Planting roots, growing love

HOW DOES HIS GARDEN GROW? — Since he arrived in the United States from Italy, Sal Zotti has cultivated a sprawling garden in the backyard of his Springfield home. Clockwise from top: Zotti sets aside a few vegetables that he will use to harvest seeds for next year's garden; blackberries grow in abundance along a backyard fence; flowers grow throughout Zotti's backyard; pear trees overflow with fruit that will soon be harvested.

By Cheryl Hehl Staff Writer

SPRINGFIELD - When Salvadore Zotti came to this country from Italy in 1966, he brought his wife Rosa, two small children and $300 in his wallet. Although at first he refused to let his wife unpack, as time went on, their roots here became as firmly planted as the garden he began in his backyard in

It was not easy for Zotti and wife Rosa to leave the little town of Paupisi in the region of Benevento outside Naples to come to a country where they did not even know the language. In fact, even though Zotti's father and mother were here, America was a world away from Italy and everything familiar. Nothing would be easy for this young family, but as time went on they adjusted.

Zotti's oldest daughter, Maria, just 4 years old when they arrived here, could not speak a word of Jake, just an infant at the time, was painter and a construction worker.

lucky to learn both English and Italian as he grew.

The first few years Zotti, a English when she started school but farmer by trade, worked as a

Eventually he was offered a job in the maintenance department at Brayton Elementary School in Summit. While he admits working inside was not something he was fond of at first, given his love of the outdoors, Zotti immediately saw that his green thumb could be put to very good use.

"When I came there to the school, the grounds were like a forest and I made them beautiful," he explains, his thick Italian accent dancing off each word.

In 1972, Zotti and Rosa bought their first home on Marion Street in Springfield. More importantly, this former tiller of the land saw an opportunity to turn a simple backyard into a Garden of Eden.

"First I had to have three gigantic trees cut down and that cost me $3,000," Zotti explains, adding See SPRINGFIELD, Page 4

Town will switch to state health benefits

By Cheryl Hehl Staff Writer

SPRINGFIELD — The township will tighten its budget belt a few more notches this fall by switching to a health benefits plan that could save taxpayers $1 million.

Mayor Ziad Shehady said this week the township has been investigating ways to cut additional costs and joining the state health benefits plan is one way to accomplish that goal.

"The state plan is a great health plan, it has wonderful coverage and by going with it we can give taxpayers more property tax relief," the mayor said, adding that township retiree's are on the plan and they are happy with it.

The change from Oxford, the township's current provider, to the state plan will affect all 137 township employees, including union members. But, while this could present a problem with negotiations, Shehady said the township is putting $100,000 in reserve so there is no gap in health coverage.

The gap in coverage, the mayor explained, is due to the fact that the state plan only covers up to 80 percent of the cost to see doctors outside the coverage network. Shehady said he understood that many employees might want to stay with physicians they have been going to who are not in the network, but the township had to make choices that overall are cost effective and provide employees with additional benefits that Oxford offered, but at a very high cost. For instance, the state plan provides more extensive coverage for catastrophic illnesses while the Oxford plan has a $1 million cap on bills.

"We want the best coverage for our township employees while keeping it cost effective for our taxpayers and the state plan does that for us," Shehady said.

Township Administrator Anthony Cancro agreed completely, pointing to the fact that the township is in the process of negotiating new contracts with police fire and public works unions and the township has to be able to provide comparable health benefit coverage.

"We have to balance things so we provide excellent benefits to our employees and save our residents money at the same time," Cancro said.

The new plan will be effective Nov. 1, Cancro said, but unionized employees will be entitled to their existing coverage through the end of the year because of their contracts.

Firefighter loved life, cherished famil

MOUNTAINSIDE - Smiling, happy, helpful, a hero and extremely dedicated to his family. Those are just a few of the ways those who knew Firefighter James Pfeiffer described him as they struggled to cope with the shock of his sudden death Sunday night.

Less than two weeks after celebrating both his wedding anniversary and his 30th birthday, Pfeiffer succumbed to injuries he suffered during a freak accident outside his Mountainside home Sunday morning. A Westfield firefighter and former member of the Cranford First Aid Squad, Pfeiffer was

A funeral for Pfeiffer, accompanied by a fire department honor guard, is scheduled for this morning at 10:30 a.m. at St. James the Apostle Church, 45 South Springfield Avenue in Springfield.

A 1998 graduate of Cranford high school, Pfeiffer is survived by his wife Christine and their 1-year-old daughter, Carly as well as his parents, James and June, and a younger sis-

Mayor: Linden municipal budget 'extremely late'

By Paul Greulich Staff Writer

awaited 2010 budget hit another roadblock last week at a meeting that saw the rejection of the $95.1 million spending plan by council members concerned about a tax increase of more than 15 percent.

The 7-4 vote sent the budget back to the Finance Committee, which was criticized by Mayor Richard Gerbounka.

"Extremely late is an understatement," said Gerbounka of the adopted in April.

Council President Robert Bunk, who sits on the Finance Committee and voted in favor of the budget, said it had seen drastic cuts.

This budget that we have now is a 2004 budget," Bunk said. "We've cut everything we can possibly cut out of that budget."

$48.6 million to be raised in taxes, said there is no time remaining to LINDEN — The city's long- up from $42 million last year. If implement such dramatic changes. approved at that amount, the budget will result in a municipal property tax increase of $344 for the owner of a home assessed at the city's $140,600 average.

Finance officials cited reductions in state aid by almost $3 million and increases in benefits and pensions by $3.2 million as the biggest factors contributing to the tax increase

Zack said the state aid to the city budget, which is traditionally has decreased by $4.3 million total since 2007 and all public employees except police and fire took no salary increase in 2009 and 2010.

Officials said significant tax relief can only be achieved by resorting to furloughs and layoffs tactics being implemented by many other municipalities in the state. Councilman Robert Frazier,

The proposed budget calls for who voted in favor of the budget,

"To vote it down is ludicrous," Frazier said.

Gerbounka denounced the majority of the council for opposing a budget that is beyond help a move he believes was taken to "make points with the electorate."

Frazier said he expects the Finance Committee to review the budget, but is unsure what action can be taken.

"I don't know if they can make further cuts on it, but I think it will be a total review on it and we'll see where we go from there," Frazier

Gerbounka said the state might fine the city or opt to take charge of the late budget itself, though at present nothing is certain.

Zack said the council members who voted against the spending plan could potentially be fined $25 a day from their personal incomes until a budget is adopted.

"It's a wait and see attitude that we never should have allowed ourselves to be in," Gerbounka said. "We have to forget about the 2010 budget - we blew it."

The rocky budget process has led to discussion of changing the city's form of government to allow the mayor to play a greater role in financial matters. The city's Wildwood Act-based charter gives the mayor minimal involvement in preparing the budget compared to charters established under the Faulkner Act.

whether more involvement from the mayor might have averted the present situation.

Gerbounka supports the more common Faulkner Act charter, by which the mayor formulates and proposes the budget to the council.

"I will assume total responsibility," Gerbounka said. "The buck will stop with me. I will be accountable, not four people who can point fingers at each other."

Linden's finance records evaluated by auditors

By Paul Greulich Staff Writer

LINDEN - The annual audit report of Linden's finances during the period of 2008 to 2009 is complete and awaiting a vote from the governing body.

City Auditor Supplee Clooney, a Westfield-based firm of public accountants, has outlined a corrective action plan intended to improve local finances. Details of the plan include:

· That all Departmental receipts be deposited within 48 hours per

· That the balance in the neighborhood Preservation Escrow Account be analyzed and any uncompleted project funds be returned to the County of Union.

· That the Municipal Court: Investigate old reconciling items and take appropriate action to remove it from the bank reconciliations; investigate credit card charge backs and reopen the tickets as appropriate; reconcile the detailed list of open traffic and criminal bails to the amount on deposit; review all outstanding tickets and complaints for proper disposition. The audit did not include any review of the city budget. By law, the council must pass a resolution affirming that they have seen the audit and approving the corrective action plan.

Chief Financial Officer Alexis Zack said she worked with the auditor in crafting the corrective measures, which she said were not exten-

Springfield resident turns his backyard into 'Garden of Eden'

him a blank canvas to plant the garden of his dreams. And so Zotti began to plant seeds and trees of all kinds. A peach tree there, a pear tree in that spot by the walkway, fig, quince and hazelnut trees toward the back of the yard and blackberries all along the side

As the years went by, Zotti's garden grew and so did his family. He and Rosa welcomed their third child, a baby girl named Mina, to the fold and life in America was good. After work, Zotti tended his garden and Rosa marveled at her husband's gift for growing anything he planted. Year after year the trees grew more lush and full and the vegetable garden more bountiful. But it was the trees that left everyone in awe, his daughter Maria said.

All bear fruit, but some, like the pear trees, are so incredible that one can only gaze in wonderment at the size. The slight rosy hue that tinges each pear reminds one of a baby's cheek in the heat of summer while the blackberries are so huge they seem almost artificial.

