'Til death do us part

LocalSource takes a look at the statistics behind male-dominated domestic violence

By Cheryl Hehl
Staff Writer

It is called a "crime of passion" when a man murders their spouse or intimate partner. But regardless why a person ends up "snapping" and taking the life of someone they are supposed to love, the result is the same. Someone is stabbed, bludgeoned, shot, or strangled.

Why do men murder? Authorities are the first to admit they rarely have a clue into the psychological reasons behind this troubling and brutal scenario, but there are signs that point to who might be more likely to commit a crime of passion.

Just a few short weeks ago a dazed Michael Ballister III, 43, of Union, stood in an Elizabeth courtroom and was arraigned on murder charges. It was just hours after autopsy results confirmed the dismembered body found in five construction-grade black plastic bags in a deserted area of Newark was his girlfriend, April Wyckoff, 43, of Cranford.

Ballister pled not guilty to the charge and remains incarcerated at the county jail on more than $5 million in bail. What happened inside his Mercer Avenue home the night of Oct. 29 that lead up to the slaying of Wyckoff remains a mystery. But police are certain a murder took place at the home and they say they have plenty of evidence to prove it.

A week after being arraigned, Ballister told jail guards he wanted to speak with authorities. He said he did not want to be perceived as a "monster," and missed his girlfriend, April Wyckoff. This story, though, is just one of many that happen each year, in Union County, New Jersey and across the country. Each tells the story of how deadly a relationship can end at the hands of an intimate partner.

Staggering national statistics backup this real story of why men kill and according to Union County and Union police authorities, the numbers stay about the same, and the story usually follows a pattern.

- According to the U.S. Surgeon General, domestic violence is the leading cause of injury to women in the United States.

- The American Medical Association estimates male partners assault 2 million women each year, while the U.S. Department of Justice estimated in 2012 that 95 percent of domestic violence victims are indeed women.

- In a report to the nation on Crime and Justice last year, the U.S. Department of Justice reported a woman is beaten every 15 seconds in the United States.

- At some point during their lifetime, 36 percent of women – or approximately 42.4 million women – were victims of rape, physical violence and stalking by an intimate partner,

Top administrator fired for plagiarism at Kean

Some faculty members are noticing similarities to president's past scandal which resulted in no penalty

By Cheryl Hehl
Staff Writer

The employment of one of Kean University's top administrators ended abruptly late last week after being accused of "plagiarism on a massive scale" by the teachers union.

According to a complaint filed with Kean University President Dawood Farahi Nov. 13 by James Castiglione who is an Associate Professor of Physics and President of the Kean Federation of Teachers union, it was evident Kean's associate vice president of academic affairs, Katerina Andriotis copied the majority of a 15-page campus enrollment report from documents authored by the University of Tennessee and Center for Study of College Student Retention.

Still unclear is whether the associate vice president of academic affairs was fired by the university or quit when the plagiarism accusation came to light last week. Efforts to uncover what actually took place hit a dead end when calls to the university administra-

A taste of Italy

Josiah Nieves in 5th grade and his little brother Julius Nieves in Pre-K at School No. 4 in Linden take a 'Tour of Italy' to celebrate the Linden's World Language Program. The event focused on the connection between the school and home. It was designed to be an enjoyable way for students, parents and community members to receive a hands-on experience with the World Language Program. Those that participated in the event went on a 'Tour of Italy' to develop an understanding of the Italian culture, history and language. At each destination guests were given a tour of the city they were visiting by one of the districts Italian teachers. They learned interesting facts, saw popular sites, and received a taste of Italy at each stop. Guests were given a passport as they entered the school and got a stamp at each of the destinations they visited throughout the evening.

Cranford to eliminate health department

By Cheryl Hehl
Staff Writer

CRANFORD — Rumors that the health department might be completely taken over by Westfield by the beginning of the year became official this week when two employees were notified Friday their positions were being eliminated as of 2014.

According to sources, the public health inspector and part-time administrative clerk positions will be eliminated as of Dec. 31.

Although LocalSource inquired about such a change occurring in the last several weeks, governing body members were mum on the issue, preferring to say the matter was “still under consideration.”

Adding more mystery to what was in the works for the department that has seen many changes since 2011 was the 11th hour decision by the Township Committee to pull a resolution renewing Westfield’s shared services agreement for 2014 from last week’s public meeting. However there were other signs this department was about to undergo major change.

For example, Jennifer Kobliska, appointed in 2011 by the governing body as health department administrative assistant and registrar of vital statistics, was recently moved out of the health department and into the position of assistant to the township administrator. This appointment was finalized by Township Committee resolution at a meeting in early November, effective Oct. 28.

At the same time, Kobliska was also reappointed as township registrar of vital statistics, giving rise to speculation that the township was about to eliminate the health department. State law requires every municipality maintain at least a part-time registrar, even when public health services are being provided by another municipality through an interlocal agreement.

The township health department underwent a major change in September 2011 when health officer Warren Hehl, an employee for 23 years, left to take a position as Rahway’s Director of Health and Senior Services.

Following rumors that have been circulating for weeks, Cranford makes the removal of their local health department official, and signs on with Westfield for complete health department coverage.

County shuffling personnel, hires new deputy manager

By Cheryl Hehl
Staff Writer

Although the county kept the lid on things, there has been a lot of shuffling of personnel going on along with the reinstatement of a position that has remained vacant for two years.

Monday the county announced William Reyes, 39, the former director of Planning and Community Development for Elizabeth, was appointed as the new deputy county manager under County Manager Al Faella.

Although the position had not been filled since Elizabeth Genievich retired in early 2012, according to Union County Communications Director Sebastian D’Elia, given the workload of the county manager, it was time to bring someone new aboard.

Reyes, who will be making $133,980 annually, actually started Nov. 12 but the county did not immediately announce the decision. In fact, while there were rumors several county directors were leaving, few knew Reyes would be stepping in as deputy county manager.

Monday in a press release announcing the decision, Faella, who selected Reyes, praised him as someone who is a “sharp, personable and innovative administrator who gets the job

Local libraries team up to help ‘check out hunger’

County libraries accepted donations of non-perishable foods

Help check out hunger this holiday season with donations to a food drive being sponsored by the Union County Public Libraries.

From Nov. 25 to Dec. 16, local public libraries will be accepting donations of non-perishable food items to benefit the New Jersey Community Food Bank and other local food pantries. Collection bins will be conveniently located at the public libraries and library staff will then route 100 percent of the donations to designated food banks.

During these tough economic times, many people in New Jersey have been left behind; low income families; struggling single parents; the elderly on a fixed income; the unemployed. One year later many people are still suffering the effects of super storm Sandy. The New Jersey Community Food Bank assists by supplying food to over 1,500 non-profit charities in 19 counties, including soup kitchens, food pantries, shelters, local food banks, after school programs and senior centers.

To make this holiday season hunger free, simply visit your local library with a donation of non-perishable items. Groceries most urgently needed are canned meat and fish; canned soups and stews; peanut butter in plastic jars; boxed pasta and rice; powdered milk; infant formula; canned vegetables and fruits.

Participating libraries include: Berkeley Heights Public Library, Clark Public Library, Cranford Public Library, Elizabeth Public Library, Garwood Free Public Library, Kenilworth Public Library, Linden Public Library, New Providence Memorial Library, Plainfield Public Library, Rahway Public Library, Roselle Public Library, Springfield Public Library, Summit Public Library, Union Free Public Library, Westfield Memorial Library. KEEPING YOUR SKIN HEALTHY KNOW THE RISK FACTORS OF MELANOMA

As the body's largest organ, your skin works constantly to protect the organs, regulate body temperature, and reflects your overall health. If you notice or experience any changes to your skin, it's best to see a dermatologist. Should you have one or more factors that increase your risk of developing melanoma (the most potentially lethal form of skin cancer), you should be conscientious about undergoing regular skin checks. The first risk factor is having about 50 or more moles anywhere on your body. Having red or blond hair, blue or green eyes, or a tendency to sunburn easily are also risk factors.

You should also raise your attention level if you experienced three or more blistering sunburns before age 20 or worked outdoors during summers as a teenager. Lastly, receiving increased media attention and research data, is that indoor tanning increases the risk of melanoma by 75%! Not surprisingly, the largest increase in the incidence of melanoma has been women age 16-30 years old.

Remember it is very important to examine your skin on a regular basis for any new or growing lesions. Be sure to mention any unusual changes and concerns to your dermatologist. For additional information about melanoma screening and prevention call 718-698-1616.

Domestic violence stats a horror to realize

LocalSource looks at prevalence of men in U.S. to commit domestic violence abuse according to The National Intimate Partner and Sexual Violence Survey in 2011.

- The Federal Bureau of Investigation reported this year that 61 percent of female homicides victims were killed by intimate partners.

- Anywhere from one to three million women are battered each year by intimate partners.

- In the United States, a woman is more likely to be assaulted, raped or killed by an intimate partner than by any other type of assailant.

- Domestic violence occurs to all types of women, regardless of age, income, race, education or their belief system, according to the U.S. Office for Victims of Crime.

Like all victims of violent crime, battered women fear retaliation by their intimate partners or spouses. Fully 50 percent of all victims of violent crime reported to police authorities across the country were fearful their intimate partner would seek reprisal if they pressed charges. National statistics by the U.S. Office for Victims of Crime agreed these fears were not misplaced.

A National Crime Survey in 2012 estimated 32 percent of battered women were re-victimized within six months after an assault, requiring police intervention. In fact, this survey indicated, battered women are most often killed when attempting to seek legal help or leaving an abusive relationship.

There are many reasons why battered women appear to be at an elevated risk for retaliatory violence. According to the U.S. Office for Victims of Crime, batterers may escalate violence in order to force an intimate partner into reconciliation, retaliate for charges levied against him or in an attempt to get the charges dismissed.

If a batterer cannot get his partner back, the U.S. Office for Victims of Crime reported he may seek retribution for her leaving him and the disloyalty in exposing him to criminal charges in the first place.

Although these statistics are jarring, actual events leave families, friends, neighbors, police and strangers shocked and in stunned disbelief when a woman is murdered by an intimate partner.

For former Cranford Police Chief Harry Wilde, every murder that occurred while he was on the force and as chief has left an indelible mark; one neither time nor resolution seems to erase.

