County has '100 percent' increase in West Nile virus

At least 111 out of 300 pools test positive, but no cases have been reported in Union County's human population

By Paul Greulich
Staff Writer

A higher-than-normal presence of West Nile virus kept county and local health officials busy this summer, and residents are not quite out of mosquito country yet.

While no confirmed cases of the virus in humans or birds have been identified in Union County, there were a record number of pools that were found to contain traces of the virus.

State and county reported last week that of more than 300 pools tested for the virus, 111 came back positive.

"We've never had that many pools test positive in Union County," Union County Director of the Mosquito Control Bureau Ralph Strano said. "It's a 100 percent increase."

The virus was identified in pools in all municipalities with the exception of Berkeley Heights. Rahway had the highest concentration of these contaminated pools with ten, followed by Linden with seven and Scotch Plains with five. Results were still pending for more pools, Strano said.

"It has been a higher than normal mosquito year based on what the County Mosquito Bureau has reported," said President of the Union County Health Officers Association Warren Hehl.

Hehl explained this was likely caused by the mild winter, followed by an early spring.

"Everyone liked the mild winter, but it caused a problem with mosquitoes earlier in the year," Hehl said.

According to the New Jersey Department of Health, there have been no con-

Wozniak expected to be named as new police chief in Cranford

By Cheryl Hehl

CRANFORD — Police Lt. James Wozniak, a member of the force for 23 years, will be the next township police chief.

The Township Committee made the decision last week after a closed door meeting, but it was decided not to make an official announcement until Oct. 1 because there were still small details to work out. However, according to one source, the 43 member police force was told Sept. 12 that Wozniak would be the next top cop.

According to another source, who has been closely involved with the selection process, when all was said and done, the choice was not difficult.

"Lt. Wozniak was the best choice for Cranford," the source noted, adding that while the three other candidates — Lt. Stephen Wilde, Lt. Edward Davenport and Capt. Joseph Van Bergen — all had excellent qualifications and did well in the interview and testing process, Wozniak came out as the person who was the "best fit."

Wozniak, who began his career as a street patrolman, worked his way through the ranks.

For the moment, Kean is no longer in the spotlight, having received a positive review by a visiting team from the Middle States Commission on Higher Education, and faculty members remain cautiously optimistic about the school's future, especially with their beleaguered president getting a five-year contract extension.

Kean University likely to keep accreditation

President's contract extended; Faculty cautiously optimistic

In the wake of news last week that Middle States Commission on Higher Education found Kean University in compliance with the four standards violated, Monday night the Kean Board of Trustees unanimously approved extending university president Dawood Farahi's contract for five years.

Farahi, 63, who earns $293,550 annually, is still eligible for a $200,000 retention bonus when his current contract expires in July, 2013. The board's resolution approving the extended contract also clearly pointed out there was strong support behind the university president continuing his tenure at Kean.

"The board of trustees believes that Dr. Dawood Farahi is best positioned to continue to lead Kean University in a time of globalization, economic uncertainty and the need for innovative educational leadership," the resolution noted.

Farahi issued a statement after the vote, pointing out that he will continue to work so Kean reaches new heights.

"Together, we will continue to transform Kean into a world-class university," Farahi said. "With the collaborative effort of the fac-

New BOH meets, considers shared services with Madison

By Paul Greulich
Staff Writer

SPRINGFIELD — The Township Committee stepped into their new role as the Board of Health last week and wasted no time in considering the possibility of pursuing a new shared-services contract with the borough of Madison.

A slew of Madison officials were in attendance to outline a potential partnership between the two municipalities that they claimed would save Springfield $35,000 over their present agreement with the Westfield Health Department.

"We believe we can offer identical or superior services at significant savings compared to what you are currently being offered," said Madison Councilwoman Carmela Vitale.

Springfield Mayor Ziad Shehady responded positively to the presentation.

"I think you guys are really capturing my heart with this price," Shehady said.

Very few questions were asked by the board members. However, Township Committee and Board of Health member David Amlen was wary of the possibility that Madison's lower cost may bring with it lesser services.

"I'm just trying to figure out what we might not be getting for the lower price," Amlen said.

Madison representatives assured the board they have garnered much expertise during the borough's long history of successful shared-services agreements, going back some 40 years. Madison officials present included Board of Health President John Hoover and newly-appointed Health Officer Lisa Gulla.

These and other visitors admitted they "cannot guarantee" the same 40-hour-a-week coverage that Westfield's health inspectors offer Springfield, but continually expressed confidence in their ability to offer equal or better services than the township is currently receiving.

The proposal offered Springfield a one-year contract, but according to the New Jersey Uniform Shared Public Health Services Agreement Guidelines, any contract with a new health department must be for a minimum of two years.

Madison Administrator Ray Codey and Health Officer Lisa Gulla could not be reached for comment by press time.

Dr. Leonard Bielory, who serves as an alternate on the new Springfield Board of Health, said he did not feel the newly-constituted body was in a position to analyze and compare shared services one meeting into their term. Bielory said the proposal from Madison "means nothing to me" and said any proposals should be examined and discussed thoroughly by the board.

"I'd like to know what is offered and what is required. And I'd like to see some other proposals," Bielory said.

At the meeting, Health Officer Megan Avallone suggested the board also consider fully taking stock of the services they are already receiving before considering changing to a different health department. She offered to provide the board with a detailed account of their current contract with Westfield so they can compare any new proposals.

"Since you're all new board members, I think it would be to your benefit to be able to see a side-by-side comparison," Avallone said.

Avallone could not be reached for comment by press time.

The Township Committee assumed the duties of the Board of Health after dissolving the former, autonomous board in June. The 3-2 vote to reconstitute the board was cast along party lines amid heavy public outcry. The new board is augmented by two additional volunteers with health-related experience, and two alternates. Committee member Marc Krauss is chairing the board.

The former, autonomous board of health was satisfied with the township's agreement with Westfield and did not want to change to another vendor. Although it is the responsibility of the Board of Health to hire the municipal Health Officer, Madison meeting minutes show Springfield Township Administrator Anthony Cancro was negotiating a possible contract between the two towns as early as January. Township officials indicated Cancro solicited several proposals from various municipalities, the details of which were never presented to the former board of health and are not publically known.

Cancro was not available for comment. Shehady did not return calls for comment.

Amlen said he and members of the former board felt the decision to change from Westfield to Madison was made a long time ago without considering the input of residents or the Board of Health.

"I hope that history proves me wrong. I hope they realize this is not an apples to apples comparison," Amlen said.

Former Board of Health President Samir Shah has repeatedly questioned the claims of cost savings associated with this potential shared-services arrangement. Information on the Madison website shows the per person cost of health services in the borough is $15.93. Shah said the Westfield health services cost $8.50 per person.

Shah said Madison's presentation last week lacked detail.

"It seemed like a sales audition and no one wanted to get into the details of what was there and what wasn't there," Shah said.

Shah was concerned the novice board members may not be ready yet to make an informed decision regarding these important health matters.

"It takes time to know what's involved in health services and to know if something may be missing from those services," Shah said.

The next Board of Health meeting is scheduled for Oct. 10.

Springfield voters will decide if charter study will move forward

By Paul Greulich
Staff Writer

SPRINGFIELD — Six residents have thrown their names into the ring to serve on a charter study commission that may be formed this November to examine the option of changing the township's form of government.

November's election ballot in Springfield will pose a two-part question to residents. The first question simply determines whether the public wishes to examine a change in government. Residents who vote yes will then vote on who will sit on the commission tasked with conducting the study. Any recommendations made by the commission must also be voted on before being implemented.

Unfortunately, voters will find themselves with a very limited selection of potential members to choose from. By the time all petitions to serve on the commission were due in by Friday, Sept. 7 at 4 p.m., only six individuals were in the running to serve on the five-member commission. They are, James Bonacorda, Denise DeVone, Hugh A. Keffer, Mark Cunningham, Geri Ann Bujnowski, and David P. Mitchell.

Committee member David Amlin said the small contingent of candidates for the commission reflects the lack of public interest in the matter as well as what he considered the rather stringent requirements to be eligible. In order to have their name placed on the ballot, a resident first had to gather at least 100 signatures on a petition.

"In essence, it narrowed the pool down considerably," Amlin said. "It really wasn't a big number of people who seemed gung-ho about it, but at least it's more than five."

Committee member Jerry Fernandez said he is not troubled by the small number of residents interested in serving, as he is sure whoever serves on the commission will be diligent and responsible.

"I think it's fine the way it is," Fernandez said. "I trust they are all people who understand the job they have been chosen to do for their town."

Springfield's form of government is based around a five-member committee and a rotating mayor with limited power who typically serves for one year only. This is dif-

With Eric Mason officially stepping down as the Cranford Police chief, Lt. James Wozniak is expected to take over the reins next month.

There's a new chief in town

Married and the father of three children, he lives in Cranford.

Although sources close to the issue refused to discuss why a decision was made to delay public announcement of the new police chief, one member of the governing body did suggest there were "loose ends to wrap up."

"We have several things to wrap up before this announcement. They are minor things but still require attention," said the source.

Apparently, the delay involves the timing surrounding Police Chief Eric Mason's activation of the retirement papers to the state, which have been on hold since late May. In May questions surfaced regarding a new state treasury regulation involving public employees retiring from one public position and moving immediately into another.

This threw a wrench into the the township's decision for Mason to retire as police chief and transition into the administrator position permanently as of June 1. Mason assumed the dual role of police chief and administrator Sept. 12, 2011 when former township administrator Marlena Schmid was placed on paid administrative leave.

Schmid remained on leave until the end of the year when she was permanently let go. Details surrounding her dismissal have not been made public nor has there been any indication how much severance Schmid received.

According to Deputy Mayor Andis Kalnins, the township is prepared to move forward at this point with appointing Mason as administrator. There is some confusion, though, whether the township actually received clarification from the state regarding the new state regulation, which took effect March 1.

The new regulation required that any public employee intending to collect a pension from the state not take another position in the same municipality for 180 days. However, because the township committee agreed to Mason retiring as chief and taking on the administrator position prior to March 1, this presented a problem that required input from the state treasury department.

Township records indicated that it was Feb. 28 when the governing body unanimously approved Mason to take over as administrator when he retired May 31. This was prior to the new regulation going into effect March 1.