Slightly more than halfway down the modest backyard, there is an area fenced where just vegetables are grown. There, succulent, sweet tomatoes like those in his native land grow year after year along with huge squash, hybrid cucumbers, corn and peppers of all kinds and a host of other garden delights.

In another area to the side of the vegetable garden, is the "tropical" area where lemons the size of baseballs hang from one tree while a few feet away a grapefruit tree is not bearing any fruit this year but Zotti is not worried in the least.

"She's resting this year; next year she will have fruit again," he said, pointing in the distance to a peach tree that is swollen with fruit.

Pots of lime-colored basil and oregano share space with other herbs, which Rosa uses in her special 'gravy," that she makes with Zotti's tomatoes.

"My wife, she makes her gravy from these tomatoes, these herbs," Zotti said with pride for the woman he married 49 years ago last Friday.

But Zotti also has a knack for making something on his own and that is a rich, red wine that he takes pride in serving for special visitors to their home. Each year in October, he explains, he makes wine in a sideroom of the garage. But first, Zotti stresses, the grapes must be pressed and set aside to ferment until it is time to make the wine."

Retired now after 27 years working for the Summit School District, Zotti admits it was difficult to leave. But, like so many things, he said, change is inevitable.

'Everybody changed but me," he quips, pointing out that the kids grow up, the teachers leave for various reasons and not much stays the same except for the school itself.

Zotti is proud that there is a bench on the grounds of the school with his name on it.

That way they will never forget that I was there," he adds with a chuckle and twinkle of the eye.

"Yes, this was a good life here in America, the vegetables and the fruit trees grow good here," Zotti said, adding that it is the soil in New Jersey that makes everything grow bigger and better. It's not long before he is up and headed toward one of his trees to pull a few more pieces of perfect fruit.

'I love my garden and my family," Zotti says, gazing at his wife. Rosa smiles at her husband, nodding her head in agreement, loving eyes a testament to everything they have sowed together over the years.

e arrested at local checkpoint

Throughout the operation more than 270 vehicles were stopped, resulting in a total of 56 summonses and eight vehicle impoundment offenses.

Seven people were arrested for driving while intoxicated, one was charged with possession of marijuana and two more arrests stemmed from a car chase down the Garden State Parkway. At 3:20 a.m., a Ford Explorer approached the checkpoint, initially obeying police When instructions to stop. As Osorto fled the scene, Gaylord leapt into Patrolman Nicholas Vaughan's patrol car.

Police activated their sirens and attempted to stop the vehicle, which accelerated from the scene and onto the Garden State Parkway. Police pursued the suspect southbound through the Sayreville toll plaza. Osorto stopped just past exit 125, where he and his passenger were apprehended without inci-

Abad also cut his hand chasing McDuffie over a fence.

With the aid of a drug-sniffing dog, police were able to locate 12 small, plastic bags under a bush in the rear yard of a home on Lindegar Street, apparently discarded by McDuffie during his flight. · James Lamar Carter, 44, of Rahway was arrested on Aug. 19 at 9:55 p.m. on Rose Parkway after crashing into a marked police vehicle on East Saint Georges Avenue.

Sgt. Alvaro Goncalves suffered minor injuries when his vehicle was struck from behind by a 1995 Ford Contour. The Ford also struck an illuminated yellow arrow board prior to striking the police vehicle.

A second officer working further down the street heard the impact and observed the Ford, with fresh body damage, fleeing the site of the accident. Police pursued the suspect vehicle through several stop signs before it turned onto Rose Parkway, a dead-end street, and was trapped.

Carter was charged with eluding police, assault with a motor vehicle, driving while intoxicated, leaving the scene of an accident, reckless driving, and failure to stop at a stop sign. The arrest was made by Officer Ian Conk.

Sgt. Goncalves was treated at Robert Wood Johnson University Hospital at Rahway for pain to his back and neck, and released.

FAT CATS AND LIVER DISEASE

Being overweight puts cats at risk for many health issues. One serious problem is hepatic lipidosis, or fatty liver syndrome. Fatty liver syndrome occurs when an overweight cat stops eating for some reason such as the stress of a new situation like being boarded or moving to a new home. Cats must have protein in their diet or their bodies will start breaking down proteins from other places like the muscles and the liver. The liver normally uses protein to process fat, but lacking protein all the liver can do is store fat, which leads to liver failure In a cat with an excessive amount of fat, this can be a deadly problem occurring within 36 hours of not eating.

A little preventative care now will protect your pet's liver and life span. If you would like to discuss your pet's specific needs please contact TLC PET DOCTOR, Located at 1326 Stuyvesant ave., Union, we can discuss how you can help to prevent mold from poisoning your pets. Bring your cat to our clinic for a thorough examination. Call 908-686-7080 with any questions or to schedule an appointment. From surgery to basic nail clipping, we want to help ensure that your furry friend is as happy and healthy as can be. We provide complete companion animals care, including dental care, and x-ray services. We will always do our best to keep your pet healthy with the most up to date care.

P.S. Because fatty liver syndrome can occur so fast, bring any cat who refuses to cat to the veterinarian promptly.

Union explores new alert system

By Cheryl Hehl Staff Writer

UNION - If the township agrees to sign on to a new alert system, your next text message could be from local police.

The township is exploring using Nixle, a new information system that provides critical information to subscribing residents through text messaging and e-mail. Towns like Cranford and Hillside are already using Nixle, while others, like Union are in the early stages of discussing the merits of the program.

According to Township Assistant Business Administrator Ron Manzella, the township had a presentation on Nixle and met with the county to discuss moving forward with this latest tech-

"This would get information to residents in a timely manner," he explained, adding that in addition to Nixle being used to notify residents of emergencies and events in the township, it also will be a boon for municipal government.

"We can use it as part of our infrastructure notification, for example, if we need to call back DPW trucks," the business administrator explained.

Although the township is interested in moving forward with this type of technology, Manzella said they were waiting until after September when children are back in school and vacations are over.

The best time for the Township Committee to discuss this is when the kids are back in school, this way residents can watch it on TV34 and the information can get out to a broader audience," he said, adding that the township administrator will be briefing the governing body on the entire program very shortly.

Nixle is calling their alert system "America'snew community information service," and a way to connect communities. Police departments and municipalities alike are using social networking and mobile phone technology to ing or e-mail. Standard text messaging rates, keep residents informed about school closing to however, will apply when users receive alerts.

flooding emergencies and community events.

The way Nixle works is all about changing technology, Manzella said, pointing out that because people are using cell phones and text messaging more often, this service keeps pace with the changing landscape of communication.

Nixle is a free service that was founded in 2007 and based in Mt. Laurel. More than 3,500 police departments, including New York City, now use the service. While Hillside just began using the service in February, other towns like Madison and Chatham are finding it difficult to get residents to sign on to the service.

Residents will have to register for Nixle if they want to receive alerts or information about township events, but the company only distributes messages posted by authorized users. Subscribers also will have the option of selecting what agencies contact them, and how those alerts are received, either through text messag-

Administrator takes district 'back to basics

UNION — Students returning to school are in for more work as new Superintendent Patrick Martin prepares to implement two major initiatives.

Each grade level will be assigned a simple, one-page list of proficiencies for math and language arts. These items are nonnegotiable standards the students must meet in order to progress to the next grade. Students will be tested at the middle and end of each year to make sure they have qualified to move ahead.

A second initiative involves more rigorous reading and writing. Students will be Union was selected as one of the best school

"They're going to have to read every night, write and face tough proficiency tests to prove they know their stuff," Martin said.

Students will also be taught cursive hand-

Martin said many school districts have shown a tendency to be lured away from the basics of education by high-speed computers, science equipment and gymnasiums.

"The trick is the basics," Martin said. "We forget about the all-encompassing power of children who just know their facts."

Martin does not anticipate a lot of students being held back by the stricter standards he proposes.

"Frankly I think they're going to rise to the stricter standards," Martin said.

Martin said a low graduation rate is more about these subjects.

"I'm not so keen on guaranteeing every student graduates from our high school," Martin said. "I'm more interested in making sure our students have the necessary foundation and are reading and writing at their grade levels."

Martin said if these basic goals are met year to year, graduation will follow naturally.

School officials do not expect resistance from the community, noting that teachers and parents are supportive of the initiatives. Martin said parents are welcome to contact him

Union students will be on camera

Staff Writer

UNION - When Union High School students head back to class next month, they better be ready to smile because they will be on camera wherever they go inside the school.

Thanks to the COPS Secure Our Schools federal grant program, the Union Police Department was able to qualify for a $138,000 grant to install state-of-the-art cameras throughout the high school. But this is no ordinary camera system, according to Union Deputy Police Chief Rick Landolfi.

"If there is an incident at the high school, this is a web-based camera system that is hooked up to our police car laptops," the deputy chief said.

But while the new camera system installed this summer provides an added measure of safety, Landolfi points out that other than minor scuffles, the high school usually does not have major incidents that require police aid.

"We always have a resource officer inside the school to handle any problems that do come up, but this new camera system is just another way to ensure that if something does happen, we will know about it in seconds," the deputy chief, who has been on the force 32 years, said.

It was no easy feat to acquire the grant, Landolfi said, but getting all those cameras in the high school was a monumental task.

