Report shows drop

Staff Writer

The bad news is that in 2009 a crime was committed in New Jersey every two minutes and 32 seconds. The good news is that despite this jarring statistic, overall, crime went down throughout the state and county.

According to the the 2009 Uniform Crime male perpetrator age 25 to 29 Report released by the state last week, more murders are committed in May on a Monday, by a man using a gun on a street or highway. If your home was burglarized in New Jersey during that greatest decline in a decade. Union County saw same time frame, the most frequent month was August where forcible entry was used by a white

The latest report revealed the crime rate was down 9 percent statewide from 2008. There also was a 15 percent statewide drop in murders, the the most significant change, with a 55 percent See STATE, Page 4

RVSA appoints new director

Staff Writer

A new executive director with 27 years of sewerage experience was hired by Rahway Valley Sewerage Authority last week to provide the leadership and streamling the utility has lacked.

Jim Meehan, 49, who currently runs the Lambertville Municipal Utilities Authority, will take the reigns Monday, replacing interim co-directors Robert Materna and Robert Valent, who stepped in when Michael Brinker resigned in February.

Meehan was approved last week by the RVSA Board of Commissioners by a narrow 6-5 vote for the $130,00 a year position. The Lacey Township resident was one of four candidates vying for the executive director slot, including several RVSA employees.

In a telephone interview Monday, Meehan, who began his career cleaning out tanks at the Ocean County Utilities Authority for $4.25 an hour, was candid about landing the position that could have been filled

"I understood and respected the fact that there were qualified people inside, but I think the board was looking for a new set of eyes here," said Meehan, admitting candidly that this opportunity "was a dream come true."

"When I think back 27 years ago to when I started out cleaning out those tanks and wondering what the guys did at the plant with the clip boards, to learning the nuts and bolts of this business from the bottom up at the Atlantic County Utilities Authority, this was where I wanted to end up," said the soft spoken new executive director.

But lest anyone think that Meehan will be coming in like a bull in a china shop to make sweeping changes right off the bat, that is not his

"I'm not coming in swinging a hatchet in the air," he explained, adding that he told the board that his style was quite different.

"I prefer looking at things before I make any changes," Meehan said, pointing out he preferred a three-month evaluation period before there were any major changes or cuts in staff are made. But even then, he said, it is not his style to make rash moves.

With a background of working for both private, public and government authorities, as well as extensive experience as a project manager in labor efficiencies, the new executive director fully intends to streamline things at RVSA and knows where to find the answers he will be looking for from the start.

"I also found that you can find the answers to streamling buried in the middle, so that is where I will be looking," he said." They are looking for leadership and that is why they hired me.'

The authority, which treats sewage for 14 member towns in Union and Middlesex counties has come under fire in the last few years for not only wasting taxpayer dollars on parties and trips, but also a $30 million cogeneration plant that, according to RVSA's own consultant, is only worth salvage.

The cogen plant had never operated until recently when a three-month testing period began to prove the facility would never save the millions expected. RVSA is currently embroiled in multiple lawsuits over the design, planning and building of the plant, but it is unknown when or if these will settle or head to court or arbitration.

Meehan had definite thoughts on the subject of the cogen plant, admitting that the feasibility of it running at a savings to member towns is a "huge question mark."

"Just from what I know at this point, its my feeling it will never run the way it was intended," he said.

The new executive director faces an uphill battle in the coming months as 13 of the member towns prepare to weather 17 percent increase in fees and Cranford struggles to pay a 25 percent increase.

State police release crime report

However, it appears that this year the county will not see that kind of a decline, so far the murder rate in 2010 has already surpassed the 2008 rate of 22 homicides. Union County Prosecutor's Office spokesperson, John Holl, commented on this increase last week, indicating that there were 26 murders so far this year in Union County, including the Nov. 18 Union homicide of Diane Mary Zeleski, 54, found dead in her Laurana Road home of multiple stab wounds.

But although overall crime dropped in the county from 16,800 incidents to 14,913 or 11.2 percent, and non-violent crime crimes dropped from 14,510 to 12,521, or 14 percent, violent crimes increased 4 percent. However, statewide, violent crime was down 4 percent for the eighth consecutive year, with reported incidents dropping from 28,281 to 27,108.

Aggravated assault incidents went up in the county by 14 percent in 2009, with 948 incidents reported in 2009 compared to 832 in 2008. Domestic violence incidents also increased by 2.4 percent in the county, but statewide this number also went up 4 percent. The number of murders in the state attributed to domestic violence circumstances, though, decreased 32 percent.

Non-violent crime in the state, which includes burglary, larceny, theft and motor vehicle theft was down 9 percent, but in Union County reported incidents were down 14 percent, going from 14,510 to 12,521.

Automobile theft dropped 23 percent in the state with 20,120 offenses reported in 2008, compared to 15,501 in 2009. This drop also was reflected in Union County, which saw a 23 percent decline in the number of auto thefts. According to the UCR, there were 2,138 cars reported stolen in 2008 compared to 1,640 in 2009.

While this reduction in auto theft was significant in 2009, that number may increase in 2010 because the Union County Prosecutor's Office Auto Theft Task Force was eliminated earlier this year due to the state cutting grant money funding this division.

There was a 40 percent drop in bias-related crimes in the county, notably decreasing from 20 to 12 incidents in 2009. This decrease carried over in statewide numbers, which showed there was a 22 percent drop in 2009 compared to 2008. Throughout the state there were 683 bias incidences reported in 2009, as opposed to the 876 reported the previous year. Harassment accounted for 41 percent of all bias incidences, while criminal mischief and property damage accounted for 39 percent. Racial bias accounted for 39 percent of incidents in 2009, down from 47 percent a year earlier.

Of the 11 towns Union County LocalSource covers, which include Clark, Cranford, Hillside, Kenilworth, Linden, Rahway, Roselle, Roselle Park, Springfield, Summit and Union, none saw a crime index increase. However, although the overall crime index number decreased, several communities did see an increases in both non-violent and violent crimes. There were also some noteworthy crime decreases in certain municipalities.

The township of Union saw a drop in its crime index, which decreased the crime rate per 1,000 people from 31.1 to 24.6. There was one murder in both 2008 and 2009, but there were four rapes last year compared to nine in 2008. Car theft also saw a big drop, with only 97 being reported as opposed to the year before when there were 139. Burglaries also decreased from 291 to 227, while robberies stayed the same at 27. Domestic violence increased, going from 228 to 234 reported incidents.

In Roselle, violent crime decreased slightly from 87 to 83 incidents, but non-violent crime dropped from 554 incidents in 2008 to 451 incidents last year. Vehicle thefts also increased, jumping from 45 to 82. Burglaries fell from 193 in 2008 to 113 last year.

Roselle Park saw burglaries drop from 43 incidents to 29, while vehicle thefts also declined from 14 to 11. Domestic violence fell with only 85 reported incidents last year compared to 111 in 2008.

Rahway saw the violent crime rate stay almost the same, while non-violent crime dropped from 23.2 incidents per 1,000 people to 20.5. Robberies are also on the decline, going from 64 to 52, while burglaries were up from 2008 when that number was 112 compared to last year when it rose to 145. Vehicle thefts went down from 65 in 2008 to 54 last year. Domestic violence increased over the prior year, with 542 incidents last year compared to 499 in 2008.

In Springfield burglaries increased, going from 31 to 34 incidents, while vehicle thefts decreased from 27 to 16. Domestic violence incidents also went down, with only 111 incidents reported compared to the 132 in 2008.

Cranford actually saw a drop in non-violent crime from 318 incidents down to 212, but burglaries went up from 45 incidents to 48. Domestic violence, on the other hand, saw a sharp increase from 2008, going from 88 reported incidents to 131. But, despite these increases, the non-violent crime rate per 1,000 people dropped from 15.5 to 9.7, while the violent crime rate staved the same at 0.5.