Several years ago this outgoing and stellar public safety official recalled the 1978 brutal murder of 17-year-old Michelle DeMarzo, a Cranford High School former cheerleader, just days from graduation. Although always stoic when discussing crime of any nature, in this instance his face betrayed the horror he felt at finding the body of one of Cranford's own beloved teens.

Wilde was a detective back in June 1978 when the mutilated body of the high school senior was found at the Conservation Center bordering Kenilworth. Although hardened after years on the force, the former chief confessed he still visualized every detail of this horrific murder scene and how incomprehensible it was to him that anyone could have brutalized someone they loved in this manner.

The news sent shock waves through the sleepy suburban community but police quickly apprehended a suspect - DeMarzo's ex-boyfriend, Neil Costanza.

The couple, Wilde said, knew each other for four years and had a serious relationship for two. Although the teens broke up in August 1977, less than a year later on a warm early summer evening Costanza went to DeMarzo's house to beg her to reconcile with him.

The high school senior went willingly with Costanza that evening, according to information obtained by police, but she never returned home.

According to reports by the Cranford Chronicle at the time, 19-year-old Costanza murdered his former sweetheart when all his attempts at reconciliation failed. Police said DeMarzo was beaten with a four-foot tree limb and a slat from a picket fence was used to mutilate her body.

In October 1978 Costanza pled guilty to murder and was remanded to the New Jersey State Prison on a 27- to 30-year sentence. He was released in 1993 on parole after serving just 15 years of that sentence.

The DeMarzo murder echoes the U.S. Office for Victims of Crimes statistics. Their research found retaliation often is the reason men "snap" and end up murdering the person they claim to love so much and want back. Wyckoff's murder in Union also had the same retaliation undertones.

According to police reports Ballister had battered the Cranford woman in the past and she actually called police last May after an incident. Wyckoff subsequently obtained a restraining order against Ballister but the two reunited during the summer.

While authorities are not certain what took place the night Wyckoff was murdered, they allegedly know he prevented her from leaving her car, attacked her and later held the mother of two captive in his home before killing and dismembering her body. The story is just one of countless others Union Police Director Dan Zieser has heard.

The police director, who spent 35 years in the Newark Police Department before retiring and heading the Union Police Department, just shook his head when asked why men kill their intimate partners.

"I can't answer that because every case is different, but I do have one question that never gets answered - why do women go back to men who abuse them?" he asked.

The more difficult question that no one, not even one as experienced as Zieser, is able to answer is whether it is possible to know when an intimate partner is reaching a breaking point. Again this police director said that this issue, like so many issues surrounding the murder of an intimate partner, remains illusive.

"Everyone has different levels of when they can snap," Zieser said, but added "for every murder there is a trigger."

Zieser points to a murder in April 2011 that took place in the township, which he said illustrates this quite well.

Vincent Falls, 43, killed his wife, Cheryl, 44, in their apartment building on Chestnut Street and Crawford Terrace, following an argument where he chased her throughout the apartment with a knife until cornering her in the bathroom and stabbing her to death. Whether it was an argument, or just the last straw in a relationship that was on rocky ground, the Union police chief said "you never know." Many people who know these men who snap often report they showed no signs of this type of behavior.

In March 2011 William Parisio, 23, picked up a dumbbell and bludgeoned his girlfriend Pamela Schmidt, 22, of Warren in the head until she was dead. Her body was found the following day in the basement of Parisio's parents Cranford home on Greaves Place.

There were reports that Parisio was high on "bath salts" and in a state of paranoia and the college student had struggled with mental illness and drug dependency for years. From all indications the couple had been happy together. It is unknown what triggered this 23-year-old to kill his girlfriend.

The name of the town may change but the circumstances surrounding these "crimes of passion" rarely do.

The U.S. Office of Crime Victims describes a crime of passion as being committed under "extreme emotional circumstances and frequently involves discovering disturbing behavior on the part of a lover or spouse. This creates a state of temporary insanity in the person committing the crime, according to information obtained from the U.S. Office for Victims of Crimes. Crimes of passion do not involve premeditation, or a thought out act of violence.

Assessing whether batterers will kill is another question entirely, according to police authorities. However, Janice C. Lilien, the Executive Director of the YWCA of Union County, thinks there is not enough outrage from the public regarding this issue.

"Domestic violence is all around us. In total, domestic violence impacts more women than breast cancer, lung cancer and ovarian cancer combined," she wrote in an opinion piece published by LocalSource on Nov. 7. In Union County alone, she said, there were nearly 4,000 reported cases in 2011, the last year the Uniform Crime Report came out.

"In the same year Cranford reported 126 and Union 223, again probably a fraction of actual domestic violence," Lilien said, explaining that the YWCA of Union County's goal is to break the silence around domestic violence and help the community understand the dynamics and how they can work together to keep people safe.

"Sadly, the very day that the Ballister home in Union was being searched for evidence of a homicide, the YWCA of Union County was presenting a program at Kean University called 'Empty Places at the Table,' an event to honor those whose lives were lost due to domestic violence," she said.

"Perhaps there will be a place at the table for April Wyckoff in a future year," Lilien said, adding that in this time of increased awareness, it is incumbent upon everyone to speak out and reach out.

"Where is the outrage? When will it end?" she asked.

Next week: Looking deeper into what can be done to change the statistics.

Cranford eliminates health dept.

At that time the governing body made a decision to contract with Westfield for health officer services, which is required by state law. The township could have opted to hire another health officer, but ultimately decided to go in another direction.

In January 2012 the governing body signed an interlocal agreement with the Westfield Regional Health Department, appointing Megan Avallone, health director of the WRHD, as the township's new health officer. However, in making that decision the township sacrificed having an on-site health officer, which the municipality always had previously.

At the time one governing body member said that by going for an interlocal agreement for public health services, the township was able to save taxpayer dollars. Hehl was earning $92,205 a year when he left, considerably more than the 2012 contract Westfield negotiated with Cranford, which was below $60,000 annually.

As health director for the WRHD, Avallone heads a regionalized conglomerate overseeing the towns of Garwood, Roselle Park, Mountainside, Fanwood, New Providence, Summit and Cranford. The WRHS previously oversaw Springfield, but that changed when this municipality decided to negotiate an interlocal agreement with Madison for these same services.

Every town that opts to go into a regionalized public health system has the option of selecting the services they require. For example, Cranford required state mandated health officer coverage, as well as several other mandated services, which the WRHD provided for a fee. That fee, though, is usually less than what a municipality would pay a full-time health officer.

As health director for the WRHD, Avallone heads a regionalized conglomerate overseeing the towns of Garwood, Roselle Park, Mountainside, Fanwood, New Providence, Summit and Cranford.

According to the last negotiated interlocal agreement the township signed with Westfield in February 2013, obtained by Local-Source using the Open Public Records Act, the township amended its January 2013 interlocal agreement to include nursing services. This increased the annual amount Cranford was paying for public health and nursing services to $77,756 a year. That will change in 2014 with the township opting to shift all public services over to WRHD.

Municipalities are required by state law to have nursing services, which include communicable disease investigations, hypertension readings and health education, among other things.

It is unknown at this point how much the township will have to pay for full public health services, which would include either a full-time or part-time public health inspector. State licensed health inspectors are charged with inspecting food store establishments, which require an annual license renewal in order to operate.

Kent Place recently hosted popular children's author

On Monday, Nov. 11, the Kent Place Primary School hosted children's book author and illustrator Michael Dooling in the school's Amanda Yoder Library. Dooling is the illustrator of more than 60 books, many of which are historical fiction. His latest book is "Fossil Hunter," which tells the tale of fossil hunter William Foulke's findings of the first, nearly complete dinosaur skeleton in Haddonfield, N.J. in 1858. The story goes on to describe how this discovery changed the way people imagined dinosaurs.

Students from pre-kindergarten through fifth grade enjoyed presentations from the author, who was dressed in traditional 18th-century garb. Dooling discussed his love of oil painting with the students, and invited students to paint with him at his easel.

For more information about Kent Place and its libraries, visit, <http://www.kent-place.org/library>.

Author to discuss book on eating disorders, Nov. 26

Diana Worden Karmin will discuss her book, "Escape from Food Coma: The Literal Ups and Downs of Life with an Eating Disorder" on Tuesday, Nov. 26 at 7:30 p.m. at the Summit Free Public Library, 75 Maple Street.

In summer 2010, Karmin, who was 52 years old and weighed 263 pounds, decided it was time to escape the health problems associated with her weight. In an effort to get under 200 pounds she had not only met, but far exceeded, her original goal, fitting into a size 2 18 months later. Her book documents her lifelong struggle with her weight and disordered eating.

The program is free and all are welcome, but seating is limited. For information, call 908-273-0350 or visit www.summitlibrary.org.

OPINION

EDITORIAL

As the days grow shorter and the cold of winter creeps steadily closer, Jewish people across the world prepare to celebrate Hanukkah. Also known as the Festival of Lights, this eight-day holiday commemorating the rededication of the Holy Temple begins at sundown on Wednesday, Nov. 27, this year.

Each year, Hanukkah begins on the 25th day of Kislev, according to the Hebrew calendar, which may occur at any time from late November to late December in the Gregorian calendar.

Although a minor Jewish holiday, especially when compared to the High Holy Days or Days of Awe, Hanukkah's significance has been elevated, particularly in North America in the latter part of the 20th century, by large numbers of secular Jews who wanted a Jewish alternative to the Christmas celebrations that often overlap Hanukkah. In 21st-century America, this holiday has taken a place equal to Passover as a symbol of Jewish identity, focusing on a combination of national liberation and religious freedom.

The story of Hanukkah is preserved in the books of the First and Second Maccabees and takes place somewhere between the second and fifth centuries B.C. According to the Talmud, after the forces of Antiochus IV had been driven from the temple, the Maccabees discovered that almost all the ritual oil had been profaned.

They found only one single container sealed by the high priest, enough oil to keep the Hanukkah menorah, a nine-branched candelabrum known as a chanukkiyah, lit for a single day.

Miraculously, it stayed lit for eight days, the time it took to have new oil pressed and made ready.