"There are tons of cameras everywhere," he said, mentioning that positioning the cameras throughout the school so every nook and cranny was covered took time.

"We just want the kids to he safe and know when something is going wrong, if it does," Landolfi said.

The COPS Secure Our Schools program encourages law enforcement agencies and school districts to partner together to improve school security and safety. Township police had to conduct a school safety assessment and request funding for specific safety improvement on school grounds. In turn, the federally-funded $16 million grant program provided police departments across the country who qualified for the grant with up to 50 percent of the total cost to put in place security or safety measures in schools.

"We just want to keep our kids safe and be there quickly if something should happen at the high school," Landolfi said.

Money pit

Your tax dollars are quietly being flushed right down the drain by an authority that few residents even know exists.

From the construction of a $30 million cogeneration plant that has been dubbed "worthless" to elaborately catered dinners for its commissioners, the Rahway Valley Sewerage Authority has turned into, what Clark Mayor Sal Bonnacorso fears is a "money pit" funded by taxpayers dollars. As of right now, his assessment is spot-on. But the wasteful spending is just the beginning. Last month, the 11 member towns that use the wastewater sewerage service learned that rates could increase by 17 percent next year. And that's just one drop in the bucket. The RVSA's overspending has also resulted in a surplus that is being hoarded by the authority, rather than being returned to the municipalities. But, wait, there's more.

Draining taxpayers' wallets further are bills in excess of $1 million from the auditing firm that was hired to find out why the cogen plant was dubbed "worthless." Cipolla & Co., a certified public accounting and litigation firm was charged with looking into what went wrong before, during and after the costly and inoperable cogen plant was built. So, residents are paying more than $1 million to get told what many people already suspected about the cogen plant - that it may never be operable.

But what's almost as disturbing as the wasteful spending is the lack of protest on the part of the local mayors whose towns pay fees to the RVSA. There are, of course, exceptions such as Sal Bonnacorso in Clark, James Kennedy in Rahway and Woodbridge Mayor John McCormac. Otherwise, local leaders have shown little dissension regarding the RVSA's failure to act with fiduciary responsibility.

We've heard even less from the commissioners who represent the member towns on the RVSA board. Whether they're failing to attend RVSA meetings or report back to their towns about the way the authority is spending taxpayer dollars, one thing is clear: the majority of these commissioners are not adequately doing what they were appointed to by their mayors, which is to represent their communities and act as watchdogs on the RVSA board.

Next month, a bill proposed by Assemblywoman Linda Stender, D-Union, to regulate authorities throughout the state, will go before the state legislature for approval. It may help stabilize the high fees paid by municipalities but it will do little to stop the arrogance of the RVSA. If more action isn't taken by mayors and commissioners, the authority will continue to be a drain on local coffers.

HONORING 'BUTCHIE' - The Linden Department of Public Property and Community Services sponsored the third annual George 'Butchie' Scoles Fishing Derby at the Pond in Wilson Park. legend and 'always a friend

Anthony Russo lost a good friend last week. The Union Township political patriarch got the call from Georgia that baseball legend Bobby Thompson had passed. "I hadn't spoken to him in two weeks and I had noticed recently the weakness in his voice." Russo said.

Over the past 25 years, a friendship had developed between the men including frequent visits and weekly calls. Initially Russo, an avid follower of 40s and 50s baseball and the man who hit the most famous homerun in the sport — the "shot heard 'round the world" giving the Giants the 1951 National League Pennant spoke about old times.

Russo can reel off amazing facts about New York baseball which mrasdy Thrompson. That and binon mayor and state senator last week, for example, said that fire brand Leo Durocher was a "great manager but an average ball player."

For the rest of his life after Oct. 3, 1951, Thompson rarely went a day without someone describing where they were when he hit the home run to left field at the Polo Grounds. Recent articles in the Wall Street Journal that the Giants used a military telescope to steal signals and a book last year using forensic skills to determine who caught the sacred ball only added to the allure. It turned out a nun from Buffalo caught the ball. The best bet is she gave it to a grade school student in New Mexico where she retired. If the ball had been recovered in today's memorabilia market it would be worth a cool million dol-

The Thompson-Russo friendship was more than baseball. Russo was an advisor and source of comfort when the ex-ballplayer buried his son, the victim of heart disease. The painful arthritis which plagued Thompson was a frequent point of discussion.

By Frank Capece

"He was always a polite gentle-man, always a friend." Russo said last week. A few years ago, Russo sat in the Watchung living room as Thompson packed up and prepared to move near his daughter in Georgia. The two men reminisced.

Thompson was active at the Plainfield County Club and hospital charities in Union County. He was partial to La Catena in Roselle Park. One night, I got up the nerve to ask him about the sign stealing. He denied stealing a sign that day, saying the broken ankle of teammate Don Mueller just before he came to the plate, along with the pressure of the moment were the only two things on his mind before he swung the bat that day. He also helped me impress a client in Colorado with a personalized autograph.

This past week from the famous to the just plan average, the homerun become secondary to the consistent remembrance of a very good man. Quite an obituary in deed.

Ease restrictions, save money

The state's Sewerage Authority Association — there really is such a thing - has banded together to cut costs. The group has filed a petition with the State Department of Environmental Protection to ease off on what they consider unnecessary reguby the courts and passed on to tax-

Ellen Gulbinsky, the impressive executive director of the Association of Environmental Authorities said, "We're asking that sewer authorities can only have relief if they can show there's no impact on drinking water.

This measure deserves some serious consideration for support by our municipal leaders.

The clean up begins

State Department of Transportation officials stopped at exit 49B on Route 78 in Springfield last week. They picked the spot to highlight the 'Clean up New Jersey" program.

In the fight against vegetation growth spokesman Tim Greeley said, Instead of having one crew cover a half, mila coction, and another, recen three miles up the road, we bring in four to six crews in a concentrated attack on areas recommended to us. We get the most out of our resources without any added burden to taxpayers." Definitely sounds like a plan.

Tom Kean Jr. told us so

State Sen. Thomas Kean Jr. had every right to say he told us so. An alarming report by the State Comptroller last week highlighted the pitfalls in so called development "PILOTS." PILOT stands for "payment in lieu of taxes." The result of these deals is that developers avoid paying taxes to schools and counties s part of a construction deal.

Kean said it quite well. "The current arrangement has the impact of starving urban school systems of local funding and leaving state taxpayers to pick up the tab through an unfair school funding formula that short changes many communities."

Kean has pending legislation requiring that schools and counties get their fair share of the revenue.

OP ED

'It's not discrimination, it's natural'

Several weeks have passed since the Perry v. Schwarzenegger decision in which Judge Vaughan Walker's rhetoric and arguments overturned the votes of 6.8 million California voters. This case has the potential to have great magnitude on the underpinnings of our Republic. This is judicial tyranny in its highest form. The starkness of Judge Walker's departure from the rule of law, in this case, is deeply disconcerting.

"The evidence shows that, by every available metric, oppositesex couples are not better than their same-sex counterparts; instead, as partners, parents and citizens, opposite-sex couples and same-sex couples are equal," Walker wrote in his exacting, 136-page opinion. What planet is this judge living on?

Let me give the judge one readily available metric, biology. No, opposite sex couples are not and do not claim to be "superior" as Judge Walker suggested, but heterosexual couples sure are different than same-sex couples. In fact, many social science studies have indicated that children, on average, have better outcomes, in a healthy family consisting of their biological mom and dad. Does this indict single parents, adopted families, divorced homes, or same-sex couple homes? No it does not for there are in all cases exceptions to the rule. But, when it comes to public policy, we should for the benefit of the common good, hold up the Gold Standard. For this issue that is marriage as the union of one man and one woman.

One of the core issues put forth by those seeking to radically redefine marriage is that the law has taken away from them the right to marry. Quite the contrary, all homosexuals and lesbians still have that right. It has not been taken away from them. But, there is one qualification that they choose not to meet and that is to marry a person of the opposite sex. So in essence what they want is a "special" right to do so with a person of the same gender. Seeing their plight, legislators in New Jersey have given them 100 percent of rights and responsibilities that the state grants to married couples though the Civil Union

Point

By Len Deo

Since the enactment of the Civil Union law, same-sex activists have claimed the law is not working, that it is not providing the rights that they believe they are entitled to. Let's look at the facts, which are very revealing. In New Jersey, with a current population of 8.6 million, about 250,000 of that number self identify as lesbians, gay, bi-sexual and trans-gendered LGBT citizens. As of Aug. 8 in New Jersey there were 4,742 civil unions recorded by the state. As of the same ending date, only 12 official complaints to the NJ Civil Rights Division have been filed. Nine of those complaints were resolved. This notion that civil unions are not working cannot be factually substantiated by anyone.

Tom Moran states in one of his Star-Ledger editorials that "at its core, opposition to gay marriage is rooted in the ugly notion that gay unions are inferior." That assertion is dead wrong. The core of opposition to gay "marriage" is rooted in the notion that gay unions are different. There is no way that two men or two women can bring to a relationship the same emotional, mental, biological and spiritual aspects that the joining of male and female in marriage brings.

