mortgage programs at better interest rates, Weichert Financial Services offers these tips:

• Check and review your credit report. Since a credit score, which is determined by a borrower's billpaying history and debt profile, is the biggest factor a lender uses when considering a borrower, buyers should start by looking for problem areas and any errors on their report.

· Keep your credit card balances low. Since approximately 30 percent of a borrower's score is determined based on a ratio of the amount that is owed in relation to their available credit, a buyer should keep credit card balances as close to zero as possible. A great way to keep balances low is to make a payment right after any big purchases.

· Keep your cards active. No activity on credit cards can lead to cards being closed so it is important cards on a regular basis to show at usage. A good way to do this with- www.weichert.com.

The historically low interest out incurring high balances is to · Pay your bills on time. Timing For those thinking about pur- is really everything. Lenders also chasing a home, an important first consider when bills are paid. In fact, payment history counts for 35 credit score and the direct impact it percent of a borrower's credit score. If you anticipate having a problem paying on time, contact your credit-card company immediately. To avoid late payments, consider setting up a monthly email reminder or an automatic payment system.

· Avoid opening new cards. To improve their credit score a borrower should avoid applying for new cards. Having too many active cards can have a negative effect on your credit score in the short term and keeping track of purchases and bill due dates of several credit cards can be difficult.

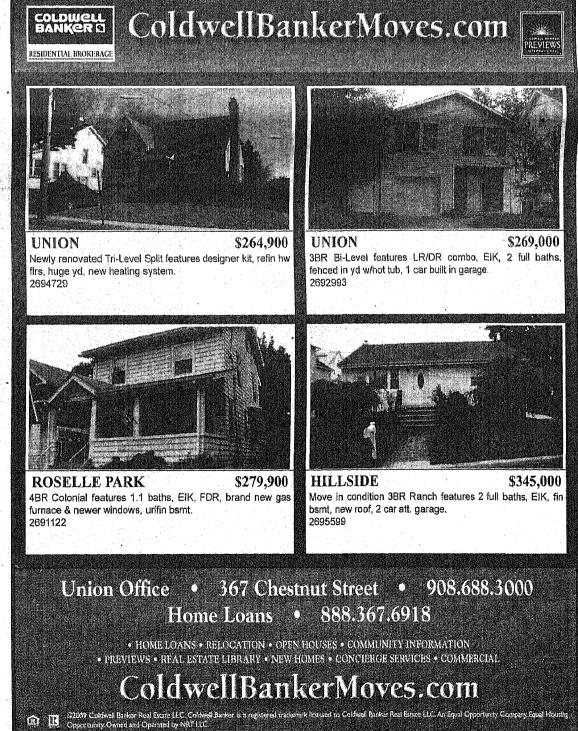

Although some offers come with discounts that are appealing, fight the temptation. In the long run, it will help strengthen your credit score.

To learn more about your credit rating and ways to improve your credit score, call or visit a gold services manager at one of Weichert's neighborhood offices. These financial representatives will personally review your credit file and put you in the best position possible to become a homeowner by providing a custom plan to help raise your credit score through the use of Credit Assure, a unique service developed by CreditXpert Inc.

Company to assist with job placement

Snelling Staffing of Summit has announced the launch of its "Outplacement Initiative" to assist recently laid-off workers in New Jersey.

The initiative, which includes the establishment of an Outplacement Division, will call for Snelling to support displaced employees of downsizing companies by helping them find new employment. The decision to expand the service is attributed to the increasing amount of New Jersey companies cutting down their staff.

"Downsizing is an unfortunate circumstance that affects the entire company," said Marilyn Richards, executive vice president and Outplacement Division director of Snelling Staffing. "Our goal is to be proactive and offer assistance to all parties during an unpleasant situation."

The outplacement service ultimately aims to give laid-off workers the tools needed to find new positions in a competitive market. The program provides discussion groups, strategies and workshops for exiting employees. Additionally, cover letter revision, resume review, interview coaching and personalized marketing planning are all included in the service.

For information about Snelling Staffing Services, call 908-273-6500 or visit www.snelling.com/summit.

From left, volunteers Rebecca Deczynski, Silvana Paradiso and Daniel Murphy work to restore a portion of Hanson Park in Cranford. The project was made possible by a $3,000 Lowe's Toolbox for Education grant.

Grant used to help beautify local park

Wikipedia describes Cranford as unfolding "from the banks of the meandering Rahway River," and as the "Venice of New Jersey." A $3,000 Lowe's Toolbox for Education/ PTO Today Grant is helping volunteers from Cranford Public Park Conservancy keep the Rahway River's "meandering" riverbanks healthy and "Venice" beautiful. Specifically, the grant, authored by Stephen F. Izzo, the specialist, is helping volunteers from Cranford High School and important areas adjacent to the trees.