The significance of the lighting of the Hanukkah candles in Jewish houses today is to illuminate the house from without, so that passersby will be reminded of the holiday's miracle: the triumph of the few against the many and the pure against the impure. Songs such as "Eight Little Candles" and "Dreidel, Dreidel, Dreidel" are sung and traditional foods such as potato pancakes, known in Yiddish as latkes, or jam-filled doughnuts known as pontshkes or fritters known as bimuelos are consumed.

This is a time to spin the dreidel and give Hanukkah gelt, or money, to good children. This is a time to rejoice in the miracles of God.

We wish everyone a happy Hanukkah.

Thank you for Halloween lovely and relaxed, thanks in great part to the DJ, Jeremy Moss, who kept the volume at a reasonable "bop to the beat, but you can still talk to your friends" level, as opposed to the ear-splitting, frenzy-inducing, up-to-11 volume and of past years. The costumes were fantastic — loved the doll in the box, the fried egg, dominos, the ice cream truck and 50 shades of gray. I especially love when parents dress up, too; two adults were dressed as Whoopee cushions. The business owners all seemed game and happy to see the hordes.

When the sun went down Thursday and we headed out into the dark night for trick-or-treating — the pinnacle of the day's litany of holiday-themed events — I felt a deep gratitude for those who had picked up my slack. On every street in town, at the end of nearly every walkway, was a magical front stoop. Folks had put out ghouls and witches, reapers and goblins. They had strung spider webs across porches and hung ghosts in bushes and trees. And yes, they had carved exquisitely beautiful pumpkins, and lit candles inside them, giving off that irrefutable glow of eerie wonder.

I was so grateful to my fellow townspeople who, in creating a magical experience for their own families, had inadvertently given us ours. I wanted to leave little thank-you notes under every front doormat saying, "Thank you for hauling the bins down from the attic, for setting out the newspaper and stringing up the spider. Thank you for the orange twinkling lights and the bubbling cauldrons, and for putting speakers in the front windows, like my dad used to, when he played the 'Chilling, Thrilling Sounds of the Haunted House,' a Disney record from 1964 meant to scare the pants off of trick-or-treaters, but never did."

The rain turned to drizzle before leaving us alone, and the temperature was unseasonably balmy. Parents everywhere wandered from house to house with a bounce in their steps and a breezy air of gratitude for the docile weather and semblance of normalcy that had been absent on recent Halloweens. Children ran from porch to porch with blithe abandon, the weight of their loot pulling down on their arms. Some parents even offered wine in teeny plastic cups, and cheese and crackers to the grown-ups — brief and appreciated respites from the rush.

After houses began to run out of candy — one woman finally did after handing out 760 pieces — we ended up with other families at the home of friends. Six or seven kids

Seniors and chained benefits

Dave Mollen goes to some effort to simplify the issues he faces as New Jersey State President of the AARP. The Union Township resident has lately been grappling with "Chained CPI." He describes it as a "proposal that would cut current social security beneficiaries annual cost of living adjustments," commonly called COLAS.

In the storm over the battle of Obamacare and mandatory budget cuts, Mollen still remains optimistic over his efforts. In a recent op-ed piece he wrote, "Currently COLA already comes up short in reflecting the cost increases retirees actually experience. Our recent experience shows, while many legislators are aware of the issue, they won't commit to protecting social security beneficiaries from the significant cuts that adoptions of the chained CPI would cause."

This is a situation Mollen intends to change.

Mollen is an interesting leader. He carefully follows the National Organization's lead. He can be charming, like when he describes a member whose life has spanned going to the theater to see the Jazz Singer with Al Jolson to currently sending emails. Mollen speaks to the hard facts that even the small cuts mount up to big amounts as people continue to live longer.

The chained CPI is turning into a major battle ground with the powerful AARP leading the charge. The math can be frightening for aging baby boomers. A recent analysis reveals that if your full retirement ages is 66 and you start receiving retirement benefits at 62 you get only 75 percent of the money you would have received had you waited.

LEFT OUT

BY FRANK CAPECE

Tiffany Lundquist, also from the AARP, recently wrote "We know that any adjustments Washington makes to social security will have a profound effect on individuals of all ages, businesses and our economy as a whole."

Beyond the complexity of the issue, the AARP has hit on the harsh reality facing the aging seniors.

"Amid rising costs for food, utilities, and health care and continued economic uncertainty, the COLA helps keep older Americans from falling into poverty," said AARP Vice President Nancy Lea Morell.

For Mollen, his "commitment" to enhancing services includes the obvious tactics of letters and pressing the New Jersey Congressional delegation for support.

He bluntly wrote about the Congress, "They are unwilling to remove this unfair proposal from negotiations."

The argument over chained CPI has the potential to get tougher and nastier. The subtle effort to pressure seniors to substitute cheaper substitutes for consumer goods including food will not sit well. If the battle lines continue to harden there won't be any need for further simplification.

spread out their candy on living room and rugs and footstools, trading with one another as if it were the New York Stock Exchange. To them it was, in a way; their candy was as precious as any dumb commodity. Outside, we parents sipped wine, enjoyed our chairs, and traded stories about the costumes found on the Internet and spotted at the parade that gave us the biggest chuckles.

Exhausted, my son and I made our way home, and dragged ourselves past our faceless pumpkin and cute decorations, and into our pajamas. We brushed our teeth more thoroughly than usual, and then spoke our thanks out loud: Thank you for the weather and for our awesome little town. Thank you for trick-or-treating and for fabulously scary house decorations. Thank you for the hundreds of dollars some folks must have spent on candy and the generosity extended from their hearts to our children's grubby little hands. And thank you for Halloween and our friends, and the folks that make it magic.

Next year we'll step up, too.

County fills vacant deputy manager position

done and does not shy away from challenges.”

“Bill is a man of great integrity and vision who developed a reputation as a ‘go to’ administrator, solved issues and developed programs in the City of Elizabeth,” the county manager said, adding Reyes has “an outstanding knowledge of local government and is ready for the next step in county government.”

Faella cited pending major initiatives with the golf division, jail and economic development, noting the time was right to select a deputy county manager.

“We are going to have to roll up our sleeves and get to work,” Faella said, adding Reyes would be able to greatly assist in the work ahead.

Reyes began his career in 1999 in Elizabeth’s Office of Public Information, moving up to serve as director of public relations before being selected as the director of Planning and Community Development several years ago.

In an interview with LocalSource late last week, Reyes explained he is more than prepared for the new position with the county, noting for example, that he was responsible for the management of the Economic Development and Public Information bureaus, Community Block Grant program, Elizabeth Home Improvement Program and Office of Relocation.

Among his accomplishments included the retention of Wakefern in Elizabeth, which required partnering to recruit stimulus financing to help the company expand and create 350 additional jobs.

Reyes said he also worked to secure $40 million in state funds for the renovation and reconstruction of the midtown Elizabeth NJ Transit train station, along with many other initiatives involving economic development. He also felt that the planning and strategizing he did while working for Elizabeth gave him experience that will serve the county well in his new position.

As for what his new job will entail, Reyes explained that with a 2,900 fulltime county employees, part of his charge will be assisting the county manager with executing control over policy development.

“I have dedicated the last 15 years to learning how government is run and now under the county manager’s direction, we are going to do a lot of great things,” the new deputy county manager said.

“I have known Al for 12 years. He is a take charge person and my job will be to be on the front lines helping him in whatever he needs,” said Reyes, adding that “I think we compliment one another.”

Reyes said that while working for Elizabeth, Mayor Chris Bollwage saw to it that he was able to get involved and learn.

“I think that experience will serve the county well because I can take what I learned while working for Elizabeth and apply it to the county,” he said, pointing out that he fully intends to let taxpayers know what the county does for them.

“The more they know, the better it is because then they know where their taxpayer dollars are going,” Reyes said, adding that “at the end of the day, it’s about residents.”

Freeholder Chairman Linda Carter welcomed Reyes to county government, adding that the board looked forward to working with the new deputy county manager.

“Bill has a proven track record as a respected administrator in the city of Elizabeth and has strong leadership qualities that should enable him to serve well in county government,” the freeholder chairman said.

Meanwhile, Matthew DiRado, the director of the Department of Administrative Services quietly left more than a week ago for a position in education. According to county sources, Norman Albert, a longtime Democratic with a law practice in Cranford, had already been moved into DiRado’s position, but no official announcement has been made by the county yet.

Albert and DiRado are partners in the Cranford law firm, Albert, DiRado & Kojac and while DiRado has been a fulltime county employee since being appointed as director of the Department of Administrative services, it is unknown how he continued to maintain a law practice at the same time.

Albert, a Cranford resident, has been an assistant county legal counsel, for which he was paid $113,300. It is unknown what Albert’s salary will be as the new Director of the Department of Administrative services or what his qualifications are in regard to this new position.

There are other positions open at the county as well. This includes the recent vacancy of the director of the Division of Parks and Community Renewal, previously held by Cherron Rountree, who left two weeks ago to take the position of Rahway’s administrator and the director of the Division of Facilities Management.

Niel Palmieri, the former director of the Division of Facilities Management, resigned suddenly a few months ago just before it was made public that he was involved in a deal with a vendor cheating the county out of several hundred thousand dollars.

Words with friends

A picture is said to tell a thousand words, but the students in Miss Siniropi’s 4th grade language arts class at Frank K. Hehny School in Clark are only looking to see one of these words at a time. Utilizing context clues in attempting to ascertain the meaning of unknown words in stories and texts read has been made a central strategy used in Siniropi’s classes. However, this past week the students delved deeper, also exploring groups of pictures which visually reinforced the contextual clues present in a story. Students were asked to record their best estimate of the meaning of a word using only prior knowledge and context clues within the book, and review with the class. The students were then allowed to individually study a series of images which served to provide more concrete clues as to the meaning of the words read. The class then regrouped to discuss and found that the definitions became much more accurate after having been presented with alternate forms of context clues.

A stately visit

Fourth graders from the Frank K. Hehnly School in Clark traveled to Trenton this last week for a visit to the New Jersey Statehouse. The statehouse field trip, an application of the fourth grade social studies curriculum of New Jersey, was a very special one for the students and their teachers. Instead of the standard tour of the statehouse that features observing the General Assembly and Senate Chambers from upstairs viewing rooms, the fourth graders were most fortunate to get a personalized tour from Sen. Christopher 'Kip' Bateman.