As Paul Mulshine, who also writes for the Star-Ledger pointed out in his column, the proper extension of where this is heading would be to allow those who claim to be bi-sexual to "marry" two people. Then what about polygamists, wouldn't their right to marry include multiple people as well. We can see where this is going and it is

I believe at the root of what is happening here is a deep anxiety and deep longing for total acceptance of one's behavior. That longing to be the same has lead us to where we are today, to the point of an activist group of people who now desire to radically redefine the word "marriage" and attach to it an arrangement that can never be mar-

Words do have meaning, and to us who believe marriage to mean what it has since the dawn of creation, we are passionately dedicated to fight for marriage to remain as the exclusive union of one man and one woman. That is not discrimination, it is natural. Finally, I close on this thought: "to those who say as enlightened people we must open marriage to all sorts of combinations, I say you cannot redefine that which you did not create." Ultimately, God has something to do with this, and all of the world's major religious give credence to that.

Make three changes

To the Editor:

Abraham Lincoln said, "It often requires more courage to dare to do right, than fear to do wrong.'

There are three things the city of Linden must accomplish to avoid another budget debacle.

1. During Linden City Council meetings, multiple agencies are available for questioning from both Council members and private citizens. Examples are the Linden Fire Department, Linden Police Department, Department of Public Works, among others. Lacking though are any members from the current nine-member Linden Board of Education. Since the Linden educational costs consume a majority of the city's budget, it is imperative for a Linden Board of Education member to appear at City Council meetings, to field questions. It is suggested a Board of Education member give up one night per year for such questions, with the exception of the summer months of June, July and August.

2. Establish a non-binding public referendum to run concurrent with the annual School Budget Referendum; where thousands of Linden citizens, can openly express their opinion. Resolved, should there be a combined total salary and benefit cap of $100,000, per year for any member of Linden government, or a party employed by the city of Linden?

3. Those individuals running for mayor for the year 2011, namely Mayor Richard J. Gerbounka and Councilman Derek Armstead, should mutually consent to nominate Councilman Richard Koziol as chairman of the Finance and Personnel Department. Mr. Kozisuccessful elevation to that position would introduce professionalism, leadership and reliability, commodities that have not been fully pronounced by the current chairman of that position.

Information was 'skewed'

I recently read a well-written article in Union County LocalSource titled "Gov. Christie may reduce the cost for OPRA requests," Aug. 5, by Cheryl Hehl about lowering the cost of OPRA. In the last paragraph, Cranford Republican Committeewoman Tina Renna says she is grateful to "one" former freeholder, Adrian Mapp, for helping to lower OPRA fees in Union County.

By deliberately singling Mr. Mapp out, and ignoring the work of the measure's sponsor, Freeholder Deborah Scanlon and the six other freeholders who were in attendance that night and supported the measure, Ms. Renna - whose husband is a dismissed county employee - once again provides the public with skewed information about county government.

Happy centennial, CPL

The Cranford Public Library first opened for business on Aug. 15, 1910, thus making 2010 the library's centennial year.

Earlier in the year, the Friends of the Cranford Public Library hosted a formal celebration that featured guest speakers, among them, Assemblyman Jon Bramnick, Union County Freeholder Bette Jane Kowalski, Cranford Mayor Mark Smith, Cranford Library Board President Patricia Pavlak, Cranford Historical Society Trustee and former Cranford Library Board President Robert Fridlington, and Friends of the Cranford Public Library President Gerard Paradiso.

The celebration also featured entertainment by the Cranford High School Madrigal Choir and the Cranford High School Jazz Ensemble. It was surely a wonderful afternoon, but probably more enjoyable for adults than for children. In order to strike a balance, the Friends of the Library were good enough to sponsor yet another celebration on Aug. 14 - a library birthday party for the younger set and their families. The party, which featured a balloon sculptor, a face painter and cupcakes galore, went from 9:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. and the turnout was stupendous.

We owe a great deal of thanks to a number of people for making the birthday party so much fun for one and all. First and foremost, we would like to thank the Friends of the Library for their generous sponsorship of the party.

Many thanks, also, to Friends members, Madeline and Ted Spitz and to Jennifer Musillo for their help at the party. We also want to thank Cranford's Vanilla Bean Creamery for its donation of a gorgeous and absolutely delicious ice cream cake. Greg, the balloon sculptor, provided by the Mad Hatters, was a true artist, and the children who attended were absolutely delighted with his creations. In addition, we are especially thankful to face painter Bea Tobolewski, a Cranford mom, who, along with her daughters, is a frequent visitor to the library. Bea's paintings were awesome, as the kids say. Bea's daughters, Maya and Olivia, also helped out, so, many thanks to them as well. We can safely say that, owing to the efforts of all those mentioned above, the library experienced a truly happy birthday.

A positive experience

With the start of the school year and with National Grandparents Day coming up on Sept. 12, we, at Sage Eldercare thought it would be a good time to thank our friends at Lincoln-Hubbard Elementary School in Summit for their ongoing commitment to helping seniors, and to encourage other young people, families and organizations to enjoy and learn from the company of our senior citizens.

Sage has had a long and mutually beneficial relationship with the Lincoln-Hubbard community. From school food drives for Sage's Portable Pantry, to girl scouts putting on a talent show for Sage's Spend-A-Day clients and donating and delivering cookies to Meals-On-Wheels clients, to a fun and educational sensitivity training program, Lincoln-Hubbard students, administrators and parents have brightened the lives of many seniors.

The development of the sensitivity training program is a perfect example of how a bright idea followed by a collaborative effort can result in an innovative program. Lincoln-Hubbard parents wanted to give the fifth graders a community service experience that would allow them to interact with seniors. In discussions with us at SAGE, the idea of a sensitivity training program emerged.

The fifth-graders came to Sage and engaged in two activities: interacting with our Spend-A-Day clients and an activity during which the students tried to accomplish everyday tasks while wearing glasses smeared with petroleum jelly to mimic visual deterioration, wearing plastic gloves with fingers taped together to mimic arthritis and having cotton balls in their ears to mimic hearing loss. The students learned to better understand the effects of aging and how much fun talking to and interacting with seniors can be and the seniors enjoyed the enthusiasm and energy of their young friends.

The staff at SAGE would be delighted to offer the sensitivity program to other schools. We would also love to hear other ideas for more ways in which intergenerational activities could be implemented.

Once again, many thanks to the Lincoln-Hubbard community. We look forward to seeing even more of you this year, and to expanding our intergenerational programs to include others. To learn more about Sage Eldercare's programs and services, please call 908-273-5550 or e-mail contactus@sageeldercare.org.

Challenge the board

To the Editor:

After considerable study to protect and develop Cranford's charm and character, in 1985, under Mayor Edward Force's leadership, the Township Committee created an SID and established a Downtown Management Corporation. The designated SID was planned to be in the best interest of the township and its residents promoting economic growth, employment and general welfare.

The intention and purpose of this ordinance, also incorporated in to the Cranford Land Development Ordinance, was to encourage and endeavor to have the exteriors of all structures in the district to be represented of the design of structures in existence during the Victoria Era. To assure compliance, a strict application protocol was outlined. The ordinance specified that only the Township Planning Board was to be awarded certification and jurisdiction to take action on plans for development and renovation in the SID.

Nevertheless, currently on the Gas Port - 105 North Avenue West site - the zoning coordinator assigned the Investor Savings Bank application to the Board of Adjustment. Persuaded by a cadre of the applicants, professional experts and lawyers, the Board of Adjustment on July 12, unanimously approved a disturbing non-conforming "Prototypical" modern design structure. Objectors asked for a SID ordinance conforming design. What was approved, the objectors characterized as resembling a large two-story mausoleum.

Subsequent to assignment of this land development application in the SID to the Board of Adjustment, we have been witnessing and reporting on a wholesale violation of Cranford's governing legislative authority over the zoning scheme of our municipality and its SID district.

By exceeding the scope of its authority, the Board of Adjustment action clearly threatens private interest, public interest, safety and enforcement of the Municipal Land Use Law and SID district ordinances and the future of the SID district.

Therefore, I respectfully urge that the Township Committee carefully study the legal issues and institute a challenge to the Board of Adjustment approval in the Superior Court of New Jersey as soon as possi-

SPRINGFIELD — Police Capt. Peter Davis has once again put the township on notice that he is retir-

Davis notified township officials last week that he will be retiring as of Sept. 1. This is the second time in two months that Davis said he would be retiring. But this week, according to two township officials, Davis said he would stay if the governing body moved him into the acting chief position for one year, with a contract and $120,000 salary.

Mayor Ziad Shehady said Monday in a telephone interview that he preferred not to discuss the issue because it involved personnel issues, but did confirm that he was notified last week that Davis again said he would be retiring by Sept. 1. The mayor, however, would not confirm or deny that Davis had changed his mind again this week, or if the township was considering the captain's proposal.

At the end of the Aug. 10 Township Committee meeting, Deputy Mayor Bart Frankel made a motion to appoint Davis the acting chief. However, the motion because the other four members of the governing body did not support Davis in this position.