In June State Treasury Department head Bill Quinn said the question of whether the regulation applied or not was "murky." Because of this, the issue had to be investigated, but Quinn said unless there was evidence to the contrary, the fact the township committee did not know about the new regulation and they unanimously approved hiring Mason as administrator at a public meeting Feb. 28, it was unlikely the matter would become an issue.

According to Mason, neither he or his attorney received any clarification from the state, but Kalnins did say at the end of August the governing body was now clear on how to proceed. Following this, the township resumed interviews with the four candidates for police chief, and subsequently selected Wozniak as the new police chief last week.

County series addresses drug and alcohol addiction

The Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders welcomes residents to attend the free Fall Speaker Series addressing alcohol and drug addiction, prevention and treatment.

The series is funded by the Governor's Council on Alcoholism and Drug Abuse through the Municipal Alliance, and is coordinated by the Union County Department of Human Services.

The three remaining evening presentations are scheduled for Wednesdays, Oct. 3 in Scotch Plains, Oct. 17 in Cranford, and Nov. 14 in Union.

The first two of the remaining three presentations will be made by John Kriger, a popular speaker at national and international conferences who has worked with local, state and federal agencies, colleges, school districts, corporations and nonprofit organizations throughout the United States. Kriger is a professional alcohol and drug counselor, and trainer who addresses individual and family issues in school, at work and at home. He is the author of "The Pond: A Small Book About Big Changes."

The final presentation will be made by Michael Litterer of Prevention Links. Titled "Prescription 101: Prescription Medication and Heroin Abuse and Addiction," it will be held on Wednesday, Nov. 14, from 7 to 9 p.m. at Kean University's STEM Auditorium, 1000 Morris Ave. in Union.

Prevention Links, based in Roselle, is a private, nonprofit organization that has taken a leadership role in the prevention of drug, alcohol and tobacco abuse. AUTO ZONE — Right: Sisters Amanda and Jane Geddis get some bonding time in while they enjoy their grandpa's model A Ford from 1930 at the Summit car show last weekend. But theirs is not just any grandpa. He is none other than Don Geddis, lifelong resident and former principal at Summit High School. Geddis, who acted as chief judge in the show, said about 140 vehicles were present for the event. 'I think the caliber of cars here today is very high,' Geddis said. 'It's an exemplary group of automobiles in my opinion.' Geddis said it took him three years to rebuild his 1930 Ford. 'Automobiles are a part of my family. It's kind of an inherited flaw,' he said jokingly. Top right: Military vehicles were not eligible to compete in the show, but that did not stop this 1941 Dodge WC27 military ambulance from showing off its historic value.

Faculty remains cautiously optimistic about future of Kean University

ulty, staff, administration and the board, I am certain Kean University will reach even greater heights. We remain true to our mission of access and excellence, and working together, we will empower every one of our students to realize their potential and achieve their dreams.”

However, despite both the board and Farahi having confidence in what lies ahead, Kean still remains on probation and will not receive re-accreditation until Middle States makes a decision in November.

At a meeting open only to the Kean campus community Friday, the Middle States visiting team told a packed auditorium at the new multi-million dollar Kean Science, Technology and Mathematics building the university was no longer in violation of the four standards that brought about probation.

As a result of the violations Kean was placed on probation July 2 by the accrediting agency. In order to receive re-accreditation, all universities must comply with 14 standards. Middle States will decide in November if Kean remains on probation or will call for the university to “show cause” why Kean should not lose accreditation. But it will be March before final word comes down from Middle States regarding the accreditation Kean has held since 1960.

Every ten years all accredited institutions undergo an 18- to 24-month period of self-study intended to demonstrate compliance with accreditation standards as well as promote improvement. If a state university loses accreditation students can no longer receive federal financial aid, student loans or be involved with the college work program. In addition Kean would no longer be able to obtain federal grants of any kind and students with partial degrees would have to transfer to another university.

Sources attending the meeting Friday said the Middle States visiting team stressed that while the university had made great progress, there still were problems that had to be addressed.

For example, one source said Middle States indicated there were issues involving assessment and procedures at the university that needed further work.

“Middle States wanted Kean to deal more with the impact of what we do here, not increases and decreases in student population or how revenue is being spent,” the faculty source said.

“Bottom line, no one wants to see this university lose accreditation, so whatever we have to do, we will do,” said the source who still believes university President Dawood Farahi is the reason Kean ended up on probation.

Monday at the Kean Board of Trustees meeting it was evident the majority of those in attendance, including faculty, were relieved after the Middle States visit.

Hearing the university was no longer in violation of the four standards, which included integrity, institutional assessment, general education and assessment of student learning, ushered in strong resolve by all to work together for the sake of the university.

According to one source it is unlikely Middle States will ask for a “show cause” because the university worked to ensure the school complied with all the problems found by the accrediting agency last year during a routine visit.

Other sources said Steven Sweeny, Chair of the Middle States visiting team, specifically stressed that on their visit Sept. 13 the team was interested in small, targeted interviews with representatives from as many constituencies as possible. According to university faculty and administrative sources, multiple groups were randomly selected for these interviews but the visiting team also asked to meet with certain individuals. After Middle States’ exit report Friday morning, many of these factions felt the university was moving in a new, positive direction. But not everyone.

Since last year the Kean Federation of Teachers union, Kean University Adjunct Faculty Federation AFT Local 6024 and the faculty senate, felt new leadership was needed at the university. This human cry became even more fervent after the KFT found errors on the president’s academic resume.

Farahi eventually admitted mistakes were made on old versions of his resume, but by a narrow margin the board backed Farahi last spring, but on Monday they did so overwhelmingly with the contract renewal.

KFT President James Castiglione admitted to the board Monday, prior to the unanimous vote to renew Farahi’s contract for five years, that the KFT was pleased faculty, staff and all participants had moved towards compliance. But other remarks he made suggested there were problems that remained unresolved for years.

“We look forward to a new era of constructive engagement that continues the progress that has been made in addressing the university’s issues to allow greater focus on our student needs,” Castiglione said, adding that “in particular, we hope there will be a new era of collaborative labor management relations.”

To that end, the KFT president said he would be introducing proposals that were originally suggested by the union legal counsel as having a track record of success in conflict resolution. Castiglione brought up two of these proposals — the establishment of board labor relations subcommittee and the appointment of an independent mediator — adding that these suggestions were previously brought up to the board in 2009.

Castiglione also admitted the campus “has never been this unified over the issues that we face and the path to move the university forward.” But he also felt the university could stumble if not careful.

“This new culture of openness and respect is fragile and needs nurturing, particularly via the ongoing support of the board,” he said, adding many of the issues the KFT identified in the past to strengthen the university “are the same ones identified by Middle States.”

The KFT has continued to call for new leadership at the university, issuing no confidence votes in the president after it was uncovered that Farahi had falsified his academic resume. However, Castiglione said Farahi’s “willingness to hire new faculty members, professional staff and librarians “is a step towards directing more resources into the classroom where they most directly help our students.”

“We hope a new era of constructive engagement is forthcoming in the best interests of the university and our students,” the KFT president said.

Kathleen Mary Henderson, President of the Kean University Adjunct Faculty Federation, which has more than 1,000 members, was less sure Kean was heading down the right track. Remarking that when she received an email Friday from a senior Kean administrator after Middle States gave the exit report saying “this is a new day,” she was taken back.

“I for one really want to believe that, but you have to forgive this union leader’s ‘little’ skepticism,” she said, adding that “all the little inconsistencies, fabrications and embellishments of facts” discovered along the way were and remain cause for concern.

“What was uncovered cannot and will not go away. No matter what Middle States says, we still have to live with the discoveries every day of what was uncovered,” Henderson told the board, bringing up that the university is now “renowned nationwide for being such a tight knit family here at Kean.”

“One only has to look at our August board of trustees and the Kean China board to see how well we keep things ‘in the family.’ We have a board made up of current legislators, business partners, superintendents of local district schools where we place our own students for student teaching, law firm experts, alumnae and a secret weapon, the secretary of the board of trustees of the Middle States Association,” Henderson said. But the adjunct professor union leader had one final blow to bestow on the board.

West Nile virus incidents rise in Union County pools

firmed cases of West Nile Virus among Union County residents.

While there have been no confirmed cases of the virus in Union County, there have been three confirmed cases in Essex County and one in Middlesex, both of which border Union. One confirmed West Nile-related fatality has been reported, occurring in Burlington County.

Westfield Health Officer Megan Avallone, who serves several Union County municipalities including Springfield, has been advising local Boards of Health on the situation.

Avallone explained the increase in cases is probably also due in part to an increased awareness of the virus.

"Doctors are testing for West Nile Virus more and more often," Avallone said. "The more doctors who look for the virus, the more who will find it, and the rates will go up."

The County Mosquito Control Bureau has stepped up its operations to control the mosquito population this summer, adding more trucks for insecticide spraying. The county uses both adulticide and larvicide, which are insecticides that specifically target insects in different life stages. They have also employed barrier treatments and thermal fogging.

"We spray on an as-needed basis. Whenever there are issues, we are spraying," County spokesman Sebastian D'Elia said.

Strano said testing generally moves from South to North.

"We try to start with the lower, southern part of the county and work our way across," he said.

There are also many steps that residents can take by themselves to reduce the presence of mosquitoes and the risk of West Nile virus. Hehl said when property inspections are done, his inspectors always note potential mosquito breeding areas. These can include pockets of moisture, like pools, flower pots, and buckets. Residents themselves also need to be aware of this as they maintain their property.

"People need to walk around their property and think about addressing some of the areas that might be potential breeding areas," Hehl said.

Avallone said avoiding mosquitoes themselves is the simplest way to avoid coming into contact with the virus.

"The best thing you can do is avoid going outside at dusk and use mosquito repellent," Avallone said.

Avallone said about 80 percent of people infected show no symptoms. Others may develop cold or flu-like symptoms ranging from fever and fatigue to gastrointestinal symptoms. More characteristic features include back or limb pain.

"A lot of times they don't have a lot of symptoms, the same as with Lyme Disease," said Hehl.

Only a very small percentage of people infected develop the neurological problems with which the West Nile virus is commonly associated.

According to the New Jersey Department of Health, late summer and early fall are typically the most critical times of the year to be aware of the potential for the danger of contracting West Nile virus from mosquito bites.