It speaks 'volumes'

Daniel Laucik, Danielle Mitchell, and Vincent Gennaro were some of the students who helped the 7th-grade mathematics teacher Miss Faro hold the second annual Math Scavenger Hunt Night at Carl H. Kumpf Middle School in Clark. Students participated in a night event that put their mathematics skills to the test. In place of an entrance fee for the event, students were asked to bring a canned food donation. Over 100 items of canned food were collected by students participating in the event. The cans are being donated to the Community Food Bank of NJ. Before the cans are donated, students in Miss Faro's classes used them as real life examples when learning about volume. Students calculated the volumes of various canned food items. All the students enjoyed giving back to the community while enjoying a fun-filled night of mathematics.

Prosecutor investigating Rahway homicide outside Breathless nightclub

At 3:05 a.m. on Nov. 10, officers responded to a call of shots fired in the area of the Breathless nightclub on the 800 block of Hart Street in Rahway. Police encountered a homicide victim, identified as Jorge Torres, 27, of Newark, according to police. Torres suffered a gunshot wound and was pronounced dead at the scene; he was found in a vehicle parked outside the bar's entrance.

A subsequent investigation revealed that multiple fights reportedly broke out in the Breathless parking lot around closing time, after which gunshots were heard. The Rahway Police Department and the Union County Homicide Task Force are continuing to investigate, acting Union County Prosecutor Grace H. Park announced Tuesday.

Anyone with information about the homicide, or anyone who was at the Breathless nightclub Saturday night into early Sunday morning, is urged to contact Union County Prosecutor's Office Detective Andrew M. Dellaquila at 973-274-5771. A reward of up to $5,000 for information leading to an arrest and indictment is also being offered by the Union County Crime Stoppers. Tips can be given anonymously by phone at 908-654-8477, via text message by texting "UCTIP" and a message to 274637, or online at www.uctip.org.

Defendant in beating death of Clark man indicted on first-degree murder charge

On Nov. 13, a Union County grand jury returned an indictment on a charge of first-degree murder filed against the man accused of beating a Clark resident to death earlier this year, acting Union County Prosecutor Grace H. Park announced.

Caleb Lawrence McGillvary, 25, who has no established home address, is charged in connection with the May 12 death of 74-year-old Joseph Galfy Jr. Investigators found Galfy's body in his home on May 13, after officers were called to the scene for a welfare check, according to the facts of the case, which is being prosecuted by Union County Assistant Prosecutor Scott Peterson. McGillvary remained at large for several days, until an employee at a Pennsylvania coffee shop phoned in a tip that led investigators to arrest him at a Greyhound Lines bus terminal in Philadelphia, Peterson said.

McGillvary is expected to be arraigned before the end of the year and could face a sentence of 30 years to life at trial. This remains an active investigation, and anyone with information about the case is asked to contact Union County Prosecutor's Office Detective Johnny Ho at 908-527-4509.

These criminal charges are mere accusations. A defendant is presumed innocent until proven guilty in a court of law.

'A university's reputation stands or falls on the integrity of its administrators and faculty. The persistent unethical conduct of high level university officials must be addressed by Kean's Board of Trustees without equivocation, or else Kean University will lose what remains of its reputation as a fine university.'

— James Castiglione

'Persistent unethical conduct ... must be addressed'

tion offices were not returned. However, according to multiple university sources, including professors and a source in administration, Andriotis was fired at 4 p.m. on Nov. 14.

Tuesday, Castiglione said the removal of Andriotis for plagiarism is the latest in a troubling string of academic fraud incidents by university officials.

"The Kean Federation of Teachers is being forced to act as guardian of the university's board of trustee-mandated ethical standards," said Castiglione. "We teach our students to be ethical and scrupulous and we expect our university officials to be held to the same standards. It is unconscionable that a culture of academic fraud persists among Kean's highest administrators."

Castiglione said Andriotis was "not well liked" because of the way she handled student registration issues, specifically the mass cancellation of classes that took place this year.

Also at issue was the fact the associate vice president of academic affairs, said Castiglione, "was the driving force behind pending designation," or the creation of a course that was assigned to a staff member, but put on the pending list, which meant students never knew about it.

"It's important to note she was second in command in academic affairs, which is the very office tasked with overseeing academic integrity," the KFT president said, pointing out that it was "shocking this could have occurred under the nose of Vice President of Academic Affairs Jeff Toney."

Castiglione, who represents hundreds of teachers at Kean, was disheartened by the latest administration integrity issue, speaking openly about the impact this will have into the future.

"A university's reputation stands or falls on the integrity of its administrators and faculty. The persistent unethical conduct of high level university officials must be addressed by Kean's Board of Trustees without equivocation," Castiglione said, adding "or else Kean University will lose what remains of its reputation as a fine university."

The KFT president also called on the governor to step in before the integrity of the university is damaged any further.

"The faculty and staff implore Gov. Chris Christie to once and for all correct the academic integrity problem at the administration's very top level," said Castiglione.

One professor, who preferred not using their name, pointed out the key issue was not the firing but rather the "double standard" at Kean. This tenured employee felt both Andriotis and Farahi committed the same type of academic offense, but the board of trustees was inconsistent when applying the measure.

In addition to voicing complaints about the unfairness of this, the Kean University professor said this inconsistency infringes on Middle States accreditation Standard 6 regulating integrity.

"In Farahi's case, the board's claim was that the Academic Integrity Policy applied only to students is demonstrably false. We have the document to show that," the professor said.

In filing the complaint with Farahi, Castiglione followed procedures set in the university's academic integrity policy, adopted by the Kean Board of Trustees in June 2012 following the scandal involving the university president falsifying his academic resume. Castiglione said Andriotis violated the policy when she copied a report on recommendations of the Kean University Enrollment Management Committee, passing it off as her own.

The report, approved by Farahi in the fall, Castiglione said, involved a multitude of "copying another person's words directly without acknowledging the source, using another's ideas, opinions or theories, and using facts, statistics or other material taken from a source with acknowledging the source."

Monday Castiglione noted in a memo to KFT Bargaining Unit Members, a copy of which LocalSource obtained, that the union was provided with the information that appeared to show plagiarism and after investigating and confirming the severity of the issue, he consulted the university's academic integrity policy. The policy was approved by the board of trustees in June 2012 in the aftermath of Farahi's resume fraud scandal when it surfaced that there was an academic integrity policy for students, but not administrators or teachers. Based on the information he had supporting the case of plagiarism, Castiglione filed the complaint with the university president. He fully expected an investigator would be assigned to the case, followed by the university conducting its own investigation, but that never happened. Within two days Andriotis was gone.

According to the memo sent to KFT members, a paragraph on the first page of Andriotis's report, which laid out the enrollment committee's purpose, appeared to be copied word for word from a University of Tennessee website.

Fully nine-pages of Andriotis report were almost verbatim from a 1995 journal article titled Parkland College Enrollment Management Model, which referred to strategies at a community college in Illinois. The paper also included a graphic from a Parkland College study, Castiglione said, which comes to an almost identical conclusion as in Andriotis's report.

This is yet another blow to the state university's academic integrity, which took its first hit in the fall of 2011 when the faculty union accused Farahi of lying on his academic resume. Although the Kean Federation of Teachers and students demanded he be dismissed, the university president managed to survive the uproar that catapulted the university into the national spotlight for many months. In the end, Farahi received the stamp of approval by the Kean Board of Trustees to continue the university's leader as well as a new five-year contract that cemented the deal.

On the back burner is the tenure battle that was left hanging as a result of the latest academic integrity issue.

Last week LocalSource wrote that the potential tenure of 9 out of ten Kean faculty members was in jeopardy as a result of Toney, the Vice President of Academic Affairs at Kean, giving a negative recommendation. This came on the heels of all ten faculty members receiving unanimous or near unanimous votes at the departmental and college levels. As a result of Toney's action, the KFT union action includes an upcoming vote of no confidence in the Office of Academic Affairs by the KFT union.

"The attempted mass firing of 90 percent of the highly qualified faculty up for tenure by Jeff Toney is only the latest string of failed policies, botched initiatives, blunders and inept management that have left the institution in a state of academic dysfunction to the detriment of students and faculty alike," said Castiglione, adding the vote of no confidence will be conducted by the independent Arbitration Association, "the gold standard of secret balloting," which was expected to take place today.

Linden will now maintain all Borough of Roselle trees

Agreement expected to bring savings for Roselle

The Borough of Roselle and the City of Linden recently announced Linden will conduct all tree maintenance operations for the two municipalities, resulting in a significant cost savings for Roselle and a new revenue stream for Linden.

The move comes as the two neighboring Union County municipalities look to cut costs by exploring shared-service opportunities.

The Roselle Borough Council agreed to set aside $40,000 out of its coffers to finance tree maintenance services—well below original cost projections for anticipated tree removals and pruning.

“We’re constantly on the lookout for ways to lighten the tax burden on Roselle residents while providing the quality, efficient municipal services we always have,” said Roselle Mayor Jamel C. Holley. “This partnership with Linden comes at the right time and represents a continued working relationship between our two towns.”

Linden Mayor Richard J. Gerbounka welcomed the agreement, saying the new arrangement would “translate into significant savings to municipal government.”

The Roselle Department of Public Works has identified 43 trees in need of removal and 11 trees in need of pruning, costing the Borough roughly $114,000 in previous estimates. The Borough’s shade tree budget, at $80,000 per year, falls well below that amount.

“We would have been over budget already,” Holley said. “By capping our tree maintenance budget at $40,000, this agreement with Linden saves us nearly $75,000—and that’s just the beginning.”

Gerbounka said he’s ready to explore additional cost-cutting measures with Roselle. “We share our animal control services and now our tree maintenance services, so Mayor Holley and I look forward to working together to identify future savings for the benefit of our taxpayers.”

Guilty plea entered in death of 5-year-old

A Somerset County man has pleaded guilty in connection with an incident in which a 5-year-old boy was shot in the face as he walked home from school with his mother in Plainfield earlier this year, acting Union County Prosecutor Grace H. Park announced Tuesday, Nov. 19.