On June 23, Davis abruptly resigned from the officer in chargeposition that he assumed April 1 when former police chief William Chisholm retired after a litigious and turbulent few years. That move came after the governing body did not give Davis the nod as acting chief. This left the department without any leadership command because no other officer was qualified at the time to move into the officer in charge position. That same day, Davis changed his mind, reversing this decision and notifying the township that he would be using terminal leave and vacation until Sept. when he would officially retire.

At the time, Shehady said the township previously supported Davis as the officer in charge of the police division, but the officer's actions left him and many on the governing body confused.

Although the mayor said he asked Davis to consider resuming his duties as officer in charge, Shehady said Davis "turned the offer down." Davis, though, later agreed to stay on temporarily.

The mayor would not comment at that time on why the Township Committee decided not to appoint Davis as acting chief. Using the Open Public Records Act, Union County LocalSource obtained 2009 attendance records for Davis. According to this information, Davis took 139 sick days during that year-long period.

The governing body was also not swayed by the PBA voting 33 to 1 in favor of Davis's ability to run the department. At the time, Davis maintained that the township's decision was retaliation for his part in the 2007 lawsuit brought against former chief Chisholm. Davis, who gave deposition in favor of former fire and emergency services.

patrolman Walter Brooks, a black officer who maintained Chisholm mistreated him because of his race, felt the entire issue was politically based. The only captain in the Springfield Police Department at the time, Davis took over as officer in charge on April 1 when the former chief, William Chisholm, retired. As a result of Davis resigning June 23 and then deciding the next day to retire, township Administrator Anthony Cancro said the Police Department was on very shaky ground without a command leadership structure in place.

The following day Cancro asked the Union County Prosecutor's office to step in to oversee the police department until a leadership command could be established. which they did. Two weeks later, Prosecutor Theodore Romankow recommended the township designate Davis as acting chief. Although appreciative of the prosecutor's efforts, Shehady said he preferred not to rush to judgement on the matter. A few weeks later, the mayor said the township had hired Richard Rosell as public safety director overseeing the police,

Christopher' inspires new gang prevention program

By Cheryl Hehl Staff Writer

Brutally tortured by a gang of men and teenagers, dumped in a vacant field and left by his murderers to die alone, Christopher Booker was a young man who had a promising future ahead of him.

This may have been the tragic end to his story, but this young man's struggle became the inspiration for a new Union County program that will hopefully support and inspire teenagers to make positive choices in their Freeholder Nancy Ward knew Booker and his struggle between the bright life he had as a Marine Corps reservist who set up youth programs, and the darker life that drew him to the Blood's gang that eventually led to his death. However, Ward also was well aware that Booker's untimely death and the lesson it held could be used to help others who were about to walk that same road.

"I chose to become involved," Ward said softly, adding that Booker's story "weighed heavily on my mind and had a profound impact on me." In fact, a few days before he died, Ward spoke with the young man and she knew that he wanted so much more from his life. Recalling this moment, the freeholder decided she had to find out "why his life was taken away by other human beings." Like so many journeys in life, she would discover that the answers to some questions do because this, the freeholder said, was a matter of life and death.

'We can't wait to save kids' lives," she said, pointing out that "we have teenagers that are suffering." And that is the reason Ward believes Booker's story stayed with

"I had to understand who these people were and why they did this to Christopher," Ward said. "When I would analyze it, it seemed as though the gang would take over their free will through intimidation and they would lose their power to step away."

She came to the conclusion that teens who gravitate towards gangs have no direction in life and they do not believe they have a

A recent violence study, Ward said, concluded that if teens had someone in front of them trying to help, they would listen. Putting that conclusion to work would not be easy, but Ward had a mission: to ensure that Christopher Booker's life was not in vain.

"I know that if Christopher had lived, he would have wanted to reach out in positive ways to all young people who are under continuous pressure to join a gang," the freeholder explained. "It is left to all who knew Christopher to speak for him and to speak to other victims of gang violence whose voices have been silenced.'

For Ward, that meant stepping out of the choices about their lives."

not come easily. Still, she refused to give up mainstream and initiating a program that would help spare other youths the same fate as Booker. As a result of her effort the Union County Freeholders partnered with New Jersey Superior Court to introduce Christopher's Program, an intensive effort to help prevent gang violence in Union County.

> Spearheaded by Ward, the program was designed to provide tools for helping teens 14 to 18 avoid gangs and prevent further involvement in the court system. The freeholders agreed the program was worth the effort, contributing $80,000 to start the pro-

Teens will mainly be referred from the family division of Superior Court, where judges decide if a youth can benefit from the program that will be administered by the Union County Department of Human Services. In turn, this department will reach out to community groups, public safety agencies, schools and other stakeholders so they can take part in educational and professional development sessions focusing on youth violence, gangs and adolescent issues.

"Christopher's Program works from the perspective that youth violence related to gang membership is a public health issue," Ward said, explaining that "there is no simple cure, but one effective approach is to ensure that younger people have the support and insight they need to make positive, healthful Human Services at 908-527-4808 or bher-

Ward explained that changing the conversation youths have with one another is the first step in helping them realize that they have a future.

One of the speakers will ask teens who have had some interaction with gangs to go back to when they were 8 or 9-years-old.

From there, teens and older youths can hopefully believe once again in the future they dreamed of as a child.

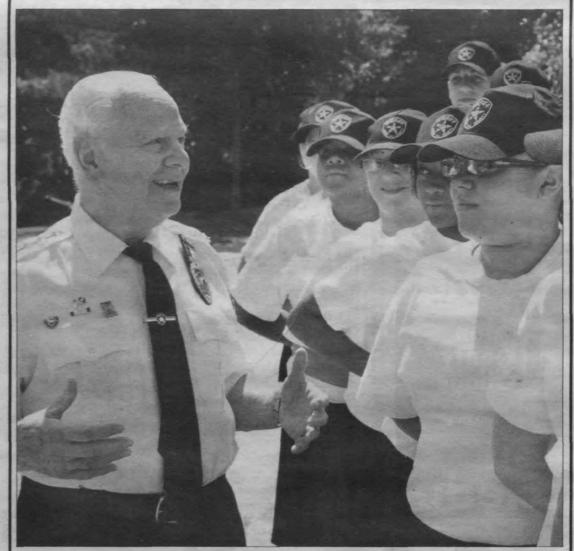

"When these kids realize that you can still be sitting in a detention center and reclaim your life, we are halfway there," said Ward. They need to know that we all care about them and they are not alone. With motivation and incentive, they can take another path, one that is away from gangs."

The four-week program has already started in detention centers once a week for two hours, Ward said, and has already gained recognition for its potential impact in Union County, as well as its use throughout the

UC fundraisers try to 'Kiss Away Cancer'

Group raises money to fund cancer research, programs through ACS

By the end of 2010, it is esti- Westfield Ave., Clark. mated that in Union County alone, 53 people are diagnosed each week with cancer, totaling 2,756 individuals annually. This staggering figure was seen as a call to action by a group of friends who call themselves "Kiss Away Cancer."

Over the past seven years, "Kiss Away Cancer" has risen to the level of "Flagship Team" by collectively raising more than $100,000 for the American Cancer Society, a portion of which goes directly to patient services within Union County. The remainder of the funds go to cancer prevention, disease control, medical research and advocacy efforts to insure that everyone has equal access to health care.

Not only does the team fight the disease through fundraising efforts, they educate the public regarding programs and services available through the American Cancer Society, thereby making a significant difference in the fight against cancer within their own community.

From September to November, Kiss Away Cancer has set up three fundraisers with hopes of raising $10,000 by the end of 2010.

To kick off the fundraisers, a Gold Party and Vendor Fair will be hosted on Sept. 16 from 6 to 9 p.m. Municipal Building Cafeteria, 430 www.kissawaycancer.org.

Anyone can trade-in gold and receive a cash payment on the spot. The first 15 people to trade in at least $200 worth of gold will receive a deluxe gift. Nearly a dozen vendors, ranging from jewelry and deluxe handbags to Tupperware and Discovery toys, will also be present. The first 100 people to purchase $50 worth of products from any single vendor will receive a free gift bag. Light refreshments will be provided for free all night.

On Oct. 21, the team has organized a bus trip to see the Broadway show, "Million Dollar Quartet", the new smash-hit musical inspired by the famed recording session that brought together rock 'n' roll icons Elvis Presley, Johnny Cash, Jerry Lee Lewis and Carl Perkins for the first and only time. Show time is at 8 p.m. The bus will depart from the township of Clark.

On Nov. 13, the "Fabulous 50s Dance" will tentatively take place at Rahway American Legion Post #5, 581 Maple Ave., Rahway. The event will run from 6:30 to 10:30 p.m. Attendees can also take part in a tricky tray auction, 50/50, door prizes and more. To learn about these events, contact Stephen Frost 732-986-4048, The event will be in the Clark frost4acure@yahoo.com, or visit

Public buildings around the county are lining up to have their rooftops adorned with energy-saving solar panels as part of the Renewable Energy Initiative sponsored by the Union County Improvement Authority.