Hillside saw crime decrease in some areas, but burglaries were up from 163 in 2008 to 183 last year. However, vehicle thefts decreased, with that number declining from 118 to 106.

Kenilworth saw a significant rise in burglaries, going from just 9 in 2008 to 20 last year. Car thefts were also up from 14 in 2008 to 22 last year.

Clark saw a decline in burglaries, going from 23 reported incidents in 2008 to 11 last year. Car theft also was down, with 10 vehicles reported stolen in 2008 compared to just 4 last year.

Summit's overall crime rate dropped from 331 to 290, but domestic violence rates went up considerably from 115 to 154. Vehicle thefts, though, went down from 16 to 5.

Hillside BOE seeks candidates

Korzeneski said she is sad to leave Hillside, but is confident the district is "moving in the right direction" thanks to the leadership of Superintendent Thomas Kane and strong involvement from local parents.

"Right now I'm leaving the board and the district in a good place," Korzeneski said. "Our new superintendent is very enthusiastic and has a lot of knowledge about the latest innovations and trends in education. He had energized the teachers and the board to move forward."

Korzeneski said she plans to keep in touch with her friends and colleagues in the township and looks forward to seeing the district continue on its path.

Korzeneski, who is unmarried, plans to paint and spend time with her eight grandchildren.

Cortez was only just elected to the board in April. Korzeneski and Menza said he showed a strong interest in education before his term was interrupted by personal matters. Menza said the vacancies have not hindered the nine-member board from forming a quorum or conducting business. As of Nov. 17, Menza was unsure what sort of response had been received.

"They have till Nov. 30 to send in letters of intent to be considered for the position," Menza said.

Any Hillside resident and legal citizen of the United States older than 18 years of age can apply for appointment to the Board of Education. More requirements and information can be found at the school website at www.district.hillsidek12.org.

Bowling alley to use solar panels

Staff Writer

LINDEN — A local bowling alley is taking the lead in bringing solar energy to one of most electricity-dependent sports.

Jersey Lanes, located on Park Avenue, is having its roof adorned with solar panels designed to harness energy from the sun.

The alley is run by father and son owners Charles and John Fatigati, who hope the panels will save about 30 percent on their electrical costs.

"It had been something we were looking into doing for some years," John Fatigati said, "Everything lined up well to do it."

The venture was aided by an incentive from the federal government, which offered a grant to cover 30 percent of the cost for those commercial establishments pursuing solar panel installation. The project cost about $550,000, leaving the Fatigatis with a balance of approximately $400,000.

The construction began about three weeks ago and has not impaired business at Jersey Lanes. In fact, the work is not even visually evident to bowlers who continue to come and go. However, some patrons have caught on to the alley's innovative ambitions.

"The word's getting out," John said.

John said the city's environmental commission has not been involved in the project, but he remains in touch with the mayor's office.

John said solar panels are an appealing addition for bowling alleys, which must power many machines and computers, as opposed to retail business, which mainly rely on electricity for lights and air conditioning.

"The bowling business is very dependent on electricity." John said. "It's a huge expense for the business. Without electricity we'd be nowhere.

John indicated that while he is aware of bowling alleys in California finding success using solar panels, he is not aware of any such establishments in New Jersey utilizing the energy-saving technology.

"It's going to be the first solar-powered bowling center in the state when we get it done," John said. "We anticipate it to be online next

At a special writer's workshop for fifth graders, Adler described how he takes his own life experiences and turns them into inspiration for his stories. By the end of the session, several students said this experience would encourage a story as well.

wo arrested after armed robber

Marcell T. Arline, 22, and Terrance K. Smith, 32, both of Hillside were arrested on Nov. 18 at 3 a.m. after Hillside police responded to the BP gas station on Liberty Avenue on a report of an armed robbery.

The gas station attendant informed officers that three men entered the convenience store adjacent to the gas station and one of them pointed a black handgun at him, demanding money. When the attendant refused, the man with the gun began to strike him in the head with the gun and fired a shot. While the incident was taking place the attendant was able to activate a panic alarm that alerted the Hillside police. Police arrived and observed one suspect, identified as Arline, walking away from the gas station.

Police stopped Arline and conducted a brief investigation which led to his arrest. Further investigation yielded a description of the car used to transport the men to the gas station, a beige 1996 Honda Accord.

Hillside police immediately began a search for the vehicle. Approximately two hours later, police observed the Honda at the intersection of Chestnut and Hillside avenues. Police attempted to stop the vehicle, but the driver, later identified as Smith, attempted to elude police by accelerating and driving erratically causing him to lose control of the Honda and strike a building on Chestnut Avenue.

When police blocked Smith's path, he allegedly put the Honda in reverse and struck the police vehicle in an unsuccessful attempt to escape capture. Smith was arrested for eluding and aggravated assault for striking the police vehicle. Smith

This law is needed

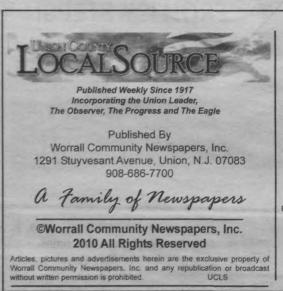

The final meeting during the current session of the Transportation Committee of the state Assembly was held Monday and unfortunately one important bill was not on the agenda. That bill, A-1020, would increase road safety by requiring motorists to maintain a three-foot safety zone when passing bicyclists. With biking growing more popular in our state, this simple precaution by drivers will help save lives and serious injuries. More than 20 states already have a similar law on their

According to the office of one of the sponsors, Assemblywoman Linda Stender, D-Middlesex, Somerset and Union, the language in the current bill, plus language in the companion Senate bill, S-1461, which now only mention bicyclists, will be expanded to include pedestrians and other vulnerable individuals or groups. Also, the current $100 fine will be maintained for a first offense, but subsequent offenses will carry a $300 fine.

The purpose of the bill is straightforward. Many drivers are not steering slightly to the left of the lane when passing bicyclists, pedestrians and joggers. Without a 3-foot safety zone, the chances increase these vulnerable persons could be struck when a vehicle passes, and for bicyclists and pedestrians even minor contact with a vehicle can be life-threatening. Since joggers, pedestrians and especially bikers, who travel with the flow of traffic, are frequently unaware of an approaching vehicle, the bill rightfully makes it the driver's responsibility to establish the 3-foot safety zone. All this reasoning is just common sense that reaffirms basic road safety and driver courtesy.

Last year the bill was passed 78-1 in the Assembly, but was never released to the full Senate for a vote. Opposition came from urban senators, who apparently believe their narrow roads would make a 3-feet safety zone difficult; hence, the words "when possible" will be added to the bill for the next session. Sponsors in both chambers believe a big push in 2011 could put the bill on the governor's desk for his consideration.

Supporters of this bill know New Jersey drivers will not miraculously alter their driving habits the moment the bill is signed. But if the law is on the books, it will be taught in driver's education classes, and will appear in the manual new drivers study to earn their driver's license. New Jersey streets can be scary places, filled with cell-phone users, texters, people who have consumed alcohol, and plenty of those Jersey drivers we all know: in a hurry, confident in their driving ability and somewhat distracted. In an age when bike use is being encouraged as a "green" alternative for travel, and when many lowincome residents use bicycles as their sole means of transportation, this law is needed. In time, it will reduce injuries and fatalities. We urge our readers to go online and sign the petition at ipetitions.com/petition/3-feet-safe-passing.

eaving a leaky bag and whistle

In clear 20-20 hindsight, the opportunity as a young pup to work at the statehouse with an array of colorful people was something to give thanks for. It was a post-academic course in the real world of By Frank Capece politics. Bob Falcey, a Mercer county power and 40-year veteran of the office of Secretary of State would regal with stories like the meeting in 1960 with an angry Bobby Kennedy, who lambasted the neutral position of then-Gov. Robert Meyner in endorsing a presidential candidate.