Jose Rodriguez, 18, of North Plainfield admitted to a count of attempted murder and is facing a sentence of 16 years in state prison, with 85 percent of the sentence to be served before the possibility of parole, according to Union County Assistant Prosecutors Jim Tansey and Julie Peterman. The plea was entered Monday before state Superior Court Judge Thomas J. Walsh.

The shooting arose out of a dispute involving members of rival gangs flashing opposing gang signs at each other in the area of the 300 block of Plainfield Avenue on January 12, 2013, Tansey said. Rodriguez, a confirmed member of Plainfield’s 18th Street gang, pulled out a handgun and fired in the direction of nearby MS-13 gang members when he shot the young victim, with the bullet lodging in the boy’s spine.

An intensive joint investigation by the Plainfield Police Division and the Union County Homicide Task Force followed, and Rodriguez was arrested two days later, Tansey said. The young victim spent weeks in a local hospital before being sent home.

Rodriguez remains lodged in Union County Jail. He is scheduled to be sentenced on January 10.

Suspect arrested in Elizabeth stabbing

A suspect being sought in connection with a stabbing in Elizabeth late last week has been arrested and charged, authorities announced Tuesday, Nov. 19. Alexander Kerton, 34, was arrested at approximately 6:45 p.m. Monday by two Elizabeth police officers who spotted him walking near the intersection of Westfield and Morris avenues in the city’s downtown, according to Elizabeth Police Lt. Dan Saulnier.

Kerton was in possession of a knife at the time, but was taken into custody without incident, Saulnier said. An arrest warrant for Kerton had been issued earlier on a charge of aggravated assault in connection with an incident that took place Friday afternoon at his home on the 300 block of Morris Avenue in Elizabeth. Kerton is charged with stabbing a fellow resident of his building numerous times; the victim as of Tuesday remained at Newark’s University Hospital in guarded condition. Bail for Kerton was set at $50,000. The investigation into this incident, as well as the stabbing death of 67-year-old John Forte in the same Morris Avenue building last week, is being continued by Elizabeth Police Department Detectives Raymond Smith and David Derosa. As of midday Tuesday no charges had been filed in connection with the death of Mr. Forte.

Adopt-A-Park in Union County

Fall weather is no deterrent to Union County Adopt-A-Park volunteers, who play a key role in improving and maintaining more than 6,600 acres of public open space. Members of the Haitian Flag Day Planning Committee in Warinanco Park last Saturday helped with their ‘adoption.’ They picked up litter, collected recyclables, removed weeds and repaired fencing at a shoreline restoration project designed to attract hummingbirds, songbirds, butterflies and other pollinators. Premiere Stage accepting submissions for Play Festival

Premiere Stages, the professional theatre company in residence at Kean University, is now accepting submissions for the 10th Annual Premiere Stages Play Festival. This yearly competition for unproduced scripts offers developmental and production opportunities to four playwrights born or currently residing in the greater metropolitan area of New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, and Connecticut.

Premiere will accept submissions through Jan. 15 and select four finalists on Feb. 27. All four finalists will receive developmental readings March 13 through 16, with a winner and runner-up announced in April. The festival winner will be awarded $2,000 and receive a full Equity production in the summer of 2014; the runner-up will receive $750 and an Equity workshop in June. The two remaining finalists will receive an honorarium of $500.

"Premiere is particularly interested in scripts that tackle social and political issues, and challenge our audience to re-examine the world around them. I encourage playwrights interested in submitting to peruse the theatre's production history or contact our office with specific questions," said Clare Drobot, Premiere's Producing Associate and Resident Dramaturg.

Through the uniquely accelerated Play Festival process, Premiere Stages provides an encouraging and focused environment in which playwrights can see their work move quickly from page to stage. Premiere Stages also actively advocates for Festival writers, helps playwrights reach out to other theatres to secure subsequent productions, and partners with other organizations and theatres to extend the profile and life of the works developed. "What makes Premiere unique is that we fast track plays from a sit-down reading to a fully staged production within a few short months, keeping highly topical plays relevant while affording playwrights the benefit of retaining the world premiere rights," stated John Wooten, Producing Artistic Director of Premiere Stages.

In its nine seasons to date, the Premiere Stages Play Festival has received over 2,000 submissions and developed more than thirty plays. A number of Play Festival finalists have gone on to publication and successful productions at theatres across the country. In 2012, both plays honored by the American Theatre Critics Association were previously developed at Premiere: Tammy Ryan's Lost Boy Found in Whole Foods (winner of the 2012 Francesca Primus Prize), and Dominique Morriseau's Follow Me to Nellie's, which also received commendation. Premiere's 2013 Play Festival winner, The Beautiful Dark by Erik Gernand, riveted audiences and critics alike, with Anita Gates of The New York Times praising the play as "affecting" and "thought-provoking... The Beautiful Dark won Premiere Stages' 2013 Play Festival, over 400 or so other submissions, and it is deserving."

All 2014 Play Festival entries will be evaluated by a panel of theatre professionals in consultation with the Artistic Director and Resident Dramaturg. Agents may submit full scripts; playwrights may submit a synopsis and script sample directly. Postmark deadline is January 15, 2014, and there is no fee to enter the competition. Complete submission guidelines are available at <http://www.kean.edu/premierestages/play.asp>.

County clerk offers free ID card to eligible veterans

In honor of Veterans Month, Union County Clerk Joanne Rajoppi reminds any honorably discharged veteran living in Union County that they can receive a free identification card at the County Clerk's offices in Westfield and Elizabeth. The wallet-size photo ID card is honored as proof of service in the United States Armed Forces.

"We encourage all of our veterans to bring their original discharge papers to the County Clerk's Office in either Westfield or Elizabeth and take advantage of this free program," Rajoppi said. "This ID card service is just one way to say thank you and make veterans' lives a little easier."

The Veterans ID Card Act was signed into law last year.

The card is available to veterans whose original Certificate of Honorable Discharge and/or DD-214 forms are recorded at the Union County Clerk's office. It can assist veterans in receiving educational benefits, death benefits, licenses, local property tax rebates and discounts at big retailer box stores when presented with other identification.

If a veteran's discharge papers have never been recorded, the original documents must be presented at either one of the Union County Clerk's offices. Documents will be recorded in the Union County Veterans' Index and the original documents will be returned to the veteran together with a free certified copy for their records. Photocopies of Honorable Discharge or DD-214 documents cannot be accepted for recording.

If the original discharge documents are lost, veterans can write to the National Personnel Records Center, Military Personnel Records, 1 Archives Drive, St. Louis, Missouri 63138. Those who have already recorded their documents with the Union County Clerk can call her office at 908-659-7403 for additional information.

"Veterans can be assured that access to their discharge papers is available only to the veteran, his or her mother, father, spouse, brother, sister, child, heir or personal representative," Rajoppi said. "Veterans' documents are archived in a secure area and they are not accessible to the public."

The County Clerk's Office in Westfield, located in the Colleen Fraser Building at 300 North Avenue East, is open from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Monday, Wednesday and Friday; 8 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday and Thursday; and 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturday. The County Clerk's Office in Elizabeth, located in the Union County Courthouse at 2 Broad Street, is open from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. Burning bush takes fiery flight in fall

THE GARDENER'S APPRENTICE

BY ELISABETH GINSBURG

At this time of the year in my area you could throw a stone in any direction and hit a winged euonymus, which sounds like it should be some kind of a dragon or at least an exotic dragonfly. In fact it is only a shrub, known botanically as Euonymus alatus. Landscapers, catalog vendors and just about everyone else know it as "burning bush."

The burning bush takes fiery flight in fall, setting landscapes — from shopping malls to back alleys — ablaze with brilliant red color. This almost makes up for the fact that the rest of the year it passes among us unnoticed, hiding its light under a bushel of dowdy green foliage.

Burning bush was introduced from Asia about 1860, a time when many exciting new ornamentals arrived from the Far East. It is a member of the Celastraceae, or bittersweet, family, which is also home to the red and orange-fruited bittersweet vines that are popular for harvest decorations. Left to their own devices, the burning bush species' shrubs grow a whopping 15 to 20 feet tall, with a similar spread. The habit is mounded and spreading, though most of us see burning bush clipped to a fare-thee-well. The opposed leaves are oval or elliptical, somewhat serrate or toothed, and generally narrower at the stem end.

The wings that give winged euonymus its Latin and common names are on the stems; flat, corky appendages that jut out on either side of shoots. The shrubs flower in spring, bearing tiny, four-petaled blooms in clusters of three. The yellow-green flowers go almost unnoticed.

Humble Euonymus alatus stands silently among us until the moment when severe color deprivation begins to creep in. Our fall stalwarts, the mums and asters, have given up the ghost and even the ornamental gourds have faded. The deer and groundhogs have polished off the bright purple and green decorative cabbages and kales. Autumn winds have blown the colorful leaves off the maples and other trees. We are left with little but waning daylight and the knowledge that the winter solstice is still a month off.

Just as seasonal affective disorder starts seeping into our souls, the burning bushes light up, with the reddest possible leaves and our foundation plantings, traffic islands and municipal landscape beds catch fire. Even people who rarely notice autumn foliage notice the bursts of color. Spirits lift and people decide that they might be able to make it through until the Christmas wreaths go up.

There are many cultivars of burning bush, developed either to enhance the brilliant red leaf color or create a more compact size, since not everyone loves to clip shrubs all the time.

The most popular variety and the one most likely to appear in your local nursery or garden center, is Compactus, which can grow up to 10 feet tall, with slender branches and a dense habit that makes it the best choice for hedging and screening. Odom, sold under the trademarked name "Little Moses," is exceptionally compact at about 3 feet tall. The foliage is brilliant red and stays on the plants up to 14 days longer than the species.

Odom also produces significantly fewer fruits, which is a plus because the fruits are beloved by an array of birds that eat them and excrete the seeds, distributing the plants far and wide. Euonymus has invaded naturalized areas in many places, especially in the Middle Atlantic region and southern New England, and is considered invasive in those areas.

I worry about invasive plants such as burning bush, because I have seen woodland areas taken over by species such as Halls' honeysuckle, multiflora rose and Chinese wisteria, all of which were originally brought to this country as ornamental plants. Each one has its virtues, attracting pollinators, providing food and shelter for birds and small animals and sometimes controlling erosion. However, they out-compete native plants and create dangerous monocultures. Diversity is healthier in the long run.