Health officials expect these risks to subside as cold weather begins to set in, however mosquito activity has been known to continue as long as late October.

Trailside offers lecture today about Jersey hawks

The Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders and the Department of Parks and Community Renewal are offering a lecture about "Hawks of New Jersey" for adults, 18 years and older, at Trailside Nature and Science Center in Mountain-side on Thursday, Sept. 20, from 7 to 8 p.m.

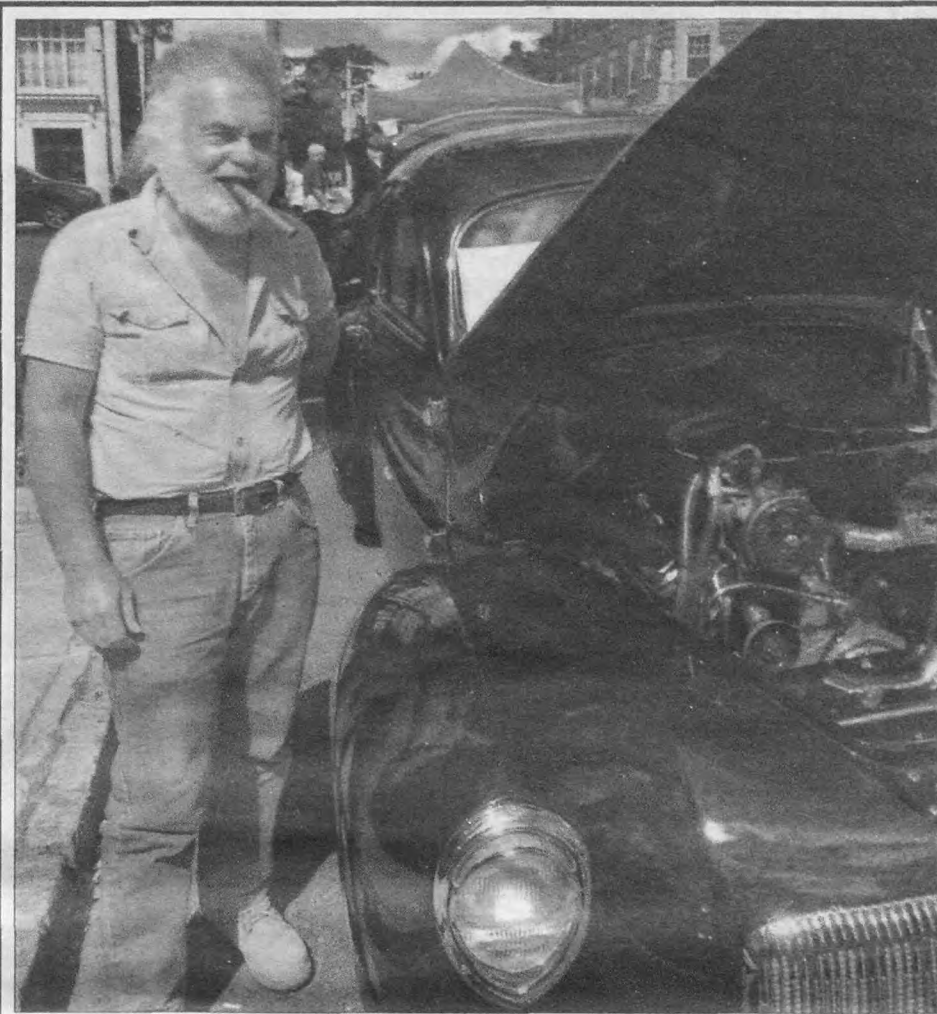

"Hawks are among nature's greatest creatures," said Freeholder Chairman Alexander Mirabella. "This is the perfect season to learn about them, as they soar above the Watchung Reservation."

The program offers an opportunity to meet a live raptor and learn about the lives of these fascinating birds. Lauren Butcher, education director at the Raptor Trust in Millington, will introduce you to some of the 16 species of diurnal, or daytime, birds of prey that fly through the skies of New Jersey. Find out how expert hawk watchers identify them as they make their seasonal journey along the "migration highway" overhead. The speaker will share a few success stories in the ongoing effort to conserve these birds of prey.

The fee for the program is $8 per person for residents of Union County and $10 for out-of-county participants. Pre-registration is preferred, but walk-ins are welcome as space allows. Doors open 15 minutes prior to the event.

For additional information about this event or other upcoming programs and special events at Trailside, call 908-789-3670 or visit us on the web at www.ucnj.org/trailside. Trailside Nature and Science Center is located at 452 New Providence Road in Mountainside.

Play Ball for Miracles raises more than 10K

Play Ball for Miracles, a charity softball tournament and community fun day, raised more than $10,000 in its eighth year for Children's Miracle Network Hospitals local beneficiary, Children's Specialized Hospital, Mountainside.

The eighth annual Play Ball for Miracles charity softball tournament was held Aug. 25. The event began in 2005, when founder Erin Kelly-McGuinness began to raise funds for the organization after a family friend, Patrick Macnab, was diagnosed with a rare blood disorder. Kelly-McGuinness started the tournament to raise awareness for Macnab's disease and all other illnesses affecting children.

Over the course of eight years, Play Ball for Miracles has raised more than $80,000 to support the local Children's Miracle Network Hospitals beneficiary, Children's Specialized Hospital. Children's Specialized Hospital has nine sites in New Jersey.

"Play Ball for Miracles is always evolving, looking for ways to get more people and players involved and constantly looking for ideas on how we can expand our efforts," said tournament founder Erin Kelly-McGuinness.

The ninth annual Play Ball for Miracles charity softball tournament is scheduled for May 4. For more information, contact Erin Kelly-McGuinness at playball4miracles@yahoo.com

RED ALERT — Local firefighters Jeff Faulks, left, and John Bonczo made sure emergency services were also represented at the car show. They are pictured here with a 1927 Seagrave fire engine owned by the city. The engine's firefighting days are long over, but the old warhorse remains an attraction for area residents. 'Local firemen have been donating their time to restoring it,' Faulks explained. 'It sat dead for about eight years before we started working on it.' The Summit Historical Society is working to raise funds to eventually build a museum to house the historic engine.

Many speak in favor of Kean president at board meeting

By Cheryl Hehl
Staff Writer

Monday at the Kean Board of Trustees meeting, many members of the administration as well as former students, undergraduates and even the president of nearby Union County College, came to speak in support of President Dawood Farahi and the advances made during his decade long tenure.

Dr. Margaret McMenam, president of Union County College, explained that Kean University "is our number one partner and number one transfer choice by students."

"Dr. Farahi is a visionary and courageous leader who transformed Kean into a world class university," the college president said, adding that because of his dedication, "Kean is now a student centered university."

McMenamin also pointed out that when Union County college students are selecting a university, "they choose Kean because of a courageous and deliberate process."

"Dr. Farahi turned a vision into a reality," McMenam said, adding that Kean has become the envy of New Jersey colleges and universities and "this world class university will benefit New Jersey and the United States."

Matthew Durado, a former Kean graduate who obtained two degrees at the university said he was "amazed to see the rebirth of Kean over the last ten years."

File Photo

Kean University President Dawood Farahi was given approval by the board of trustees for a five year contract extension.

Emily Filardo, a professor at Kean and a member of the Faculty Senate, said that the fact Kean is now in compliance with Middle States standards was "a shared governance effort." However, she did have concerns about information not included by the Kean Board of Trustees and Farahi in the monitoring report sent to Middle States Sept. 1.

"We met with the board of trustees, but the faculty senate vote of no confidence in Dr. Farahi was not included in the monitoring report," Filardo said. "I believe Middle States made it clear we need to continue to work together."

Kelly Vence, a former Kean student, expressed her full support for the university president, noting that Farahi "has shown his love and concern" for her and all students while at Kean.

Susan McKuen said she earned both undergraduate and graduate degrees at Kean, returning to work at the university as an adjunct professor in the administration department. She reiterated what other speakers said, stressing the reason students choose Kean is because the university offers a competitive education. McKuen also was strongly supportive of the university president's vision.

"Dr. Farahi is a dedicated leader and committed mentor. Without his vision and hard work Kean would not be where it is today," she said.

Joseph Encetari, a Kean University admissions counselor, said he graduated from the university "when things were much different."

"One of the things Dr. Farahi stressed to me is to see if students are fit to come here," the admissions counselor explained, adding that he has over 1,500 prospective students waiting to attend the next Kean open house and that is all due to the university president.

"He connects with students and takes the time to see if they are a right fit," Encetari added.

Undergraduate student Sarah Satler said her first interaction with the university president was while she was attending Ocean County College.

"I wanted to transfer to Kean," she said, "where there was a caring and attentive president."

"This unique level of passion is most appreciated," the student stressed, adding that for Farahi "students are the utmost priority."

Celebrating our Hispanic heritage

The United States is an amalgam of different nationalities, a mixture whose sum is greater than its parts. Never is this more evident than during Hispanic Heritage Month. Originally known as Hispanic Heritage Week when first approved by President Lyndon Johnson, this celebration of Hispanic heritage was expanded by President Ronald Reagan in 1988 to cover a 30-day period and became law on Aug. 17, 1988.

Why then does it run from the middle of September to the middle of October?

This was not done arbitrarily. Sept. 15 was chosen as the starting point for the celebration because it is the anniversary for the independence of five Latin American countries: Costa Rica, El Salvador, Guatemala, Honduras and Nicaragua. These nations all declared independence in 1821. In addition, Mexico, Chile and Belize celebrate their independence days on Sept. 16, Sept. 18 and Sept. 21, respectively, further strengthening the significance of this celebration. Finally, Spanish conquistadors led by Christopher Columbus discovered America on Oct. 12, 1492. Spanish explorers traveled as far west as the Pacific and as far east as Canada.

The term Hispanic or Latino, as defined by the U.S. Census Bureau, refers to Puerto Rican, South or Central American, or other Spanish cultures or origins, regardless of race. On the 2010 Census form, people of Spanish/Hispanic/Latino origin could identify themselves as Mexican, Mexican American, Chicano, Puerto Rican, Cuban, or "another Hispanic, Latino or Spanish origin." According to the 2010 Census, 50.5 million people, or 16 percent of the population of the United States, are of Hispanic or Latino origin. This represents a significant increase from the 2000 Census, which registered the Hispanic population at 35.3 million or 13 percent of the total U.S. population.