Or the time his pre-teen sons bolted down a street in Princeton toward an older man whom they recognized as Albert Einstein. Falcey apologized for the interruption, when the great scientist smiled and said how much he enjoyed children.

There was also John Latwinas, a wiley Democratic operative from Burlington County. Once, after being summoned to a meeting with Gov. Brendan Byrne, he came back and quipped "he just left me with a leaky bag.'

For Cranford Mayor Mark Smith, coming off a rough election defeat, the holiday season finds him presenting the gift of a leaky bag of sorts to the incoming new Democratic majority in the Township. A big issue in the local campaign was the attempt by Smith and fellow Republicans to carve out the sewer bill from the general tax, making it a fee and giving the meeting the state-imposed cap.

Things started going bad when fellow Commissioner Mark Dugan flippantly called the move a "bookkeeping entry." The underdog and virtually unknown local Democrats focused on the sewer tax and floated to victory.

The chastened Republicans saying they heard the voter's will, at the next meeting voted to put the sewer bill back in the general tax leaving a terrible squeeze on next year's budget to be wrestled with by the incoming Democrats. The introduction of the ordinance brought out two rude speakers who were unfortunately out to get cable television air time and the joy of insulting the mayor.

The incoming Democrats, while complaining about the flip flops, knew a political maneuver was taking place. It is a lot like when the Chinese say be careful, or you will get what you wish for. For a guy like Smith who constantly complained about the political bosses in Elizabeth, his flipping of the sewer tax would even bring a red blush to governing body wiggle room in ordinance is up for final consideration, it will be interesting to see who takes what position. The Republicans said the sewer tax removal was necessary to averting massive lavoffs. That might have been an exaggeration but with the mandated 2 percent cap limit next year it will be far from a budget picnic for the new majority with state likely to cut aid again. This new cap has only exceptions for health insurance, pension cuts, paying off debt and states of emergencies. Around the state, the predictions are layoffs and more user fees like the one that sunk Smith.

Currently, the property tax accounts for more than 40 percent of total state and local tax revenue, compared to 30 percent nationally.

One more trip down memory lane. For years, I sat at games next to Don Unger - a dear friend and minority stock owner of the New Jersey Nets before they became a good team. We had the joy of yelling at guys with overactive pituitary glands as well as the hated referees. One night when the ref could take no more of the cat calls he wheeled to Unger saying "you want the whistle?" Without missing a beat, Unger stood up and said 'yea, give it to me."

Come Dec. 14, Mark Smith, soon to be an ex-official, is prepared to give the leaky bag and whistle to the incoming Democrats.

Come Dec. 14, 2010 when the An attorney, Frank Capece is a resident of Cranford.

Gratitude to legislators

As the superintendent of schools in Clark, I wanted to express my gratitude and appreciation to our 22nd Legislative District Assemblywoman Linda Stender and Assemblyman Jerry Green for their attendance and support of various school functions over the first two months of the school year here in district.

Being new to the community, I have been greatly impressed with both legislators' dedication and commitment to our public schools. Assemblyman Green was the keynote speaker at our Superintendent's Convocation on the opening day of school. Assemblyman Green's positive comments were very uplifting to all staff, teachers and administrators in attendance: it was an ideal way to kick off the start of a new school Assemblywoman Stender very graciously accepted an invitation to address our fourth and fifth grade students at Frank K. Hehnly School as part of the "Legislators' Back to School Initiative." Mrs. Stender captivated her young audience of nine, 10 and 11year-olds with information about how government works, how a bill becomes a law, the value of a democracy and the responsibility of citizens in becoming active in government.

The assemblywoman then fielded numerous thought provoking questions from her focused and engaged audience.

This past month both Assemblyman Green and Assemblywoman Stender took time from their busy schedules to attend our Realtors' Day luncheon at Arthur L. Johnson High School. Each addressed the assemblage of realtors and impressed all those in attendance with their knowledge of both the Clark schools and community, their knowledge of real estate developments in both Clark and the state of New Jersey, and their support of both the municipality and schools.

We are indeed fortunate to have such supportive and hands-on legislators representing the 22nd Legislative District as Assemblyman Green and Assemblywoman Stender. As a school district, we certainly value their appreciation, vision and support of our educational initiatives; it's gratifying to know we have such insightful and dedicated legislators representing us in Trenton.

Tax projections for 2011

Some Comments on the 2010 taxes and a look forward to 2011 and 2012 are in order.

Total Taxes in 2010 went down to 4.18 percent from 4.48 percent in 2009. If we are to get down to 2 percent or lower we are going to have to do some pretty fierce negotiating. It is my suggestion that when contracts are up we should propose the wages will decrease 1 percent a year for the next 10 years. My logic is that the public employees have had a very good deal the past 10 years.

This de-escalation is gradual and this will just get things back to a better balance. Pensions are outside the cap so we have a problem there. My preference is for the state to declare bankruptcy and we go back to the bargaining table. Another big item is the health benefits. We have to get the people to give a greater contribution than 1.5 percent. Following is a detailed listing of the school, city and Union County taxes for School taxes total in 2010 went down to 4.12 percent from 4.47 percent in 2009. This was after the School Board of Estimate approved a budget of 4.90 percent which was reduced to 4.43 percent by vote of the Summit City Council.

The Schools levies represent 50 percent of the total tax levies. To that, we have to add the school debt which adds 3 percent for a Total School Tax of 53 percent, unchanged from 2009. We need 2011 and 2012 numbers too.

City of Summit Taxes in 2010 continued their downward trend 2.45 percent from 3 percent in 2009 with the strong leadership of Finance Chair Rich Madden, Tom Getzendanner, Ellen Dickson and Council President Dave Bomgaars. Chris Cotter, city administrator, did a good job of keeping track of the changes as the budget developed and Scott Olsen stepped up and performed nicely as acting city treas-

Not replacing employees who retired during the year caused concern particularly in the police and fire departments.

Whether we can hold the staffing we have now, will have to be watched closely. The city of Summit represents 23 percent of the Total Tax Levies, down from 24 percent in 2009. Looking at the Non-Binding Projections for 2011, we see a 2.12 percent increase and in 2012 we see an increase of 1.2 percent. This is not acceptable.

Union County Taxes in 2010 were essentially the same 6.09 percent versus 6.08 percent in 2009. The 4 percent cap or a 2 percent cap doesn't apply here. The Union County Open Space Taxes are down 5.56 percent from 2.86 percent up in 2009. If we add the County, 23 percent, and Open Space Taxes at 1 percent, for a county total tax of 24 percent in 2010, up from 23 percent in 2009. We need 2011 and 2012 numbers too.

Now we have the school taxes - 53 percent of the tax bill - as our largest tax, next we have county taxes at 24 percent and finally we have city taxes at 23 percent. The city council has been doing the best job, but it does not get any easier.

Local graduates from Coast Guard training

Coast Guard Seaman Craig M. Montgomery, son of Kelly and Craig Montgomery of Roselle Park, recently graduated from the U.S. Coast Guard Recruit Training Center in Cape May.

During the eight-week training program, Montgomery completed a vigorous training curriculum consisting of academics and practical instruction on water safety and survival, military customs and courtesies, seamanship skills, first aid, fire fighting and marksmanship. A major emphasis is also placed on physical fitness, health and wellness.

Montgomery and other recruits also received instruction on the Coast Guard's core values of honor, respect and devotion to duty and how to apply them in their military performance and personal conduct.