The UCIA bonded $45 million to install the panels on public buildings with the goal of helping local entities reduce their dependence on retail electricity. According to the UCIA's website, participating entities will not incur out-of-pocket costs and the financing is structured through the UCIA in a manner that will have all debt issued through the UCIA.

The UCIA lists 49 buildings in 19 Union County municipalities that have been selected to be part of the initiative, including Cranford Public Library, the Hillside Board of Education offices and municipal building; Linden Firehouses, one, two and three; Linden Public Library and Deerfield School in Mountainside. Not all municipalities are comfortable with the program. In Summit, city officials tabled the subject until September so they could have time to further examine the issue.

Councilwoman Ellen Dickson said local officials interested in learning more about the program encountered a lack in specifics about how much money would be saved. "Frankly I wanted to have a debate about solar panels in general," Dickson said. "Some people think that in five years they'll be an outdated technology. I want to know this is a good use of resources."

A recent release from the UCIA seeking to clarify the initiative, states the debt will be paid off by the solar panel developer to be selected through the public bidding process. The contractor that installs the panels is also required to bear the cost and work of maintaining them. The pan-

In Cranford, where a resolution approving participation in the program was passed on Aug. 17, officials are laying to rest some initial misgivings they had about the initiative. "The town can still opt out, but right now we're part of the initiative," Library Director John Malar said.

Malar was excited about the project, which is estimated to save 10 percent or more from what the library normally pays for electricity. The actual savings will not be known for certain until the county selects a vendor, Malar said.

Spagnoletti said he was initially concerned that the addition of solar panels may compromise the roof warrantee. However, the program utilizes non-penetrating panels that are secured to the roof surface using ballasts such as sandbags so as not to violate the roof warranty.

Spagnoletti said he is not concerned about potentially having the panels removed in 15 years.

"The reality is that in 15 years technology will probably have evolved significantly," Spagnoletti

BACK TO SCHOOL SAFETY

Over the next few weeks, the sound of school bells will signal the end of summer vacation. For parents this means reminding students about the importance of safety. Kindergartners through college students need to change some of their summer behaviors to protect themselves as well as their possessions. The insurance information institute reminds everyone to think safety first and offers the following tips for parents to discuss with their children:

Young Students: Pedestrian injuries are the second leading cause of unintentional death among children ages 5 o 14. Children who walk to school or to a bus stop must be reminded to

Always try to cross a street were a crossing guard is present. Walk 10 giant steps away from the front of the school bus.

Cross in front of the bus only after the driver signals its okay to do so.

High School Students: Statistics show that teen drivers are four times more likely to be involved in a fatal crash. In fact 6,000 young people are killed each year in fatal crashes. If your son or daughter drives to school:

Teach them to always buckle up and require everyone else in the car to buckle as well

Remind them to always obey the speed limit.

Choose a safe car for teens to drive - remember large cars are safer than small ones

Enforce no-drinking-and-driving rules.

College Students: The number one crime on college campuses is theft. One out of every 10-college students will be robbed while away at school. Most students belongings are covered under their parent's homeowner policies, but expensive computer equipment and other items may not be. Parents should check their policies to be sure and also:

Remind students always lock dormitory doors, even if they are just down the hall.

Tell Students not to keep large amounts of money or jewelry in their rooms

Have students mark personal property, such as book-bags and CD's with identifiable marks.

Check auto insurance if your child takes a car to school to be sure no additional coverage is needed.

UCPO finding the living in order to honor the fallen

By Paul Greulich Staff Writer

enforcement officials have announced a memorial ceremony honoring the 30 law enforcement officers killed in the line of duty dating back to the 19th century and are doing their best to reach out to the families of all Union County's fallen officers.

Union County Prosecutor Theodore Romankow recently announced the event. titled In The Line of Duty memorial ceremony, will be on Oct. 9 at the John H. Stamler Police Academy in Scotch Plains, where a monument stands featuring the names of the deceased. The public, including the friends and family of the deceased are invited to attend.

Union County formed in 1857 and the first documented death of an officer occurred in 1895 with the slaying of Special Police Officer Albert Jewell of Rahway. The city of Rahway accounted for seven of the 30 slain officers.

Rahway Police Chief John Rodger did not return repeated calls for comment.

during the first half of the 20th century sites available. Without all these search Rahway was one of the most active Union County towns outside Elizabeth, with a busy police force.

'A lot of the towns around here were still country," Shipley said. "Rahway was already a nice-sized town."

Shipley said records indicate Officer Jewell was chasing after a fleeing woman who turned and shot him with a pistol.

Jewell is among 13 police officers whose living family members have not yet been located and informed of the ceremony honoring their lost kin.

The prosecutor's office indicated that organizers are encountering difficulty finding ties to the families of those who died many decades ago.

Shipley said that while researching long-past events and persons can be challenging; he expects the Prosecutor's Office stands a good chance of finding the famifor the ceremony.

City Historian Al Shipley explained that it would have ever been with all the webdevises you couldn't think of doing this," Shipley said. "They have a better chance than they might have ever had of finding family members."

> Though many of these officers come from a time outside living memory, local police still make a point to honor brother officers who met their end during the days of tommy guns and six-shooters.

"We would be honored to have these family members present as we remember the county's fallen officers and keep their memory alive," Romankow said.

Shipley said he understands the need to keep the events and sacrifices of the past

"I think its a wonderful thing," Shipley said. "If young kids especially learn history its very helpful for them. And when its local history its even better."

Organizers have invited the family lies of at least some of the officers in time members of 17 of the fallen officers to attend the memorial. The specifics of the "In 2010 its probably a little easier than ceremony itself are still being planned.

Fallen officers whose friends and family remain out of touch are as follows.

From Elizabeth: Officer Frank Carine died in 1934, Captain John J. Hiney died in 1918, Officer William J. Kroeschel died in 1936, Officer John F. McGann died in 1930 and Officer Robert Paton died in 1918.

From Hillside: Patrolman Thomas W. England died in 1932.

From Rahway: Officer John James Burns died in 1971, Special Policeman Albert E. Jewell died in 1895, Officer Jacob Kraus died in 1919 and Officer James Lynch died in 1919.

From Plainfield: Officer Maurice P. Higgings died in 1925.

installed at Trinity Episcopal Church at the corner of North and Forest avenues in Cranford.

"It is an exciting milestone in Trinity's $2 million renovation project which began last fall," said John Zebrowski, Trinity's project manager for the renovation.

Cranford is the general contractor for the project. "We have used some innovative solutions to recreate a building that will be low maintenance, energy efficient and last for generations to come," said Christian Siano, owner and president of Siano Brothers Contracting of Cranford.

"Our design goals have been to give the building the look and feel of the original 1875 Trinity church, while incorporating modern convenience and durability," said Thomas DiGiorgio, Owner of Thomas DiGiorgio Architecture. "Working with the Trinity Building Committee and all the Contractors on the project, we have been able to achieve those goals," he added.

The foundation has been stabilized by pouring a concrete grade beam which now helps support the main roof trusses as well as the upgraded floor system. The system now sits independently on a series of girders and columns. "The floor mation, call 908-276-4047.

Recently, a new spire was is rock solid now," Zebrowski said. The exterior walls have been upgraded with insulation, HVAC ductwork, electrical and plumbing improvements. The main roof support trusses have been stabilized and will now support the weight of the newly installed structural insulated panel and triple layer roofing Siano Brothers Contracting of shingle which allows the cathedral roof of the building to breathe while still maintaining an R-Value.

> Following the installation of the new spire, new fiber cement exterior siding and closed-cell PVC millwork has been installed, returning to the original clapboard with board and batten finish.

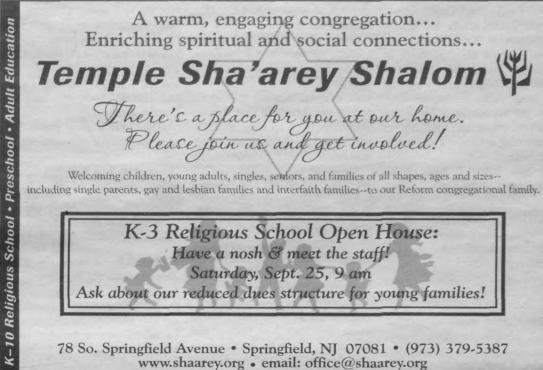

> After the stained glass windows are re-installed and all the interior carpentry is completed, the refurbished and expanded organ will be re-installed. The renovations are scheduled to be complete in December 2010.

> Sunday services are being conducted at 9 a.m. in air-conditioned Sherlock Hall this summer during the renovations, located behind the church building. Services are celebrated by The Rev. Gina Walsh-Minor, Rector Trinity Episcopal

Resplendent' retains its splendor

Cristina Guarneri of Verona, an educator and clinical counselor, has written a most unusual, comprehensive series of 10 books, combined into one, called "Resplendent, the Invincible Series.'

It is commendable, particularly since she is able to reach young By Bea Smith teens and older teens who suffer with educational deficiencies. Guarneri had accomplished this with even younger people when she wrote several books with wonderful illustrations. It is so inspirational that even adults, who read this book, can come to terms with their own insecurities, shortcomings and inevitabilities.