But people of Hispanic origin are more than just part of our population; they play an indelible part of culture and our history. Numerous Hispanics have played key roles in our government. The first Hispanic senator to serve an entire term was Dennis Chávez, of New Mexico, who served from 1935 through 1962. Gen. Elwood "Pete" Quesada helped create the Federal Aviation Agency to manage the growing field of aviation and improve airline safety. It became the Federal Aviation Administration in 1966. Romana Acosta Bañuelos served as the U.S. treasurer from 1971 to 1974. Antonia Coello Novello served as the U.S. surgeon general from 1990 to 1993, the first woman ever to have the position. Sonia Sotomayor became a U.S. Supreme Court justice in 2009, the third woman to have the position. And this is only a very partial list.

EDITORIAL

Hispanics have contributed in other areas as well. In 1982, Richard E. Cavazos became the Army's first Hispanic four-star general. Edward Hidalgo served as secretary of the Navy in 1979. Astronaut Franklin Chang-Díaz flew on a total of seven space-shuttle missions. Ellen Ochoa, the first female Hispanic astronaut, served on four shuttle missions. Luiz Walter Alvarez earned a Nobel Prize in physics in 1968 for discoveries about subatomic particles. Later, he and his son proposed the theory that the mass dinosaur extinction 75 million years ago was caused by a meteor impact.

In entertainment, Hispanics have demonstrated their creativity as well. This includes musicians such as Richie Valens and Carlos Santana, as well as Oscar winners José Ferrer, Rita Moreno and Anthony Quinn, and television stars Desi Arnaz and Geraldo Rivera.

Hispanic sports stars have included everyone from baseball's Roberto Clemente to tennis champion Richard "Pancho" González and LPGA Hall of Fame inductee Nancy López to heavyweight boxing champ John Ruiz, who defeated Evander Holyfield in 2001, to NHL first-round draft pick Scott Gomez in 1998.

Our nation's cultural heritage was built on those of other nations. We have incorporated the strengths, built upon their advances, and helped create the greatest country on our planet. And the contributions of Hispanics have been immense. During Hispanic Heritage Month, we recognize those contributions and celebrate our past as we build our future.

A responsibility to all the kids

The first question posed to Beverly Powell: Why does a top-flight legal secretary working in the city for a big, intellectual-property firm run for the Hillside Board of Education?

The answer was unexpected. With only one adult child, Powell said she wants to instill "upward mobility and better citizenship" for all the kids in her town.

Beyond her motivational skill, Powell spoke with the expertise she utilizes every day, which has led her to work as a human-resource director and implement high-tech improvements.

"I understand the basic need for funds. But I also will be a consistent, and if necessary, a persistent advocate so that — beyond the intellectual growth provided to our kids — they are technically proficient. I want this challenge," she said.

Powell attended Rutgers University, and her daughter is a special-education teacher. Her attentive look gave way to a wide smile when she discussed her daughter's accomplishments.

"I have studied the growing need for special education," she said. "Just recently State Senator Teresa Ruiz laid forth the challenge at a legislative hearing. There is both a growing cost and number of kids needing special education, especially among minority children. I want to address the problem of developing the best system of service we can afford."

Powell also admitted the recent cap law has made the funding issue important.

"I truly appreciate the role of administrators. However, as a board member I have the obligation to ask tough questions and arrive at the most cost-effective solutions possible," she said.

Like one of the lawyers she works for,

Powell addresses the issues by making a case.

"Flat out, I am opposed to the proposal by the Christie administration to base funding on attendance, not enrollment," she said. "I see this plan as simply taking money from urban districts, and we must oppose its implementation."

Powell also acknowledged the impact poverty has on school achievement.

"The connection is seen in everything from studies conducted by the SAT to the National Association of Educational Principals," she said. "We must do a better job in getting our kids ready for the future, be it a future of education or entering the job market."

Powell praised the anti-bullying efforts at schools such as Hillside. "Even with the shortfall in state funding, the local training and anti-bullying has been effective."

Looking to the future, Powell said that, if she's elected, there will be a lot less teacher criticism and a lot more emphasis on "dialogue and cooperation."

"I came from a lifelong philosophy that, before we criticize others, we need to be introspective about our own actions," she said. "I would bring that philosophy to the Hillside Board of Education."

Powell pointed to an announcement that next week the NJEA, the key teachers union, and the Supervising Principals Association would meet to discuss the best ways to implement new state accountability for teachers. In an unguarded moment Powell conceded she would "love to see Hillside make the list next year as one of the top 100 schools as set by New Jersey Monthly. It will be a tough goal but we should all accept challenges."

The last question to Powell: Without kids in the system, will she be effective on the school board?

Her response was quick: "I want to serve each and every kid in the school system as my responsibility."

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

There's no place for bigotry of any kind

To the Editor:

I'm a middle-aged Cranford resident who's one-sixteenth Jewish and who's been diagnosed by specialists as having Asperger's high-functioning autism.

I've suffered encounters with cruel, misguided bigots, and have also been blessed with positive encounters with reasonable, caring people who respect me for my kindness and my volunteer career as writer and artist.

My cartoons, "Max the Mensch" and "Pistol the Maven," and "Pepper's Pack," regularly appear in the Mt. Carmel Guild newsletter, and I've had several letters published in Mensa Bulletin between 1995 and 2012.

Thank God that a lot of people who have been identified with having special needs, like Asperger's, schizophrenia, schizotypal personality, Down syndrome, dyslexia, dyscalculia, obsessive-compulsive disorder, and bipolar disorder, are as bright, talented and successful as people who don't have emotional or neurological disorders.

Many people more illustrious than me have lucrative, as well as spiritually rewarding, careers as actors, singers and professors, despite having been identified with special needs similar to mine.

This is why I don't understand a bad wave of neurological bigotry that's infested Cranford over the past five years. Many of us Cranford residents have seen movies like "Jupiter's Wife," "The Rain Man," and "A Beautiful Mind." The wave of neurological bigotry that impairs Cranford's beauty should be a cause of concern, despite the technological advances of the past several years. History teaches us that the Spanish Inquisition happened after Spain was considered one of the most advanced, civilized nations just before the Inquisition.

My grandma, Martha DeGraw Rosendale, was ahead of her time. One of her progressive ideas involved a desire for protection of civil rights of people with neurological and emotional challenges. Grandma, a former Sunday-school teacher, was broadminded in accepting young people of all nationalities and all constellations of neurological and emotional attributes. Grandma knew everyone is smart and talented in some way, and that what we make of ourselves when we're adults can compensate for years which we may have wasted in high school.

Grandma was cool. She was nobody's fool.

A CLOSER LOOK — Denville resident John Schreck leans in for a closer look at one of the specimens on display at the Summit car show last weekend. This is his second year attending the car show, which featured dozens of classic and vintage vehicles from the last century.

ferent from many municipalities that utilize a Faulkner-Act form of government, with a popularly-elected mayor separate from the council.

According to Township Clerk Linda Donnelly, the last actual charter study in Springfield was done in 1958. The township's government was examined again in the 1990s but this was not a formal charter study.

"In March 1996, a report and recommendation was made, but it was not a charter study. It was a Springfield government study committee," Donnelly explained.

This report resulted in the recommendation that the town retain its traditional Township Committee form of government, but add the new position of Township Administrator, a change that was implemented shortly thereafter.

The local government's new interest in a possible charter study is not the result of a petition from the public, and some residents as well as committee members have actually voiced outright opposition to the idea.

However, Fernandez has stated that many voters he has spoken to find the township committee form of government confusing.

"We try to explain it to them and they don't understand that the committee chooses the mayor," Fernandez said.

Amlin said he has heard no such feedback from the residents he has spoken to, and opposed putting the question on the ballot.

"My own personal feeling is I don't think this is necessary or in the best interest of the town," Amlin said.

Amlin was also concerned about the impact of potential cost associated with the study.

"My reservation is that the charter study commission is able to hire any professionals they deem necessary to get the information they need," Amlin said. "Those costs could run into the tens of thousands of dollars."

Fernandez said he is not sure whether the study will cost the township any money.

"I don't think it would be a large amount if any," Fernandez said.

Township Administrator Anthony Cancro could not be reached for comment. Mayor Ziad Shehady did not return repeated calls for comment.

Fernandez said that should a study be done, local officials will respect the will of the residents in addressing any potential recommendations.

"This is just a way of letting the voters decide on their form of government," Fernandez said. "If a study comes and decides they don't need it, so be it. The residents will have the final say."

Safely get rid of your unwanted pills, Sept. 29

On Saturday, Sept. 29, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., the Summit Police Department and the Drug Enforcement Administration will give the public an opportunity to prevent pill abuse and theft by ridding its homes of potentially dangerous, expired, unused, and unwanted prescription drugs.

Medications can be brought to the Atrium of Summit City Hall at 512 Springfield Ave., Summit for disposal. The service is free and anonymous.

Last April, Americans turned in 552,161 pounds — 276 tons—of prescription drugs at more than 5,600 sites, operated by the DEA and nearly 4,300 state and local law enforcement partners. In its four previous events, the DEA and its partners took in more than 1.5 million pounds — nearly 775 tons — of pills.

This initiative addresses a vital public-safety and public-health issue. Medicines that languish in home cabinets are highly susceptible to diversion, misuse and abuse. Rates of prescription drug abuse in the United States are alarmingly high, as are the number of accidental poisonings and overdoses due to these drugs.

Studies show that a majority of abused prescription drugs are obtained from family and friends, including from the home medicine cabinet. In addition, Americans are now advised that their usual methods for disposing of unused medicines — flushing them down the toilet or throwing them in the trash — pose potential safety and health hazards.

Four days after the first event, Congress passed the Secure and Responsible Drug Disposal Act of 2010, which amends the Controlled Substances Act to allow an "ultimate user" of controlled substance medications to dispose of them by delivering them to entities authorized by the attorney general to accept them. The act also allows the attorney general to authorize long-term care facilities to dispose of their residents' controlled substances in certain instances. DEA is drafting regulations to implement the Act. Until new regulations are in place, local law enforcement agencies like the Summit Police Department Department and the DEA will continue to hold prescription drug take-back events every few months.