Montgomery will join 36,000 other men and women who comprise Coast Guard's force.

Men and women train together from the first day in the Coast Guard just as they do aboard ships and shore units throughout the world. To reinforce the team concept, Montgomery, and other recruits, were trained in preventing sexual harassment, drug and alcohol awareness, civil rights training, and the basics of the work-life balance, as well as total quality management.

Montgomery is a 2008 graduate of Roselle Park High School.

School superintendents in UC brace themselves for salary cap

By Cheryl Hehl Staff Writer

The following is the first in a series on the salary cap Gov. Chris Christie is imposing on school superintendents, beginning Feb. 7.

Gov. Chris Christie's plan to cap school superintendents salaries is causing a showdown with some Union County school districts, while others are protected because of recently signed contracts.

The proposal, according to the governor's office, would mean pay cuts for 366, or 70 percent, of superintendents in New Jersey. This would save school districts $9.8 million.

"While families and school districts across the state cope with fewer resources and continued fiscal challenges, many school administrators continue to receive salaries that are out of proportion with the private sector and current economic realities," Christie said in a statement about the proposed plan. "This cap will limit excessive administrator pay and ensure that more dollars are available for our children."

cap in July but is now taking steps to put in place the measure that does not require legislative

The plan that would link tenured and non-tenured superintendent's salaries as well as business administrators, to the number of students in a district, struck a nerve with some school officials in Union County. Particularly because the governor has set the salary cap at $120,000 for the smallest districts to $175,000 in the 16 statewide districts with more than 10,000 students. Christie, however, put in a salary incentive up to 15 percent above the overall salary. Superintendents could earn a one-year bonus based on student perform-to circumvent the plan that will educators in surrounding Union take effect after Feb. 7.

Summit Superintendent Nathan Parker who earns $222,560 a year. could see his salary slashed to $165,000 when his contract is up in 2012, caused the board of education to take a proactive stance.

Board members publically made it clear that they were against the proposed salary cap, even going as far as to send a letter to the governor to express opposition to the plan. Board president Jack Lyness definitely had an opinion on the matter, speaking about it at several workshop meetings.

"I cited two objections," the board president said at a Sept. 16 meeting, adding that the board superintendent compensation "as a local matter to be decided between the board and superintendent." He also pointed out that based on the way pensions are calculated - an average of the three final year's salary -- Parker would have little choice but to retire at the end of his contract, which expires in June 2012.

'We fail to see how this will Christie announced plans for the benefit either the children or taxpayers in the city of Summit," Lyness said in the letter to the governor. He also touted Parker's credentials, noting that he had 35 years experience in education, and works 60- to 70-hour work weeks.

> The Summit school district, which has an annual budget of more than $60 million, questioned Christie's reasoning behind the cap

'Everyone agrees that this is a time of enormous challenge for public education in the state of New Jersey. How can it make sense at such a time to force an effective educational leader to leave?" Lyness asked in the letter

Kenneth Knops, who earns $175,000 a year as superintendent of Clark, would see his salary drop by $10,000. An educator for 34 County towns reacted swiftly to try years, Knops, along with fellow

County towns, were uncertain how they would address a drop in pay. while others hurried to renegotiate or amend contracts to get around recently adopted a resolution opposing the salary cap and said publically in recent weeks that they will be discussing amending Superintendent Judith Ratter's contract at the next meeting on Dec. 9.

Ratter earns $190,000 for running a district with six schools and more than 2,600 students. She would see $35,000 cut from her salary when the cap takes effect

In several school districts the issue is not even on the agenda. For instance, in Cranford, Superintendent Gayle Carrick's contract was just renewed in June and will not be up for five years. Carrick made $178,000 this year under the new contract, but as a top administrator in a district with more than 3,800 students, her salary would be capped in 2015 at $165,000, $13,000 less than she is making

However, the superintendent could raise that annual figure by some $15,000. Because Christie's plan allows for a $2,500 stipend if the district includes a high school, plus the incentive bonus of up to 15 percent, Carrick could make more than she is making this year.

Kenilworth Superintendent Sylvan Hershey also is under a contract that was just renewed until 2013. He was paid $169,000 in 2009-2010, $24,000 more than what the cap allows for a district with just 1,382 students. But Hershey would also qualify for the stipend because although there is only one elementary school, the superintendent oversees a high school.

Kean hosts panel to begin Artists Series

Premiere Stages, the professional Equity theatre at Kean University, is excited to kick off the 2010-2011 Premiere Artists Series with a panel featuring New York Commercial Producers Pat Addiss, Larry Hirschhorn and Carol Ostrow.

The event will take place on Monday at 3:15 p.m. in the University Center Little Theatre, 1000 Morris Avenue, Union.

Pat Addiss is a Broadway producer whose credits include the current Promises, Promises revival, The 39 Steps, and Chita Rivera: The Dancer's Life among others. The Premiere Artists Series is offered in collaboration with Kean University's College of Visual and Performing Arts and brings world-class theatre professionals to the Kean campus to engage students and the community in uniquely tailored master classes, lectures, residency programs and question and answer sessions.

These events provide excellent networking opportunities for students and often lead to internships, assistantships and employment in the field. Past visiting artists who have participated in the Premiere Artists Series include Woodie King, Daphne Rubin-Vega, Norbert Leo Butz, Olympia Dukakis, John Lee Beatty, Rick Sordelet Kim Zimmer and Lee Blessing.

Admission and parking for the Premiere Artists Series is free, but reservations are strongly recommended. Send an e-mail to premiere@kean.edu or call 908-737-4092 for information and to reserve tickets. Premiere Stages is made possible in part through funding from The New Jersey State Council on the Arts, The Geraldine R. THIS IS H.S. FOOTBALL

For the second year in a row, only one Union County squad reached a sectional final.

That school is Mid-State 39 Conference-East C Division champ New Providence, which will face Lincoln of Jersey City in next week's North 2, Group 1 championship game.

New Providence is 9-1 and has now won four straight after pulling off another dramatic playoff comeback.

The Pioneers ousted Verona 20-19 at home in Saturday's semifinal game at Lieder Field. The visiting Hillbillies led 13-0 at the half.

New Providence defeated Hoboken 24-21 at home in the quarterfinals on a last-play-ofthe-game field goal. Hoboken led 21-0 at the half.

New Providence reached its first sectional final since 2004 and will be playing in the North 2, Group 1 championship game for the first time since 2000.

The Pioneers, who have lost the last nine title contests they have appeared in, last captured a playoff championship and last won North 2, Group 1 in 1989,

In the playoff era, New Providence has won North 2, Group 2 in 1974 (declared) and 1976 and North 2, Group 1 in 1987, 1988, 1989.

Lincoln has captured one playoff championship in its only previous title game appearance. The Lions won the 1981 North 1, Group 3 crown by beating Lakeland 22-14 in the final.

Lincoln went on the road to down Glen Ridge first 36-19 and then Dayton 42-14 Saturday at Union's Cooke Memorial Field.

Dayton played without starting sophomore quarterback Anthony Cioffi, who was out with a right hand injury he suffered in the fourth quarter of Dayton's 31-10 home playoff win over Belvidere.

Dayton put together another fantastic season, finishing 9-2. In between a season-opening home loss to New Providence 24-0 and the home playoff setback to Lincoln, the Bulldogs won nine games in a row for the first time in a long time or ever and also captured their first playoff win in 29 years.

Dayton has gone 17-3 the last two seasons.

Rahway came close to reaching another state championship game but fell just short at home against Nutley Saturday. The Indians were downed by the Maroon Raiders 14-7 in a North 2, Group 3 semifinal at Veterans Field.