Now, with "Resplendent," Guarneri has loosely based it on the real life of Wayne Oakley - she calls her character, Lewis Oaken who is from Pequannock, a star wrestler in his high school who received a wrestling scholarship to Sacred Heart University in Connecticut. It appears that Oaken, a bright high school student, had been an extremely mischievous teenager, held accountable by his principal for his antics. Following a tragic automobile accident, in remained in a coma for some time, he recovered sufficiently after suffering from seeing bright blinding lights and equally blinding headaches. Oaken soon discovered that he was able to read people's minds and predict future events.

Much of the stories in Guarneri's book are fictitious still, by using Oaken as a role model, she was able to tell interesting stories and, once more, reach out to troubled youngsters.

It appears that "Resplendent, The Invincible Series," was originally created as 10 books in the group. However, it has been changed into one book with the titles: "Invincible," "Irrepressible," "Transcending," "Seraphic," "Enlightenment," "Awakening," "Sovereignty," "Redeemer," "Eminent" and "Resplendent." And so, which he suffered a concussion and with each opening chapter, the author tells the same beginning stories in the life of Lewis Oaken; in different ways, of course. After a while, it can become rather tedious.

By Bea Smith Staff Writer

It is rare to discover a person whose main goal in life is to help and guide people to their true potentials.

Such a person is Cristina Guarneri of Verona, a writer who is also a psychologist, professor and guidance counselor. When she talks about utilizing highest dreams and inspiring young people to have rich and useful lives, she is mesmerizing. Guarneri has written a number of children's books, and here, in her latest for teens to adults, "Resplendent, The Invincible Series," which has just been published, she has once more accomplished her goals.

"It took me a month to write the series," explained the dedicated author. "Every day, people inspire me," she said.

Guarneri, who based her book on the life of a real person, Wayne Oakley, whom she calls Lewis Oaken in the stories, said, "I worked with Wayne in my previous position. Back when I wrote the series, I was working in a different part of education as a guidance counselor. I'm currently an adjunct professor at Berkeley College. I teach criminal justice on all different campuses. I've worked so long in criminal justice," she admitted, youngsters are at risk, that I was able to turn their lives around and write this book."

Born Belleville, Guarneri served as educaclinical counselor, assistant principal, school counselor and special education teacher at schools throughout northern New Jersey. Guarneri has earned a doctorate in educational leadership, management and policy, a post-master's degree in mental health counseling from Seton Hall University and received a master's degree in counseling and a bachelor's degree in psychology from Montclair University.

"My dad, Frank Guarneri, is a retired police chief in Bloomfield," she said. "My mom, Carmella, works as an administrative assistant in Mountainside Hospital in Mont-

As far as the book is concerned, Guarneri said, "I've had very promising responses to it. I've noticed that not only do young people relate to it, but a lot of adults have read it and found it refreshing. This

"where a lot of book, if you're a young person, can (help you) relate to the character of Lewis Oaken by trying to figure out who you are and where you want to go. If you're an adult, definitely, a person can relate to super heroes."

The character of Lewis Oaken also was derived from "the countless numbers of incarcerated people I had met when I was doing my internship at Essex County jail in North Caldwell and Bergen County jail...In young people, I found there was a particular pattern, and I wanted to look into this. By the way, the book helped earn a scholarship to be developed for a young person, a tough guy, who changed to be a leader in his school."

Guarneri admitted, "Originally, I had planned the book as a series of books to be sold individually. However, I find that many people are quite pleased in having the series in one book."

The author said she was "in the process of working on a sequel to 'Resplendent.' And I'm really looking forward to continuing my career with Berkeley College.

In general, I have a philosophy that, if I can make a difference in one person's life, I will have accomplished what my career goal was. And that is - just to help

It's almost always a draw when Salvia and Veronica square off

My father used to say that, back in the 1950s, you could watch just about anything on television, as long as it was either wrestling or a western. Westerns have gone the way of all things, but wrestling has made a huge comeback in the last 10 years. This makes me feel better, somehow, as I wrestle with stakes and tall plants in the garden.

I have a challenge right now that may or may not lead me to more wrestling with plant stakes. I need some blue, spiky plants to liven up the summer garden. This is the perfect time to order such things for the fall planting season. Because of that, I am also wrestling mentally with the choice between two worthy cultivars. The struggle — Salvia vs. Veronica — sounds like it could be a televised, World Wrestling Entertainment allgirl extravaganza.

In one corner, figuratively speaking, stands salvia, specifically Salvia x sylvestris "Mainacht" or "May Night," chosen as the Perennial Plant Association's "Plant of the Year" in 1997. Bred in Germany, this hybrid has at least one illustrious parent: Salvia pratensis, a European meadow sage that grows between 1 and 4 feet tall, with aromatic foliage and dramatic violet-blue flower spikes. "Mainacht" comes from a prolific genus and is kin to about 750 salvia species native to many parts of the world.

As if that didn't make for enough relatives, the salvias are members of the Labiatae or mint family, an enormous clan of useful and decorative herbs, with a justifiable reputation for being vigorous, sometimes to the point of invasiveness.

In the last couple of decades, German plant breeders have taken on genera like coreonsis. Sedum and goldenrod, creating hybrids that are more vigorous, floriferous and, sometimes,

The Gardener's Apprentice

By Elisabeth Ginsburg

more compact than their forbearers. After a lot of crosses, "Mainacht" emerged on the market with an even better and richer color than Salvia pratensis, but a slightly more compact growth habit. Reaching between 18 and 24 inches tall, "Mainacht" is generally a middle-of-the-border plant. No matter where you put it, the plant makes a colorful statement in the garden.

The only real problem of "Mainacht" is floppiness. It blooms tall and straight in May, but as the season progresses, it tends to flop over, even with deadheading of spent flowerheads. This is fine in a cottage-type garden, where flopping is par for the course, but if you intended the plant to be a strong vertical accent, its value diminishes as its stems curve towards the ground. This can be counteracted by judicious staking, of course, or growing the salvia amidst other plants upon whom it can lean for support. You can also cut it back to the basal leaves after the first flush of bloom and it will rise again later in the summer in all its cerulean glory.

Or you can grow Veronica spicata, especially "Sunny Border Blue," the cultivar that was the Perennial Plant Association's Plant of the Year in 1993. Despite its resemblance to "Mainacht," it is a member of the Scrophulariaceae family, with relatives that include snapdragons and verbascum. The veronica is roughly the same height as Salvia "Mainacht" and has similar spikes of blue-purple flowers.

The advantage of "Sunny Border Blue" and some of its other Veronica spicata kin is that it tends to stay more upright through the season. As with other plants, you should remove spent flowers after the first flush of bloom to encourage rebloom. Both veronicas and salvias like sunny situations and can take a bit of drought. Salvia probably has a slight edge in drought-tolerance and reblooming capacity. Its aromatic leaves also make it more varmint-resistant than veronica. Veronica, on the other hand, generally makes a better cut flower.

So which should you choose? It depends on what kind of garden you have, where you locate your blue spiky flowers, whether you have a varmint problem and how much you like staking. My suggestion, which I am going to apply to my own plant purchasing, is to try both and see which works better for you. It may well be that both plants look great in your garden and will perform equally well given the right situations. If you insert an unobtrusive bamboo or other stake next to your salvia when you install it, the plant may lean on it very naturally as it grows and never need tying. If you do have to tie it up, you won't have to search out an appropriate support at a time when you have a million other garden chores to do.

I would call the Salvia/Veronica smack-down a draw. If you want to purchase either cultivar or both, try Bluestone Perennials, 7211 Middle Ridge Road, Madison, OH 44057; call 800-852-5243; or visit www.bluestoneperennials.com. The catalog is free.

Eric Shaw, a 1993 Union High School graduate, is in his fifth season as the head coach of the girls' soccer team. The Farmers are coming off a 8-11-1 season and have seven starters back, including four seniors and three juniors. Union opens at home Sept. 11 at 10 a.m. against conference rival Westfield.

Union girls' soccer sees competition get tougher

Farmers have talented players returning

By JR Parachini Sports Editor

The very best teams in Union County reside in the Watchung Division of the Union County Conference this season, which makes the girls' soccer competition even more challenging for the Union Farmers.

In the second year of the conference this season, the Watchung Division includes the following seven teams: Union, Westfield, Scotch Plains, Cranford, Johnson, Gov. Livingston and Summit.

Westfield won the Watchung Division and Cranford the Union County Tournament last season.

Union managed to tie Westfield 0-0 last year at home, handing the Blue Devils one of their two ties. Westfield reached the Group 4 final, finished 21-1-2 and was ranked No. 3 in the final Star-Ledger Top 20 poll. The Blue Devils also captured North 2, Group 4 for the first time since 2002 and finished as the No. 1 ranked team in Union County.

"We have our hands full, obviously, but it's a good thing," fifth-year head coach Eric Shaw said, referring to the constant upgrade in competition.

Moving down to the Mountain Division were Elizabeth, Linden and Plainfield, teams Union beat twice in conference competition last year en route to an 8-11-1 finish.

The UCC consists of the Watchung, Mountain and Valley divisions. Shaw said it was explained to him that teams could not drop down two divisions this year, but could next year.