For additional information, contact Lt. Michael J. Rabasca at 908-277-9400.

Take Back the Kitchen
Overcoming the Obstacles to Cooking

California Rolls

Sushi is one of those foods usually eaten in a restaurant. Well, dine out no more — the family can prepare this simple recipe together at home. When children are part of the culinary process, they are more likely to eat the food. Be creative with the fillers!

Ingredients

4 cups cooked sushi rice
1-2 Tbsp. seasoned rice vinegar, or rice vinegar seasoned with 1-2 tsp. white sugar
Seaweed wrappers
8 oz. crab meat or imitation crabmeat
1 cucumber, peeled, seeded and sliced into thin strips
2 medium carrots, peeled and thinly sliced, like matchsticks
1 avocado, peeled and thinly sliced optional fillings: sesame seeds, pickled ginger, wasabi paste and soy sauce
Special equipment
Sushi rolling mat

Method

Spread the rice on a cookie sheet and refrigerate until cooled slightly. Sprinkle with the rice vinegar.
Cut square sheets of seaweed in half and lay on sushi rolling mat, glossy side down

Spread 1/2 cup of the rice evenly over the seaweed sheet, leaving about 3/4 inch margin at the top of the sheet. Press the rice with wet hands to flatten. About a third from the bottom of the sheet, lay horizontal lines of the filler items across the rice. Be careful not to overstuff — three items is optimal. Roll the mat away from you, so the bottom edge of the seaweed touches the rice right above the filler. Squeeze the mat in this cigar shape while pulling it toward you, lifting the mat gently so the seaweed stays put around the filler. Continue rolling and squeezing until you have a cylindrical roll. Lay it seam side down so it stays sealed. Wrap in plastic wrap and store in fridge. Cut carefully with a serrated knife. Serve with soy sauce, wasabi and pickled ginger.

Alma Schneider, licensed clinical social worker and self-trained chef, provides individual sessions and group workshops helping individuals overcome their practical and psychological obstacles to cooking. Alma has been featured on the "Today" show on NBC TV, the TV Land network, and in Family Circle Magazine for her Community Work in N.J. Her nonprofit, Give Back the Kitchen, offers assistance to at-risk populations to help overcome the obstacles to healthy cooking. A cookbook is in the works! Residents who register and hold garage sales at their homes will receive a certificate representing the borough's permission to proceed.

The addresses of registered, participating residences will be included in a Kenilworth communitywide garage-sale listing and map, available at the Kenilworth A&P Customer Service desk, 801 Boulevard; Borough Clerk's Office, 567 Boulevard; Public Library, 548 Boulevard, and Especially Yours Florist, 13 N. 20th St., after Wednesday, Oct. 3.

Student's 'Life with Asperger's' published in newsletter

Gabriella Smith, a student at Carl H. Kumpf Middle School, was recently published in the MAAP Newsletter, a quarterly newsletter for families of more advanced individuals with autism, Asperger syndrome, and pervasive developmental disorder.

Her memoir, "My Life with Asperger's" provided a candid glimpse into the life of a sixth-grader growing up with Asperger's syndrome. The memoir assignment required students to reflect on six of the most important experiences in their lives.

In addition to developing their narrative writing skills, students illustrated the books and shared them with the class.

Christine Casale and Megan Consiglio, Gabby's writing teachers, noted that she worked very hard on the assignment. Casale stated, "It was really important to her to educate others about Asperger's syndrome. Her story touched so many of our students that we knew it would benefit others in the community as well."

Papermill director never tires of 'A Chorus Line'

By Bea Smith
Staff Writer

There is a line in the Pulitzer Prize, Tony Award-winning musical, "A Chorus Line," which has emotionally affected both cast and audiences throughout its nearly 40-year existence: "I need this job."

And less than four decades ago, Mitzi Hamilton — now a dancer, director and choreographer — may have herself uttered that sentence. But this phenomenal woman, who has been a part of the musical from its very beginnings and had provided the inspiration for one of the characters, Val, has choreographed and will direct "A Chorus Line," the season opener at the Paper Mill Playhouse in Millburn, beginning Wednesday, Oct. 3.

"I never tire of 'A Chorus Line,'" Hamilton admitted the other afternoon during a telephone chat. There was a touch of humility in her voice. "I just love this show."

The choreographer-director, who performed the role of Val in the original London company, and then again on Broadway, soon found herself directing and choreographing more than 35 productions of "A Chorus Line."

"Actually," she reminisced, "I started with it in 1974 — at the very beginning of it — it's been a major part of my career. At that time, I had done six Broadway shows, and I had just finished 'Seesaw' for Michael Bennett." Hamilton said, "A couple of contemporaries of mine had wanted to do some sort of workshop to explain the possibilities of getting jobs. We went to Michael, showed him what we had, and he thought it was great. He decided to call a bunch of us, about 25, into a studio late one night. After two separate nights and 30 hours, we became 'A Chorus Line.' Then we went to Joe Papp, and he and Michael explored all the possibilities. Soon, we had a second workshop. And about a year later, in June, 1974, we started previews at the Shakespeare Festival in New York. In 1975, we were on Broadway."

And, of course, the rest is history.

Hamilton explained that working with the legendary Michael Bennett "was scary. He had great talent and charisma, and he was so smart and generous at work. In retrospect," she admitted, "I can understand why I was with the show for so many years. It was a privilege to recreate Michael's work. I performed it at the Schubert Theater on Broadway for almost 10 years. It became second nature to me."

She added that she even did "A Chorus Line" in London and in Germany "in German, and in Vienna. I hope to be able to do it in many layers. There are so many layers of what it talks about. It's really all about jobs. We're all in the same boat, somehow. And we all have our hopes and dreams. When you know so much, you want to share it, too."

"A Chorus Line" has a book by James Kirkwood and Nicholas Dante and music by the recently deceased Marvin Hamlisch.

"Marvin was very talented as well as so smart," said Hamilton. "I worked with him for so many years, and I was able to see how talented he was. I worked with him in 1970 and realized how brilliant, so creative, so filled with ideas. He could do anything. In addition," she said, "Marvin was so kind and gracious."

And what was it like working with Bob Fosse?

"Bobby also was a little scary," she chuckled. "And he also was way so creative and so talented that I wanted to do all of his shows. I did 'Pippin' in Chicago, my hometown."

Hamilton enjoys the idea of working at the Paper Mill Playhouse. "For me, it was very exciting," she said. "And we have New York City so close by. I'm so excited. I feel like we're in good hands at the Paper Mill. Everyone is so kind to us. I'm absolutely thrilled."

When she found out that she would be doing "A Chorus Line" at the Paper Mill, Hamilton said that "I learned never to say never. We never know where our talents will take us. And you know," she sighed, "I feel very blessed to be able to do such a show, here and elsewhere, and I couldn't be more grateful."

At the Paper Mill, Hamilton indicated, "we have a new group of dancers, who are so creative and who blend their energies together. Everyone will enjoy every moment."

After the run of "A Chorus Line," Hamilton said, "I'm going to relax for a while. I want to go to my home in the country in Chicago."

And when she's ready to go back to work, could another version of "A Chorus Line" be beckoning? One never knows, Hamilton indicated.

We could almost see the wink.

The time is now to choose spring-blooming scents

It is time now to get down to the serious business of buying bulbs. Summer is ebbing away; monarch butterflies are massing for their flight to warmer climes, and the stores have already had Halloween displays out for a month. The bulb catalogs hit the doorsteps in August, and the garden centers have mounted their bulb displays.

The hardest part is choosing.

If you stick to the garden centers, your choices are easier. In the last 10 or 15 years, most have edited their selections of spring-flowering bulbs so there are fewer varieties in each category. Mass merchandisers edit even more strenuously. For the best selection, you have to go to catalog and online vendors.

But, as Hamlet says, "there's the rub." The catalogs offer an abundance of selections and that abundance increases if you go online. Staring at all those full-color illustrations of jaw-dropping spring flowers will make you glassy-eyed after about 20 minutes. Every gardener has their own way of dealing with this problem, but it's safe to say that many of us will deal with it by choosing more bulbs than we can afford, or have time to plant.

This year I am narrowing my search to scented varieties in every category, narrowing the hundreds of possibilities down to mere scores of choices. The following are some best bets for spring fragrance.

THE GARDENER'S APPRENTICE

BY ELISABETH GINSBURG

Early-spring bloomers

Some of these are so small you have to plant masses of them, or assemble bouquets, to really notice the fragrance. Still, even a whiff of something pleasant is welcome after a long, stale winter. In the crocus realm, I have always loved Crocus chrysanthus or Snow Bunting. It has white petals and large, golden stamens. Crocus biflorus, or Purity, another white-flowered variety, is also fragrant. Crocuses in other colors seem to have less scent, but if you mix in enough white ones, you can refresh your senses with color and fragrance.

Galanthus or snowdrops smell wonderful. Admittedly, if you want to get a real appreciation for snowdrop fragrance or the minute differences among varieties, you should get down on your belly in the wet spring grass.

For something that is a little more visible than ordinary Galanthus nivalis, try Galanthus elwesii, the Elwes Snowdrop. These are about two or three times the size of the nivalis species and just as fragrant, so you can keep your belly dry while picking a few of them to make a nice bouquet.

Daffodils

Jonquilla narcissi, or jonquils, are small- to medium-sized daffodils that bear two or three flowers on each slender stem; most are fragrant. Traditional favorites in this category include little Baby Moon, which grows only 7 inches tall and has yellow flowers; the beautiful Curlew, with a white perianth and elongated ivory trumpet; and Dickcissel, with a light yellow perianth and darker yellow cup. For those in USDA Zone 6, plant jonquils in a sheltered spot and mulch well. North of Zone 6, consider raising them in pots.

Among my favorites for fragrance are members of the Poeticus or poet's narcissus group. The most famous of these is Pheasant's Eye, beloved by real poet Edna St. Vincent Millay. Pheasant's Eye has a small, greenish cup edged with a red-orange stripe. The petals are white and slightly reflexed or back-swept. In addition to its other virtues, this poeticus narcissus is wonderful for naturalizing. The Double Pheasant's Eye, Alba plenus odoratus, documented since 1601, is white, fluffy and extremely fragrant.