Rahway comes back but falls short against Nutley

Turnover late in 4th quarter proves costly

By JR Parachini Sports Editor

RAHWAY – When you get two pretty evenly matched teams in these football playoff games it's usually a turnover that has a major bearing on which team will come out on top.

That was the case Saturday afternoon at Veterans Field, with the game's only turnover proving very costly to the home team Indians and highly beneficial to the visiting Maroon Raiders.

After gaining a first down on fourth down and still trailing by a touchdown, Rahway lost a fumble with 2:22 left in the game that sealed its fate.

Nutley recovered on the Rahway 37 and despite the Indians using all three of their timeouts, the Maroon Raiders were able to keep possession of the football the rest of the way while holding on for a hard-fought 14-7 North Jersey, Section 2, Group 3 semifinal triumph.

There was no scoring in the second half.

Seventh-seeded Nutley, which won its second straight to improve to 7-3, will take on Morristown (7-4) in next week's final.

Morristown is done with its regular season, while Nutley still has to play at Belleville on Thanksgiving morning.

Nutley reached its fifth sectional final in the playoff era – all in North 2, Group 3 – and first since 1995. The Raiders will be going after their second championship and first since 1992.

Morristown reached its first final since falling to Ridgewood 35-6 in the 2003 North 1, Group 4 title game.

The Colonials are in the North 2, Group 3 final for the first time since last winning it in 1999 with a 46-0 victory over Rahway in the championship game at Giants Stadium.

Sixth-seeded Rahway had a three-game winning streak snapped and fell to 6-4. The Indians were seeking to reach the North 2, Group 3 final for the second time in three years. Rahway last won the section in 1984, which was for the third time.

Rahway will conclude its season at Mid-State 39 Conference-East B Division foe Johnson (4-5) Thanksgiving morning in Clark.

Nutley and Rahway entered with three losses each – all to playoff teams that lost in the first round – and both won their first playoff games on the road.

Nutley did what Rahway accomplished two years ago. The Raiders won their first two playoff games on the road to reach the final.

In the section's other semifinal, which was played Friday night in Long Valley, fourth-seeded Morrristown won at top-seeded and defending champion West Morris, with the score of that game also 14-7 and no points scored in the second half.

On fourth-and-one from the Rahway 38, sophomore quarterback Hakeem Kornegay, who scored his team's only touchdown on an eight-yard run with 38 seconds left in the first half, ran for another eight yards to his left for a critical first down on the Rahway 46.

Then on first down Kornegay moved right to pitch the ball to junior tailback Nafee Ariss.

However, the attempted pitch fell short of the running back and just fell straight to the ground without a Nutley player hitting the ball at all.

Nutley junior linebacker Michael Hovan recovered the fumble for the Maroon Raiders, giving them a first down at the Rahway 37.

Four plays later, following all three Rahway timeouts, senior quarterback Nicholas Tedesco ran left and gained 17 yards to the Rahway 4.

onship game this season. In 2004 New Providence lost to Florence 35-7 in the Central Jersey, Group 1 final. The Pioneers are in the North 2, Group 1 final for the first time since falling to Cedar Grove 12-0 in the 2000 game.

The Pioneers have won five titles in the playoff era. They won North 2, Group 2 declared the first year of the playoffs in 1974 and then won that section again in 1976. New Providence then captured North 2, Group 1 three years in a row in 1987, 1988 and 1989. The Pioneers have lost their last nine championship games, with the first eight of those coming in North 2, Group 1 and the last one in CJ, G1.

After a four-yard loss on first down, Rahway took a knee and immediately starting celebrating its first trip to a sectional final in 15 years.

"We knew they were a speed option team," said Nutley head coach Steve DiGregorio, whose 35th win at Nutley since he took over in 2004 might be his sweetest so far. "I think that was the first time they pitched the ball. Unfortunately, those are the breaks."

"They (Nutley) did a great job of adjusting," Rahway head coach Gary Mobley said. "We put the ball in the hands of our best player (Kornegay). He faked at first. It was a great play on their (Nutley) part (to get the turnover)."

Nutley moved the ball well down the field its first two possessions, but Rahway's defense held enough to prevent the Maroon Raiders from reaching the end zone.

After nine plays and marching from its own 28 to the Rahway 13, junior placekicker Philip Condito kicked a 30-yard field goal to put Nutley ahead for good at 3-0.

Following 10 plays from its own 41 to the Rahway 16, Condito was called up on again and this time he nailed a 32-yard field goal to give the Maroon Raiders a 6-0 advantage with 2:34 left in the first quarter.

Most of the yardage gained on those drives came from the running of junior back Matt DelMauro, who followed the lead of junior offensive lineman Gregory Palma to the right side.

"Matt was hurt most of last year," DiGregorio said.
"He's become an explosive back the past couple of games, breaking school records against Shabazz and Colonia."

DelMauro produced another fine game against Rahway, leading all rushers with 132 yards on 31 carries, including 91 on 18 and one touchdown in the first half.

"I love it when I hear they're going to run to my side," Palma said. "On offense we had to shut down No. 66 (Rahway defensive end Osa Igbinosun). "We had faith today."

"Greg is a great worker," DiGregorio said. "He's a warrior and someone that loves football so much."

After holding Rahway to just one first down during its first three possessions of the first half, Nutley put together another solid drive on its fourth.

The Raiders went 55 yards in 13 plays and used up more than five minutes, this time reaching the end zone. DelMauro scored from the three-yard line on second-and-goal to make it 12-0. A two-point pass from Tedesco to junior tight end Nicholas Mangum against double coverage put the Maroon Raiders up 14-0 with 2:12 left in the half.

To Rahway's credit, with the Indians always a threat when the tough-to-get-a-hold-of Kornegay has the ball, it managed to get back in the game right before halftime.

Rahway also did so without breaking a super long play. The Indians went 82 yards in six plays before Kornegay reached the end zone.

The biggest play on the drive was a 30-yard run by Kornegay that gave Rahway a first down at the Nutley 27.

While Nutley appeared to be far more dominant the Maroon Raiders outgained the Indians 165-90 in total yardage the first two quarters - Rahway only trailed 14-7 at the half.

"At that point I felt pretty good," Mobley said.

"We had to settle for field goals, but did enough offensively," Palma said. "On defense we had to shut down their quarterback (Kornegay) and I think we did a good job of that."

Kornegay rushed for 64 yards on nine attempts and his touchdown in the first half and gained 51 on 11 carries in the second half to finish with 115 on 20. He was 2-for-4 passing for minus one yard.

Rahway was only able to muster two first downs during its first four second half possessions, but – defensively – the Indians did a much better job of clamping down and containing DelMauro and fellow junior running back Louis Meggiolaro, who finished with 29 yards on six carries, with 24 of the yards coming in the first half.

Both teams punted the ball four times in the second half for an average of 33 yards. The only time Nutley did not punt was after it took a knee following the game's only turnover.

Ariss was held to 26 yards rushing on 11 carries. Rahway senior fullback Cary Jones gained just 12 yards on four attempts.

"Our defense played much better in the second half, but we couldn't capitalize on anything offensively," Mobley said. "That was my fault."

"Nobody expected either team to get this far," DiGregorio said. "Rahway is a terrific team, one that is very explosive

"For us, our staff and players deserve all the credit. They believe in the program. I'm the one person they don't need. All the players have to do is go out and play well and they did today."

Tedesco completed 3-of-9 passes for 37 yards, with all of his completions – to Meggiolaro, junior wide receiver Peter Carissimo and Mangum – coming in the first half. He carried the ball seven times for 38 yards.

"It's been a long time since Nutley made it this far," Palma said. "It's just a great feeling."