If you like the looks of burning bush, but live in an area where invasiveness is a problem, try blueberry. In the northern half of the country, highbush blueberry — Vaccinium corymbosum — is the species to look for. Gardeners living in the southern United States should choose rabbiteye blueberry — Vaccinium ashei — varieties, which succeed in warmer climates. Blueberries bear lovely pink flowers in spring and brilliant red foliage in autumn. If you can outwit the birds, the berries are delicious in late June or early July. You can't say that about burning bush fruits.

And if you decide that you would rather not use burning bush because of its invasive tendencies, don't be discouraged. Closing the door on burning bush opens the door to an array of bright-leaved plants, from fothergilla to viburnum.

Your bushes may not burn this year, but your horizons have expanded.

Yucca Fritters/Latkes

Hi everyone! With the holidays approaching, there may be the stress of what to make that is different this year. How about a new fangled, simple and festive twist on Hanukkah latkes/tasty appetizers/side dish? What will your signature dish be this year?

Ingredients

2 cups grated yucca root: about one 6-inch, peeled yucca root, grated on the large holes of a cheese grater or in the attachment of a food processor
 1 tsp. fennel seed: anise
 1/2 tsp. kosher salt
 1/2 tsp. sugar
 3 Tbs. almond flour or whole wheat or white flour; feel free to experiment with other flours
 1 egg
 olive oil for frying chopped cilantro for topping/garnish

Method

Mix all ingredients together, up to and including the egg, until combined. Squeeze out excess liquid and mold pancakes into 3-inch circles and set aside on a plate.

In a medium- to large-sized, non-stick pan over medium to high heat, heat up enough oil to fully coat the pan, 1 to 2 Tbs. should do it.

Throw a piece of grated yucca on the pan and if it sizzles, it's ready.

With a spatula, slide pancakes into oil, leaving at least 1 or 2 inches between pancakes.

Fry for a few minutes until golden and then flip over.

When both sides are golden, remove with a spatula.

Set aside on a paper towel-lined plate loosely covered with foil so they stay crispy.

Add more oil to pan if necessary and repeat until all the fritters are done.

Serve with sour cream, or any other sauce you like, and chopped cilantro.

HOROSCOPE

ARIES, March 21 to April 20.

It's never too late to get healthy, Aries. Find time for some exercise and replace some calorie-laden foods with fruits and vegetables. You will appreciate having an extra hop in your step.

TAURUS, April 21 to May 21.

Taurus, a week of passion and romance awaits you and your special someone. Everything you do draws the attention of others. So make it work to your advantage.

GEMINI, May 22 to June 21.

Gemini, it can be challenging to get your head wrapped around certain tasks. Somehow you will manage to pull everything together and get everything accomplished.

CANCER, June 22 to July 22.

Cancer, maintain your focus in the coming week no matter how difficult that proves to be. Personal concerns may have you reeling, but your heightened focus will serve you well.

LEO, July 23 to Aug. 23.

Leo, you may have something on your mind, but now is not the time to share such concerns. Do your best to solve a problem on your own, but rely on the advice of others if need be.

VIRGO, Aug. 24 to Sept. 22.

Virgo, do your best to avoid being let down by the negative attitudes of others. Friends or co-workers may just be in a bad mood, but that does not mean you need to be.

LIBRA, Sept. 23 to Oct. 23.

Libra, a little extra concentration will find you tackling your workload with time to spare. Commit your time now and enjoy the time to take things slow later in the week.

SCORPIO, Oct. 24 to Nov. 22.

Scorpio, significant changes are afoot and you are not quite sure how to prioritize your goals. Enjoy the change, but make use of down time to re-establish your priorities.

SAGITTARIUS, Nov. 23 to Dec. 21.

Sagittarius, though a pressing issue in your relationship may seem like it needs immediate attention, you have a lot of time to work through any issues.

CAPRICORN, Dec. 22 to Jan. 20.

Capricorn, your normally conservative approach won't work this week. You have to take a couple of chances, or you won't accomplish much of anything.

AQUARIUS, Jan. 21 to Feb. 18.

Aquarius, you have only a few days to learn some new procedures at work. It is natural to feel nervous, but put aside those feelings and concentrate on the tasks at hand.

PISCES, Feb. 19 to March 20.

Pisces, don't worry too much about an upcoming change around the office. You're in position to benefit from some restructuring.

SUDOKU

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Pursuant to the Laws of the State of New Jersey (N.J.S.A. 40:21-1 et seq.) and the Ordinances of the Borough of Roselle, the Council for the Borough of Roselle hereby approves, as in the Borough's best interest, the application and Financial Agreement with the property owner(s), TERRY A. 3. The annual payments in lieu of taxation on the qualified property identified in the application shall be paid quarterly, together with, and on the same due dates as the taxes assessed upon the land for said premises

4. Nothing herein shall, impliedly or otherwise, relieve said property owner(s) from the obligation to comply with and conform to all applicable statutes, municipal ordinances, and the law regulations, made pursuant thereto, governing land, building(s) and the use thereof. 5. The tax abatement hereby granted shall be in effect for a period of not more than five (5) years commencing from August 1, 2013 and expiring five (5) years thereafter, unless terminated sooner pursuant to the requirements of the Agreement. The Borough Council ratifies the granting of the tax abatement for the period from August 1, 2013, to the date of the adoption of this Ordinance.

6. The tax abatement hereby granted is based upon the applicant and owner representations and supporting documentation set in exhibit A. During the life of the tax abatement, any construction changes and/or improvements to the interior and/or exterior of the structure inconsistent with the original Application, Certificate of Occupancy and Certifications must be presented to and approved by the Borough Council for the Borough of Roselle prior to initiating same. The property owners are responsible for filing the formal, written application with the Borough of Roselle, Office of Tax Assessor, detailing all proposed construction changes and/or improvements and identifying all amendments to and/or effects upon the terms and conditions of the tax abatement Agreement between the property owners and the Borough of Roselle consistent with the Financial Agreement

7. According to the Tax Assessor's certification, attached hereto, the assessed value for the land presently in effect is a total of $49,000. The annual tax prior to construction was $3,700.80.

8. The Mayor, on behalf of the Borough of Roselle, is hereby authorized to execute, and the Clerk to attest and affix the seal of the Borough of Roselle to, the aforementioned Agreement for tax abatement. Same to be approved as to form and legality by the Borough Council. An executed copy of the Agreement and Application shall be placed on file in the Office of the Clerk by the Tax Collector.

9. The herein identified residential property shall be subjected to the total tax levy and administrative fee as more fully set forth in the Financial Agreement

10. The applicant(s)/owner(s) are required to pay all outstanding taxes and/or sewer charges prior to the execution of the Financial Agreement.

11. The applicant(s) have complied with all zoning and construction codes and municipal inspections as evidenced by the certificate of occupancy, which has been attached as Exhibit B.

12. The Tax Assessor and Tax Collector are hereby authorized to take any and all necessary action to implement the provisions of the Ordinance.

13. The property owner(s) shall notify the Borough in writing of any alterations and/or improvements made to the subject property, including a description, a copy of any permits, and the total cost for said alterations and/or improvements

14. In the event alterations and/or improvements are made to the subject property pursuant to paragraph 13, the additional costs will be added to the initial cost certified by the architect, and calculated in accordance with paragraph 2.

15. Fraud or misrepresentation of material facts surrounding the tax abatement application and related documents thereto shall be grounds to rescind the tax abatement and financial agreement ab initio.

THIS IS HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL

By JR Parachini
Sports Editor

Cranford lost at Summit this year.

Now the Cougars get a chance to go back to Summit and beat the undefeated Hill-toppers.

Linden lost at Ridge this year.

Now the Tigers get a chance to go back to Ridge and beat the undefeated Red Devils.

Rahway lost at Rumson-Fair Haven two years ago.

Now the Indians get a chance to go back to Rumson and beat the undefeated Bulldogs.

See the pattern?

Three Union County teams who lost to the teams they will be playing against in the playoffs this weekend, each get a chance again to beat those teams.

All three of those teams also happen to be undefeated, with trips to state championship games on the line.

Tomorrow night it will be fifth-seeded Linden at top-seeded and 10-0 Ridge in a North 2, Group 5 semifinal.

Linden, which is 6-3 and has won three straight, reached the North 2, Group 4 semifinals last year.

The Tigers are seeking to play in only their third state championship game in the playoff era and first since 1985.

Rahway lost at Rumson by the score of 29-0 in a Central Jersey, Group 2 quarterfinal two years ago.

Tomorrow night the Indians will play at Rumson (9-0) again, this time in a CJ, G2 semifinal. Rahway is seeking a fourth playoff title and first since 1984.

Cranford was thoroughly dominated at Summit 48-14 back on Sept. 27 in a Mid-State 38 Conference-Raritan Division contest. As a result, Summit, which is also 10-0, repeated as division champions, while Cranford finished second.

Cranford is at Summit again Saturday in a North 2, Group 3 semifinal at Tatlock Field.

This time the Cougars expect to be a lot more competitive.

Photos by JR Parachini

Union is sparked on offense by, at left, senior running back Jamauri Bogan and, at right, senior wide receiver Travon Gravenhise. Both earned their first playoff victories last Friday night when the Farmers blanked visiting Watchung Hills 28-0 in a North 2, Group 5 quarterfinal. Tomorrow night at 7 Union hosts Piscataway in a semifinal. More playoff tidbits can be found on Page 44.

Union 1 victory away from playing for a state crown Will host Piscataway this time in playoffs

By JR Parachini
Sports Editor

Union has had enough of losing to Piscataway in the playoffs. For that matter, so has everyone else who has played the Chiefs in that setting since 2002.

Piscataway is 25-5 in the playoffs since 2002.

Cranford has had enough of losing to Summit — period — the last five seasons in Mid-State Conference play whether it was a close game or a blowout.

Saturday's North 2, Group 3 semifinal at Tatlock Field between the Union County rivals will pit the section's last two champions, with Cranford winning it for the first time in 2011 and Summit for the third time in 2012.

Rahway went to Rumson-Fair Haven in a first round playoff game two years ago and was shut out. The Indians will be going back to Monmouth County this weekend to face the Bulldogs again, seeking a much better result against a team that is 9-0 and has won seven of its games by double digits.