Tulips

Tulips are the showgirls of the bulb world. For fragrance, try the double, pink, powder-puffy Angelique, which is universally planted and loved. The orange Princess Irene is stunning to behold — with purplish flames. Its double-flowered offspring, Orange Princess, has the same colors and fragrance. The yellow and red Keizerskroon is an heirloom from 1750 that is still lighting up gardens worldwide, and exudes a sweet fragrance. The double, yellow Monte Carlo and the pale-pink and white Montreux are also scented.

Any discussion of fragrance in the spring garden is incomplete without hyacinths. No matter what color or variety you buy, you are guaranteed a noseful of joy come spring. I always buy as many as I can afford — plenty for the flowerbeds and a few for forcing.

Heirlooms abound at Old House Gardens, reached at 734-995-1486 or www.oldhousegardens.com; John Scheepers Inc., reached at 860-567-0838; or Brent and Becky's Bulbs, reached at 804-693-3966 or www.brentandbeckysbulbs.com.

'Oliver Twist' at STNJ is not to be missed

By Ruth Ross
Correspondent

Because Charles Dickens was paid by the word — and wrote in installments — his novels tend to be dense with character, plot development, description and pointed comments about the inequities of society. When the installments appeared in the newspapers, the people usually gathered around to listen to them being read aloud.

Unfortunately, in today's busy social climate, hardly anyone reads Dickens anymore — other than high school freshmen who slog their way through "Great Expectations" before swearing off any other books by the author.

Thus, it is refreshing that Neil Bartlett has used his skill at adaptation to work magic on "Oliver Twist," a novel more familiar to modern readers through a stage or film musical by Lionel Bart. If that's your only experience with Dickens, I suggest you visit the Shakespeare Theatre of New Jersey, where an inventive production graces the stage through Sunday, Oct. 7. While this literate and faithful version of an orphan boy who is lost and finally found may not send you to the library, you will experience a thrilling evening of theater.

With 13 actors playing more than two dozen roles, this version of "Oliver Twist" uses Dickens' actual words for the dialogue and narrative bridges that propel the action, set a scene, or offer social pronouncements.

When we meet him, 10-year-old orphan Oliver has spent his entire childhood in a squalid workhouse after his unwed mother died in childbirth. Taunted and tormented by his workmates as "a naughty orphan which nobody can love," the boy is starved for food, friendship and love.

His "escape" from this prison begins with his being sold by the parish beadle to a family of undertakers, continues as he runs away to London where he comes under the tutelage of a fence named Fagin, and ends with his redemption as the adoptive son of a well-to-do family, the Brownlows.

Along the way, the spunky youngster is beaten, threatened and forced to steal for his supper. This degradation visited on a boy with "a face like an angel" reveals "the best and worst shades of our natures," man at his "ugliest and loveliest," so that in the end the principle of good survives and triumphs.

Director Brian Crowe guides this small cast through superbly choreographed and complicated action, and elicits performances that border on genius. Quentin McCuiston may look older than a 10-year-old Oliver, but he projects the boy's innocence and resilience while telegraphing his vulnerability and raising our sympathy.

As the Artful Dodger, Robbie Collier Sublett, a pickpocket extraordinaire, may not be as cute as the movie musical version of the play, but he does show a bit of humanity toward Oliver and acts as a very expressive narrator in the opening and closing scenes. With his Cockney accent he pronounces his v's as w's — wery instead of very — to the audience's glee.

The adults in this tale are almost uniformly nasty. Eric Hoffmann portrays Mr. Bumble, the parish beadle, as a self-righteous, pompous man in the beginning, so it's poetic justice when he becomes a henpecked husband after marrying Mrs. Corney, the matron of the workhouse, played with delicious evil by Tina Stafford, who also plays a mean accordion.

Any kindness exhibited toward Oliver by Mr. Sowerberry the undertaker, played by Andrew Boyer, is totally negated by his braying spouse, played by Jeffrey M. Bender in wig and padding. Bender is a very vicious Bill Sikes, a brutal thief and house-breaker; with his red eyes and mean glare, he's very scary. And the thief/prostitute Nancy, sympathetically depicted by Corey Tazmania, represents the effects of gin and drugs and a woman in thrall to an abusive man — in this case Sikes.

Ames Adamson turns in an outstanding performance as the "covetful, avaricious" Fagin. Long derided as an example of Victorian anti-Semitism, Fagin, as performed by Adamson, speaks in a very faint accent that is hard to place; it is not Yiddish, Cockney or British, but an amalgam of the three. Not until he recites the Kaddish, the Jewish prayer recited for the dead, just before his hanging are we sure he's Jewish. Adamson does not pile on the usual, lascivious behavior often ascribed to Fagin. He's more businessman than monster, making him all the more dangerous.

Unfortunately, although Dickens' syntax and diction may have gone out of style, his concerns have not. "Oliver Twist" is the perfect tale for election season, as we argue over how much the government owes to the poor. And, young people still turn to crime just to survive, and becoming addicted to alcohol and drugs isn't inimical to 1837 — it's a great problem in America today.

Once again, the Shakespeare Theatre of New Jersey shows us what a class act it is.

The theater's wonderful way with delivery and staging makes for a breathtaking production of "Oliver Twist" that should not be missed. It is on stage at the F.M. Kirby Shakespeare Theatre on the campus of Drew University, 36 Madison Ave. in Madison.

HOROSCOPE

ARIES, March 21 to April 20.

Aries, relaxing for a few days seems like the perfect idea, but restlessness will ultimately thwart these plans. Engage in low-energy activities, instead.

TAURUS, April 21 to May 21.

Taurus, you might find it difficult to ask for what you desire, but you just have to buckle down and make a stand. It may not be easy, but your efforts will prove fruitful.

GEMINI, May 22 to June 21.

Gemini, you are in your element this week and the good vibes will last for several days. There's no pressure to get things done, so keep on sailing.

CANCER, June 22 to July 22.

Cancer, it may seem like a good idea to retreat to a fantasy world when the going gets tough, but you'll need to have your feet and mind firmly planted in reality this week.

LEO, July 23 to Aug. 23.

Leo, it is good to be optimistic, but it also helps to develop a plan in case things don't go your way. Ask a friend or family member for help when devising your plan.

VIRGO, Aug. 24 to Sept. 22.

Virgo, concentration comes naturally to you, so don't worry if some extra work at the office is presented at the last minute. Ask a co-worker for help, if necessary.

LIBRA, Sept. 23 to Oct. 23.

You are eager to listen and learn, Libra, but you also want to share your own experiences. This week you will need to find a balance between being a student and a teacher.

SCORPIO, Oct. 24 to Nov. 22.

Scorpio, think things through before making big decisions. There is some pressure on you, but concentrate and focus on the task at hand.

SAGITTARIUS, Nov. 23 to Dec. 21.

Make some decisions now before you change your mind again, Sagittarius. Too much information can cloud your judgment, so go with your gut.

CAPRICORN, Dec. 22 to Jan. 20.

Capricorn, you are at a turning point in your life and it could be a good time to make a few important changes. This may involve a new career or making new friends.

AQUARIUS, Jan. 21 to Feb. 18.

Aquarius, even if you have a lot to get done, you will be able to think on your feet and make changes as needed depending on the situation this week.

PISCES, Feb. 19 to March 20.

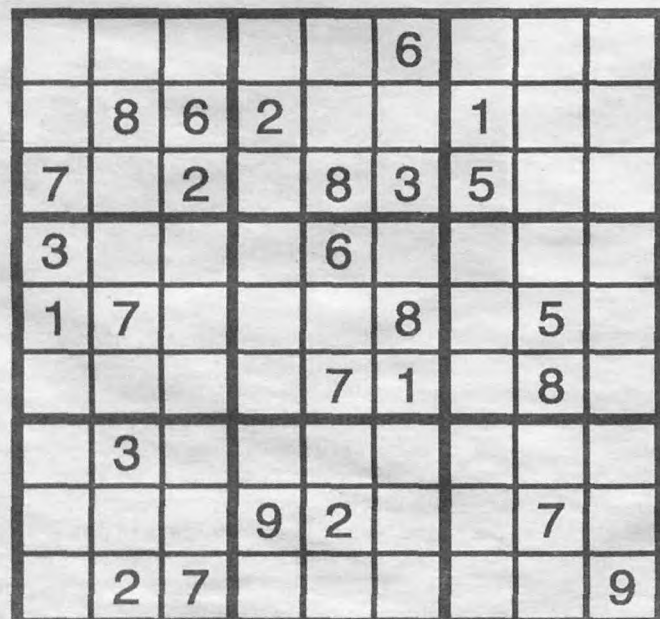

Actively explore your impulses during the next few days, Pisces. You may not have the opportunity to do so later on.

SUDOKU

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

PERSONALS

In Need of a Liver:

My name is David Krista a resident of Wallingford, CT and I am in desperate need of a liver. I am Blood type A positive and I need either a piece of a living donor (which is my best hope for survival) or a liver from someone who has recently passed away. Becoming an organ donor is so vital to many people who are anxiously waiting for the call to say they have a match. If you feel it in your heart to be tested to see if you match someone please call the Yale Transplant Center @203-785-2565. If you can't be a living donor, please consider making yourself a donor by having it placed on your license.
Thank you for your time and consideration.

THIS IS H.S. FOOTBALL

We have a bit of a changing of the guard so far in Union County this season.

Speaking of rivals, Roselle Park is 2-0 for the first time since 2005 and Brearley is 0-2 for the first time since 2000 when it opened with losses at home to Bound Brook and Roselle Park.

Scotch Plains is 2-0 for the first time since 2007 and Westfield is 0-2 for the first time since 2005 when it opened with losses at Old Bridge and at Scotch Plains, the latter in overtime.

Both Roselle Park and Scotch Plains will seek to go 3-0 this weekend. The Panthers will host South Hunterdon (1-1) in their home-opener tomorrow night, while the Raiders will play at Rahway (1-1) Saturday afternoon.

Later on this season, Roselle Park will seek to beat Brearley for the first time since 2001, while Scotch Plains will seek to down Westfield for the first time since 2007.

Elizabeth, Summit, Cranford and New Providence have also gotten off to 2-0 starts.

No one could ever remember a game where Elizabeth led arch rival Union 35-0 at the half like the Minutemen did last Friday night at their Williams Field.