In on their share of tackles for Nutley were junior lineman Carlos Rosa, Tedesco, senior lineman Joseph Fusaro, Palma, Hovan and junior lineman Andre Hamlin

The Maroon Raiders also produced one quarterback sack in the second half.

Making their share of tackles for Rahway were senior linebacker Diego Chavez, junior tackle Laziek Jones, junior tackle Dion Dawkins, senior linebacker Hanif Denny, junior tackle Urayoan Garcia, Ariss, junior linebacker Carlos Orsini, senior linebacker Alix Similien and senior end Keith Bumpas.

NOTES: Nutley reached the North 2, Group 3 final first in 1988, falling at two-time defending champion Randolph 15-12.

The Raiders then made it to back-to-back title games at home, falling to West Morris 14-0 in 1991 and beating Morris Knolls 39-6 in 1992.

Nutley's last appearance in the North 2, Group 3 final was in 1995 when the Raiders were shut out at West Morris 21-0.

Mobley has guided Rahway to a sectional semifinal six of his seven seasons at the helm.

Rahway reached the Central Jersey, Group 2 semifinals four years in a row from 2004-2007.

The Indians won at West Morris 25-13 in Long Valley in their 2008 North 2, Group 3 semifinal.

5 grid games on tap for Thanksgiving morning

By JR Parachini Sports Editor

For the first time - I believe - since 2004, there are no Union County football football games scheduled for the night before Thanksgiving. All 10 teams that did not conclude their regular seasons will wrap them up tomorrow against each other.

Games that will kick off at 10:30 a.m. feature Linden at Union, Rahway at Johnson and Roselle at Roselle Park. Games that kick off at 11 a.m. include Gov. Livingston at New Providence and Westfield at Plainfield.

In 2005, there was Union at Linden and Cranford at Kearny the night before. In 2006, Elizabeth hosted Scotch Plains. In 2007, Linden hosted Union again and in 2008, Elizabeth hosted Scotch Plains for the last time. In 2009, Linden hosted Union the night before for the third time.

Here's a look at tomorrow's matchups:

Linden (7-2) at Union (4-5), 10:30 a.m. at Cooke Memorial Field: Linden will attempt to pull off a rare eight-win, non-playoff season. The Tigers - who became the first team not to have enough power points to qualify in North 2, Group 4 with a 6-2 record at the cutoff date - have won two straight. Union seeks to avoid its first sub-.500 season since a 4-6 finish in 2004 and end its present season with a three-game winning streak. Union leads the series 33-29-5.

Key returning players: Linden junior Ruhann Peele. Union freshman Jamauri Bogan.

2009: Linden 26, Union 20 - at Linden

Rahway (6-4) at Johnson (4-5), 10:30 a.m. at Nolan Field in Clark: Rahway is coming off a tough 14-7 home setback to Nutley in the North 2, Group 3 semifinals Saturday, which snapped a three-game winning streak. Johnson will seek to avoid its first sub-.500 season since a 1-9 finish in 2004. These teams, who used to play each other on Thanksgiving, resumed their holiday rivalry in 2004. Rahway has won four of the past six games, including the last three.

2009: Rahway 19, Johnson 13 - at Rahway

Roselle (6-3) at Roselle Park (1-8), 10:30 a.m. at Herm Shaw Field: Roselle, which just made the state playoffs for the first time since 2000, will be seeking its first seven-win season since going 8-3 in 1998. Roselle Park snapped a 22-game losing streak two weeks ago after dominating Whippany Park 41-14 at home in a North 2, Group 1 consolation game. Next year the Panthers will seek to post their first winning season since 2006. Roselle has captured the last two meetings, but Roselle Park still leads Union County's second-oldest holiday series 47-37-8.

Key returning players: Roselle sophomore Derrick Dunn. Roselle Park junior Brendan Leary.

2009: Roselle 35, Roselle Park 0 - at Roselle

Gov. Livingston (1-8) at New Providence (9-1), 11 a.m. at Lieder 0-14 Field: GL snapped an 11-game losing streak by beating visiting North 1, 0-7 Group 2 foe Dumont 21-13 in its sectional crossover consolation game. New Providence has won four straight and reached its first sectional final in six years. New Providence has won the last four meetings and is 7-1 against GL since they began playing on the holiday again in 2002.

Key returning players: GL junior Andrew Romeo. New Providence junior David Barletta.

2009: New Providence 26, Gov. Livingston 20 (2OT) - at GL

Westfield (6-3) at Plainfield (4-5), 11 a.m. at Hub Stine Field: Both teams have lost two straight, including first round playoff games. Westfield has won the last four meetings and leads Union County's oldest holiday series at 54-44-7.

Key returning players: Westfield junior Peter Ondi. Plainfield junior Diijon Allen-Jordan.

2009: Westfield 26, Plainfield 6 - at Westfield

Roselle Catholic senior Matt Hennie of Roselle Park signs his letter-of-intent to attend St. John's on a baseball scholarship. Here, Hennie is seated with his mom Anna and dad Michael, with head coach John Schmitt standing behind him.

Roselle Catholic senior Hennie chooses Rutgers

RH pitcher to continue at Division 1 level

By JR Parachini Sports Editor

When Union County coaches and players were asked who the best pitcher in the county was this past spring, the unanimous answer was Roselle Catholic junior right hander Matt Hennie.

More than a few colleges were impressed as well. On Nov. 12, Hennie chose to sign a letter-of-intent to continue playing at Division 1 power St. John's.

"I felt it was the best baseball I could get," the Roselle Park resident said. "It's a great program and a great school."

Hennie also considered Kean, Montclair and Monmouth. He wanted to remain on the east coast.

"Other schools called such as Tulane and Michigan, but I didn't want to travel too far," Hennie said. "I wanted to stay closer to home."

Hennie, who started for the Union squad in this June's first Union-Essex Underclassmen All-Star Game at Kean University, will play for St. John's coach and former Seton Hall University standout Ed Blankmeyer, who has been at the helm of the Red Storm for 15 years now.

Blankmeyer was there to see Hennie pitch in the All-Star Game, which will be played again at Kean next June.

Hennie said he always aspired to play Division 1 ball and realizes that he will have to work hard to compete at that level.

"They said I would be in the rotation, but they weren't too specific," Hennie said. "I'll have to work to stay there.

"It won't be easy."

Hennie pitched this past summer for Bobby Jones' South Bergen Mets squad, where the team competed in tournaments in Florida and Ohio.

With that team he worked on his cutter.

His pitching arsenal this past spring for Roselle Catholic included a two-seamer, curveball, four-seamer and change.

"The two-seamer was my go-to pitch," said Hennie, who went 6-2 this past spring for a Roselle Catholic team that reached the Union County Tournament quarterfinals and went 1-1 in the Non-Public, North A playoffs before finishing 19-10.

"This summer my two-seamer was around 88-90 (mph)," Hennie said.

After pitching on the junior varsity as a freshman in 2008, Hennie made varsity as a sophomore in 2009.

The Second Team All-County selection this spring agreed that his best effort was a complete-game win over eventual Union County Tournament and Group 3 state champion Cranford.

On May 10 in a 5-4 conference home victory vs. the Cougars, who also won the Union County Conference's Mountain Division title, Hennie tossed a seveninning, four-hitter, allowing three earned runs, striking out 13 and walking just one.

When Justin Dziedzic delivered a two-out, two-run double in the bottom of the seventh, Roselle Catholic snapped a nine-game losing streak to Cranford and beat the Cougars for the first time since the 2004 UCT semifinals.

Hennie struck out nine of the last 10 batters he faced.

He hopes to be able to provide Roselle Catholic with many more performances like that come April.

"I'm just trying to improve on my velocity and mechanics," Hennie said. "I want us to get better as a team. We have a lot of determined underclassmen that want to get better."