Roselle Park has never played Shabazz before — what a matchup that should be! Shabazz head coach Darnell Grant, when he was in charge at Irvington, had plenty of experience getting ready to play larger Union County squads such as Elizabeth, Union, Westfield and Linden.

Now, for the first time, he will be game-planning for one of Union County's smallest — but just as dangerous — schools.

New Providence will travel to Hudson County to face Hoboken in a battle of the 2010 (New Providence) and 2012 (Hoboken) North 2, Group 1 champions.

Linden gave undefeated Ridge its closest regular season game, falling 20-14 in overtime in Basking Ridge on Sept. 27. The Tigers will be going back to Somerset County to try to end a Red Devils season that is 10-0 for the first time.

Cranford will be trying to win at 10-0 Summit.

Rahway will be trying to win at 9-0 Rumson-Fair Haven.

Linden will be trying to win at 10-0 Ridge.

There you have it.

Seven Union County teams are still alive and at least one is guaranteed of playing for a state championship the first weekend in December.

Last year, Summit, Elizabeth and Roselle Park made it, with Summit and Elizabeth winning. It was the first year Union County had more than one champ since Elizabeth and Brearley won titles in 2006.

Farmers out to reach first title game in 10 years

Here's a look at the six semifinal matchups including Union County teams, with five of them Friday night at 7 and one Saturday at 1 p.m.:

Friday, Nov. 22 (5 games)

North 2, Group 5

5-Linden (6-3) at 1-Ridge (10-0): Linden has won five of six and three in a row since falling at Ridge 20-14 in overtime on Sept. 27. In that Ridge victory it was senior quarterback Connor Hughes completing a 23-yard touchdown pass to Ryan Bell for the game-winning points. Eighth-seeded Westfield gave top-seeded Ridge all it could handle before the Red Devils prevailed at home by a 35-28 count Friday night. Linden is led by senior quarterback Dazzmen Johnson and junior running back Juwan Dolbrice. Ridge won its second playoff championship in 2003, which came in North 2, Group 3. Linden won its only playoff title in N2, G3, back in 1985. The Tigers have not been back to a championship game since.

Sept. 27 at Ridge: Ridge 20, Linden 14 (OT)

3-Piscataway (6-3) at 2-Union (7-2): Piscataway has won four straight, including a 21-14 home win over sixth-seeded Edison Saturday. In the season-opener for both back on Sept. 15, Edison defeated Piscataway 34-22 in Edison, with head coach Dan Higgins moments later finding out that his father and former Piscataway head coach Tom Higgins Sr. had passed away.

The win over Edison Saturday was the 100th for Dan Higgins, with his record now at 100-24, including a very impressive 22-5 playoff mark.

Preparing to face Union for the first time in five years, 22-5 was also the playoff mark of legendary Union head coach Lou Rettino, who passed away in March of 1996 from stomach cancer. Rettino's 22-5 record included 10-2 in North 2, Group 4 finals and 12-3 in N2, G4 semifinals. When Rettino coached, only four teams qualified in each section, thus there were only two rounds.

Rettino guided Union to 10 state championships during his 19-season tenure (1977-1995) there.

Higgins' 22-5 record includes 9-2 in the quarterfinals (7-2 in N2, G4 and 2-0 in N2, G5), 8-0 in the semifinals (7-0 in N2, G4 and 1-0 in N2, G5) and 5-3 in the finals (5-2 in N2, G4 and 0-1 in N2, G5).

Under Higgins, Piscataway is 3-0 vs. Union in the playoffs, including N2, G4 wins in the 2003 final at the old Giants Stadium 29-7, in the 2004 quarterfinals at Piscataway 41-0 and in the 2008 semifinals at Piscataway 27-3. That's three wins by a combined 97-10 count, which includes one shutout and only one touchdown allowed.

Union is one win away from reaching its first state championship game in 10 years — since the 2003 N2, G4 final vs. Piscataway. Since Union last won a state championship, which was a still record 10th in N2, G4 in 1993, the Farmers have been to only two championship games, the first being the 1996 N2, G4 final where they were shut out by Montclair 20-0 at the old Giants Stadium.

Union's 28-0 win over seventh-seeded Watchung Hills Friday night was its first playoff triumph in five years.

"You feel good about any win you get," said Union standout senior running back Jamauri Bogan, who led all rushers with 176 yards on 28 carries, including two touchdowns. Bogan is Union's all-time leading rusher with more than 5,000 yards.

The Western Michigan commit is now one win away from playing in a state championship game in what would be his last game for Union.

"Winning this game (against Watchung Hills) was huge, but it's not sweet until you get there (to the championship game)," Bogan said.

Union pitched its first playoff shutout in 21 years, fifth overall and second this season, led by star senior tackle Uchenna Egwuonwu, who started playing on defense this year after playing just on the offensive line a year ago.

Union held Watchung Hills to only 25 yards of offense in the first half and to only two first downs total the entire game, both not coming until the fourth quarter.

"We'll have to work even harder for our game this week," Egwuonwu said. "This (vs. Watchung Hills) was our best defensive effort of the season."

Union first-year head coach Lou Grasso Jr. earned his first playoff victory vs. Watchung Hills, which extended Union's winning streak to six games.

"We had to win this game (vs. Watchung Hills) or our five-game winning streak wouldn't have meant anything," Grasso Jr. said. "The competition only gets tougher when you advance."

"Now we're playing for a spot in the championship game."

Another Barnwell is now starring for the Chiefs after standout Nadir graduated last year and is presently playing at Rutgers. Freshman running back Elijah Barnwell carried the ball 24 times for 180 yards vs. Edison and became the first Piscataway freshman to rush for more than 1,000 yards in a season. Barnwell enters the Union game with 1,114 yards rushing so far this season.

In the North 2, Group 4 playoffs, Piscataway was 3-0 vs. Union. Here are the scores:

2008 semifinals at Piscataway: Piscataway 27, Union 3

2004 quarterfinals at Piscataway: Piscataway 41, Union 0

2003 final at Giants Stadium: Piscataway 29, Union 7

North 2, Group 1

3-Roselle Park (7-2) at 2-Shabazz (7-2): Roselle Park is in the N2, G1 semifinals for the second straight season, last year downing New Providence 21-13 at home to advance to the final for the first time since 1993. The Panthers have won three straight. Shabazz, which has won four in a row, was defeated in last year's Central Jersey, Group 2 semifinals, falling at Carteret 20-14. The Bulldogs are led by running backs Dashon Myers and Aquil Young and quarterback Zaire Fogle. The Panthers are guided by the stellar play of two-way senior standouts Brian Matthews, Jordan Andre, Peter Hilburn, Brandon Pugliese and Joey Fulinello.

5-New Providence (7-2) at 1-Hoboken (7-3): New Providence bounced back from a tough 15-13 loss at Roselle Park to win at fourth-seeded Secaucus 39-20 Friday night. The Pioneers, led by senior running back C.J. Kliesch, will be going back to Hudson County to try and knock off defending champion Hoboken. The Red Wings are led offensively by senior quarterback Donte Bass, who rushed and passed for touchdowns in his team's 34-7 home win Friday night over eighth-seeded Ridgefield.

Central Jersey, Group 2

4-Rahway (7-2) at 1-Rumson-Fair Haven (9-0): Rahway has been dominant in a three-game winning streak that has seen the Indians outscore the opposition by a 109-27 count. Both of these teams had an easy time in home quarterfinal round wins, with Rahway ousting fifth-seeded Spotswood 47-20 Saturday and Rumson-Fair Haven downing eighth-seeded Bordentown 41-8 Friday night.

The Indians are led on offense by senior quarterback Jeffery Bost and senior running back Gabriel Gross. Defensively, players to keep an eye on include senior Stephan Watkis-Davis on the line, senior Donte Raymond and junior Tyler West at linebacker and senior Jeffery Reyes at cornerback.

Rumson-Fair Haven is led offensively by quarterback Chase Caruso, running back Charlie Volker and wide receiver Sam Shaud.

Rahway has not won a state title since capturing North 2, Group 3 for the third time in the playoff era back in 1984.

The Indians were last in a final in 2008, which was also in N2, G3. Rahway is in the CJ, G2 semifinals for the fifth time and seeking its first win in this section in this round.

"A lot of us played on Pop Warner championship teams four years running," said Bost, who completed eight-of-10 passes for 124 yards and two touchdowns in the first half vs. Spotswood. Bost also ran for two scores vs. the visiting Chargers. "Now we want to win a championship here."

"We played at Rumson in the playoffs my sophomore season. We know Rumson is undefeated and that they're pretty good."

Rahway was 4-0 before losing leads entering the fourth quarter in consecutive home defeats to Summit 26-20 and Warren Hills 33-27 in overtime.

"Those two losses were good for us," Raymond said. "Our heads were too high. We're more humble now."

"For Rumson, we'll watch film, practice hard, focus and lock in."

Rahway 10th-year head coach Gary Mobley has an 8-8 playoff record with the Indians since his first year at the helm in 2004, with several of those victories coming on the road, including two in 2008 that led to the North 2, Group 3 championship game that season.

"We feel good about our team and feel that we match up with just about any opponent," Mobley said.

2011 CJ, G2 quarters at Rumson: Rumson 29, Rahway 0
Saturday, Nov. 23 (1 game)

North 2, Group 3

6-Cranford (7-3) at 2-Summit (10-0): Cranford has won six of seven since being soundly defeated at Summit 48-14 on Sept. 27. The only loss in that stretch was at undefeated Ridge 49-28, with the Red Devils the top seed in North 2, Group 5.

As a result of Summit's win over Cranford, the Hilltoppers were able to repeat as Raritan Division champions at 6-0, while the Cougars finished second at 5-1.

Summit has won a Union County-best 22 straight games overall and will begin its 2014 season with a program-best 45-game regular season winning streak after going 9-0 in the regular season for the fifth straight year.

Against Cranford nearly two months ago, Summit scored all seven times it had the ball in the first half, with receivers open down field on just about every play. Cranford simply could not catch up to Summit's no-huddle offense.

Summit senior quarterback Charlie Terry completed 8-of-10 passes for 144 yards and four touchdowns before the first quarter came to a close as the Hilltoppers led 28-7 going into the second.