Elizabeth went on to a 42-7 triumph and is now getting ready for its first road game, which will be a Delaware Division clash at Hunterdon Central tomorrow night. HC is 0-2, both losses by one point, including the first one in overtime.

Summit and Cranford will clash at Cranford's Memorial Field tomorrow night. They played each other there last year when both were 7-0. Summit won 52-21, so this time Cranford wants to put on a better show, you can be sure of that.

New Providence, which has not had a losing season dating back to the 1980s, seeks to down Dayton tomorrow night at Union's Cooke Memorial Field. It's Dayton's home-opener.

This was the scene last Oct. 28, the night before the snowstorm, between host Cranford - at left - and visiting Summit - at right. The Hilltoppers went on to a 52-21 triumph, capturing the Mid-State 39 Conference's East B (Mountain) Division title as a result. Both teams reside in the Mid-State 38 Conference's Raritan Division this season. Summit is 2-0 overall and 2-0 in the division, while Cranford is 2-0 overall and 1-0 in the division.

Summit at Cranford football battle of 2-0 conference foes

First place in Raritan Division on the line

The visiting team will enter Memorial Field tomorrow night with a school-record 29-game regular season winning streak.

Three of those victories came against the home team.

The home team leads all Union County squads with a five-game winning streak.

The visiting team won a third straight division title last year after beating the home team. The home team then went on to win the program's first - playoff era - state championship.

The visiting team I'm talking about is Summit, which has not lost a regular season game since November of 2008.

The home team I'm talking about is Cranford, which lost at home to Summit 52-21 last Oct. 28, but rebounded to win its next three games over opponents at game times that were a combined 22-4. Cranford beat those three foes - 7-0 Delaware Valley 41-7 at home, 7-1 Colonia 34-7 on the road and 8-3 Parsippany Hills 27-0 at Kean - by a combined total of 102-14.

In a battle of 11-0 teams, Summit lost its final game last year to defending champion Madison 47-7 in the North 2, Group 2 final at Kean.

So, Summit won the Mid-State 39 Conference's East B (Mountain) Division title by beating Cranford by 31 points, but then lost its state championship game by 40 points.

After losing the game for the division title to Summit by 31 points, Cranford ended up winning North 2, Group 3 by outscoring its two playoff opponents by 54 points.

But that was last year.

Now both will be battling tomorrow night for the lead in the Mid-State 38 Conference's Raritan Division. Since both are now situated in North 2, Group 3, with Cranford the defending champion, the game will impact the section standings as well. Plus, now there's always the possibility of a playoff rematch, so one or both teams may not show every play in their arsenal.

Both teams were 7-0 last year when they last clashed.

They are both now 2-0.

Cranford, according to head coach Erik Rosenmeier, has not come close to playing its best football yet after less-than-inspiring wins at home over Watchung Hills 17-14 and at division foe Somerville 21-0. The Cougars are 1-0 in the Raritan Division.

Summit opened with a division win at home over Somerville 41-7, but struggled offensively until the very end last Saturday before posting a come-from-behind 17-13 triumph over visiting division rival Johnson. The Hilltoppers lead the Raritan Division at 2-0.

"We'll take it as just another game again," Summit senior running back A.J. Iarussi said.

Iarussi rushed for a game-high 157 yards on 18 carries vs. Johnson.

"It will be exciting to play them and they will be looking for payback.

"We have to give them the same effort we gave them last year and better."

Summit senior running back and standout placekicker Mike Badgley scored all of his team's points against Johnson, including the game-winning touchdown on a three-yard run with one minute to go.

Cranford head coach Erik Rosenmeier has his team's full attention this week as the Cougars prepare for a Summit team that has won 29 consecutive regular season games. Three of those wins came over Cranford in 2009, 2010 and 2011.

Cougars will be out to halt Hilltoppers tomorrow night

Badgley also intercepted a pass and kicked a 29-yard field goal.

"It will be fun," Badgley said. "We've gotten through a couple of games now and we'll have to go back there to play them.

"Every year one of our goals is to win the conference, so this will be another big conference game for us.

"Plus, with us being in their section, we could see them again in the playoffs."

Cranford head coach Erik Rosenmeier was at Tatlock Field in person to see Summit come back and beat Johnson, which is the school he graduated from in 1983 after playing for the Crusaders under head coach Steve Ciccotelli.

"We have not played our best football yet and know that we'll have to be much better if we want to contend with a team like Summit," Rosenmeier said.

Cranford's returning players remember the awful feeling after last year's game. Give them credit, they were able to rebound in a way that Cranford football never had done before.

"We get them on our home turf again and get another shot to get them," Cranford senior quarterback Reggie Green said.

"After we lost to them last year we just had to go back to basics and play our game and not do too much."

"Last year's game was an eye-opener for us," said Cranford defensive lineman Chris Folinusz. Because of injuries on offense, Folinusz has lined up at running back.

"We felt pretty much invincible before last year's game against them and were on a roll," Folinusz said. "We were undefeated and no one had stopped us before that game."

"Summit stuck it to us with their no huddle, they executed it perfectly. After that game we realized that we had to execute perfectly and that we had to do the little things right like they did.

"They were a great team last year and we'll have to be ready for them this year."

Summit head coach John Liberato said his team, "passed the test" by driving 98 yards to beat Johnson. Another big test looms tomorrow night.

"We'll have to be prepared once again for another good team," Liberato said. "Look at what Cranford did after they played us last year. They won a state championship.

"Like I always say, we're going to try to get better than what we were the week before."

Springfield 5K run is set for Sept. 30 Begins at Dayton parking lot

The Springfield Education Foundation (SEF) has been busy preparing for the second annual Sprint for Springfield Schools 5K Run/Walk which will be held on Sept. 30, a month earlier than last year's inaugural event.

Registrations are being accepted online at www.springfieldeducationfoundation.com or can be downloaded and mailed to SEF/5K Sprint for Springfield Schools, 765 Mountain Ave., Suite 280 Springfield, New Jersey 07081. Online registrations will be accepted until midnight Friday, September 28.

The Sprint for Springfield Schools 5K Run/Walk, a USA Track & Field Grand Prix event, will commence at 9 a.m. from the front parking lot of Jonathan Dayton High School, with awards ceremony to follow at 9:45 a.m.

There will also be a Fun Run for children under the age of nine which will also be held at Dayton, located at 139 Mountain Avenue in Springfield.

"The outpouring of support and the contributions from the community have been nothing short of spectacular," added Robert Burkhardt, Springfield Education Foundation Trustee and Guidance Counselor at E.V. Walton Early Childhood Center.

"The Springfield Education Foundation would like to publicly thank and acknowledge those companies who are allowing all proceeds from this event to go back into the school system and benefit the children directly."

As of last week, the 2012 Sprint for Springfield Schools 5K Run/Walk corporate partners included:

- Top Dawg — UBS / • Fun Run — ATA Martial Arts
- Finish Line Sponsor — No Body Denied (NBD)
- Photography Sponsor — Morgan Stanley
- Registration Sponsor — Champion Container Company
- Overall Awards Sponsors — Sports Authority
- Awards Sponsor — New Balance

Thanks to the generous support last year from community sponsors and individual contributors, all proceeds benefitted the Springfield Education Foundation which strives to keep our children and teachers on the leading edge of learning.

Last year's event generated over $12,000 and the money was put directly back into the classrooms. Teachers, through grant applications, received funds to enhance their classroom libraries on a myriad of topics to keep children engaged and develop an affinity for reading as well as purchased games and center activities to allow for differentiated teaching to foster knowledge and reinforce learning.

Funds were also allocated to purchase additional applications for the existing technologies in the classroom and for additional art supplies that will develop and strengthen fine and gross motor skills and help with sensory integration.

Additional details on the race, including registration links can be found at www.springfieldeducationfoundation.com.

Those interested in volunteering the day of the race may contact Steve Wolcott at stevewolcott@yahoo.com for more information.

Badgley leads Hilltoppers to come-from-behind win

Gridiron thriller sees Summit top Crusaders

By JR Parachini

SUMMIT - Mike Badgley serves many important roles as a key member of the Summit football team.

He is a running back, a wide receiver, a defensive back, the team's kicker on kickoffs and the squad's placekicker when it comes to making important extra points and field goals.

Last Saturday he did it all for the host Hilltoppers, scoring all of his team's points to lead Summit to a thrilling, come-from-behind 17-13 Mid-State 38 Conference-Raritan Division triumph over Johnson at Tatlock Field.

Johnson was close to pulling off a stunning upset. The Crusaders were real close.

They had the host Hilltoppers on their heels, one year after losing to Summit on the same field by six touchdowns.

While the visiting Crusaders first made a statement by the way they smash-mouthed their way to a three-point, fourth-quarter lead - capitalizing on second-half Summit turnovers with two Anthony Travisano touchdowns - it was ultimately Summit having to show what it was really made of with a little more than four minutes left and 98 yards in front of it.

The Hilltoppers marched those 98 yards in 11 plays, using 3:10 after Badgley reached the end zone from three yards out on first-and-goal with 1:25 to play.

"We knew that if we were going to drive the ball down field we had to play hard-nosed football," said Badgley, who also scored Summit's first touchdown on a 73-yard pass from senior quarterback Tyler Carbone in the first quarter and then kicked a 29-yard field goal in the second. "We can throw passes, run with the ball and catch it, but our offensive line did an outstanding job and they were the reason why we were able to get down field and score."

On the last drive, Badgley caught a big first-down pass, good for 15 yards on third-and-eight from the four.

Summit senior running back and Colgate-bound A.J. Iarussi carried five times for 60 yards on the drive, including runs of 13 and 38 yards for two first downs. In marching down field with their no-huddle offense, the Hilltoppers produced five first downs on the game-winning drive.

"We've been in some tricky scenarios before," said Iarussi, who finished with 18 carries for a game-high 157 yards.

In the first half, Iarussi was held to just 24 yards on six carries.

"On the last drive we tried not to think about too much and just do our jobs," Iarussi said. "Our coaches put us in the best situations for us to succeed."

Following an interception by junior safety Vin Fischetti, Johnson got on the scoreboard when Travisano, a senior running back, raced down the right sideline for a 32-yard touchdown run with 9:01 left in the third quarter.