NOTES: Cranford and Gov. Livingston moved up to the UCC's Watchung Division for the 2011 season.

Signing a letter-of-intent last Friday to play at Division 2 Adelphi was GL senior pitcher Mike Cranston.

Cranston went 8-3 last year after a 6-0 season as a sophomore.

GL senior shortstop John Jennings will continue at Rutgers as what is called a "recruited walk-on."

Johnson's Stockl to play golf at Rutgers

Senior among state's best

Rutgers University Director of Golf Maura Waters-Ballard announced Nov. 16 that Johnson High School senior and Clark resident Jacob Stockl has signed a National Letter of Intent to compete for the Scarlet Knights.

Stockl placed second out of 156 qualifiers at the New Jersey High School State Tournament of Champions this past spring. He also earned First Team All-State honors.

"We're very excited to welcome Jacob into the program," Waters-Ballard said.

"He is one of the top junior golfers in the state.

"Jacob has had great success playing both a regional and national competitive golf schedule. He is very consistent and is capable of shooting very low scores."

In addition to placing seventh at the 2010 NJSGA Amateur Championship, Stockl had six wins on the junior circuit.

He earned a first place finish at the IJGT at Blue Heron Pines, won the NJPGA Junior Championship, was first at the NJPGA Junior Masters, won the qualifier for the national PGA Championship, captured first in the state qualifier for the USGA Junior Boys Championship and won the IJGT at Hershey.

A three-year MVP and three-time team captain at Johnson, this past spring Stockl placed second after a playoff in the North Jersey, Group 2 Sectional, was third in the Union County Tournament and placed fifth in Westfield Blue Devil Classic.

Stockl captured the UCT during his freshman and sophomore seasons. He shot a three-over-par 74 at Shackamaxon to win in 2009.

Johnson standout senior golfer Jacob Stockl will continue in college on the Division 1 level at Rutgers.

Cranford's Hull, baseball coach McCaffery have a memorable Friday night

It took 1984 Cranford graduate Chris Hull four tries and 12 seasons as a head football coach, but he finally got to where he wants to be.

Hull has led the Morristown Colonials into the North 2, Group 3 championship game after his team won at defending champion West Morris 14-7 in Friday night's semifinals in Long Valley.

Morristown will face Nutley in next week's final.

This is Hull's sixth season as the head coach at Morristown after he was the head coach at Cranford for six seasons (1999-2004). Hull led Cranford to the 2003 North 2, Group 2 semifinals and Morristown previously to the 2006 and 2007 North 2, Group 3 semifinals.

Morristown is now 7-4 and has won three straight. The Colonials will be playing Nutley (7-3) for the first time in a playoff game.

In baseball news, Cranford head coach Dennis McCaffery was inducted into the Villanova Hall of Fame Friday night. McCaffery played one year at FDU-Teaneck, then at Brookdale Community College in Lincroft and then at Villanova before getting drafted by the California Angels. His record at Cranford since his first year as the head coach in 1999 is 253-80 (.760). He has led the Cougars to six county championships and one state title.

Inspired ALJ girls' soccer team reaches new heights

Sports Editor

When a team loses two starters - or more specifically two of its best players - to injuries, end-of-the-season success usually doesn't translate.

That's why the run made by the Johnson girls' soccer team at the conclusion of its 2010 campaign is truly remarkable.

Having to play more than half the season without leading scorer Rachel Syko and then the month of November minus sweeper Eryka Underwood didn't prevent the Crusaders from going out and giving it their all.

Johnson did more than that in capturing its first sectional title in six years by winning Central Jersey, Group 2 for the second time and first since 2004.

A fifth state tournament win followed in the Group 2 semifinals when the Crusaders went all the way to Sewell Nov. 16 and defeated South Jersey champion Middle Township 3-0.

In Saturday's Group 2 state championship game at The College of New Jersey in Ewing Township, Johnson received an early second half goal from senior Kristy Pflug, but it wasn't quite enough.

Johnson fell to North I champion Mahwah 3-1, falling just short of winning its first state championship in its first appearance in a group final. Just to reach a group final despite everything that happened this year was quite a feat.

Hopefully Syko, a senior, will be able to bounce back from the concussion that knocked her out of competition this year and be healthy and ready to go if she decides to continue playing in college.

Underwood, Johnson's sophomore sweeper, is still recovering from her accident at St. Barnabus Medical Center in Livingston. It's been reported that there's a good chance she will be able to play again by the time her junior season starts next September.

When Johnson was at full strength this year, including when captains Kristy Pflug and Nicole Marzano were in the lineup and not sidelined with injuries, the Crusaders were among - perhaps - the top two teams in the county along with Scotch Plains - which was the eventual Union County Tournament champion.

Johnson got out to a 6-0-1 start, with the only non-win a conference 0-0 tie at home vs. Scotch Plains.

Then Syko was lost for the season and other key players were sidelined, including Pflug and Marzano.

Johnson then found itself with a 7-5-1 record following a 3-2 loss at non-conference foe Oak Knoll on Oct. 21.

The Crusaders rebounded by beating Plainfield 5-0 at Johnson then downed visiting Union 3-1 in the UCT quarterfinals two days later before falling to Westfield at home in a UCT semifinal two days after that. That was the game Underwood was lost for the season with an ACL injury.

Now without another key player, Johnson began play in Central Jersey, Group 2 and knocked out North Plainfield 4-0 at home. Three days later the Crusaders edged Delaware Valley 5-4 in the quarterfinals. Then Johnson topped visiting Rumson-Fair Haven 1-0 in the semifinals.

Next was a third game against Gov. Livingston, this one in the sectional final. A goal scored by senior Cat Hanley in the first half was the difference as Johnson won 1-0 for its third win in three tries over GL this season - all by shutout.

Johnson then won its first group semifinal game by beating Middle Township before falling to Mahwah in its first group final. What could have easily turned into a sub-.500 season ended up being a rather impressive 14-7-1 finish.

PENDING ORDINANCE #10-2933

AN ORDINANCE AMENDING THE "CODE" CHAPTER XXI, SPECIAL IMPROVEMENT DISTRICT, SECTION 21-1.1, FINDINGS AND SECTION 21-1.2 DEFINITIONS (New defined SID boundaries)

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE COMMON COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF SUMMIT, SUMMIT, COUNTY OF UNION, STATE OF NEW JERSEY, AS FOLLOWS:

Section 1. That Section 21-1.1, FINDINGS, of the Code shall be amended and supplemented as follows:

21-1.1 Findings
f. In the Mayor and Council President Downtown Review Task Force report dated May 18, 2010 it was recommended to evaluate the SID boundaries. The report stated: "In the last fifteen years the downtown has grown. The SID has not. The boundaries of the SID should be expanded" According to the report this recommendation would provide a partial means of paying for a retail recruiter stating that "The fourteenth power the SID should exercise reads as follows: Recruit new businesses to fill vacancies in and to balance the business mix of the SID."

g. The City Planner in a REVIEW COMMENT AND RECOMMENDATION section of memo dated October 26, 2010 on the SID expansion subject advised as

"From a planning perspective, the proposed expansion is a logical decision ased on the following:

1. The downtown area has changed and grown since the original adoption of the SID.

2. The expansion can be implemented without negatively affecting the CRBD or the residential areas that abut the delineated area.

3. The character of the proposed expansion area has changed over the years and can be better integrated with the existing SID.

4. The proposed expansion furthers the goals and objectives of the master plan noted above."

More so than ever before, the word most spending what's in your wallet. associate with the holiday season nowadays isn't "Christmas" or "joy" or even "vacation." Instead, many people are simply hoping to of policing your purchases and reducing the "survive" once the holiday season hits full swing. Arguably the most hectic time of the year, the holidays can also be the most stressshopping.