Of the 15 returning players Shaw talked about Monday, seven started last year including all four seniors.

Those seniors include midfielders Molly Collins and Melinda Kieri and defenders Andrea Garcia and Alyssa Saraceno

"Those four seniors will be the key to our success," Shaw said. "They will make sure everyone stays on board with them. They will all be leaders."

Returning junior starters include goalkeeper Anna Bandley, forward Dana Bergman and defender Brittany Boland. Bandley and Boland are three-year starters.

Bandley was one of the top goalies in Union County last year and one of only three to post a shutout over Westfield.

"Her communication has gotten a lot better," said Shaw, a 1993 UHS graduate who was a standout keeper for Union's boys' team in addition to starring for the men's squad at Seton Hall University. "She's more confident in directing the team."

Bandley only gave up one goal in two games against Westfield and posted several shutouts last season, including one over Rahway 1-0 in a first round UCT contest at home.

Her play in net helped Union qualify for the North 2, Group 4 playoffs, where the Farmers fell at Columbia 1-0 in the first round.

"Anna's shot blocking, in general, has improved,"

That time of year again

High school football practice commenced for Union County teams last week, with all schools having their first scrimmages this week and their game-scrimmages next week

Above, two-way tackle Austin Frank is one of the top senior linemen in Union County. Below, senior Jaurice Jones will start at quarterback and safety for the Tigers.

Linden football dedicated to showing improvement

By JR Parachini Sports Editor

The Tigers are in a stage right now where they constantly have to prove themselves.

This is not a program that can just send out a team and easily expect to win eight, nine or 10 games.

After consecutive 5-5 finishes, third-year head coach Deon Candia - a 1991 Linden graduate - feels really stressed that over camp. he has the Tigers on the right path.

"We have a good core of kids buying into our system here," Candia said. "It comes from the off season, with the kids in the weight room and focused."

Linden got out to a 4-0 start last year, but then lost five straight before ending its season with a 26-20 home triumph over Union.

"These are my kind of kids," Candia said. "They want to do the right thing on and off the field and they're learning to love football.

"They dedicated themselves off the field and that makes me feel good as a coach."

Jaurice Jones started four games at quarterback last year when Trell Myers was out and he is back for what he hopes will be an outstanding senior season.

"Jaurice has some experience and he's a great athlete for us," Candia said. "He gives us an option of running the ball as well as throwing. He's a super competitor."

Candia said that Jones has received an offer from 1-AA school Bryant University.

Backing him up will be sophomore Jeremy Stathum (6-3, 195), whom Candia described as more of a drop back signal-caller.

"He'll stay in the pocket and he's got a very strong arm," Candia said. "He's our future at quarterback."

After a stellar baseball season, senior Will Ingram returns as one of the top running backs in Union County this fall. He rushed for 1,100 yards and averaged five yards a carry last season.

'Will's a great leader for us and a very tough kid," Candia said. "He's also an honor roll student who already qualifies for a scholarship.

"He also performs well in the classroom and is a great, all-around kid."

Linden averaged 27.25 points in its 4-0 start last year before falling at a team that was under .500 at the time - North Hunterdon - by the score of 21-14. A 12-7 loss at home to Hunterdon Central followed and then came defeats at home to Westfield 24-7, at Immaculata 42-21 and at home to Franklin 28-21 in overtime in sectional consolation game.

If Linden is to achieve its first winning season and playoff campaign since 2006, the Tigers must be more consistent on offense

"We can throw the ball, but we want to build on our running game," Candia said. "We have a pretty experienced offensive line and running game.'

Another returning senior running back is Kevin Rodriguez, while junior Ruhann Peele is back at wide receiver after starting in the secondary as a freshman two years ago.

"Ruhann is also our punt returner and kick returner and has super endurance," Candia said. "He can stay on the field all day. He's a true playmaker.'

already from Rutgers, with the Scarlet Knights looking at him as a wide receiver.

"He has some work to do academically, but he has a plan and he's working hard at it," Candia said. "He went to camp at Rutgers over the summer and they were impressed with what they saw of him."

One of the top two-way linemen in the county is senior Austin Frank (6-1, 275), who was an All-County selection a year ago.

"He got bigger, had an excellent wrestling season and his working on his foot work right now," Candia said. "He's also very intelligent and has attracted looks from Holy Cross and Princeton.

"He's very competitive and we're looking for some big things from him this year.'

Frank leads a 4-4 defensive scheme that is concentrating on better run coverage.

'We had some issues last year with the run, with some running backs gaining over 200 yards against us," Candia said. "We had some breakdowns and we

'We need to swarm to the ball. We're working on our technique and tackling so that we can cut teams from making big plays."

LINDEN'S ONLY PLAYOFF CROWN CAME 25 YEARS AGO

Bucky McDonald, who Candia played for, guided Linden to its only playoff championship in 1985, which was his first year at the helm.

Linden was the second seed in North 2, Group 3. The Tigers defeated third-seeded Scotch Plains 17-0 at home in the semifinals and then went to Long Valley and came away with a 19-7 win over top-seeded West Morris in the final.

In an interview I did with McDonald five years ago, he felt that the 1986 team was even better. That Tiger squad was 8-0 and home as the top seed in North 2, Group 3, but was defeated by Summit 10-7 in the semifinals. Linden rebounded to beat Union on Thanksgiving to finish 9-1.

"I remember those times, 1985 and 1986," said Candia, whose freshman year at Linden was the fall of 1987, which was the year Linden lost at Union in overtime in a North 2, Group 4 semifinal that was played on one of the coldest days of the decade.

'A lot of the guys that played on those teams come to the field here to talk to the kids," Candia said. "They had a lot of attitude and worked as a unit.

We tell the kids now what happened then and how it was able to be done. Our team goals are the same, which are to do what we can do as a team."

Snapping a five-game losing streak and ending 2009 with a big home win over conference rival Union was the first stepping stone for the 2010 campaign.

We had a lot of young kids last year that didn't understand a full season of football," Candia said. "Now we have kids who are ready mentally and understand how to pace themselves and mature."

IS THE EAST A DIVISION OF THE MID-STATE 39 CONFERENCE THE TOUGHEST IN THE STATE?

If it's not, it's certainly right up there. The division consists of Immaculata, Watchung Hills and five Union County schools: Union, Elizabeth, Westfield, Linden and Plainfield. For the first time, Plainfield dropped to Group 3. Scotch Plains moved over to the West B Division.

"It's tough, the teams we play," Candia said. "We're preparing our kids for that by letting them know how tough the competition will be."

Last year's first Mid-State 39 Conference alignment, which consisted of seven divisions instead of the Candia also said that Peele received a verbal offer six that there are for this year, was a one-year format as far as scheduling. Also, not everyone played everyone within each division.

This will be the first season of two-year home and away schedules for each team in the conference, with everyone playing everyone within their division this season.

Linden had to play at Immaculata last year and will play at Immaculata again this year, but will host the Spartans next season.

Immaculata won last year's Raritan Division, while Westfield captured the Watchung Division.

This is the old school way of thinking, but if we want to be the best, then to be the best is to play the best," Candia said.

NJ Diamond Gloves match set for Oct. 8

Linden will host 77th annual state finals for the 11th consecutive year

Linden Boxing Association President Alfred A. Volpe has announced that the only fight night in Linden this year will take place Oct. 8 when the Linden Boxing Association, in conjunction with the Linden Public Property and Community Services Department presents the 77th annual New Jersey State Finals of the Diamond Gloves Boxing Tournament.

The full night of championship boxing entertainment is being sponsored by the ConocoPhillips Bayway Refinery and will be at the Linden High School Gymnasium, located at 121 W. St. Georges Ave.

The first fight is scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. Doors open at 7:30 p.m.

According to Linden Boxing Association Founder Tony Orlando, "This is the 11th consecutive year that we are hosting the Diamond Glove Tournament state finals here in Linden and also the 11th consecutive year that our friends from the ConocoPhillips Bayway Refinery are sponsoring the event. Without their sponsorship, we wouldn't be able to have this successful night of amateur boxing that annually supports, through its proceeds, a varied amount of programs for our city's youth."

This year, the Linden Boxing Association will be honoring Michael Karlovich, the manager of Strategic Communication at Conoco Phillips Bayway Refinery in Linden for his exceptional commitment to the sport of boxing and the youth of Linden throughout the past eleven years. During this time, the Linden Boxing Association has donated in excess of $329,000 to Linden Recreation supported youth programs and has sponsored three scholarships annually to graduating Linden High School students.

Expecting to be in attendance at this year's championship bouts are, Bobby Czyz, former world light heavyweight and cruiserweight champion; Emile Griffith, former world welterweight, junior middleweight and middleweight champion; Chuck Wepner, former heavyweight contender and Lou Duva, the Hall of Fame boxing trainer and manager, who has handled some of the greatest fighters in the world including 19 World Champions.

Tickets can be purchased at the door or at the Community Center Building, 605 S. Wood Ave., Linden until Oct. 7. For information on the Diamond Glove finals, call the Linden Department of Public Property and Community Services at 908-474-8600.