After Summit fumbled the ball away in the fourth quarter, with Johnson junior linebacker Joe Francisco recovering, the Crusaders got inside the Hilltopper 15 before scoring their second touchdown.

On third-and-nine from the Summit 12, Johnson senior quarterback Lance Pecina hit Travisano on the left side of the field with a screen pass that was good for a 12-yard touchdown.

"Anthony is one of the best players in Union County," Johnson second-year head coach Mike Mancino said. "Not a lot of people are aware of how good he is."

Johnson senior lefty, straightaway kicker Ed Olenick, who late in the first half just missed a 32-yard field goal attempt wide right and after the Crusaders scored their first touchdown his first PAT was also wide right, this time kicked the ball through the uprights to put Johnson ahead 13-10 with 9:21 to go.

On Summit's next drive, the Hilltoppers were awarded a first-and-10 on the Johnson 17 after a helmet-to-helmet personal foul was called on an incomplete pass over the middle. On the very next play, Summit was called for holding when Iarussi scored on a 17-yard run that had to come back.

Two plays later, Johnson senior safety Bill Ring intercepted a Carbone pass at the Johnson 15 with 6:42 left. Mancino called Johnson's final timeout there to go over the offense.

After gaining one first down, Johnson's drive stalled at the Summit 21. On third-and-17, Travisano booted a free kick that rolled down the middle of the field all the way to the Summit 2.

The Hilltoppers, with their backs to the wall after Travisano's 75-yard punt, answered again. They will now take a 29-game regular season winning streak into tomorrow night's division clash at Cranford. That will be a battle of 2-0 teams.

The squads also played at Cranford's Memorial Field last year in a battle of 7-0 squads. Summit won 52-21 to clinch a third consecutive division title.

Johnson will next get ready for tomorrow night's home-opener against Hillside.

"I don't know what to say, we played our hearts out," said Travisano, who carried 17 times for 99 yards and one touchdown and also caught a TD pass. "They put up 63 points on us last year like it was nothing. I think we earned respect. We'll just have to continue to work harder in practice."

"It's a shame somebody had to lose," Mancino said. "We pinned Summit at the 2 and we were hoping for a three-and-out. Give Summit credit. They were conservative at first and then they got a big play and got the drive going."

Getting some big-time blocking from the likes of linemen Olenick and senior Ryan Baron, Johnson senior running back Ed Eaton muscled his way to 34 yards on three second-half carries.

"I thought we played an outstanding game," Mancino said. "In the first half we tripped ourselves up a bit with too many penalties. We tried to slow the tempo down so their offense couldn't really get going."

Mancino also told his team that if it keeps on playing to the last tick of the clock that somewhere down the road it will win a game like this.

"Johnson is a good team and good teams take advantage of mistakes the way they did," Summit head coach John Liberato said of his team's second-half turnovers.

Union football step behind a speedy Elizabeth offense

Minutemen score quick for dominating win

By JR Parachini
Sports Editor

ELIZABETH — It wasn't beauty that killed the beast.

It was speed that killed the Farmers.

In an early-season division showdown that featured the two best teams in Union County and two of the top-ranked teams in the state, it was the home team Minutemen making the biggest statement.

Elizabeth, behind the speedy running and pass receiving of senior backs Jahad Thomas and Kason Campbell — who each zig-zagged their way to three touchdowns — dominated Union 42-7 last Friday night in a Mid-State 38 Conference-Delaware Division clash many thought would feature fourth-quarter drama.

Instead, the only mystery was whether or not Elizabeth would go up 35 points by halftime.

The Minutemen did, with a commanding lead of 35-0.

Elizabeth improved to 2-0 and has outscored division foes Westfield and Union by a combined total of 87-13. The Minutemen will play their first road game tomorrow night at division rival Hunterdon Central, which is 0-2, including two one-point defeats.

Union, which has this weekend off before traveling to Phillipsburg for the first time since back-to-back North 2, Group 4 semifinal defeats in 2005 and 2006, is 1-1.

Thomas carried nine times for 150 yards and three touchdowns, while Campbell gained 171 yards on three attempts, rushing for two scores and catching one TD pass from senior quarterback P.J. Walker.

Elizabeth was in the end zone before Union knew it, scoring on three one-play drives, one two-play, one four-play and one five-play.

"They were very well-prepared and they beat us pretty good," said Union acting head coach Dominic Cuniglio.

"We were able to execute well," Elizabeth head coach John Quinn said. "Jahad has been unbelievable for us for three years and was overshadowed by Elijah Hughes until now. Kason has persevered through some very tough situations."

Elizabeth was halted on the game's opening drive after Walker's first three passes fell incomplete. Taking over on its own 40, Union began to move the ball and without the benefit of standout junior tailback Jamauri Bogan carrying it.

Behind the running and passing of senior quarterback Doug Carter, Union marched all the way to the Elizabeth 26 before an 11-play drive was halted.

"On our first drive we didn't want Elizabeth to come out and gang-tackle Jamauri, so we devised some things we didn't show in our first game," Cuniglio said. "We moved the ball effectively until the drive stalled."

After Union went 11 plays and did not score, Elizabeth needed just one play to take the lead for good. Thomas made a darting move in the middle and then scampered 74 yards untouched into the end zone for the game's first score.

With 36 seconds left in the first quarter, Elizabeth struck again on the first play of its fourth possession.

From the Minutemen 30, Walker hit Campbell at the Union 35 and then Campbell cut across the field and raced into the end zone for a 70-yard scoring strike.

"Two things we've improved on are our tackling and perimeter blocking," Quinn said. "Campbell and Thomas both received excellent blocking on their touchdown runs."

Bogan's first carry was good for five yards, coming on the initial play of Union's second possession. However, that would be Bogan's only rushing attempt and the last time he would see action.

Bogan, who said he entered the game 100 percent healthy and who caught one screen pass for 11 yards on Union's opening drive, suffered what Union hopes is not a very serious injury to his left ankle on his only rushing attempt.

"When I got the ball I tried to cut and plant," said Bogan, who in two games against Elizabeth last year carried 98 times for 625 yards and seven touchdowns. "I felt it (his left ankle) twist. I'm not sure if someone landed on it."

Bogan had no problem with Union's opening strategy of trying to move the ball down field without using him as a runner.

"We did a little option and it's the quarterback's decision on what plays to run," Bogan said.

Senior wide receiver Darnell Boyd had one catch on Union's first drive, while senior running back Shane Bond carried nine times for 10 yards in the first half. Carter gained 79 yards on 12 attempts and completed seven of 15 passes for 65 yards.

"Bond had a good game against Bridgewater-Raritan and Carter does a nice job of reading the option play," Quinn said. "My concern was that we would be too amped up."

"I'm also very proud of the way our defense played."

Elizabeth's starting defense pitched a shutout.

Also not running the ball for Union was junior running back Jabree Robertson, who Cuniglio said only played on defense and only for the first half.

"Jabree was banged up a bit in our Bridgewater game, so we only used him on defense (in the secondary)," Cuniglio said.

Cuniglio also reported that junior defensive back Agbai Iroha, one of four Union captains, pulled a hamstring in the first half.

Bogan, Robertson and Iroha may be questionable for Union's Sept. 28 game at Phillipsburg.

"We'll have to see," Cuniglio said.

"I'll have to see what the trainers and the doctor says," Bogan said about his injury.

Despite the lopsided defeat, Cuniglio was very positive after the game.

"The sun will still come up tomorrow and we will learn from this and get better," he told his team. "I guarantee that we will play this team again in the playoffs and we will play better."

"There are peaks and valleys. We can still make the playoffs, win the conference and win a state championship. Those goals are still within reach."

"That last drive was a gut check for our kids, to see what they're made of.

"They passed the test."

NOTES: Summit lined up for a 50-yard field goal attempt in the third quarter, but Badgley never got the chance to kick the ball because the snap was too low for the holder to get a hold of.

Summit's last regular season loss is still Nov. 7, 2008 at West Essex by the score of 37-12.

Roselle Park girls' tennis sees competition improve Is in more challenging Mountain Division

By JR Parachini
Sports Editor

After winning the Union County Conference's Valley Division championship the past two years, the Roselle Park girls' tennis team knew it would have an even more challenging schedule this season after moving up to the Mountain Division.

"We belong in the Mountain Division, so we're ready for some tougher competition," said head coach Nancy Sturcke, at the helm since 1977. "It's going to be a challenging season."

"We're not as ready as I would like us to be right now. Hopefully we'll get there and improve. There will be some adjusting this year, with that ball coming back again and again."

At first singles is senior Kelly Bulger, who was 15-6 at third singles last year.

"She's lifted her game from last year," Sturcke said. "She worked on it during the off-season. She's hitting the ball well and moving well. She always has the hardest match of the day."

At second singles is another senior, Diana Montero. She moved all the way up from being Roselle Park's first substitute a year ago.

"Diana has really had a long journey to her final slot on the team, which was an impressive advance for her," Sturcke said. "She worked on her game over the summer and it's paid off."

Taking over at third singles is junior Katarina DiLillo. She played at first doubles in 2011.

"She also worked on her game over the summer," Sturcke said. "Katarina brings some athleticism on the court with her. She's a basketball and softball player as well."

"She's in the process now of developing an all-around game. She's very comfortable at the net and uses her height (5-9) to her advantage."

At first doubles are sophomores Niti Shah and Jasmin Brown.

Both played a lot on the junior varsity a year ago, including at doubles.

"They really show a lot of promise," Sturcke said. "There's a lot of raw talent there. Sometimes they have outstanding shots. They need to develop their skills."

At second doubles are senior Raquel Casso and junior Tiffany Hunter.

"Raquel brings a lot of experience to the position," Sturcke said. "She's solid at the baseline and she's a smart player who sees the opening on the court and is able to put the ball there."

"She's teaming with Tiffany, who is new to tennis, but she's a very solid player. She has good instincts and is hitting the ball pretty consistently at the baseline and at the net."

Other varsity contributors include seniors Lisa Palacio, Alissa Moritz and Roma Patel. Sub varsity players include junior Stephanie Green and sophomores Michelle Henriques and Muriel Olazo.

In addition, there are 15 more girls playing JV tennis, for a total of 28 in the program this season.

The Mountain Division this year includes Roselle Park, Union, New Providence, Johnson, Cranford, Elizabeth and Plainfield.