Surviving the stresses of holiday shopping is no small task. However, the following tips should help make this season more about "joy" and less about "survival."

· Pay in cash. Much of the stress associated with holiday shopping surrounds a shopper's bottom line. With credit and even debit cards, it's easy for shoppers to stretch their budgets and overspend, which greatly contributes to the stress of the season.

· Shop early. The earlier you start your ful, particularly when it comes to holiday holiday shopping, the less stressful it's likely to be. While everyone seems to know at least one person who begins their holiday shopping in summer or fall, that's not really necessary. Instead, think about starting in November or commit to shopping in early December. By getting an earlier start, the lines are likely to be shorter at the stores; parking will be easier to find; and the stores are more likely to have what you're looking for.

· Use technology. For many, the Internet's greatest gift is cutting down on the time they To avoid overspending, make all of your used to spend waiting on line while doing ping list. And since the Internet never closes, you can do your online shopping at your leisure without having to worry about what times the stores open or close.

If you plan on doing your shopping online, you'll want to do so sooner rather than later. Shipping is always an unpredictable variable when it comes to buying online, so leave plenty of time for your gift to arrive before the big day.

· Look for sales. While comparing and contrasting prices can take some time, it can also save you substantial amounts of money. Having more money than expected at the end of the holiday season is not only rewarding, but goes a long way toward lessening the stress associated with the holidays.

Oftentimes, bigger chain stores allow you to buy discounted products on their Web site and then go pick the items up in the store, where they're listed at full price.

So comparison shopping can even be done between a physical store and its virtual self.

Shopping during the holidays can be an enjoyable experience if you know how to handle the seasonal stress.

The best way to exchange gifts with co-workers

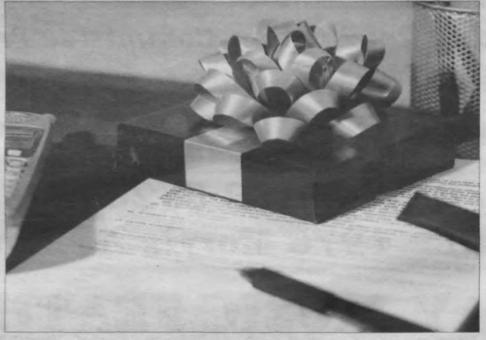

Exchanging gifts goes beyond friends and family members every year. Many co-workers exchange gifts come the holiday season. The rules that govern gifting workplace acquaintances may differ from those involved with gifting family.

Some businesses have long-established policies which address the exchanging of gifts, not only for the holiday season, but for other occasions, such as birthdays. These policies usually have been implemented for good reasons, and employees would be smart to adhere to the guidelines that they have been set down for gifts.

But if no such policies exist, a worker must take the right approach to giving gifts. Well-meaning employees can send the wrong message when choosing gifts inappropriate for the workplace. Here are some dos and don'ts to serve as guidelines when choosing presents for the office.

Children can be good company when you shop

In a perfect world, holiday shopping would take place free from crowds, with low prices on all the items, and with no crabby children in tow. However, reality often means that time-pressed parents have to brave the crowds to get their presents purchased, and often with children along for the ride.

Holiday shopping can be stressful enough when an adult does it alone. With children factored into the mix, it can turn into an adventure. Unable to dart from store to store and squeeze through milling shoppers, parents must pilot the stroller or shopping cart and battle through. Others must attempt to keep an eye on a youngster flitting through a sea of much-taller people in the mall or store.

Without having a breakdown or throwing in the towel and skipping shopping all together, what can parents do when they have to shop with children? Be patient and follow a few ideas to minimize the confusion.

One of the key things to remember is that children, especially toddlers, have short windows of time of good behavior and patience. While an infant in a stroller may be content to sleep the entire shopping trip away, a boisterous toddler or school-aged child may become anxious when faced with crowds and long ents should time shopping jaunts for after for short bursts of shopping so that children will not become overwhelmed or bored by the experience.

When taking kids along for holiday shopping, make sure kids are well fed ahead of time so they don't grow hungry and restless at the mall or store.

When possible, talk to older children during the shopping experience. Mention how much things cost and how they are being paid for. Kids can learn valuable life lessons about managing finances by mimicking their parents. Allow children to help with some decision-making processes, such as, "Should we buy grandma the blue or green blouse?" Being involved can make the shopping trip more tolerable and children will feel proud if they're involved in the process.

While shopping with kids can sometimes be a headache, minor irritations can turn into tragedy quickly if parents do not keep safety in mind when kids are along for the trip. It is very easy to lose track of children in bustling stores. Unfortunately, child predators also can be lurking during the holiday season because they know it's easier to kidnap a child or take advantage when parents are distracted and there are large crowds.

Although it may seem inhumane, kiddie harnesses are effective means to keeping young children close by. Most harnesses are equipped with a plush toy backpack and a plush lead with handle.

This gives the children some freedom to walk without having to constantly hold Mommy or Daddy's hand, but not enough

Children who will be riding in shopping and strapped in. Parents should not leave the stroller or wagon in one place to go browse for gifts. It only takes a minute for a fall to occur or for someone else to wander off with the child. It's a good idea for parents to take a picture of their children before starting the shopping trip so that they'll know exactly what they are wearing and be able to report it to the authorities should the youngsters wander off. Remember to take a picture of the children's shoes, as well. Child abductors often change the clothing of a kidnapped child but do not know the size of footwear and leave those shoes in place. Identification may be made by what shoes the kid is wearing. To learn more about keeping children safe, visit the Web site of the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children, www.missingkids.com.

Another thing to keep in mind is meal time. Apart from the hassle of waiting on food court lines for lunch or a snack, dining out with kids in tow also can be expensive. Save time and money by packing lunch in a small cooler, complete with juice boxes and finger foods that children can munch on.

Holiday shopping with children may not be the ideal situation, but innovative and safety-conscious parents can make the best of it this time of year.

ayaway is coming back

Layaway, a shopping tool popularized in years past, is now available again through many retailers. Shoppers who are making every cent count are turning to the pay-over-time method of purchase to avoid mounting debt after the holidays.

With layaway, shoppers can pay over time, interest-free and pick up their merchandise when it is paid off. For people looking to avoid a whopping credit-card bill or those who simply do not have the cash up-front for holiday purchases, layaway can be the ideal holiday shopping method.

Although layaway is not available in every store, big-name retailers such as Kmart, Sears and TJ Maxx do offer layaway in some locations. More than 1,000 retailers have teamed up with the Web site eLavaway.com to offer consumers an online lavaway option hooked up to customers' bank accounts. Once the item is paid for, it ships directly to the buyer's home.

Layaway is a concept first started during the Great Depression. For decades, customers relied on layaway to fund purchases they couldn't make all at once. Although layaway was a standard in many stores for years, lack of interest in the financing option caused many retailers to give it up. However, thanks to the recession and high unemployment rates of recent years, many stores have reinstituted layaway based on customer request.

For those unfamiliar with layaway, here's how it works.

- . The layaway department adds up the total purchase and asks for a deposit on the merchandise and usually a nominal transaction fee.
- The store holds the merchandise in a special layaway area, marked with the purchaser's
- The customer can return on his or her timetable to make payments toward the purchase total. Some stores may set a deadline for which the balance must be paid, such as Dec. 23 for
 - Once the merchandise is paid in full, the shopper is able to take it home.
- If the layaway order is cancelled or cannot be paid, the store may refund what has already been paid, charging a cancellation fee to restock the items.

Because there are no bills to pay after the holidays, layaway enables customers to enjoy Christmas without the stress of looming payments. Also, failure to pay the layaway purchase does not result in damage to one's personal credit rating, another boon in an era of stricter banking regulations.