Terry completed 10-of-15 first-half passes for 200 yards and his four touchdowns and no interceptions.

Summit also carried the ball 16 times for 227 yards in the first half. Colm Dougherty gained 143 yards on nine carries and David Connelly 45 on three. Terry carried the ball three times for 36 yards.

Andrew Masterfano had three catches for 67 yards and one touchdown, Chris Zanelli two for 33 and two TDs, Sean Andrews three for 61 and Connelly one for 33 yards and one score. Senior Dan Childers had one catch for six yards.

For Cranford in the first half, Donovan Walker carried the ball 10 times for an even 100 yards and one score.

While, perhaps, not many thought Summit would be that decisive in victory over Cranford in late September, the same amount of people might not have thought that the Cougars would beat an 8-1 Palisades Park team on the road by the score of 47-21 Friday night.

Avenging last year's 35-21 home loss to Palisades Park in the semifinals which prevented a Summit-Cranford final, Cranford senior quarterback Johnny Oblachinski had a playoff game to remember, rushing for four touchdowns and throwing three TD passes in Friday night's rout.

Rahway's defense excelled in last Saturday's 47-20 home playoff win over Spotswood. The Indians next play at undefeated Rumson-Fair Haven (9-0) tomorrow night at 7.

Rahway tops Spotswood to advance to CJ, G2 semifinals

RAHWAY — If Rahway could draw up the perfect prelude to a heavyweight matchup that will follow at undefeated Rumson-Fair Haven this week, last Saturday's first-round home playoff game served that purpose and more.

Sometimes done in by their own mistakes and forced errors, the Indians played about as perfect a first half as any team could against visiting Spotswood.

Fourth-seeded Rahway did not commit a penalty or turn the ball over once in the game's first 24 minutes and scored three touchdowns in each of the first two quarters en route to a dominating 47-20 win over fifth-seeded Spotswood in a Central Jersey, Group 2 quarterfinal at Veterans Field.

Rahway, which won its third straight to improve to 7-2, will next take on top-seeded Rumson-Fair Haven tomorrow night at 7 in a CJ, G2 semifinal. Rumson-Fair Haven improved to 9-0 last Friday night after it downed eighth-seeded Bordentown 41-8 at home.

Rahway lost at Rumson-Fair Haven 29-0 in the 2011 CJ, G2 quarterfinals. Rumson-Fair Haven has won seven of its nine games this year by double digits.

Spotswood's season came to an end at 7-3. The Chargers began 7-0 before losing the previous two weekends to South River and Mater Dei.

With wins over Voorhees 28-0 at home and at Roselle 34-7 before downing Spotswood, the Indians seemed to have bounced back nicely following their two-game losing streak to Summit and Warren Hills — with Rahway leading both home games entering the fourth quarter.

"We just have to work hard as a team, it's as simple as that," said Rahway senior wide receiver-linebacker Donte Raymond, who in addition to making numerous tackles against Spotswood also rushed for a touchdown and then had a fumble recovery that led to another Indian TD, both plays coming in the second quarter. "It's a matter of staying focused."

"The two losses hurt a lot," said Rahway senior quarterback Jeffery Bost, who ran for two scores and passed for two in the first half vs. Spotswood, in addition to completing eight-of-10 passes for 124 yards and no interceptions before halftime. "We had the games in our hands. Our coaches told us to keep our heads up and that's what we've done."

Rahway 10th-year head coach Gary Mobley is now 7-2 in sectional quarterfinal games and has now led the Indians to the Central Jersey, Group 2 semifinals for the fifth time and first time since 2007. His playoff record is now 8-8, including nine playoff seasons in 10 years at the helm of the Indians.

"I was most pleased with our intensity level, our execution and our attitude today," Mobley said.

Rahway scored touchdowns all six times it had the ball in the first half, including capitalizing on turnovers for its last four of those TDs.

Spotswood turned the ball over five times in the first half, with Rahway's Justin Hodges and Raymond recovering fumbles and Jeffery Reyes coming up with two interceptions and Tyler West one.

The Rahway defense, sparked by the play of senior Stephan Watkis-Davis, West, Hodges and Michael Stradford, limited the Chargers to 117 yards of offense and only six first downs in the first half.

Kurt Williams had Rahway's fourth interception in the third quarter and the Indians also recovered another fumble in the fourth, which was Spotswood's seventh turnover.

In the first half, Rahway scored on short drives and long ones, with senior running back Gabriel Gross carrying 12 times for 100 yards and one score.

"Our strategy was getting back to playing Rahway football, which is ball control, timely passing and being mistake free," Mobley said.

"Every time we run the ball we have a pass play attached to it," Bost said. "We were pounding Spotswood, which opened up our passing game a bit."

Union FB wins 1st playoff since 2008

UNION — Jamauri Bogan has rushed for more than a school-record 5,000 yards.

However, none of those yards came in a playoff victory.

That was until Friday night.

The standout Union four-year varsity starter rushed for a game-high 176 yards on 28 carries and scored two touchdowns to help lead the second-seeded Farmers past seventh-seeded Watchung Hills 28-0 in a North 2, Group 5 quarterfinal at Cooke Memorial Field.

Union won its sixth straight to improve to 7-2, while Watchung Hills — guided by former Union player and head coach Marc Crisafi — lost its third straight to finish 5-5.

"It's amazing to get one (a playoff victory)," said Bogan, who — not quite at 100 percent — carried the ball 16 times for 109 yards alone in the third quarter and both of his scores and was then able to sit out the fourth.

Union only led 7-0 at the half after throwing an interception in the end zone and losing a fumble inside the Watchung Hills one-yard line right before intermission.

"We have to clean up those mistakes," Bogan said. "We knew against Watchung Hills that we had a size advantage, so we had to be physical."

Fellow senior running back Jabree Robertson also had a solid game, carrying the ball 16 times for 88 yards and two scores.

Defensively, Union may have produced its finest effort so far this year. The Farmers limited Watchung Hills to just 25 yards of offense in the first half and did not allow the Warriors to get a first down until there was 9:45 remaining in the fourth quarter. Watchung Hills finished with just two first downs, both on its final drive.

"This was our best effort," said Union senior defensive tackle Uchenna Egwuonwu. "I rate it a 10."

This was Union's fifth playoff shutout and first since 1992 when present assistant coach Carmen Marano was a senior lineman.

Here's a look at the list:

UNION PLAYOFF SHUTOUTS:

2013 North 2, Group 5 quarterfinals:
Union 28, Watchung Hills 0 — at Union

1992 North 2, Group 4 semifinals:
Union 14, Elizabeth 0 — at Union

1984 North 2, Group 4 semifinals:
Union 42, Belleville 0 — at Union

1981 North 2, Group 4 semifinals:
Union 14, Westfield 0 — at Giants Stadium

1978 North 2, Group 4 final
Union 27, Plainfield 0 — at Giants Stadium

Watchung Hills was seeking only its second playoff win and first since winning in the 1978 Central Jersey, Group 4 semifinals.

Union's first playoff victory in five years put it at home in a semifinal game for the first time in 10 years. The Farmers lost in the N2, G4 semifinals at Phillipsburg in 2005 (56-14) and 2006 (42-20) and at Piscataway in 2008 (27-3).

Union's last semifinal victory came in 2003 in N2, G4, which was by the score of 14-12 at home over Bridgewater-Raritan.

The Farmers are seeking their 11th playoff championship and first in N2, G5. Union last won a playoff title in 1993, which was its record 10th in N2, G4.

Union will host Piscataway tomorrow night at 7 in a N2, G5 semifinal at Cooke Memorial Field.

RC GVB stellar season ends

It took the top team in New Jersey to end the Roselle Catholic volleyball team's season.

Playing in a state final for the second time in program history, Roselle Catholic, which entered Non Public championship match with an 11-game winning streak, suffered the same fate as every other New Jersey opponent to take the court vs. volleyball powerhouse Immaculate Heart Academy.

Playing in front of another enthusiastic contingent of RC students and volleyball fans, the third-seeded Lions were defeated by scores of 25-14 and 25-11 last Saturday at William Paterson University in Wayne.

The victory gave top-seeded Immaculate Heart, 44-2, its seventh consecutive group title, tying a state record that its coach, Maria Nolan, knows very well. The only other school to accomplish the feat is Secaucus, when it was coached by Nolan, from 1995 to 2001.

Roselle Catholic is the last school to defeat IHA in the NJSIAA's Non-Public Tournament, back in the 2006 final at William Paterson.

The Bergen County Tournament champions made some other history, improving their record to 44-2 to set the state record for victories in a season. IHA, ranked first in The Star-Ledger's Top 20, received the top seed for the Tournament of Champions, which begins Saturday.

IHA is led by Penn State-bound Nia Reed, a middle blocker, who finished with a match-high 10 kills.

Roselle Catholic concluded perhaps the most successful season in program history with a 27-7 record and its second consecutive Union County Tournament title.

RC's Jessica Ciandella finished with nine assists and four service points and Calli Scheuermann registered seven kills and five digs for the Lions.

The Lions will lose eight seniors to graduation, but sophomore Amanda Johns, who played a strong game vs. IHA, is expected to be one of the key returning Lions next season. Johns finished with four blocks.

"Amanda is still learning the game," Roselle Catholic coach Jason Davila said to The Star-Ledger. "She is doing an outstanding job."

"As a sophomore I expect to have her back for the next few seasons and I'm hoping for big things from her."

The 2013 RC varsity volleyball roster included: Sue Riley, Keyarah Newton, Calli Scheuermann, Jess Ciandella, Ally Mroczek, Melissa Sheehan, Myia Williams, Jodi Daniel, Amanda Coccia, Dawn Gergich, Ridi Diaz and Amanda Johns.

The co-managers were Bridgette Badalis and R.J. Franklin.

In last Thursday's state win vs. undefeated Mount St. Dominic, Scheuermann led the Lions with 12 service points, including five aces. Ciandella finished with 19 assists, 13 digs and three aces.

Scheuermann also registered a team-leading seven kills vs. MSD, while Ciandella, Coccia and Mroczek added five kills apiece.

Newton finished with 16 digs and 10 service points, including four aces, and Sheehan came up with 15 digs for the Lions. Williams and Johns contributed three kills apiece to the RC attack.
